NO MORE

Premium Tickets After August 1st.

During the past four weeks a notice has appeared at the top of our advertisements announcing that no more Premiums will be given after August 1st. In order to save all misunderstandings with our customers and the public, we give special prominence to day to this announcement.

No More Premium Tickets

will be given at Gough Bros.' Stores after August 1st.

The day has gone by in Gough's experience when premiums are needed as trade-pullers. We have grown past the "nursery" stage of business. Our Clothing and successful methods can stand on their own merits.

GOUGH NEEDS NO "PULL"

Besides the suspicion is growing stronger every day that Premium-giving means higher prices for Clothing, and that the customer pays too dear for his whistle. High-priced Clothiers may be able to continue for a while longer to give premiums, but Gough's prefer to be able to quote lowest prices without premiums. Best values always, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow.

We will redeem every ticket presented for the amount of purchases shown. Customers who want to fill their tickets, should hurry and do so before August 1st.

MURDER IS CHARGED

Young Convict to Be Tried for the Crime at Calgary.

HAS AN UNENVIABLE RECORD.

Ernest Cashel, Now Under Sentence in Stony Mountain Penitentiary, Said to Have Murdered a Farmer Named Belt, Who Lived in Tail Creek—Sensational Criminal Career of a Man Not Yet of Age.

Calgary, N.W.T., July 29.—Ernest Cashel, at present under sentence in Stony Mountain, is now charged with the murder of a farmer named Belt, who lived in Tail Creek, some miles east of Sedder. The alleged murder was committed last autumn. Cashel is a young man not yet of age. He came down from Ponoka, and while here passed a worthless cheque upon one of the merchants here. Chief English went north and arrested the young man near his home and brought him down. This side of Red River the young fellow jumped through a window when the train was running at full speed and escaped.

For some weeks there was a merry chase, but he was finally gathered in by the police. He came before the authorities and was sentenced on charges of forgery and horse stealing, and on another charge. After his sentence he created a scene in the city driving to the barracks wrapped in his mother's arms, both weeping audibly.

Shortly after the escape of Cashel the man Belt disappeared. He went suddenly, and there was not the slightest indication of his whereabouts. From the fact that Cashel had been seen in the district and that later he had in his possession a horse and saddle belonging to the missing man, it is believed, that he knew something of his whereabouts. But nothing in the way of a charge could be made until the man or his body was found.

The police then began to make a search. A large reward was offered for the recovery of the body. A very close search was made of Tail Creek from end to end. Until last week there was no trace of the missing man. Then some people near the mouth came upon the dead body of a man.

An inquest was held, and a relative of the missing man positively identified him as the man Belt. A bullet was found in his shoulder. The coroner's jury, which was summoned, listened to some of the evidence which the police had secured, and brought in a verdict of wilful murder. The preliminary investigation will be held in Calgary or Red Deer, probably in Calgary, as soon as the prisoner Cashel can be brought here from the penitentiary. Cashel originally came from Montana.

Coroner's Jury Says Murder.

Picton, July 29.—The adjourned inquest enquiring into the recent circus row here, was held Monday night. Little evidence was submitted and the jury found that Edward Johnston came to his death by a wound in the heart, and was strongly of the opinion that the wound was inflicted by one Edward Clark, otherwise known as "Side Show Shorty."

IT READS LIKE A MIRACLE.

Only Dodd's Kidney Pills are Doing Similar Things Daily.

Reuben Draper's Gravel was Cured Three Years Ago—It has Never Come Back.

Bristol, P.Q., Quebec, July 27th.—Special—Reuben Draper, well-known here, tells a story of his cure of a bad case of gravel that would be considered miraculous if similar cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills were not being reported almost daily.

"About three years ago," says Mr. Draper, "I was taken ill with what I thought was gravel. I was suffering great pain, and the doctor I sent for gave me but little relief. Another doctor I tried failed to cure me, and I was getting weaker all the time.

"Then a man advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills as they had cured his mother, and I did so. In just one week after I started using them, I passed a stone as large as a small bean, and in four days after, I passed another about the size of a grain of barley. That is two years ago, and I have not had any trouble since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all ailments of the bladder and urinary organs.

Fort Erie Boxing Stopped.

Fort Erie, July 29.—Prize fighting received a knock-out at Fort Erie yesterday at the hands of Police Magistrate Cruickshank, when he found John H. Herman guilty of promoting the Jack Root-George Gardiner fight at the International Club House at Fort Erie on the fourth of July.

Sentence was deferred, pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals of Ontario. The penalty facing Herman on the charge under which he was convicted is from $50 to $500 fine, or one year's imprisonment, or both.

The decision of the Court of Appeals is not expected until October.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings, suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no medicine which gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of Kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

BIG BLAZE AT DUNDALK.

Most Serious Fire in the History of the Village—Many Business Houses Gutted —The Sufferers.

Dundalk, July 29.—About 9.30 yesterday morning this village was visited by one of the most disastrous fires in the history of Dundalk. The fire started in McFarland & Richard's general store in the Bell block, who lost all their stock, partly covered by insurance.

Besides the above firm the following parties did business in the Bell block: Wm. Lucas & Co., bankers; Peter McGregor, grocery and confectionery store; Bank of Hamilton; The Dundalk Herald; James Lamon, barrister; Miss Hood, dressmaker. All these lost heavily by the fire.

By the heroic efforts of the villagers the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the Bell block, though the McCullough House and other places caught fire several times. The origin of the fire is as yet a mystery. John Gardiner's stock of hardware, and the furniture in the McCullough House was considerably damaged by removal and water.

Fire in Dunnville.

Dunnville, July 29.—Yesterday afternoon fire destroyed Evans' livery stables and Werner Bros'. large building adjoining, which they occupied as a hardware and tin store. George Montague's loss on livery building is $1,500, covered by insurance; J. P. Evans' loss on livery rigs and horses $1,000, covered by insurance; Werner Bros', loss on building $2,000, in stock $2,000, insured for $3,800; cause of fire unknown.

Engine Spark Burns Barn.

Harrow, July 29.—The large frame barn of Robert Martin, Colchester Township, was totally destroyed by fire. The barn was nearly filled with hay, besides containing a large quantity of wheat, which had just been threshed. A spark from the threshing engine ignited a straw stack close to the barn, and in a very few minutes the whole building was a mass of flames. The loss is estimated at about $1,200; partly covered by insurance.

Galt Wheel Works Burned.

Galt, July 29.—The Victoria Wheel Works suffered a severe loss from fire about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Raw material approximating the value of $10,000 was either destroyed or badly damaged. The fire, however, was confined to the old storehouse and sheds.

THE KING'S TOUR.

First English Sovereign to Pay Londonderry a Visit—Great Reception Accorded the King and Queen.

Londonderry, Ireland, July 29. — King Edward and Queen Alexandra were accorded a great reception on their arrival here yesterday. Large crowds from the surrounding districts assembled to greet the first English sovereign who had ever visited Londonderry. Their Majesties were met at the railroad station by the mayor and corporation. The King expressed his pleasure at the references to the spirit of good feeling and harmony pervading all classes in Ireland, adding that if his visit helped to extend and consolidate this feeling he would be richly rewarded.

Their Majesties lunched at the Guild Hall. An address was presented to the Queen from the women of Londonderry. The King, replying in behalf of Queen Alexandra, expressed the opinion that the "higher education of women is one of the happiest features of our time."

After the King had laid the foundation of Brooke Park, Their Majesties left Londonderry for Buncrana, where they embarked on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert for a cruise along the coast.

Trouble at Cork.

London, July 29.—According to telegrams received here from Cork, a special police force has been appointed there to watch night and day in order to prevent the destruction of decorations by those who are opposed to the visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to Cork. The decorations along the route to be followed by the royal procession, which were already far advanced, were found in several instances to have been pulled down and otherwise damaged.

Hespeler, July 29.—W. Renwick and A. Walford were Monday night, after a three day's hearing before Magistrates Schultz and Jardine, found guilty of offering for sale as human food diseased beef, and were each fined $25 and costs. The case has aroused much interest in this section, as both men are widely known as cattle buyers. The steer which was killed was affected with a disease commonly known as lump jaw.

A SHORT CONCLAVE.

Cardinal Oreglia Has Ordered a New Fisherman's Ring.

Rome, July 29.—The Tribune says that, as the Fisherman's ring, which could not be found after the death of the Pope, may be discovered in some drawer, which was sealed up and cannot be opened until after the election of the new Pope, Cardinal Oreglia has ordered a new one for use in the symbolic ceremony which occurs immediately after the successor to Leo is chosen.

That there is a conviction at the Vatican that the conclave will be of short duration is proved by the fact that all those who are to enter the conclave to minister to the wants of the cardinals have been engaged for only three days.

This Bottle Made a Case.

Chatham, July 29.—Frank Martin was assessed $57 for selling liquor without a license. It is reported that the daughter of a county constable and her best young man went over to Martin's and the best young man purchased a bottle of ale. When the young lady returned home she told about the good time, and her father had a case.

Liberal Gets a Seat.

Winnipeg, July 29.—The result of the recount in St. Boniface is the election of Chevrier, Liberal, by three votes, over Bernier, Conservative, who held the seat. The net result to date is 31 Conservatives and 8 Liberals elected, with one election, Swan River, yet to be held.

Miller's Worm Powders cure fever in children. Sold by all druggists.

Fatally Struck by a Train.

Rodney, July 29.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. F. Martin, aged 52 years, a highly respected farmer residing close to this place, was struck by a fast freight train while driving across the M. C. R. R. tracks in this village and fatally injured. The wagon was badly wrecked and both horses killed.

Quiet at Panama.

Washington, July 29.—The temporary ebullition on the Isthmus has subsided, according to a cablegram from United States Consul-General Gudger, dated at Panama yesterday. He says that everything is perfectly quiet, and he anticipates no more trouble.

WARRANT TO BE ISSUED.

Civic Accountant Left Montreal Leaving a Shortage of $900.

Montreal, July 28.—It was practically decided at the City Hall yesterday that a warrant should be issued for the arrest of A. Fournier, accountant of the Recorder's Court, who left the city with a shortage in the corporation books of some $900.

An alderman who knew Fournier very well, stated he had been told Fournier's troubles were owing to the fact that he had been investing in stocks. It was the old story of not being able to meet payments, and of using money which ought not to have been touched. Fournier was looked upon as one of the most honest men and steady employes in the civic service, and his flight from the city caused much surprise yesterday at the City Hall.

DESPERATE PRISONERS.

Attack Guards, Killing One and Fatally Injuring Another.

Sacramento, Cal., July 28.—A despatch from Folsom says: Thirteen desperate prisoners, confined in the Folsom Penitentiary, made a successful break for liberty at the breakfast hour yesterday. After a fierce fight in the captain's office, during which Turnkey Cochrane was fatally stabbed, Guard Cotter was killed and Officer Palmers was cut in the head, they seized his arms and ammunition and using the warden and other officials as shields, escaped. Last night, it is believed, they were making for the Bald Mountain. State troops ordered out by Governor Pardee, have gone to the scene.

According to a report received here, a fight between the escaped convicts from Folsom and a posse has taken place near Pilot Hill, in which Fred Howard was killed and Scabio wounded. Both men are convicts. The convicts are said to have scattered. A company of militia is en route to Pilot Hill.

Before the fight took place the convicts, who had picked up a number of citizens en route and had compelled them to join their party, had plundered a general merchandise store at Pilot Hill.

There were 1,650 collisions and 1,181 derailments, causing $2,491,046 damage to cars, engines and roadways.

EXCELSIOR'S BAD NEWS.

Seattle, Wash., July 28. — News comes from Valdes on the steamer Excelsior, which arrived here at midnight, of the drowning of Miss Lou Wheeler, August Roeehle and Henry and Paul Weidner, in the Nazina River, and Burt Ford in the Copper, at the mouth of the Chilna, one of its tributaries.

Linklater's Narrow Escape.

Port Arthur, July 28.—Millwright Linklater of the Pigeon River Lumber Co., met with a very serious accident at the sawmill. He was employed in tightening a pulley on one of the shafts with a chain pipe wrench. The chain in some manner caught in a moving belt and the iron bar went hurling around the belt, pinning Mr. Linklater against a post. It struck him in the side, one rib being broken and a number of wounds inflicted.

Ammonia Kills Three Men.

New York, July 28.—Three men are dead and five injured as the result of the blowing out of a cylinder of an engine attached to an ammonia pump in the Jacob Rupert Brewing Co.'s ice plant on Alexander avenue early yesterday. One hundred and fifty men were at work at the time, but, although the ammonia flowed from the pump, the fumes spreading to all parts of the building, no one else was injured.

Stomachs on Stilts.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature by the breadth of a hair. He feels taller while he's on the stilts, and when he's off them he feels shorter than he ever felt. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward.

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It cures the diseases of the digestive and nutritive system which make the stomach "weak." It enables the digestion and assimilation of food, so that the body receives the nutrition on which depends its strength.

"I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carnes, Esq., Taylorstown, Loudoun Co., Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat most anything now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote to you. A gentleman told me of your medicine, and how it cured his wife. Thought I would try a bottle of it. Am now glad that I did, for I do not know what I should have done had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

The sluggish liver is made active by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

An event in which more interest is being taken than in any local sporting event for some time is the proposed lacrosse match between teams managed by Messrs. W. O'Brien and F. R. J. Macpherson, which will be played on Friday night at the T.A.S. grounds at 6.45, as Mr. O'Brien wishes the Examiner to announce to-day that he accepts the challenge contained in yesterday's issue of this paper. He calls a meeting of his "Terriers" at the store to-night at 9 o'clock, when the team will be chosen. This game will be warmly contested, and each team is out to win the box of cigars, which has been put up as a prize. Mr. O'Brien has engaged a doctor and says it is expected that the 57th ambulance corps will be out—for the other fellows.

BASEBALL.

Manager Graham of the Auburns has completed arrangements for a game on the T.A.S. grounds on Monday at three o'clock with the fast Wellesleys of Toronto, one of the best teams in the Sunlight League in the city. This will be a great game as the visitors play a superior class of baseball. The Auburns are asked to turn out for practice every night this week in preparation for Monday's game.

CRICKET.

It is with no want of loyalty to the recollection of the great and wonderful deeds of the old champion, W. G. Grace, that the term, "The Champion," or "Twentieth Century Best," can now be fittingly bestowed on C. B. Fry, of Sussex, says the London Daily Express.

Champions of all sports retire; if not altogether, they take a lesser part in the games at which their titles were earned.

It was thought at one time that we should never see another W. G. Grace but the records put up by C. B. Fry in seasons past and his present phenomenal play, have fairly earned him the title, which he should ungrudgingly be given.

The following are C. B. Fry's figures for this year:

Innings, 22; not outs, 3; total, 1,572; average, 82.73.

234 v. Yorkshire.
232 (not out) v. the Players.
200 v. Surrey.
181 v. Lancashire.
174 v. Worcester.

Much That Every Woman Desires to Know

About Sanative Antiseptic Cleansing

And about the Care of the Skin, Scalp, Hair and Hands.

Too much stress cannot be placed on the great value of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent in the antiseptic cleansing of the mucous surfaces and of the blood and circulating fluids, thus affording pure, sweet and economical local and constitutional treatment for weakening ulcerations, inflammations, itchings, irritations, relaxations, displacements, pains and irregularities peculiar to females. Hence the Cuticura remedies have a wonderful influence in restoring health, strength and beauty to weary women, who have been prematurely aged and invalided by these distressing ailments, as well as such sympathetic afflictions as anæmia, chlorosis, hysteria, nervousness and debility.

Women from the very first have fully appreciated the purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy which have made the Cuticura remedies the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for annoying irritations, and ulcerative weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

A Cat's Care of a Squirrel.

A queer case of feline affection was witnessed at Charles Tumelty's last week, says The Madoc Review. A little squirrel, whose mother had been killed, strayed into a box where an old cat had her brood of kittens. Instead of, as is usually the case, being instantly killed by the old cat, the strange little visitor was affectionately adopted into the kitten family, and was fed and protected by the cat for a week until it strayed away and was lost.

THE DEPUTATION GOES TO OTTAWA.

The Postal Improvements Will be Asked For From the Government.

First Request for Free Delivery as Being "The Greatest Good to the Greatest Number.

The deputation appointed by the Town Council to interview the Government on the question of an improved postal service here, left for Ottawa last night on the midnight train loaded up with good strong arguments why Peterborough should be given an enlarged post office and a delivery system. The advocates of a free delivery have apparently won their point as far as the Town Council is concerned, as it was decided by that body to ask for a free delivery as the first and most pressing need of the town. The matter was fully discussed at the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, which was held on Monday night before the Council meeting, and while it was felt that the free delivery would be a disadvantage to a section of the citizens, the great weight of evidence was in favour of it, as it would undoubtedly be in the interests of the greater number, and in view of this fact, Ald. McWilliams moved seconded by Ald. Morrison, that the deputation ask for a delivery system as being the improvement most desired.

Ald. McWilliams very wisely thought that it would be most unwise for the deputation to go to Ottawa without some definite request to prefer, and it was decided by the Committee that in the interest of the large number of citizens whom they represented, a delivery should be asked for, and along with it an enlargement of the present post office building. Ald. McWilliams has evidently gone into the matter very fully, and is armed with figures with which to press the claims of the town, and he, with the other members of the deputation, may be trusted to do the very best possible for Peterborough.

The deputation consists of the Mayor and Aldermen McWilliams, O'Connell and Finnie.

REMOVED TO MONTREAL.

The Sisterhood of the Congregation de Notre Dame.

Next Tuesday or Wednesday the Convent Congragation De Notre Dame, will cease to be a factor in influencing the religious, musical and educational, interests of the Roman Catholic, population of Peterborough, and in a musical sense, of many of the Protestant citizens. Owing to arrangements recently effected the reverend superior of the Mother House of the Sisterhood, at Montreal has recalled the members of the Sisterhood in Peterborough to Montreal and in obedience to her commands the Sisters will, on Monday or Tuesday next, depart for that city.

The establishment of the Sisterhood in Peterborough is co-eval with the Confederation of the Provinces of the Dominion. In September, 1867—36 years ago—the Sisterhood established itself here, the first Superior having been Mother St. Irenaeus. During the time covered by their presence in Peterborough, the Sisters, who have numbered on an average seven—the number at present—have exercised a powerful influence for good. The religious and intellectual benefits conjoined in the education of the young have been so exerted as to enshrine their memory in the hearts of hundreds of parents and patrons, who, in making their farewells, heartily expressed both their appreciation of past benefits and regret at the severance of pleasant and profitable relations. These relations have extended for so lengthened a period that many of the parents that have called to say good-bys were themselves pupils of the Convent in former days.

The musical influence exercised, which has been confined to no creed of the community, has been great and good, and hundreds of musicians, including many of the best in Peterborough, owe their musical skill and culture to the good Sisters of the Congregation, the music teachers of which will long remain household words in many a home in Peterborough. The present respected reverend Superior, Mother St. Veronica, who with her little flock, will depart early next week, has been in Peterborough about 12 years.

ONE CITIZEN'S OPINION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Although not a personal friend of Ald. Best, I wish to congratulate him upon the manly stand he took against the secret conclave, who schemed to tie up our streets in the hands of a huge monopoly for the next thirty years and to give it the lighting of our streets for nearly double what it is worth. The ingenuity displayed in drafting the agreement in order to keep out of sight the fact that the town will be at the tender mercies of the monopoly, is alone cause for alarm. Ald. Best has by his fearless defence of the people's rights, made it obligatory on them to choose him for the next Mayor if we wish to be true to ourselves.

CENTRAL MILLING COMPANY ENLARGES.

The Business in the Midst of an era of Prosperity.

50,000 Bushel Elevator Being Built to Meet Demand for Storage Space—Mill Running at Full Capacity

The Central Milling Company is a credit to the town of Peterborough. Starting with a small capital, and plenty of opposition, a year ago last May, they have worked up a splendid business which is growing at a rapid rate. The building originally erected has been found too small for the growing business and a large elevator has been started, as an annex to the present mill building. When completed, which will be about September 1st, the elevator will have a capacity of 40,000 to 50,000 bushels. The concrete foundations will be completed to-day and the construction of the upper structure will be proceeded with at once. The first story will be built of 12 x 12 timbers, and in this story the machinery will be placed. The upper stories of the building, which will be 70 feet high will be built of 2 x 6 planks placed on the flat, what is known as a "strip" wall, and the whole structure sheathed with corrugated iron, making it fire-proof.

The mill has been badly hampered in the operations, because of the fact that there has not been sufficient storage space in the main building, and the construction of the elevator is to relieve this condition, for, while hitherto but 5,000 bushels could be stored, with the enlargement the storage capacity will be ten times that quantity.

The business of the Company is in a most satisfactory condition. Orders are coming in at a rate sufficient to keep the mill in constant operation, 24 hours a day. The product is a high grade roller flour, and finds ready sale in all markets where it has been introduced, and under the management of Mr. Mulhern, who is a thoroughly practical miller of many years experience, the company has a rosy future in store.

At present the principal market is found in the Maritime Provinces, but considerable exporting is done, to Liverpool and Glasgow, by way of New York, principally.

The capacity of the mill is 200 bls. per day, which, if the present era of business prosperity continues will soon have to be increased. The mill is owned by a joint stock company of which the officers are, Mr. Carlow, President; Mr. Ward, Secretary, and Mr. Mulhern, Manager. It was through the efforts of the latter that the Company was formed, and by his careful, and yet progressive management, that the present magnificent success has been achieved.

The shareholders number about 350, of whom the majority are farmers. The Company on the first year's operation paid a dividend of 10 per cent. on the investment, besides adding to the rest account, and Mr. Mulhern states that they will still pay the same dividend. They have plenty of money to carry on the business and the mill has never had brighter prospects than those which present themselves at the present time.

A new office building has also been built at the eastern end of the main building, in which the offices of the Manager and Secretary are now located.

The Printers' Picnic will be held on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 1st, to Jubilee Point. Tickets only 25c and 20c.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

A Grant of $235,000 Made for the Local Canal.

In the Dominion Parliament yesterday, the item of $235,000 for the Trent Valley Canal brought from Mr. Brock a speech in which he questioned the value of the work, which has cost to date $4,000,000, and is likely to cost $4,000,000 more. The depth of water is only six feet.

Mr. Hughes defended the utility of the project, and Mr. Tarte thought that when that much had been spent it would be a waste of money to stop short of completion now. The sum asked is for expenditure in excess of the vote of last session, and this was made the subject of more criticism by Mr. Barker, Mr. Haggart and others; but the item passed.

A SUCCESSFUL EXCURSION.

That of Farmers Institute to Guelph —was a Money Maker.

Mr. Wm. Collins of Peterborough, secretary-treasurer of the Union Farmers' Institute Excursion Committee, has forwarded to Mr. C. O'Reilly, secretary of the East Peterborough Institute, a statement of the receipts and expenditure in connection with the excursion to Guelph in June last. The Institutes' share of the total receipts were $161.80, and the expenses $44.40 made up as follows: Printing and advertising, $20.26, bill posting, $3; secretary-treasurer, postage and other expenses, $8.14; representative's expenses to make arrangements for the excursion, $7. This, after deducting cost of remitting, left a balance of $40 for each of the three Institutes of East and West Peterborough and West Durham.—Norwood Register.

Midsummer Housecleaning

At the Central Boot and Shoe Store.

After a very successful spring season's trade, we find lonelies and broken lots in many lines. Anxious to see their departure, we will offer them at prices that will assure us their speedy exit. Some of these can be used to good advantage when holidaying. Others will save the good pair you wish to reserve for fall wear. Men, women and children can be fitted for a small fraction of the original price.

TOO MANY ACCIDENTS.

(The Globe)

One of the penalties of modern haste is shown in the record of casualties on American railways for the first three months of the present year. No less than 300 persons were killed in train accidents, and 2,834 were injured during that period, a record that suggests an active military campaign. The total record of accidents, including those to people boarding and alighting from cars and to employees at their work, was 827 killed, and 11.481 injured. During the three months covered by the record there were 1,650 collisions, and 1,181 derailments, and the damage to railway property was $2,491,046. The record is certainly formidable, and it naturally awakens a suspicion of excessive economy not only in time but in wages and salaries. That there were 1,650 collisions shows that there were at least 1,650 cases of carelessness or neglect of duty.

Derailments may occur through a variety of causes that cannot always be prevented. Tracks and equipment may develop faults and weaknesses which the greatest vigilance cannot detect and which pass unnoticed till revealed by disasters. But a collision shows a fault or neglect on the part of somebody, and the surprising record just made public forces the conclusion that the policy of rigid economy has been pursued to an undue length. In every department it is the rule to keep down the working force to the irreducible minimum. No man is employed whose services can possibly be dispensed with. And in carrying out that policy the tendency has been to err not on the side of safety, but on the side of danger. Many collisions, perhaps, the great majority of them that go to make up this record, can be traced to the mistakes of over-worked employees. A great increase in the volume of business has been forced upon an official staff maintained at the lowest possible strength for ordinary traffic. That mistakes should occur under such circumstances is inevitable, and mistakes in railway operations mean disaster and death. In such matters it is difficult to point out the specific faults or to suggest a remedy. But a change may come when railway managers realize the costly nature of some of the economies they are practising. A record of freedom from accident should be a valuable asset for a railway system. For advertising purposes it would appeal strongly to the travelling public. A rivalry among railway systems in that regard could not fail to effect a general improvement, and the public who see railway operation only in its results would in a measure be relieved of a serious anxiety and saved from an actual danger.

MR. CARNEGIE'S WARNING.

(The Globe.)

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, in his latest letter to The London Times, warns Great Britain against the "fatuous folly" of Mr. Chamberlain's proposed changes in the British fiscal system. He points out that a discrimination against American in favour of Canadian products would inconvenience the republic—England's "indispensable friend"—only for a season. He also states that it would be a very easy matter for the United States to compel the restoration of equal treatment. In a tariff war, Mr. Carnegie thinks, Britain would come out second best. "A word from the President cancels the privileges, now generously extended to Canada, of reaching open American ports through American territory, with all her exports and imports free of duty for five months in the year, when her own ports are ice-bound."

If Mr. Carnegie should be correct in his prophecy that in the event of Great Britain's granting Canada a preference at the expense of the United States the republic will cancel bonding privileges, it would seem that our new transcontinental railway is proposed in good time. Mr. Carnegie is misinformed if he believes that our ports are ice-bound during five months of the year. Can it be possible that he is unfamiliar with the facilities of Halifax of St. John?

Whether Mr. Carnegie's opinion of the dependent condition of Canada be right or wrong, we cannot believe that he voices the sentiments of the United States on all things. In the past the Steel King has not at all times been in sympathy with American opinion. The Times hits the nail on the head when it says that "on the question of the Spanish war England was much more in sympathy with American feeling than was Mr. Carnegie. It is just possible he does not know quite everything about his countrymen now any more than then."

This looks like a pretty broad hint that Great Britain is quite competent to attend to her own affairs, without the assistance of outsiders. The position of The Times is well taken. The fiscal policy of Great Britain is a matter to be settled by British statesmen. The policy of the Government will be passed upon by the people. If a mistake should be made, those that are responsible will suffer. The British public has never been accused of rashness. In the matter of a preference to the colonies there is no reason to believe that the natural caution of the race will be abandoned. The subject is one that calls for calm consideration and decision by the Imperial Parliament. The colonies and foreign nations must play a passive part. So far as Canada is concerned, if we should be offered a preference we shall gladly accept it, but we have no desire to tender unsolicited advice. Furthermore, we do not believe, with Mr. Chamberlain, and with some members of our own Parliament, that the Empire will fall to pieces unless a colonial preference be granted. Canadians, as a whole, would, we feel sure, resent any discrimination in their favour if it were tendered as the price of their loyalty.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

TALK OF FEDERATION.

Among the Different Brotherhoods of the Railway Employees.

Among the different brotherhoods connected with the railroads, the possibility of forming a closer alliance is again being discussed. During the lifetime of the late Chief P. M. Arthur, of the locomotive engineers, many efforts were made to bring this about, but Mr. Arthur while he continued to work with the others always assumed a position that kept the engineers free from any direct control by the other organizations, such as might be the outcome of joint conferences.

When Frank Sargent was Grand Chief of the firemen he succeeded with the assistance of E. E. Clarke, chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, in getting many conferences of the chiefs of the six brotherhoods, and they talked federation for mutual purposes, but Chief Arthur was a stumbling block when it came down to actual business. Now that he is dead the matter is revived again and there are those who think that a federation of all the railroad brotherhoods will be assured in a very short time.

The general feeling is that thousands of dollars will be saved to the members by such a move. In Canada the men are generally favourable to such action; all they want is at least proper protection to their insurance fund. If this is not interfered with then the Canadians are satisfied.

THE RAILWAY BILL.

A Number of Amendments Were Made in Committee.

HON. A. G. BLAIR CO-OPERATED

Questions in the House Regarding Fast Atlantic Service—Unsatisfactory Tenders Forming Basis of Negotiations—Government and Steamship Companies Wide Apart—Discussion on Cold Storage.

Ottawa, July 30.—Last evening just before the House adjourned Hon. Mr. Fielding announced that the business for to-day will be the Premier's announcement regarding the Government's railway policy, after which, as it was not expected there would be any discussion at that stage of the bill, the House would be moved into supply and the estimates of the Minister of Trade and Commerce would again be taken up. Yesterday a number of clerical amendments were made in committee to the railway commission bill, Hon. A. G. Blair co-operating with Sir Wm. Mulock in making the necessary changes. In supply the estimates for the Dairy Commissioner's branch of the Agricultural Department were passed after a debate in which every phase of the operations of the department from cold-storage to chicken-raising and fattening was discussed.

Mr. Henderson (Halton) introduced his bill to amend the bank act, which, he explained, was designed to limit the investing powers of banks.

In reply to a question by Mr. Monk, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that there was no truth whatever in the statements published in the press that the Government had made arrangements whereby the Grand Trunk Pacific had acquired the charter of the trans-Canada railway.

Fast Atlantic Line.

The House went into committee of Supply on the estimates of the Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. E. F. Clarke asked a series of questions, with a view of eliciting information respecting the prospect of securing faster vessels on the Canadian route.

Sir Richard Cartwright replied that he was afraid he was not in a position to discuss the matter at present. The tenders for a service which had been received were not satisfactory, but were forming a basis of negotiations, and he had some expectations that the Government will be able to come to terms with the companies, but the ideas of the Government and the steamship companies are wide apart.

Railway Commission Bill.

Last evening the House again went into committee for the purpose of putting finishing touches upon the railway commission bill. Sir William Mulock took charge of the bill and Hon. A. G. Blair remained close at his elbow, taking a keen interest in the measure. Numerous clerical and typographical errors which had crept into the bill were corrected upon motion of the ex-Minister of Railways.

There are several amendments of a controversial character to be proposed, and as some members who desire to participate in the debate were absent, Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick moved that the committee rise, report progress, and ask leave to sit again.

Cold-Storage.

The consideration of the estimates was resumed in supply. On the item of $220,000 for the branch of the Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, including live stock, dairying, cold-storage, etc., the Minister of Agriculture was at once assailed with numerous inquiries for information from the Opposition benches upon every phase of the system of cold-storage upon steamships which ply between Canadian and British ports. Mr. Fisher made the necessary explanations.

Experimental Poultry Stations.

A long discussion took place on the experimental poultry stations, some of it of a humorous and even ridiculous character. Several members of the Opposition seriously criticized the work of these stations, and suggested that they should be discontinued.

The item passed and the House adjourned at 12.30.

Freedom of Workmen Bill.

Ottawa, July 30.—Senator Beique moved an amendment to the bill respecting free labor in the Upper House yesterday afternoon, striking, out the word "unlawful," mentioned in several clauses of the act, and changing the name of the bill to "An Act Respecting Freedom of Action of Workmen, or Affecting Free Labor." The amendment carried.

Senator Cloran moved to insert the word "unlawful" before the word "purposes." The amendment was lost.

Manitoba Catholics at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 30.—A delegation of Winnipeg Separate School supporters is in Ottawa to urge upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier what they claim to be their rights. The delegates have arranged to meet the Prime Minister at noon to-day.

Ran Over 60-Foot Embankment.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—A work train while running at a high rate of speed near Gales Mills on the Cleveland & Eastern Electric Railway early yesterday, ran into an open switch and plunged down a 60-foot embankment, resulting in the motorman and conductor sustaining injuries that will likely prove fatal.

CARDINALS ALL PRESENT.

Voting For Pope Takes Place on Saturday—Sixty-Two Cardinals Are Now in Rome—Ballot Rehearsal.

Rome, July 30.—With the arrival here of Cardinal Prisco, Archbishop of Naples, the number of cardinals who will participate in the conclave is complete.

From the estimates made, the cost to the Holy See of the various ceremonies from the death of Pope Leo to the election of his successor, if it takes place within a few days, will be $400,000.

During yesterday's meeting of the Congregation, the forms to be used in voting at the conclave were distributed among the cardinals in order that each might be able to learn how to employ his ballot. Superstitious people here find an omen in the fact that Cardinal Rampolla drew apartment number 58, which in the lottery book stands for Pope.

Should the 62 Cardinals now in Rome enter the conclave it will be the most numerously attended in history. The conclave which elected Leo was attended by 61 cardinals. In the past Popes have been elected by as low as 9.

The ecclesiastics who are to watch the sliding doors, which will be the only means of communication between the conclave and the outside world, have been requested to be present at the Vatican at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon to assume their duties. The sliding doors will only be opened between 9 and half-past 11 o'clock in the morning, and between 5 and 7 in the evening. At all other times they will be locked.

Mass For Pope and King.

Rome, July 30.—Yesterday morning at the Vatican a solemn requiem mass was intoned with all the solemnity the Catholic Church can impose, for the repose of the soul of Leo XIII., the spiritual monarch who claimed Rome as his capital, and another was celebrated in the magnificent Pantheon for the repose of the soul of the late King Humbert, the temporal monarch, the capital of whose kingdom was Rome. King Victor Emmanuel and the Dowager Queen Marguerita came here to attend the annual mass, which is celebrated on the anniversary of the assassination of King Humbert, which occurred three years ago.

KILLED ON THE G. T. R.

Body of Richard Gibbs of the Oshawa Iron Works.

Oshawa, July 30.—The body of Richard Gibbs, employed by the Ontario Malleable Iron Co. here, was found yesterday morning at one o'clock on the Grand Trunk track, about a hundred yards east of Oshawa Junction. It is supposed he was run over by No. 2 passenger train. His body was terribly mangled.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

Belleville, July 30.—James Carscallen, a farmer, residing in the township of Hungerford, went to catch a horse which was at pasture Wednesday morning, when the animal kicked him savagely, fracturing his skull and inflicting injuries which caused his death in a few minutes. He was 59 years old and unmarried.

Tossed by a Bull.

Ottawa, July 30.—Tommy Bennett, son of W. Bennett, farmer, of Kars, Carleton County, was seriously injured Wednesday, and may die as a result of being tossed on the horns of an infuriated cow. He was gouged under an eye by the animal's horn and tossed a considerable distance. His skull was fractured.

Died From Injuries.

Rodney, July 30.—Frederick Martin, who was struck by a M.C.R. fast freight here Wednesday, died yesterday morning from his injuries. Mr. Martin moved here some years ago from East Elgin, purchasing a farm near the village. He leaves a widow, four sons and a daughter.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—A rumor having reached me that your product, "FORCE," contained injurious ingredients, I took the occasion to analyse it, in the interest of my own family and of some friends who are liberal users of it.

It may interest you to know that I found it consisted exclusively of Whole Wheat, Barley and Salt, and is absolutely free from any injurious elements whatever.

Permit me to express my sincere regret that such a serious and baseless rumor should gain footing with the public.

You are free to use this letter in any way that will help to do your product justice.

Yours truly,
WILBUR L. SCOVILLE.

BOSTON, June 20, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern:

At the invitation of The "FORCE" Food Company, of Buffalo, I have visited their Mills and made a careful examination of the materials from which "FORCE" is prepared, and the processes which convert it into its finished condition.

I found that "FORCE" consists exclusively of what my previous analysis indicated, viz.: Whole Wheat and Barley, with a flavoring of Table Salt, flaked, cooked and sterilized by 300 degrees of heat.

A feature of the manufacture which impressed me considerably was the fact that the process is entirely mechanical, the food being prepared, cooked and boxed by machinery, without ever coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the mill operatives.

I was also gratified to note that an experienced Chemist daily supervised the entire output, and that each day's manufacture was also tested by an expert cook.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—In view of the rumors regarding the alleged adulteration of "FORCE," it has been a satisfaction to me to visit your Mills, investigate, and analyze your product.

You are free to publish this statement made over my signature, that I found "FORCE" to be absolutely pure, consisting solely of Whole Wheat and Barley, flavored with table Salt, and free from any injurious substance whatever.

I examined, in detail, the various steps in the manufacture of your product, such as the steam cooking, the flaking and the roasting, as well as the packing, and find all to be remarkably clean and of absolute healthfulness. The final roasting is done at a temperature above 300° F., which, with the steam cooking, completely sterilizes the product, and the entire process, from the first step to the final sealing of the package, is a mechanical one, the product at no time coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the persons handling the machines or packages.

Very respectfully,
HERBERT M. HILL,
Chemist to the City of Buffalo.

See page 148 of "Cereal Breakfast Foods," Bulletin No. 84, of the Maine Experiment Station, a State Institution, which has analyzed "FORCE" with other foods, in the public interests.

Copy will be mailed free on request.

Refer also to Canadian Government Bulletin 84 on similar subject, pages 6 and 29, for analysis showing that "FORCE" consists solely of the most wholesome and nutritious ingredients.

Park Street Church.

At a teachers' meeting of the Park street Baptist Sunday School, it was decided to celebrate the 15th anniversary on Aug. 12, and to combine the anniversay with a flower service. Special singing by the children, with two selections by the primary class. Sermons suitable to the occasion, by the pastor, both morning and evening, and "a once upon a time" talk in the afternoon special for the children.

Another Fishing Story.

On the subject of fishing Mr. Adam Humphries, of the Township of Asphodel has a story which eclipses everything heard in these parts during this season. The other day he was out trawling on the River Trent near the lake, and hooked a lunge, which he landed after considerable difficulty. The fish measured 3 feet 10 inches in length, and weighed 24 lbs. Its girth just in front of the back fins was 20 inches. Mr. Humphries states that the fishing in the lower end of the lake is first-class, and a number of good catches have been made, but this is the best recorded to date.

Rachel Lewis To-night.

The Rachael Lewis Company will play to-night in Bradburn's Opera House, giving a vaudeville programme, which promises to be an interesting one. A comedy burlesque on "Ingomar" will be given by Miss Lewis and Mr. Richmond, and it is described as being a very humourous act, in fact Miss Lewis and Mr. Richmond were featured in it in Keith's Theatre, New York, and made a decided hit. The Company while here has endeavoured to give good clean shows and deserves to be supported more liberally than it has been.

Actors' Life not Smooth Sailing.

The trials of an actor are many, as some of the members of the Rachel Lewis Company can testify. Last night a concert had been advertised to take place in Bradburn's opera house, but for good and sufficient reasons the concert did not materialize. The rent for the building is $10 a night, and all that was taken in at the box office was above $6.00, so the performance was postponed. This company has been in hard luck since coming to Peterborough and it was hoped that the concert last night would have enabled them to get their heads above water once more. However it was not to be and the trouble still exists.

IMPROVEMENTS TO TURF CLUB TRACK.

Preparations for the Meet Next Week are Being Made.

Number of Horses now at the Stables in Training—New Arrivals Every Day.

On what has been declared to be the fastest track in Canada, by those competent to judge, the Peterborough Turf Club will hold a two days' racing meet next week, the dates being August 5th and 6th, and, if present indications are any criterion, the event will be an unparalleled success. A number of entries have been made in the different classe, and the horses are coming in every day to be given their preliminary training on the track. There are now 15 horses on the ground, and at any hour of the day almost, they may be seen speeding around the track, or being exercised on the paddock. Yesterday morning the fastest time ever recorded on the track was made in an easy work-out of Minnie Keswick, Sphinx B., and a horse raised in Picton. They did the half easily in under 1.18; the best record for the track in a race is 1.18 1-4. The officials believe that at this meet the time will be lowered to 1.15, or perhaps even to 1.14.

The Turf Club has expended a considerable sum of money this summer in improving the track and the grounds, and it is doubtful if any track in Canada surpasses that of the Peterborough Turf Club. The grand stand has been painted white, and a division made in it for badge holders, who will now have a private entrance.

The old high board fence between the race track and the exhibition grounds, has been taken down and a new one erected which will enable the track to be seen from all parts of the grounds. The sheds have also been greatly improved; in fact, in all its appointments the track is now thoroughly modern, and with the liberal prizes offered, which has induced a large list of entries in the different classes, the success of the meet is fully assured.

The horses entered in the 2.50 class are:

Jim Wilson, E. M. Stewart, Stratford.
Blocher, R. T. Smith, Toronto.
Katy Galtner, C. Laurin, Montreal.
Keepabell, Dr. Johnson, Peterborough.
Little Boy, Snow and Dennis, Toronto.
Alerene Geo. Gobell, Mitchell.
William H., John Marshall, Toronto.
Minnie Keswick, Geo. Curtis, Lindsay.
Fairbairn, Dr. Bradd, Peterborough.
Maude Ryse a Dicke, Chas. Park, Sutton.
Prince Hal, jr., M. Elmhirst, Keene.
Ernie Hunter, G. W. Abell, Coldwater.

2.30 Class.

Lizzie McLord, C. Laurin, Montreal.
Lady Hamburg, Ashley Stock Farm Belleville.
Dan Finnister, John Aldous, Fenelon Falls.
The Duke, E. R. Reynolds, Toronto.
Jubilee, M. J. Dennistoun, Coldwater.
Sphinx B., Geo. Powell, Peterborough.
Black Boy, J. M. Brooks, Peterborough.

The trainer of Little Boy, who is a horseman of wide experience, says that the track here is faster by 7 seconds than the Dufferin track in Toronto, and at least 4 seconds better than the Toronto Exhibition track, so the prospect for seeing some especially fast work done on the two days next week are exceedingly bright.

Every day now horses are arriving in town, and as the time draws near the interest in the event is deepening, and the present outlook for the most successful racing meet ever held here, is most promising.

WORKINGMEN'S TICKETS.

Letter From "A. B. C." an Important Clause in Agreement.

The Examiner is in receipt of the following letter from "A.B.C.":—

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice in the synopsis of Street Railway Agreement published in yesterday's Examiner that regular fares are 25 for $1.00, and working men 6 for 25 cents. Is this a miss print? If not it makes working men's fares 4 1-6 cents and regular fare only 4 cents. If this is the case this clause should be changed.

Yours truly,
"A. B C."

Peterborough, July 29th.

The synopsis of the agreement contained in yesterday's Examiner was a correct one, as regards the price of fares. The assumption is that workingmen will not buy more than 6 tickets at one time. Mr. Dennistoun states, however, that it is the intention of the company to give the workingmen 32 tickets for $1, to be used at certain hours of the day. There is nothing in the agreement, though, to this effect, so that the Examiner is not at fault in giving its interpretation of the conditions of the franchise.

Mr. Hall, the Town Solicitor, stated to the Examiner, that the committee, when the agreement was before it for discussion, urged upon the representatives of the company the advisability of giving workingmen 8 tickets for 25 cents, but they were not able to secure this concession. The matter of 32 tickets for $1 was not suggested, but according to Mr. Dennistoun the company is willing to give that number, although the agreement has not that stipulation incorporated in it.

Horses Seen on the Turf Club Track.

"Terriers" and "Never Flinches" Will Battle for Mastery—Port Hope Defeated St. Catherines.

TURF.

A visit to the stables at the Turf Club's track is sufficient to convince one that the meet this year will be a success. The horses, which have been entered, are arriving every day, and are now in training. The track itself is in splendid shape, and every day, when weather permits, the horses are being worked out "Jubilee" arrived this morning from Coldwater, in charge of Mr. H. A. Hartwell, and is a likely looking animal, and should make the other horses entered in the 2.30 class go some. "Jubilee" is eight years old and has already won some fast races. Mr. J. H. Allin of Picton, has two horses at the track, which will go in the "free for all." They are "Borealton" and "Modcakay," and are now being trained.

"Sphinx B," Geo. Powell's fast trotter, which some horsemen say will sweep the field, is also being given careful attention, and has a daily work out. Mr. G. Graham has a likely colt, "Happy Paddy," which will not be entered in any of the events in this meet. He is now in training at the track and his owner hopes to see him develop some speed, which he is quite likely to do. Geo. Powell's "Frank" occupies a stall, and the boys look upon him as a rising trotter. J. M. Brooks' "Black Boy" is one of the most popular of the string and some good results are looked for from his work this summer. "Jim Wilson," owned by Mr. E. M. Stewart, of Stratford, a former resident of this town, who has gone into the racing business, and with good success, arrived last night from Mansfield, Ohio, where he gave a good account of himself. "Jim Wilson" is a 5-year-old horse, possessing a number of very marked racing points. "Cheat 'Em," is a new running horse, occupying one of the stables and is being trained here. Dr. Archer, of Port Perry has two horses, "Bicycle Joe" and "Minnie A." "Billie G." is also a new horse on this track. He is owned by Thomas, Belleville, and is a pacer with a mark of 1.19. Snow and Dennis' "Little Boy" arrived in town and will be at the track to-day. "Laghai Laudanum" owned by a horseman in Goderich, is a new arrival.

Mr. Geo. Curtis' "Minnie Keswick," arrived Monday and had a good workout on Tuesday. She is a 5-year-old mare sired by Keswick, also owned by Mr. Curtis, who has a mark of 1.18 1-4.

About $600 has been spent on the grounds and track this year, and it was never in as good shape as at present.

GOLF.

Peterborough defeated Perth on the local links by 22 holes up.

• • • •

A team of nine golfers from the Perth Golf Club played a match with the Peterborough Golf Club yesterday afternoon, and were defeated by 22 holes up. There were some very good players among the visitors, and the game was a very interesting and close one all through. The Perth players did not succeed in defeating any of their opponents.

Mr. Lawrence in his game made a record for the course going his two rounds in the splendid score of 78 strokes. His score card shows the following steady playing:—

BASEBALL.

Probably the best game of baseball seen in town this season will be that on Monday when the Auburns play the Wellesleys of Toronto, one of the fastest teams in the Sunlight League from which some professional baseball players have graduated. The Auburns are practicing daily in preparation for the game, and will put up a good stiff argument. The game will be called at three o'clock and is sure to be witnessed by a large number of spectators.

St. Andrew's defeated St. Paul's in the first game of the series in the Guild League, last night by the score of 4—1. The second game will be played to-night, and players are requested to report at the McDonnel street grounds at 7 o'clock sharp.

Charlotte street and St. Andrew's play their final game of baseball to-morrow (Friday) night on the Patterson street grounds. A close and interesting game is expected. Players are requested to be on hand at 6.45 sharp.

SPRINTING.

THE SCHNEIDER CHALLENGE CUP.

The following are the rules for the Schneider Challenge Cup which are published through the courtesy of Mr. Wm. Sailsbury, the secretary of the committee:—

The cup shall be called the Schneider Cup for amateur's race.

The competition for the cup shall be open to any bona fide resident of the county of Peterborough, who must be able to prove his amateur standing if challenged.

The race is to be at 100 yards, and the best two in three heats.

The winner of the cup shall be open to a challenge from any amateur resident of the County of Peterborough.

The challenge shall be sent through the committee who have been appointed trustees.

On receipt of challenge the secretary of the committee shall immediately notify the holder of the cup that he has been challenged, and a date mutually satisfactory to both shall be arranged.

If competitors are unable to agree, the trustees shall decide time and place of race.

Any holder of the cup who refuses to accept a challenge shall forfeit the cup to the trustees, who may award it to the challenger.

Any person holding the cup for three successive years shall become the absolute owner of it.

For the race the trustees shall appoint starter and officials and shall be sole judges of the event.

A bond shall be taken from the owner of the cup for the amount of fifty dollars; said bond to be satisfactory to the chairman of the trustees.

The above rules were adopted at a meeting of the committee, on motion of Mr. T. E. Bradburn, seconded by Mr. A. H. Stratton.

At a meeting of the committee this morning it was decided that the race between McGrath and Taylor should be run off on either August the 5th 6th.

LACROSSE.

The battle between O'Brien's "Terriers" and McPherson's "Never Flinches" to-morrow night at the T. A.S. grounds will be one long to be remembered, and the present indications are that a big crowd will witness the game. The "Terriers" will play the following "all star" men: Delaire, Trollope, Clarke, Webster, Gillman, Dobbin, O'Brien, Scriver, Wood, Doherty, Long, Payne, T. J. Begley and T. Sturgeon, spare men, and Geo. Lynch, field capt.

A base rumour has been going the rounds that Mr. O'Brien would, at the last moment, substitute his namesake for himself in the line up, but the manager of the "Terriers" is incapable of such an action, and declares that they will win on their merits.

The "Never Flinches" will line up with the following invincibles:—

Fred Garden, Fred Anderson, Chas. Primeau, Fred Miles, Herb Mather, C. P. Walker, E. Pearce,, W. Pearl, J. W. Young, J. O'Neill, F. McPherson, T. McGregger, W. Bathgate; T. Repell, field capt.

• • • •

The T.A.S. II team is arranging for a three days' trip next month, and will play Millbrook, Port Hope and Oshawa Junior teams. The secretary is also trying to arrange a game with Tweed in that place on Civic Holiday.

• • • •

Next Thursday, August 6th, the strong intermediate team from Orillia will accompany the firemen's excursion from that town and will play an exhibition game with the T.A.S. seniors on the Murray street grounds. Orillia has a speedy bunch, and the locals have their work cut out in this game.

• • • •

It is understood that the T.A.S. will bring a strong team to town on Civic Holiday.

PORT HOPE 7, ST. KITTS. 4.

Port Hope, July 29th.—In a clean and fast lacrosse game, the Ontarios of this town defeated the St. Catharines by a score of 7 to 4. The Masons and their lady friends of Canandaigua, N.Y., about 200 strong, came across the lake to-day, and were spectators at the match. They were all highly pleased with the Canadian game, and expressed the wish that it will be generally established in the States. Teams were as follows:—

St. Kitts (4)—Chaplin, F. Williams, Elliott, R. Williams, Cameron, Corbett, Downey, Kalls, Leopard, Lowe, Park and Allan.

Ontarios (7)—Young, Griffiths, White, Henderson, Tuer, McDonough, Burt, Kelly, Roach, Cain, Pennock and Donaldson.

The game started about 3.45 p.m., and Pennock scored for Port Hope shortly after. Leopard soon tied the score for St. Kitts, and just before the period ended Lowe scored one for St. Catharines, and the period ended 2—1 in favour of St. Kitts.

In the next period Pennock and Kelly scored for Port Hope, and St. Kitts was shut out, leaving the score 3—2 in Port Hope's favour. In the next period both sides scored twice, while Port Hope added two more in the last period, making the final score 7—4 in Port Hope's favour. Only five men were penalized by the referee, and these for only minor fouls.

Brown Jackson refereed the game very satisfactorily.—Toronto World.

Premium Tickets After August 1st.

During the past four weeks a notice has appeared at the top of our advertisements announcing that no more Premiums will be given after August 1st. In order to save all misunderstandings with our customers and the public, we give special prominence to day to this announcement.

No More Premium Tickets

will be given at Gough Bros.' Stores after August 1st.

The day has gone by in Gough's experience when premiums are needed as trade-pullers. We have grown past the "nursery" stage of business. Our Clothing and successful methods can stand on their own merits.

GOUGH NEEDS NO "PULL"

Besides the suspicion is growing stronger every day that Premium-giving means higher prices for Clothing, and that the customer pays too dear for his whistle. High-priced Clothiers may be able to continue for a while longer to give premiums, but Gough's prefer to be able to quote lowest prices without premiums. Best values always, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow.

We will redeem every ticket presented for the amount of purchases shown. Customers who want to fill their tickets, should hurry and do so before August 1st.

DREADFUL CALAMITY

More Than a Score Killed in a Powder Explosion.

SEVERAL BLOWN TO PIECES.

Four Boys 200 Yards Away Killed by the Terrible Force—Fifty Persons Were Injured—Fourteen Houses Collapsed and Several Caught Fire—Three Persons Burned to Death.

Lowell, Mass., July 30.— Two small powder magazines in the midst of the houses of fifty mill operatives exploded yesterday with a frightful concussion, and the lives of more than a score of persons were cut off and 50 others were injured. Half a dozen men who were loading kegs of powder from one of the magazines were blown to pieces, four boys 200 yards away were killed by the force of the explosion, and fourteen frame houses within a radius of 400 yards collapsed as though built of cardboards. Seven of these houses immediately caught fire and were completely consumed. At least three persons were caught in the ruins and burned to death, while seven or eight others, who were rescued, died subsequently of their injuries. It is estimated that seventy separate pieces of property, including those already mentioned, were destroyed, while the force of the explosion broke windows within a radius of five or six miles, and its thunder was heard distinctly for more than 50 miles away.

Occurred Within Five Seconds.

The entire catastrophe occurred within five seconds, but in that time the surrounding property was swept as if a small volcano had broken forth in its midst.

Every house within 200 yards collapsed, trees were blown down, the grass within a hundred yards mowed as if by a lawn-mower, while bricks from the two magazines were hurled far across the river and all over the neighborhood.

For several minutes the air was filled with smoke and dust, through which penetrated the glare from already burning houses. Those who survived dragged themselves to what seemed a place of safety, only to be recalled by the shrieks of the less fortunate.

Four Boys Kil ..

Two hundred yards from the second magazine the firemen came across the bodies of four little boys, who evidently were just about to have a swim when killed. A fifth member of the party was in the river when the explosion occurred and escaped injury.

Apparently when the second magazino let go, its force was expended in two directions, north and south. On the north it completely demolished the house of Wm. Riggs, about fifty yards away, fatally injuring Mrs. Riggs and badly injuring her little son.

On the other side of the magazine was a grove of trees, through which the explosion tore a path 50 feet wide for a distance of nearly 300 yards. The four little boys were caught in the centre of this path. The body of one of them was frightfully mutilated, the head being completely blown off.

Powder Mill Blew Up.

Baltimore, Md., July 30.—A despatch from New Freedom, Md., says the works of the Rockdale Powder Company at Hoffmansville, Baltimore County, blew up last night. It is reported that two persons were killed. Particulars are meagre.

IN MANCHURIAN PORTS.

Same Privileges to Be Given Britain and Japan by China.

London, July 30.— Following the signature of the Americo-Chinese commercial treaty, China will, it is said, grant the same open port privileges in Manchuria to Great Britain and Japan, both of which expect to establish concessions and appoint consuls at the new ports.

In British official circles confidence is expressed that the maintenance of peace will result from Russian assurances regarding Manchuria, and that there will be no interference with Chinese action in the matter.

EIGHT YEARS OF MISERY.

What Maurice Best Might Have Avoided if he had Started to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Right at the Start

Maurice Best, of Southern Harbour, Newfoundland, suffered torture for eight years simply because he would not believe that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets would cure him. He says:

"In 1892 I was attacked with Dyspepsia. I was in continual misery for eight years. Sometimes I would go off in a faint and for ten minutes I would be more dead than alive. The doctors could not cure me and gave me but little help."

Then it occurred to Mr. Best that it would not hurt him to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. He did so and this is what he says of the result:

"The first two boxes I used gave me new life. I kept on using them and was soon a new man. I cannot say enough in their favour."

Why don't you try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets?

London, July 30.—If Cuba fails to float her proposed loan of $35,000,000 in the United States, she will have no difficulty in doing so here. Several British financiers who have been approached on the subject by the Marquis Demontoro, Cuban Minister to Great Britain, indicated their willingness to subscribe.

The Reason Why.

Heals the throat, cures the cough, makes breathing easy,—that's why Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians for bronchitis, acute or chronic. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the stomach, and is better than emulsions made from fish oils or other fats. 10a

Tied Up Car Lines.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—All the street car lines in the city were tied up for more than two hours yesterday morning at the time travel is the heaviest, by a strike of 35 firemen at the power house of the Detroit United Railway. The men struck to enforce a demand for an eight-hour day, made some time ago. Outside help was rushed to the power house, and by 8 o'clock the company had a few cars running on most of the lines.

ENGLISH FOREIGN OFFICE.

Light Thrown Upon Its Mysteries Through Anecdotes and by Officials—Where It Is Located in London.

To the ordinary man the Foreign Office is as much a mystery as the Temple of Isis. It has always been closed, as it were, to the public, and until the first "Foreign Office list" was published in 1852 no record was kept even in the office of the separate services rendered by each individual. The publication of the list was strongly objected to in certain quarters as likely to afford information to the general public with regard to the office which they thought it advisable it should not possess. Sir Edward Hertslet, whose "Recollections of the Old Foreign Office" have just been published by Mr. John Murray, comes of a race of Foreign Office officials, for his father, Mr. Louis Hertslet was appointed Sub-Librarian in 1801, and did not retire from the office of Librarian until 1857, and there have been four generations of Hertslets in the Foreign Office since 1795.

The question is often asked: "Where was the Foreign Office before it was first situated in Downing street?" The answer is that the Foreign Office was first so-called on the discontinuance of the separate offices of the Secretary of State for the Northern and Southern Departments on March 27, 1872. Both these departments were at that time in Cleveland Row, St. James. There the Foreign Office remained until September, 1786, when it was removed to the Cockpit at Whitehall. It remained there until December, 1793, when it was transferred to some private houses in Downing street. It was next transferred in 1861 to Nos. 7 and 8 Whitehall Gardens, while the new building in Downing street was being erected, and on July 1, '98, it went back to its present and permanent quarters in Downing street. The old offices, as may be easily imagined, afforded more scope for practical jokes on the part of the younger clerks than the severe new building does. One of the rooms in the attic, facing Downing street, was set apart for some of the young gentlemen of the office. This was called the "Nursery," and here they used to pass away any spare time which they might have on their hands.

Certain pretty dressmakers occupied rooms in one of the houses in Fludyer street, just opposite the windows of the frivolous youths. A mutual recognition generally took place every morning between some of them. In one of these rooms there used to be one gentleman with a round head, and another with red hair, and should the former first open his window, the young ladies opposite, who generally worked with their windows open, would call out: "Good morning, Turnips; how's Carrots?" And should the latter be the first to appear the salutation would be: "Good morning, Carrots; how's Turnips?"

But it has never been all play, not even so much play as some people suppose, at the Foreign Office. During the sitting of the Belgian and Creek conferences in London, which lasted from 1831 till 1839, many of the clerks in the office were always in attendance on Sundays, as was also either the librarian or the sub-librarian.

A story is told that one Sunday morning, during church time, Lord Palmerston entered one of the rooms of the office, accompanied by Lady Palmerston, and not finding the head of the department at his post, he inquired of one of the juniors where he was, and on being told that he was at church, His Lordship expressed much surprise at his not being at his desk, and was beginning to wax rather warm on the subject, when he was stopped by Lady Palmerston's remarking: "But, you see, my dear, some people go to church on Sundays." Lord Palmerston evidently felt that this was an awkward remark for her to make under the circumstances, but he said no more, and quietly left the room.

Some of Lord Palmerston's minutes written on the margin of despatches were very amusing. For example, he wrote on a letter from a South American Consul complaining of the fleas in his Consulate: "Living with his fleas cannot hardly be worse than reading his handwriting, which I cannot do." On another occasion he had been pricked somewhat sharply with a pin when unfolding a paper, which caused him to write the following minute: "I desire that all the pins in this office be immediately made over to the female branch of the establishment."

Sir Edward Hertslet is thus entertaining as well as instructive, and, though he has plenty of anecdotes to tell of the Foreign Office and of Foreign Ministers and the clerks, he always gossips with the discretion and good taste inherent in the officials of that great public department.—London Globe.

FOR THE KITCHEN.

Two Useful Contrivances That Save Time and Labor.

An Illinois lady suggests the following conveniences:

Water and fuel are the two principal articles in the kitchen. To have them handy and convenient saves nearly one-half the labor. The accompanying illustration nearly explains itself. The water tank is made of galvanized iron to hold fifteen or twenty gallons and has a spigot at the bottom, on which is fitted a short piece of rubber hose. The teakettle or anything else on the stove can be quickly and easily filled without spilling any on the stove or floor. The shelf on which the tank sits should be a little higher than the stove and fastened securely to the wall. It can be filled with a force pump or carried in pails.

The fuel box is made in the wall near the stove and extends out in the wood shed or coal bin, back of the kitchen, as shown by the dotted lines. It is filled right from the outside, so there is no carrying of wood or coal through the kitchen. It has a cover with hinges and always looks neat. It is the handiest fuel box I know of.—St. Louis Republic.

Cleaning Pictures.

In cleaning house one of the principal cares should be the pictures. It is too often overlooked or left to the care of servants, when the mistress should give it her personal attention. Each picture as it is taken down should be carefully dusted and the cord or wire wiped. Then lay it on a table, wash the glass and polish it until it is perfectly clear. Wipe the frame with a soft cloth wet in warm water and rub off all fly specks and other dirt. If the picture is framed with a glass paste paper smoothly all over the back to keep dust from sifting through the cracks. Frames of polished wood, oak, walnut, or, in fact, anything but gilt, will be greatly improved by rubbing them with a solution of three parts linseed oil and one part turpentine. Apply with a woolen cloth and rub with a dry woolen cloth until perfectly dry.

A Fire to Last For Hours.

If you want a fire to keep in for hours try this plan: First let it burn until quite clear and rather low. Then put on some big lumps of coal. Flatten down and on top heap a good thick layer of dust and ashes, which press down with a shovel as hard as you can. A fire made up like this will last, without any more attention, through the greater part of the night.

"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women. It cures womanly diseases which cause weakness, and cures the backache, sideache, nervousness and other ills which are the result of womanly diseases.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Gems of Thought.

Life's ideals depends on religion's ideals.

Write it on your heart that every day is the best day of the year.

The road to ruin is a down grade, not a leap over a precipice.

The habit of looking on the best side of every event is worth more than a thousand pounds a year.

The sweetest music is not in orations, but in the human voice when it speaks from its instant life tones of tenderness, truth and courage.

Beauty is God's handwriting; welcome it in every fair face, every fair sky, every fair flower and thank for it—Him, the fountain of all loveliness.

Not a Question of Faith.

Patient—Although, doctor, I have sent for you at the earnest solicitation of my friends, and to please them, let me tell you that I have not the least faith in modern medical science.

Physician—Oh, that doesn't matter at all, I assure you. The mule has no faith in the veterinarian, yet the latter cures him just the same.—N. Y. Times.

THE NAMELESS HERO.

There are countless heroes who live and die,
Of whom we have never heard;
For the great, big, brawling world goes by
With hardly a look or word;
And one of the bravest and best of all,
Of whom the list can boast
Is the man who falls on duty's call,
The man who dies at his post.

While his cheek is mantled with manhood's bloom
And the pathway of his life looks bright,
He is brought in a moment to face the gloom
Surrounding the final night.
He buoyantly sails o'er a sunlit sea,
And is dashed on an unseen coast
Till the ship goes down at the helm stands he—
The man who dies at his post.

Who follows the glorious tide of war
And falls in the midst of the fight,
He knows that honor will hover o'er
And cover his name with light;
But he who passes unsung, unknown,
He hears no applauding host;
He goes in the dark to his fate alone,
The man who dies at his post.

Who bears with disease while death draws near,
Who faces his fate each day,
Yet strives to comfort and help and cheer
His comrades along the way;
Who follows his work while he yet may do,
And smiles when he suffers most,
It seems to me, is a hero true—
The man who dies at his post.

There are plenty to laud and crown with bays
The hero who falls in strife,
But few who offer a word of praise
To the crownless hero of life.
He does his duty, and makes no claim;
And to-night I propose a toast
To the silent martyr unknown to fame,
The man who dies at his post.

Stocking Bags.

One of the most convenient articles imaginable is a stocking bag. To make one requires a piece of large flowered calico or other goods and a piece of cardboard. Cut the piece of cardboard seven inches square, round off the two lower corners, leaving the top square, and pad on the outside with a little batting. Then cover with the cloth, turning and whipping it over and under the edges. Cut a strip of cloth fifteen inches long, hem it at the ends, leaving the hem wide enough to slip a tape string through. Gather the sides and sew to the covered cardboard, the straight edges to be used for the top.

Virtues of Hot Water.

Hot water is a medicine within the reach of every woman. Half a teacupful as hot as can be drunk comfortably half an hour before meals is a great preventive of indigestion. It is one of the best remedies for a disordered stomach if a little salt be added, and the same is the best gargle for a sore throat. Hot water is good for constipation if taken at bedtime. If followed up for a few months it will work wonders on the most delicate constitution.

Parsley For the Kitchen.

Every kitchen ought to have its pot of growing parsley. The pretty and most useful herb is easily grown, and the advantage of having fresh leaves on hand whenever they are wanted is plain. Buy a five cent package of seed and sow on top of the soil in a five inch pot. Water well and set the pot in a light window. In a short time the pot will be a mass of green. Weed out the weak plants.

JANITOR—"Yes, sir! put in two tons less than last winter and have about half a ton left—guess it paid you to throw out that old coal-eater and put in this up-to-date SUNSHINE."

PROPRIETOR—"Yes, I think so; and I noticed the house was comfortable in all kinds of weather. Easy to take care of?"

JANITOR—"Yes, sir! just had to attend it twice a day—never had any trouble with the fire going out, and didn't have to spend half my time sweeping, cleaning, shaking, dumping ashes, and all that sort of thing—wish all my customers had SUNSHINES."

In the end you pay more for fuel than the furnace in which you burn it—a furnace that saves fuel saves it's cost.

Sales to noon, 218,700.

Toronto, July 30, 2.00 p. m. —Atchison led the list downward by its break of yesterday, which was continued this morning. There are many rumors to account for the selling, but the truth probably is that the man who has been oftenest mentioned during the past few years as running a pool in the stock has had to sell a large amount of stocks to meet obligations elsewhere.

Rock Island and other western stocks followed Atchison downward and the whole list soon followed. Banks and money lenders holding collateral of the failed firms and others in trouble have been working off stocks on this rally, as have also those who supported the market. The short interest has covered which leaves the list in a vulnerable position. These unfavourable conditions still continue which is sufficient reason for selling stocks on all rallies.

A full representation was present at the meeting which was presided over by Mr. A. T. Dugan, President of the Council, and the proposal to hold the demonstration in town following the example set last year, was enthusiastically supported. A permanent Demonstration Committee was formed, composed of Messrs. A. T. Dugan, chairman, Hugh Robertson, secretary, and George Sloan, treasurer. It was decided to hold a demonstration conducted on the lines of that of last year, but incorporating many new features which will add to the interest of the event. The Council is in communication with Belleville and Lindsay Union bodies and an effort is being made to have them visit Peterborough and participate in the day's proceedings. Each union labour organization in town will be represented in the parade which will be the best ever held in town. Arrangements are being made to have each trade give an actual demonstration of their work on floats in the parade, this will be a feature which has not been attempted in fomer Labour Day Celebrations. In fact the committee declares that no expense will be spared to make this year's effort surpass that of all previous years. The Labour Council in aiming to present a celebration creditable to the town, is worthy of commendation. It was felt by the members that it was desirable to induce as many as possible to remain in town and thus help the business of the merchants. It was felt that an effort should be made to centralise the demonstration as much as possible, and Peterborough was thought to be the proper place for such centralization. A number of committees were struck, among them being,—Printing, Band, Sports and Subscription. Those composing the latter are,—Messrs. A. T. Dugan, T. Duncan, Hugh Robertson, Geo. Record and Chas. P. Murty, who will wait upon the business men and hope to be as liberally dealt with as they were last year.

WANT STANDARD KEPT UP.

Drug Clerks Will Appear Before the College of Pharmacy

A meeting of the Drug Clerks' Association was held last night in the Medical Building, when, in addition to officers already elected, the position of Hon. President was allotted to Mr. George H. Halpin, and Mr. Arthur, Parsons will fill the second Vice-President's chair for the ensuing year.

A committee, composed of Messrs. Rennie, Wright, Pierce, Parker and Parsons, was appointed to interview the Council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, urging them to maintain the present educational standard for apprentices entering the drug profession.

Messrs. Whitehead, Wood and Pierce were also delegated to appear before the manufacturers of patent medicines for the purpose of inducing them to adopt the price restrictive plan in the sale of their products.

Dr. Sweeney of Butte, Montana, addressed the meeting.

A meeting will be held next Thursday at ten p.m. in the Medical Building, when Mr. John Hargraves will address the association.—Telegram.

The Hon. President, Mr. George H. Halpin, is a son of Mr. John Halpin, carriage maker, Hunter street, of this town.

ORILLIA'S ENTERPRISE.

Other towns are after industries as well as Peterborough and with good prospects of securing them, as the following item from the Orillia Times indicates:—

"There is every probability of the proposed linen works commencing operations in Orillia. On Monday the Mayor received a letter from the President, saying that the town's terms had been accepted. The terms are:—300 horse power at $16 per h.p.; free site of five acres; the usual tax exemptions, and the town to guarantee bonds to the extent of $50,000. The company would spend a quarter of a million dollars in buildings and equipment, and employ not less than one hundred hands at the outset, this number to be increased to five hundred. The people will be asked to vote on the proposition."

For Sale.

The Sisters of the Convent De Notre Dame being about removing ing from Peterborough offer for sale two second-hand pianos and an organ, at very reasonable prices. The instruments are in first-class condition and may be seen at any time.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Mr. Thomas Miller and Miss Mabel Gertrude Loomis Married Yesterday.

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday at the residence of Mrs. Loomis, Bethune street, when her daughter Mabel Gertrude, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Miller, of the Canadian General Electric Works, in the presence of a number of friends of the young couple.

The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Miller, while Mr. E. G. Poole performed the duties of groomsman. The bride looked charming in a brown dress with white silk yoke, and trimmed tastefully. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. H. Brace, of Park street Baptist church. After the ceremony the whole party sat down to a delightful dejeuner.

The young people are well known in town and highly respected, as was proven by the large number of handsome and valuable presents of which they were the recipients.

Mr. Miller is well known in military circles, having been for a number of years a member of the 57th Regiment Band. Some years ago he took a course of military training in the Military School, leaving for England upon his completion of the course, where he joined the Scots Guards, and when at the beginning of he war in South Africa the Guards were drafted for service, he accompanied them, serving throughout the campaign. He is at present a memberber of the 57th Regiment in the capacity of Colour Sargeant of No. 7 Company.

The many friends of the young couple join in wishing them a happy future.

A STEAMBOAT RACE OF FIFTY YEARS AGO.

An Extract From the Toronto Globe of 1853.

The following is taken from the Globe of July 30, 1853, and appears in to-day's issue of that paper:—

"A steamboat race took place this week from Gore's Landing to Peterborough, between the Forester and Otonabee. Both started about the same time from the Landing, and the Otonabee beat the Forester about 55 minutes, making the distance between Gore's and the Lock in two hours and twenty-five minutes—the fastest that has ever been made. We believe that there were pretty heavy amounts staked on the result of the race. Mr. Weller had a bet of £50 stock in the Otonabee, against £25 cash, that the old boat would come within half an hour of the new."

GAMEY BANQUETED.

His Violent Abuse of the Judges Repeated

A demonstration held at Gore Bay in honour of R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., was largely attended, but the report sent to the Mail states that a regrettable feature was the absence of the leader of the opposition.

Speeches were made by Messrs J. W. St. John, M.P.P., West York; Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, M.P.P., North Toronto; R. A. Pyne, M.P.P., East Toronto; J. R. L. Joynt, M.P.P., of Grenville; R. Johnston, M. P., Cardwell. The speech of Mr. Gamey was a rehash of the vicious abuse made in the Legislature—abuse of the judges, and epithets such as liar and perjurer bestowed on witnesses who united in discreding his "bribery" story.

WATCH CANADA'S PROGRESS.

(Hamilton Times.)

Under the heading "Our Policy Toward Canada," the New York Journal of Commerce discusses at some length the fiscal relations of the United States and the Dominion as they are and as they might have been had the statesmen of the Republic pursued a more neighbourly and intelligent policy. It declares that "industrially and commercially Canada is a nation and not a colony, and with the rapid growth it is now experiencing the sense of independence is increasing every year. It develops its own resources without help, save from the capital of others which its opportunities invite. It establishes its own tariff and customs laws and is as independent as Great Britain in its tax system. Even the mother country must negotiate for any favour it may desire, like any other nation, and accept whatever Canada may choose to grant. They may enter into reciprocal relations, but commercially the Dominion is no more subservient to the Kingdom than the Kingdom to the Dominion." That is a fairly accurate statement of the situation and shows that the Journal of Commerce is better acquainted with things Canadian than many of the United States papers which deal with international issues.

Our contemporary goes on to point out that a few years ago we were a comparatively unknown people, and it was assumed that our resources would be of slow development. It hints broadly that the reciprocity treaty was abrogated because of "the narrow and jealous policy" of the United States towards us, at a time when by the adoption of a liberal policy toward what was regarded as a weak and struggling neighbour that development would have been greatly helped." Let us here quote the Journal of Commerce:—

That was just what our narrow-minded and short-sighted statesmen feared, but it would have been greatly to our advantage in trade to have Canada grow and prosper by our side. We had nothing to fear from her rivalry and much to gain from her friendly emulation. But we turned the cold shoulder to a "weak and struggling" neighbour, which for a time had a feeling of bitterness and discouragement, but with the spirit and energy of their race the people of the Provinces sank their differences, united in the Dominion, and set to work to develop their own resources and build up a trade for themselves. We insisted upon a tariff wall along the border to keep out trade, choosing to drive it over the ocean and reach over the ocean for it, rather than take it at our doors where the cost of interchange would be least.

But, finding the nearest and easiest door shut against them, or opened only with narrow and grudging cracks, the Canadians set resolutely at work to make the most of their resources and to open markets for their products elsewhere than with their powerful but ungenerous neighbour. They cheerfully taxed and mortgaged those resources to provide the means for availing of their future possibilities, and instead of lines of communication crossing and recrossing the border with profitable currents of traffic flowing back and forth, they were stretched across the wide continent from ocean to ocean. Railroads were built by Government aid, which means by taxing and mortgaging the very resources and opportunities to be developed and putting upon them a burden to be carried many years. Waterways were availed of and improved at large expense, and transatlantic shipping was established. The "protection" that shut Canada trade out of the United States provoked protection to keep United States trade out of Canada and make the latter country industrially more independent, as it was forced to be more independent commercially.

The commercial policy of the United States towards Canada has been one of persistent and selfish blindness, as injurious to herself as to the friendly neighbour it is intended to injure; and its advocates and supporters meet every effort to modify it in the direction of reason and enlightened self-interest with a storm of protest and a fusillade of fallacies that reflect discredit upon the common schools of the country.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY.

(The Globe.)

The letters of The Globe's special correspondent, who has been making a tour of observation through the region west, north, and east of Toronto, furnish abundant proof, if proof were needed, that we are enjoying in this Province a season of unprecedented prosperity. From the Niagara peninsula, the St. Clair district, the Huron tract, the Simcoe basin, and the Midland district, the story is almost monotonously the same—excellent crops, good prices, diminishing liabilities, and optimistic confidence. All classes are contented and hopeful without losing sobriety and caution.

It is much more than a figure of speech to say that the whole community rests on the farmer. This is essentially an agricultural country. The great bulk of its exports are and must always be food products and the raw material of clothing. We export minerals and lumber, but the former not yet to a very great extent, and the latter in stationary quantity. We can increase our agricultural products indefinitely by bringing more land into cultivation and treating it in more intelligent ways. The observations of our correspondent show that the methods of farming are more varied than they used to be, and in all probability this has much to do with the prevalent prosperity. The farmer does not now, so much as he did once, put all his eggs into one basket. He has been driven out of wheat growing to a large extent by the competition of the northwest, and he has now a surer source of living in the production of butter, cheese, beef, mutton, pork, poultry and eggs. In this way he has become less dependent on the character of the season, and has a smaller proportion of "lean years."

Manufacturers are just as generally prosperous as the farmers, and the demand for artisans appears to be as keen as the demand for farm labourers. Many factories are running overtime, and few are short of orders. The importers, too, are compelled to exert themselves to meet the demands of the retailers who supply the farmer and the artisan. The railway freight sheds in Toronto are in a state of chronic congestion, with no immediate prospect of relief. It is said that if the Grand Trunk had its freight accommodation enlarged by the utilization of the old Parliament square it would be as congested as ever in a very few years. Relief must be looked for in the extension of existing mercantile warehouses or the erection of new ones.

A season of prosperity is a season of danger. When times are good the tendency is toward over-inflation, and this is sure to induce a more or less disastrous depression. No harm has yet resulted from this cause, and it is not necessary that any should result, but past experience shows the need of caution upon the part of all who are engaged in precarious industries. There is no reason why the farmer should slacken production, for he cannot glut the food market of the world, but manufacturers may overdo the production of their wares as merchants may overdo their importation. The exercise of wise caution now may enable the community to avoid heavy losses hereafter.

Coldspring brass band will be in attendance on the grounds.

LETTER ON LORD'S DAY ACT.

The Officers of the Alliance Explain the Significance of the Decision of the Privy Council.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

We, of the Lord's Day Alliance, as well as the general public, are indebted to the press for the excellent reports given by the Privy Council's decision re the Lord's Day Act of Ontario. They have been full and reliable. To the general public, however, the headlines—and indeed the words of the judgment itself — are likely to convey a seriously misleading idea of the situation resulting, unduly discouraging to the friends and likely to embolden the enemies of our Canadian Sabbath.

It is perfectly true that the whole Lord's Day Act as it is found in R.S.O. 1897, Chap. 246, has been declared ultra vires. But that happily does not mean that we have not left any legal protection against the inroads upon the integrity of the Lord's Day that greed and selfishness and ungodliness are ever ready and eager to make.

I. The Anti-Confederation Sunday law of Upper Canada remains in force. This was the Act of 1845, whose provisions will be read with the more interest since they include the law "that remains and cannot be shaken" by any Privy Council decision. The Dominion Parliament alone has power to tamper with its prohibitions.

It states that it is unlawful for any merchant, tradesman, artificer, mechanic, workman, labourer, or other person, whatsoever, to sell or to publicly show forth or expose or offer for sale or to purchase any wares, merchandise, goods, chattels, or personal property or any real estate whatsoever, on the Lord's Day, or to do or exercise any worldly labour, business or work of their respective ordinary callings upon that day, except conveying travellers or the mails by land or water, selling drugs, medicines, and such other work of necessity, also works of charity.

It is unlawful, also, in terms of this Act, on that day for anyone to "tipple or permit tippling in any inn, tavern, grocery, or house of entertainment, to revel or to publicly exhibit oneself in a state of intoxication, to brawl, or use profane language, in the public streets or open air, to create a riot, disturbance or annoyance to her Majesty's peaceable subjects."

It is, moreover, unlawful to "hold, convene or attend any public, political meeting on the Lord's Day."

Then it is unlawful for anyone on the Lord's Day to "play at skittles, ball, football, rackets, or any other noisy game, or to gamble, or to run races on foot or on horseback, or in vehicles of any sort."

"Bathing in public places, hunting, shooting, and fishing" are also unlawful, and all sales and agreements made on Sunday are to be void. The penalty for contravention of the act is the same as that imposed in the Ontario Act just disallowed, not more than $40 nor less than $1, and in default of payment, imprisonment for not more than three months."

The only important portions of the Ontario Lord's Day Act that do not in substance remain to us are sections 7 and 8 dealing with excursions and electric railways.

The excursions for the most part will be prevented by the standing order of the Minister of Customs refusing clearance to excursion-carrying vessels.

The Radial Railway Act, under which all Radial Electric Railways chartered by the Province operate is outside the invalidated Lord's Day Act, and it prohibits the operation on Sunday of these systems or the opening on that day of parks owned by such roads.

II. Besides the above, the "Shops Regulations Act" prohibits bakers and barbers from working or keeping open shops on Sunday under severe penalties. This law, we understand, as well as the Radial Railway Act will not be affected by the Privy Council's decision.

With the exception, therefore, of the door partially opened for Sunday excursions and electric cars we have still substantially all we had before. We had hoped to gain a good deal by the decision. We are glad we have lost so little.

Of course all this applies only to Ontario. Each of the provinces will be affected differently by the decision, which is a complete reversal of what has always heretofore been quite generally accepted on the question of jurisdiction. Such eminent authorities as Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir John Thompson, Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. David Mills, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier have ever taken the view that the Provinces had full power edal with Sunday legislation. However, they were or are not members of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

It is now "on to Ottawa" for legislation in defence of the priceless heritage of our Canadian and Christian Sabbath.

There can be no doubt that all the churches—Roman Catholic and Protestant— and all labour organizations will stand with the L.D.A. in seeking such legislation as is needed. It is not probable that there will be any disposition on the part of any of the M. P's. and Senators, but a few "irreconcilables" to refuse the reasonable measures which alone will be applied for.

Application will not be made until next session of Parliament. Meantime, the friends of the Lord's Day, whether they view the matter from the religious or from the humanitarian, industrial, or national viewpoint, will bend every energy toward arousing public opinion to a sense of the possibilities and perils of the new crisis we have to face.

NATIONAL RAILROAD

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Calls for the Building of a New One.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Will Make Canada Independent Commercially — Constant Danger of the Abrogating of the Bonding Privilege Met—Premier's Appeal for Consideration of the Measure From National Standpoint.

Ottawa, July 31.—The Prime Minister's exposition yesterday afternoon of the policy by means of which Canada will secure a great transcontinental line, wholly in Canadian territory, is universally admitted to have been one of the finest speeches ever heard within the walls of Parliament. Sir Wilfrid was on his feet a little less than three hours, and during that time he spoke with an eloquence and an earnestness that deeply stirred every listener, and frequently moved his supporters to outbursts of cheers. Sir Wilfrid showed little signs of fatigue at the end of his exhaustive address, although the strain upon his physical endurance must have been very great, more especially in view of the excessive heat of the chamber. On the contrary, his voice was as strong and well sustained at the termination as it was at the beginning of his splendid deliverance. Every member was in his seat, and the public galleries were filled to overflowing. Scarcely a person, however, moved from his place for three hours, despite the torrid heat and the uncomfortable atmospheric conditions. All listened with eager attention as, step by step, the Premier unfolded the details of the important project which will have such an immense influence on the future well-being of Canada.

A Line Urgently Needed.

After a few preliminary remarks as to the nature of the measure which he was introducing, Sir Wilfrid dwelt for some time upon the demand for the new transcontinental line, terming it a political and commercial necessity. He pictured the rapid settlement of the western plains, and the urgency of a fresh outlet for the products of the west to the sea. Otherwise the trade which should be Canada's would fall into the hands of our competitors to the south. Next the Prime Minister addressed himself to the reasons for constructing a line from Moncton to Levis. He showed that there was no ground for the argument that a new line would parallel the Intercolonial Railway, but that, on the contrary, it would be the shortest and best route to the sea and would open up territory which had long been without railway facilities. The short line through Maine was built with Government assistance in order to satisfy popular agitation, but it did not meet the necessities of the case, and the Macdonald Government pledged themselves to build a line through New Brunswick. A bill was introduced into the Senate, but was thrown out by that body.

All-Canadian Road.

Sir Wilfrid pointed out, amidst cheers, that the new transcontinental line would render Canada independent of the bonding privileges, the withdrawal of which the United States has held suspended over the head of this country. Every foot of this new line would be on Canadian territory. Sir Wilfrid gave reasons why the Government could not operate the new railway as a Government line, and painted a bright picture of the part which it would play in enabling Canada to successfully compete for the trade of the Orient. He then devoted some minutes to meeting the objection that the route to be followed by the railway would be through a new and unbroken country. He quoted from the reports of explorers and surveyors to show that the country and its resources had been well and truly described.

Terms of the Agreement.

Upon coming to the agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific the Prime Minister sprang a number of surprises upon the House, the premature publication of which had been carefully guarded against. Ministerial members cheered heartily the various measures intended to protect and safeguard the interests of the country.

The road will extend from Moncton to the Pacific Ocean, and will be 3,800 miles long. From Moncton to Winnipeg the distance is estimated at 1,800 miles, and from Winnipeg to Port Simpson on the Pacific Ocean, 1,500 miles.

The eastern section from Moncton to Winnipeg will be built by the Government and leased to the Grand Trunk Pacific for a period of 50 years.

For the first seven years, the company gets the lease free of rent, but will have to meet operating expenses.

The Net Earnings.

During the next three years the company will require to give the Government the net earnings, but if these should not be equal to three per cent. upon the cost of the section, the deficit is to be added to capital account.

For the next forty years the Grand Trunk Pacific will have to pay three per cent. per annum to the Government upon the capital cost of this section. This portion of the line, that is from Moncton to Winnipeg, will be built according to specifications and standard to be approved by the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Government engineers jointly.

A commission is to be appointed by the Government who will supervise the work. From Winnipeg to the Pacific Ocean the road will be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific within seven years. The Government will guarantee 75 per cent. of the cost of construction up to a maximum of $13,000 per mile on the prairie division between Winnipeg and Edmonton and of $30,000 per mile for the mountain division between Edmonton and the Pacific coast. The principal and interest of the bonds are to be guaranteed for fifty years. On the completion of the prairie division, the company will commence paying interest on the guaranteed bonds.

The Mountain Division.

In regard to the mountain division the company will not be called on to pay anything for the first seven years, but for the succeeding three years it will have to pay the net receipts over working expenses, and any deficit will be added to the cost, while for the remaining forty years the company will pay three per cent. per annum.

Between Winnipeg and the Pacific the Government will take a first mortgage on the line as security for its guarantee, and the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada will be called on to guarantee the bonds issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific for its proportion of the cost of that section.

The Grand Trunk Pacific agrees to place rolling stock of the value of $20,000,000 on the whole line, or $5,000,000 worth in use on the section between Moncton and Winnipeg. The Government will hold a lien as special security for the operation of this particular section by the company.

The Route.

This section on leaving the city of Quebec will traverse the back country of that province of Lake Abittibi, and proceed westward to Winnipeg. Until the region has attracted much population and the company will have been able to obtain profits the Government takes a mortgage on the rolling stock in use, lest the company, having built the paying portion of the route, between Winnipeg and the coast, should endeavor to throw the Moncton and Winnipeg section, with its uncertain future, upon the hands of the Government before the 50 years' lease expires.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will have running powers over the Intercolonial Railway, and the Intercolonial and all other railways in Canada will have running privileges over the section of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Moncton and Winnipeg, subject to the right and obligations of the lessees and the payment of proper compensation.

Railway Commission and Rates.

The Railway Commission, which is now being created by Parliament, will control the freight rates. The Government will have the right to appoint a director on the board of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Unrouted export trade is to be carried in winter to its destination at St. John or Halifax through Canadian ports at rates no higher than would be charged if it were sent by Portland, the winter port of the Grand Trunk. This is done to overcome the geographical disadvantages of the situation. In summer the route for eastbound traffic from Manitoba by the great lakes to Georgian Bay ports, and thence by rail to the ocean vessels at Montreal. The capital of the Grand Trunk Pacific is not to exceed $45,000,000.

The company is to issue interim bonds as construction progresses on the section between Winnipeg and the Pacific, such bonds to be guaranteed by the Government and to be replaced by permanent Government bonds on the completion of the work. As far as practicable the rolling stock and equipment of the whole line are to be purchased in Canada.

The Government is to give the company free of cost such lands as may be required for right of way, station grounds, etc., wherever it owns lands suitable for such purposes. The company shall build the section through the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific coast concurrently with the prairie section between Winnipeg and Edmonton. It must deposit within 60 days $5,000,000 in cash for securities, as a guarantee for the fulfilment of its covenants, under the contract. This money will be released at the final stage of construction between Winnipeg and the Pacific. The cost of the construction and equipment is estimated at $100,000,000.

Worthy of Canada.

Sir Wilfrid concluded as follows: Sir, it is therefore, with a firm heart that I offer this scheme to friend and foe. It is with a firm heart that I present it to the Canadian people. (Cheers.) But I am well aware that it shall not be received everywhere with the same feelings. I am well aware that it may scare the timid and frighten the irresolute; but, sir, I claim that the only one who has in his bosom a Canadian heart will welcome it as a scheme worthy of this young nation, for whom a heavy task has no terrors, and which young nation has the strength to face grave duties and grave responsibilities. (Cheers.) I beg to move, sir, seconded by Sir Richard Cartwright, for leave to introduce a bill to provide for the construction of a national transcontinental railway.

When Sir Wilfrid concluded the cheers of his enthusiastic followers were loud and long sustained.

Mr. Borden's Criticism.

Mr. Borden, although he did not declare himself as absolutely in favor of Government ownership of railways, considered it was not a wise policy for the Government, looking to the future, to embark upon a scheme that put that policy out of sight for the next 50 years. He doubted the efficiency of the agreement and asked for estimates.

Mr. Haggart said it was an absurdity to duplicate the Intercolonial from Quebec to Moncton, and he did not believe the maritime extension could be financed.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings, suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no medicine which gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of Kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

A PHYSICAL INJUNCTION.

Contractors' Men Armed With Pocket Artillery and Winchesters, and Redcoats Prevent Running of Road.

Frank, Alb., July 31.—A small detachment of Mounted Policemen are camped between the rails of the Frank and Grassy Mountain Railway, just above the town, to prevent the owners of the railway from running a train over it. Wednesday the contractors and a few men, armed plentifully with pocket artillery, an ugly looking Winchester and a shotgun, tore up two miles of the road and established a camp in the gap. They were reinforced yesterday morning by a half-dozen redcoats under Captain Davidson, and it is rumored more are on the way in from Calgary. The contractors entered suit to recover $21,000 last fall, and though the courts have not as yet reached a decision, the contractors have secured an injunction, hence the blockade.

About four o'clock the guests began to arrive and they enjoyed themselves in various ways till tea was ready, when ample justice was done to the good things provided. After tea, games were played, and as it grew dark singing resounded through the woods till "God save the King," and "Three cheers for Ohio" brought a very pleasant outing to a close.

New Pastor at Bethany Tabernacle.

Rev. A. E. Steuernagel, who has been supplying the pulpit at Bethany Tabernacle for the past few weeks, has accepted a unanimous call to become permanent pastor. Mr. Steuernagel was ordained to the Gospel ministry by the Moody church in Chicago, after completing his studies in the Ohio Wesleyan University and the Moody Bible Institute. Since then he has been labouring as pastor and evangelist in South Dakota, Milwaukee and Chicago. Because of some misunderstanding, he wishes to state that Bethany Tabernacle is not affiliated with any organization, but is wholly independent in character and government. The work will be largely evangelistic and will be conducted quite generally on the Moody Institute plan.

RE-ORGANIZATION OF PIANO COMPANY

Stanley-Martin Co. Prepared to Produce First Class Piano.

LATEST STYLES PRODUCED.

Mr. Owain Martin to Personally Supervise Construction—An Exhibit Being Prepared for Dominion Industrial Fair.

Piano manufacturers, in common with those in other branches, are experiencing an era of unexampled prosperity, and, it is most pleasing to note, that a local industry in this line has such good prospects, as a visit to their works gives evidence of. The reorganized Stanley-Martin Piano Company has a future, which, if present indications count for anything, is very bright.

Mr. Owain Martin, who is manager of the new company, and than whom there is no better in Canada, was for twenty years connected with the Nordheimer Piano and Music Company, of Toronto, and while with them superintended the construction of every style of piano which that company produced, and his experience gained during those twenty years has been used in the ideas embodied in the designing the new "Owain Martin" Piano, of which many are now being built in the factory here. Mr. Martin is responsible for the production of every new style of piano the firm with which he has been connected for the last twenty years, has brought out, and as he has succeeded in designing pianos which, both in point of beauty of tone, and of elegance of finish have been unsurpassed by any Canadian firm, he will, with the experience gained during these years, be in a position to produce a piano which will probably excel anything on the Canadian market. Mr. Stanley, the president of the new company, who has recently come from Toronto to attend to the business end of the company's operations here, stated to the Examiner that Mr. Martin's reputation as a piano maker is of such a character that already enough orders were in sight to keep the factory running to its full capacity, and if a contract which is now being considered, is accepted, a material enlargement of the factory will be necessary. Mr. Stanley was very optimistic in his belief in the future of the company, and he has every reason to be. Mr. Martin, who is a thoroughly practical piano builder, understanding every department of the construction work, will personally supervise the work, and will thus be in a position to see that his ideas with regard to richness of tone, and the quality of finish are embodied in the pianos constructed here. While with the Toronto firm his particular duty was to see that instruments were produced which were as near like the best imported makes as it was possible to make them, and, having studied the needs of the market fully, he has a very accurate idea of the style of piano the public will best appreciate. His ideal of this will be found in the new "Owain Martin" instrument. A complete new set of patterns had to be made for this piano, which has necessitated some delay, but within a few weeks the new piano will be on the market, and in the meantime the Stanley piano is being made and sold. The Examiner was shown work being prepared for the firm's exhibit at the Toronto Dominion Industrial Fair this year, and while it is but a sample of the work put into the regular pianos which will be turned out by this company, it is something unique in the history of piano manufacture in Canada. The Colonial style of design predominates, and some very fine hand-carved work was shown, including original panel designs and Colonial trusses. The Stanley-Martin Company is one of sixteen piano manufacturing concerns in Canada which will have exhibits, and a section of the new building has been reserved for them, and upon it the manufacturers are spending $14,000 in decorations, etc., and judging by the quality of work being put into the Martin Piano, it will take no insignificant place in the list when honours are given.

A new system of electric power has been installed in the factory here, which has proven to be of a very considerable advantage to the operation of the works, and to the fact that cheap electric power was available here, is due perhaps to a greater degree than is generally known, the presence of the works here. At the time of the reorganization of the company, a strong effort was made to induce it to remove to another city, but Mr. Martin and Mr. Stanley decided that the advantage of being able to procure cheap and efficient power was sufficient to make them remain here. This question of power is one which Mr. Stanley considers of the utmost importance to the town. He declares that the business men of the town do not fully appreciate the great value to the town of the existence of power in such quantities and at such a low price. "I believe," said Mr. Stanley, "that if the business men fully realized the possibilities of the town the population would be doubled in 10 years." Mr. Stanley along with all other manufacturers state that the company has trouble to secure competent workmen, and even should they be secured there are so few vacant houses in town that it is almost impossible to induce workmen to move here because of the difficulty in procuring houses. This is a matter which comes legitimately within the scope of the work of the Board of Trade, and is something which should engage the attention of that body as the great scarcity of dwelling houses is proving a serious menace to the manufactories in town.

Mr. Martin is bringing some first-class men from Toronto, men who have worked under him there and are familiar with the styles which the company proposes to produce here. A large quantity of material is on hand at present, and they are now waiting for the castings which are being procured in Guelph. These being necessarily of a new design, it has required considerable time to procure them, but Mr. Stanley makes the statement that a car load of the new "Owain Martin" pianos will be shipped to the Toronto Exhibition, and in point of excellence they will surprise even those who are expecting something of an extraordinary character.

Mr. Martin is at present in Montreal acting as judge in the Seawanhaka Cup Yacht races, but will probably return about the end of the week. As an evidence of the fact that the trade has confidence in Mr. Martin's ability to produce a piano that will suit the musical public, there are now numerous requests for the privilege of acting as representatives of the company in the different cities.

POLICE COURT

Two Boys Will Probably not tie a Rope Across the Sidewalk Again.

At the Police Court this morning two boys were arraigned on the charge of obstructing passengers on the Reid street sidewalk by tying a rope across. They both pleaded guilty.

"I think you know that what you did was wrong. You are old enough to know better," remarked the Police Magistrate, as he fined the two $5 to be paid in one week.

"Michael Dunn you are charged with vagrancy."

"Eh!" queried Mike, an old bearded man, apparently somewhat deaf.

"Vagrancy," repeated Mr. Dumble, 'no home, no work and no money. What do you say in answer to the charge?"

"I have been suffering from consumption for over a year—for 14 months."

The Chief related some of the previous history of the man, which went to show that prisoner took whiskey for medicine. However, Mike said he did not drink, but was so sick the other day that he took a little beer. It is to be hoped that after his stay of 6 months in gaol, his slow form of consumption may not exist.

The Court then adjourned.

A new Plumbing and Heating House will open at 434 George street about the 15th of August. Communications addressed to Fred Butters, Peterborough, will receive immediate attention. 6d

Great Lacrosse Game To-night—Latest Baseball and Other Sporting News.

LACROSSE.

All doctors are advised not to make any appointments for this evening from 7 to 8, as during that hour their services will probably be required at the T.A.S. grounds. The "Terriers" and 'Never Flinches" captained by Messrs. W. O'Brien and F. R. J. McPherson, respectively, will play a game of lacrosse to-night, commencing at 6.45 sharp, and it will be an event worth witnessing. The full ambulance corps of the 57th Regiment has been asked to be in attendance. Mr. R. M. Glover will act as referee, and a special invitation is tendered to the ladies to witness the game, which will be a fast one, in fact it will be so fast that four time-keepers will be required.

• • • •

The star lacrosse players on Hunter street intend to challenge the winners in to-night's game between the "Terriers" and "Never Flinches" to a game to be played in the near future.

A hard fought battle was played this afternoon between the "Little Petes" and "Little Victors," a couple of exceedingly lively young aggregations, resulting in a victory for the "Petes" in a score of 9—4.

The best game of the season will be played on Monday afternoon on the T.A.S. grounds between the Wellesleys of Toronto and the Auburn team. The Auburns are in good shape and are practicing every night.

• • • •

FOOTBALL.

The following letter from Dr. Keith, the associate of Dr. Morgan, on the executive committee of the Midland Football League, finally disposes of the matter of the winner of the Stratton Cup:

"It was a very regretable incident that wound up the season's football, and I am sure that every right-thinking person in justice to Peterborough could do nothing else than award them the cup, and apart from that they are a superior class of players, and a gentlemanly lot, so you have my concurrence in awarding them the cup. Your suggestion as to a final meet of the executive is a good one and I would try to be on hand; also the idea of getting up a sudden death series."

The proposal to hold a series of games during the fall seems to be a good one and on this question Dr. Morgan has the following letter:

"My suggestion re series of sudden death games to be played during the fall is: That a meeting of the executive be called to settle up the affair of the past series, and to arrange for a series to be played during the fall season similar to those of the spring, except that instead of home and home games sudden death games be played; that each club wishing to enter a series send a representative to the above meeting and take part in the arrangements; that each club wishing to enter notify me—in the absence of Mr. Ayers, secretary-treasurer, at once of their wishes, and also of any arrangements re time of beginning series, etc., they suggest so that a suitable meeting may be arranged for. Let all clubs wishing to play a few football matches this fall drop a card so that they may get a place without any delay."

St. Andrew's—Messrs. Jos. Wright, Jos. Saunders, Frank Sollitt, Geo. Rathgate and Jas. Evans.

The referee was Mr. Prentice and the decision was given to St. Andrew's, winning in two straight pulls.

OUR FREIGHT CARS.

Evolution Is at Work Perfecting Them Just as With Other Things.

The many improvements in freight-car construction in late years have mainly tended to increase the carrying capacity or, rather, the carrying capacity has been arbitrarily increased, and the details of its construction necessarily strengthened or redesigned to meet the more severe conditions of service brought about by the heavy car and the long trains now hauled. About six years ago the first cars of 100,000 pounds capacity were put out in regular service, and since that time they have proved their economy over the smaller car. On many roads the tendency is to bring all of their equipment up to something like this capacity. This increase of capacity, first from 40,000 to 60,000 podnds, and then to 80,000 and 90,000, and finally to the 100,000 pound car, has been made both for economical reasons and because of the demands of the traffic department. Shippers have insisted on consigning their goods in large lots, and the traffic department, in order to retain the trade, has, in turn, demanded cars big enough and strong enough to carry the increased loads.

The tremendous increase in traffic within late years over the coal and ore carrying roads to and from the iron districts has brought about an effort to decrease the cost of transportation to the lowest possible figure, and car-loads and train-loads have been increased, until now the carrying capacity of the cars is severely taxed. The cars made up in the train are computed as closely as possible to the load which the engine can just start. The high capacity car is giving satisfactory service wherever used, and the tendency seems to be to use it in every class of service to the exclusion of smaller capacity cars which cannot carry the same revenue load.

Wooden bolsters, both body and truck, have almost entirely disappeared, and built-up iron or steel, or one-piece cast steel bolsters have taken their place. Many patented types, using structural shapes, either trussed or not, have been put upon the market, and the variety in cast steel designs is equally great. The pressed steel bolster has not been altogether a success because much trouble has been experienced by their sagging down at the centre plate and causing the side bearings to carry the load.

The limit of capacity has been reached for the present with the 100,000 pound car. Before it can be increased to any amount above that figure, most of the details of car construction must be radically changed from present practice. The same type of draft gear, of wheels and trucks, of bearings and under-frames, as used under the 80,000 pound car, strengthened from time to time to stand the additional burdens put upon them as the capacity has been gradually increased, cannot be made to serve under cars carrying four or five times that load. Future progress in car construction will be along the lines of perfecting the detail parts so that each is as strong as the rest, and the combination of the whole equal to any demand for higher capacities within the limits of economical operation in trains.

A Wise French Method.

In every rural commune in France boards are put up bearing the following instructions:

"Hedgehogs live upon mice, snails and wireworms, animals injurious to agriculture; don't kill a hedgehog. Toads help agriculture. Each one destroys twenty to thirty insects hourly; don't kill toads. Moles destroy wireworms, larvae and insects injurious to the farmer; no trace of vegetables is found in stomachs; do more good than harm; don't kill moles. France loses yearly many millions of francs by the injury done by insects; birds are the only enemies capable of battling with them vigorously; they are great helps to farmers. Children don't take birds' nests."

Horses in the Northwest.

Reports indicate the sale of many good stallions in the Canadian northwest the past few months. A comment from there runs to the effect that the people know a good horse when they see one, and a high average order of merit is visible in those taken this spring. Expectations are that it is due time the part of the great wheat growing country named will be able to sell annually a large number of heavy draft horses to Ontario and for export.

NO MORE
Premium Tickets
After August 1st.

During the past four weeks a notice has appeared at the top of our advertisements announcing that no more Premiums will be given after August 1st. In order to save all misunderstandings with our customers and the public, we give special prominence to day to this announcement.

No More Premium Tickets
will be given at Gough Bros.' Stores after August 1st.

The day has gone by in Gough's experience when premiums are needed as trade-pullers. We have grown past the "nursery" stage of business. Our Clothing and successful methods can stand on their own merits.

GOUGH NEEDS NO "PULL"

Besides the suspicion is growing stronger every day that Premium-giving means higher prices for Clothing, and that the customer pays too dear for his whistle. High-priced Clothiers may be able to continue for a while longer to give premiums, but Gough's prefer to be able to quote lowest prices without premiums. Best values always, yesterday, to-day and to-morrow.

We will redeem every ticket presented for the amount of purchases shown. Customers who want to fill their tickets, should hurry and do so before August 1st.

KING'S MOTOR TOUR.

Through the Most Picturesque Parts of Ireland.

CLEMENCY TO A PRISONER.

Galway is Full of Enthusiasm For Their Majesties—The King Was Pleased With the Spirit of Industrial Activity and the Hearty Welcome Which He and the Queen Would Long Remember.

Galway, Ireland, July 31—King Edward and Queen Alexandra continued by motor yesterday their inspection of some of the wildest and most picturesque regions of Ireland. The start was made at 9 a.m from the little town of Leenane, on the shore of Killarney Bay, where they were presented with an address. The King said he had already inspected some of the cottage industries and that he was pleased with the spirit of industrial activity and warm hearty welcome of the people, which he and the Queen both would long remember.

The motor journey ended at Recess, where the party had luncheon.

Their Majesties then took a train for Galway and arrived here late in the afternoon. They met with an enthusiastic reception.

The King was presented with addresses by the District Council and other bodies, to which he replied briefly. Their Majesties then boarded the Royal yacht, which was lying in Galway Bay. To-day they will take a train for Kenmare, near which place they will be the guests of Lord Lansdowne at his country seat "Derreen," County of Kerry.

At Recess, where Their Majesties stopped for luncheon, an extraordinary incident occurred. A poor old woman approached the Queen with a petition for the remission of the remainder of a sentence of six months passed upon her husband. Inquiries proved that the man's character justified clemency and the Queen, with the King's permission, remitted the sentence on the spot. The surrounding crowd, learning what had occurred, cheered wildly.

EIGHT YEARS OF MISERY.

What Maurice Best Might Have Avoided if he had Started to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Right at the Start

Maurice Best, of Southern Harbour, Newfoundland, suffered torture for eight years simply because he would not believe that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets would cure him. He says:

"In 1892 I was attacked with Dyspepsia. I was in continual misery for eight years. Sometimes I would go off in a faint and for ten minutes I would be more dead than alive. The doctors could not cure me and gave me but little help."

Then it occurred to Mr. Best that it would not hurt him to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. He did so and this is what he says of the result:

"The first two boxes I used gave me new life. I kept on using them and was soon a new man. I cannot say enough in their favour."

Why don't you try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets?

MEETING OF THE CONCLAVE.

The Program For the Election of a Successor to Pope Leo.

Rome, July 31.—The Vatican yesterday was the scene of great activity. Within the last preparations were being made for the conclave. In the Sistine chapel work will go on throughout the night. No one candidate stands out prominently as did Count Pecci in the conclave in 1877.

The program for to-day will consist of the mass to the Holy Ghost in the morning, together with an oration. The cardinals will enter the conclave at five o'clock in the afternoon. Each of the cardinals yesterday received a medal struck by the Camerlengo. Cardinals were named to visit the precincts of the conclave for the purpose of making sure that there will be no possibility of communication with the outside world. They are to make their report to the congregation to-day.

Rome.—The last tribute was paid to the late Pope Leo at the third great requiem mass celebrated in the Sistine Chapel of the Vatican, Thursday morning. There were sixty-one cardinals present, a number unprecedented in the case of former masses.

A TEMISKAMING DROWNING.

Fatal Accident to One of the Crown Surveying Parties.

Toronto, July 31.—A report has reached the Crown Lands Department from George A, McCribbon of St. Thomas, who has been in charge of a surveying party in the Quebec portion of the North Temiskaming, which tells of an accident on Saturday, by which one man was drowned and two narrowly escaped a similar fate. While preparing to portage two canoes were upset and the occupants thrown into the swiftly running current. Joseph Leclaire of Nottawa went down never to rise again. Mr. Peterson of Haileyburg and Rockcliffe Linton of Aurora were pulled out of the river about a hundred feet above a water fall.

The drowned man leaves a wife and eleven children. With Mr. McCribbons' party were three students of Toronto University: Arch. Gillies and Ardagh Gilbert of St. Thomas, and R. C. Ross, Welland.

HARVEST IN N. W. T.

Total Wheat Yield Is Fifteen Million Bushels, Oats Eleven Millions, Barley One Million.

Winnipeg, Man., July 30. — The wheat crop in the Northwest Territories, and indeed all the other cereals there, is estimated to be in good condition, and to be the largest in the history of the country. The Territorial Department of Agriculture has issued Bulletin No. 8, conditions being brought down to date, July 15. The report covers the sixteen districts into which the agricultural belt is divided by the department.

The total wheat crop is estimated at 15,042,000 bushels. Last year's was 13,956,850, and the next previous 12,808,447. Before that the crop was inconsiderable. The total wheat acreage is 727,998, that of the next previous years being 625,757, and 504,697 respectively. The yield is lighter than last year, but still a good one. The Calgary district is reported as having had perfect conditions all alohg, and another district is ten days earlier.

The oats acreage is 865,719; the next largest being last year's, 310,-307. The crop is estimated at 11,-803,000, the best yet; the next largest, that of 1901, being 11,113,066.

The barley figures are: Acreage, 42,445; last year, 36,445. Crop, estimated, 1,116,300; last year, 870,-417.

Flax as well is the best yet, and, indeed, shows the best of any of the other territorial crops. The acreage is 27,599, against 17,067 last year. The estimated crop is 284,500 bushels, against 258,185 bushels last year.

WHAT THREATS DID.

Twenty Years' Bounty Fight Described by Mr. Chamberlain.

THE SUGAR CONVENTION BILL.

Colonial Secretary Makes an Allusion to the Impending "Great Economic Fight," and Says "It Behoves Everybody to Keep Cool and Not Turn It Into a Personal Fight"— Lord Milner's Labor Report.

London, July 30:—The House of Commons passed the Sugar Convention Bill to its second reading by a vote of 224 to 144.

In the course of the debate on the bill Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in defending it said: "For twenty years we have been trying to secure the voluntary abandonment of bounties. It is only when we changed our policy and suggested retaliation that we secured the abandonment of bounties. It was the object for which we had struggled so long and so escaped a condition of things under which Germany and Austria would be able to regulate the price of sugar in Great Britain."

Mr. Chamberlain did not touch directly the fiscal question, but incidentally remarked: "We are on the eve of a great economic fight and it behooves everybody to keep cool as long as possible and not turn an economic into a personal fight."

Correspondence Made Public.

London, July 30.—The Parliamentary correspondence on the South African labor question was issued yesterday. Lord Milner, High Commissioner for South Africa, telegraphed Colonial Secretary Chamberlain May 12, 1903, urging the employment of 10,000 Indian coolies for work on the railways, the coolies to be forcibly repatriated at the end of their service. Secretary Chamberlain replied May 28, generally approving of Lord Milner's suggestion, but stipulating for the assent of the whole white population in South Africa.

Bodies Not Yet Found.

Sarnia, July 30.—The submarine diver and many men with grappling hooks were engaged all day yesterday in the search for the bodies of Mrs. Gilbert Taylor and the Thompson child, who were drowned Wednesday afternoon in the St. Clair, but no trace has been found of the victims. The search revealed the treacherous nature of the stream where Mrs. Taylor perished, as the bank was found to drop sheer twenty feet within ten or fifteen feet from the beach.

Leader Captured, Three Killed.

Havana, July 30.—The efforts of a quartette of wild characters to cause an uprising in the vicinity of Bayamo, Province of Santiago, have ended in the capture of their leader and the killing of the other three men.

For weeks the four men had been endeavoring to excite the people to treason and violence on the ground that the revolutionary forces had not been and were not likely to be paid.

This effectually ends the only semblance of an uprising in Cuba.

Hawaii Wants to Be Free.

Honolulu, July 30.—At yesterday's session of the Home Rule Convention, ex-Delegate Wilcox urged that Congress be memorialized to grant Hawaiian independence. He also advocated a Government like that of Cuba. His proposals were indorsed freely, and a petition embodying the views he expressed will undoubtedly be prepared for presentation to Congress by Delegate Kalanianole.

Incendiary Was Shot.

Idaho Springs, Colo., July 30.—An explosion at the Sun and Moon mine wrecked the transformer-house and set fire to the oil in the transformers. The watchman in the mine fired at two men running away from the transformer building and later a wounded man was found lying nearby. He has been identified as Philip Fire, a member of the Miners' Union.

A Sudden Twinge

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous substances which are the cause of the disease. It not only purifies the blood but by increasing the activity of the blood-making glands, it increases the supply of pure, rich blood which adds to the vigor of every physical organ.

Mr. R. A. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C., writes: "I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

THE ROYAL TOUR.

Bonfires Burn and Demonstrations For the King Everywhere Visible.

Dublin, July 30.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Edward and Queen Alexandra aboard, which left Buncrena, on the north coast, Wednesday, arrived at Killarney Bay, on the west coast, yesterday. Their Majesties were accompanied by the Earl of Dudley, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Despite the inclement weather, they landed on the Mayo side of the bay and afterwards proceeded in a motor car through this picturesque part of Ireland, inspecting many of the laborer's cottages on the way.

Last night the warships in the bay were illuminated and bonfires are burning in the surrounding hills.

Queen Alexandra has given the Earl of Dudley $2,500 for distribution among the poorest people of Dublin and other parts of Ireland.

Hungarian Deputy Bribed.

Budapest, Hungary, July 30.—Deputy Zolman Papp caused a sensation in the Lower House of the Diet yesterday by spreading on the table 10,000 kronen in cash, which he declared had been tendered him as a bribe to desert his fellow obstructionists and leave Budapest. A parliamentary committee was appointed to investigate the matter. There were stormy scenes in the Diet when the Premier, Count Hedervary, rose to commence the debate on the indemnity bill.

Wholesale Scheme of Fraud.

St. Louis, July 30.—Henry A. Bradford was arrested here yesterday by postoffice inspectors on the charge that he was using the mails to sell fraudulent land title. Postoffice Inspector Dice said the investigation has led to the arrest of 13 other men on similar charges in different parts of the country.

Carpet Mills Close Down.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The Dobson carpet mills were closed down last night, as a result of the refusal of the loom fixers to return to work. About 900 persons are thrown out of work by the shut down.

Fatal Earth Cave-in.

Aylmer, July 30.—A very sad and fatal accident happened about noon yesterday to Alfred Moore, of Corinth. While digging with a gang of men in a ditch back of Andrew Murray's place, the earth suddenly caved in on him, killing him instantly.

No Trace of Bodies.

Beaumaris, July 30.—There is still no trace of the three young men, Hosack, McLard and McCaughan, of Pittsburg, Pa., who are supposed to have been drowned by the capsizing of a canoe between here and Gravenhurst on Sunday.

Died From Heart Failure.

Ingersoll, July 30.—Jas. Skeggs died very suddenly before 6 o'clock Wednesday night from heart failure. He was about 70 years of age and had been a resident of Ingersoll for over 35 years.

Many Dangers.

Drink water and get typhoid. Drink milk and get tuberculosis. Drink whiskey and get the jimjams. Eat soup and get Bright's disease. Eat meat and encourage apoplexy. Eat oysters and acquire taxemia. Eat vegetables and weaken the system. Eat dessert and take to paresis. Smoke cigarettes and die early. Drink coffee and obtain nervous prostration. Drink wine and get the gout. In order to be entirely healthy one must eat nothing, drink nothing, smoke nothing, and even before breathing one should see that the air is properly sterilized.

IN PICNIC TIME.

WHEN days are long
And heat grows strong
We catch the picnic fever,
And plans we lay
To spend a day
Where joy is care's reliever.

By train or boat
We rush or float
To some far destination
And feast our eyes
In glad surprise
On miles of vegetation.

The picnic ground
At last is found.
Then with the grub we're trudging
To distant tree
We chanced to see—
A mile, at least, we're judging.

But brief is rest,
For there's request
From bulky maid or matron
Who wants to swing,
And suffering
That means for pushing patron.

When tuckered out
By such a bout
A stroll succeeds the swinging;
A hornets' nest
Wins interest,
And then, gee whiz, such stinging!

When dinner's spread
A cloud o'erhead
Lets loose, and fierce is wetting
That young and old
And meek and bold
With promptness then are getting.

Still other woes
Swoop down on those
Who catch the picnic fever
Till in dismay
They sadly say
That hope's a base deceiver.

—Theodore H. Boice in Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Green Onion.

Table Talk tells of some good things to do with green onions:

Stewed Green Onions.—Peel and trim the onions, leaving them about six inches long. Tie in bunches of six or eight. Drop into a saucepan containing just sufficient boiling salted water to cover them and cook slowly until tender. Thicken the liquid with flour smoothly dissolved in cold water, season with pepper and more salt if necessary; simmer for five minutes longer, add one tablespoonful of butter and serve on toast.

Green Onions In Cream.—Prepare and boil the onions as in the preceding recipe. Make a sauce with one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoonful of white pepper and one cupful of milk Drain the onions, add the sauce and simmer for five minutes.

Green Onions au Gratin.—Boil the onions and prepare a sauce as in the preceding recipe. In a greased baking dish arrange alternate layers of onions and sauce. With two-thirds of a cupful of fine dry bread crumbs mix one teaspoonful of melted butter and a dash of salt, spread over the top and place in a hot oven until well browned.

Raw Green Onions.—Trim off the roots and the outer leaf from each. Let stand in ice or cold water until crisp and serve in the same way as radishes.

Toronto, July 31st.—The sellers of Atchison were bought up with a round turn and covering together with manipulation upward caused by selling out loans. There are a number of loans hanging over the market waiting for a time when they can be liquidated at such prices that the lenders can get out whole. It is said Keene's S. Pacific is being worked off at the present time. The crop news is good and breaking of the drought in the corn belt should have stipulated the whole market but the rally was feeble. Rock Island is going to issue 250 million bonds for refunding and extensions. Morgan has called for more cash from the underwriters. Sell market on all rallies.

Scotland's Great Canal.

As was recently stated in a cable dispatch, the plans for the construction of a ship canal between the Firth of Forth, on the east of Scotland, across to the River Clyde, on the west, have been definitely arranged. The canal will cost $50,000,000, but powerful support is expected from the British Government. One of the great engineering features of the scheme will be the carrying of the canal through the high ground near the Loch Lomond end. Frequent passing places will be made.

An indication of the saving in distance that would be effected by the canal will be gained from the following figures: From the Clyde to ports on the east coast of Scotland, northeast of England, and northwest of Europe the distance saved would be from 529 miles to 238 miles. From the Firth of Forth to ports on the west coast of Scotland, northwest of England, Ireland, America, and the Mediterranean the distance saved would be from 487 to 141 miles. From Tyne ports to the St. Lawrence River the distance saved would be 150 miles. From the west of Britain and northeast of Ireland to middle western ports of the Continent the distance saved would be from 377 to 98 miles.

THE CHILD MIND.

Play and Its Significance—Prof. Murray, of Halifax, Lectures.

At the recent Presbyterian Summer School at Knox College, Toronto, Prof. Murray of Halifax delivered an address on "Child Mind and Teaching." He pointed out that the human being had certain instincts, but not the special instincts that he requires to meet civilized conditions. The aim of the teacher should be to enlarge the religious knowledge of the child, to utilize his instincts to interest him in religious things. It had been charged against such story writers as Seton-Thompson and Long that in dealing with animals they read too much of the man into their observations. What the teacher must avoid was reading too much of the adult into the child.

Prof. Murray entered into a long discourse with racy illustrations on the play of children. Spencer, he pointed out, had held child's play to be merely imitation of their elders. This was not the whole truth; little girls and little boys sought wholly different amusements; the real definition of play was that it was the expression of instincts. Many of those who had recently attended the General Assembly at Vancouver had visited Chinatown, and at least five different men had pointed out to him that Chinese children play just as Caucasian little ones do. But the customs of Chinese adults were entirely different from our own. Accepting the traditional view of the various periods in the life of the young, he pointed out that the first period was spent in acquiring sensations, or knowledge of the capabilities of the senses, touch, taste and so on. The second period was spent in competitive sports. Tag, hop-scotch and the like were but tests of growing strength. Then, with adolescence of the social faculty.

Following up his subject, Prof. Murray showed that the ordinary human being acquired his knowledge of any object or subject, first by a general impression and then by a grasp of the ideals, taking the very apt illustration of how one recognizes a friend approaching from the distance. The general deduction he drew was that the teacher should avoid burdening a child's mind with detail. Knowledge commenced with the vague and ended with the definite. The teacher should pick out the salient features of his theme and appeal to the child through his imagination.

The Battle of Ticonderoga.

On the 8th of July, 1758, was fought the battle of Ticonderoga, by which a small force of Canadian volunteers, a few Indians and a small number of French soldiers under Montcalm defeated an army of British and American troops, far superior in numbers and discipline, commanded by Abercrombie. Montcalm, who was born in France, had been in the French service from the time he was fourteen years of age and had served his apprenticeship with the French army in Italy and Germany. In 1750 he was sent to take command of the French troops in Canada. France and England were at war at the time. Soon after his arrival he captured Fort Ontario, at Oswego. With his small army of 3,600 Canadians he had suffered from lack of provisions, but by taking Fort William Henry, at the head of Lake George, he not only caused the garrison of 2,500 men to surrender, but he became possessed of 42 guns and large stores of ammunition and provisions. Word was received that Abercrombie was marching north with an immense army to invade Canada, and Montcalm intrenched himself at Fort Carillon (Ticonderoga) to await his coming. When the two forces met a fierce battle took place, which, however, lasted only four hours. At the end of that time the small Canadian force made the enemy, numbering 15,000, retreat in disorder.

Fish Journey Overland.

The two officers of the Provincial Fisheries Department, Mr. W. W. Ellis and Mr. W. R. Wood, who conducted the recent shipment of 400 parent bass to Rat Portage, where they were deposited in the vicinity of Lake of the Woods, have returned to Toronto. They report that the fish safely withstood the journey of 1,500 miles from their Lake Erie home to the land, or rather the water, of their adoption. The citizens of Rat Portage were delighted with the prospect of better fishing which this gave promise of, and tendered the visitors the freedom of the town. Mr. Ellis reports that the trout fishing on the Nepigon River, by which he passed on the way home, is said to be excellent this year. A Chicagoan who had been there every year for fifteen years, said he never saw it so good.

The Canada Fish Company, who have a fishing lease for Lake Nepigon, are expending large sums of money in the erection of buildings, etc., but have done little fishing as yet.

A carload of bass has also been deposited in the lakes in the County of Renfrew. They were conducted to Scotia Junction over the Grand Trunk and thence east over the Canada Atlantic.

A report has reached the Fisheries Department that several sea salmon had recently been caught by Mr. Charles Nurse in his nets at the Humber.

Sawdust and Fish Life.

"Sawdust and Fish Life" is the title of a brochure recently issued. A reprint from the Transactions of the Canadian Institute, it is the record of a series of experiments made by Professor A. P. Knight, of Queen's University. An ancient feud subsists between the angler and the sawmill owners, and Professor Knight's investigations will be watched with great interest by the parties thereto. His conclusions go to show that there are two sides to the question, and also that there is need of further investigation. Undoubtedly, strong solutions of sawdust are deadly to fish life. But the weakest of the solutions which he used was thirty or forty times as strong in sawdust extracts as the water immediately below a specimen mill on the Bonnechere River, and in this water chub and brook trout were found. "No stream," he says, "can be pronounced off hand as poisoned by sawdust. Each stream must be studied by itself, and the varying conditions must be thoroughly understood before a judgment can be pronounced. The chief things to be considered are (1) the quantity of sawdust, and (2) the volume of water into which the sawdust is discharged. Subordinate conditions are the rapidity or sluggishness of the stream, the amount of sunlight or shade, and the character of the water, whether from agricultural lands or from primitive forests.

"What Is the Press?"

The Levis Quotidien has discovered the answer to the question, "What is the Press?" As it is calculated to give a new sense of dignity and superiority to even the junior reporter, we reproduce it herewith, somewhat damaged in translation, says The Toronto News: "The Press is one or more men who pass their lives, like hermits, in a solitary chamber, thinking and writing in the interests of the fellows, who, more fortunate than themselves, are frequenting concerts, theatres and so on in the sole intent of procuring their own delight. The journalist, too, goes to the theatre, to the concert, the circus, the public festival; but he goes in a frame of mind quite different from that of the ordinary spectator. He goes in duty bound, to see that which is reprehensible, is evil, is calculated in a word to compromise the honor, the dignity, the morality of man. He takes his notes and returns to the office, not to surrender to delicious reflection on the beauty his eyes have seen and the charm his ears have heard, but to set forth and put down on paper what there has been of good and of evil, to the end of warning and instructing the public, of keeping it so far as may be in the right way. In one word, he preaches in his newspaper a lay sermon."

Canada Outstrips the States.

Most of us to the southward of the border have been so occupied with our own individual and national affairs that we have failed to note what has been done by our Canadian neighbors, says the New York Sun. In energy the Canadians are now our rivals; in achievement they have perhaps outstripped us. If the foreign commerce of the United States, per capita of total population, corresponded with that of Canada, our exports and imports would aggregate six billions of dollars per year instead of their present two and one-fourth billions. In other words, the total foreign commerce of the United States approximates $30 per capita, whereas that of Canada approximates $80. Her railway activity, in its proportion to population, within recent years has outstripped our own. Vast areas which a few years ago were known only to Indians and trappers are now covered with towns, villages and thrifty farms. A generation has seen her railway mileage and her freight traffic multiplied by twenty and her railway equipment and her passenger traffic multiplied by ten.

MANSLAUGHTER.

Death of Hull Man Led to a Double Arrest After Inquiry.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Mitchell Emery and Moise Emery, two young men of Tetreauville, Hull, were arrested yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. On March 24th last they assaulted a man named Charles Guilamette, who died eight hours after of cerebral hemorrhage. The matter was not brought to light until about a week ago when High Constable Groulx was serving a warrant for petty larceny upon the son of the late Charles Guilamette. At that time the widow of the deceased told the constable that he was in a greater hurry to arrest the boy than to arrest those who had killed her husband. The remark led to an investigation and the subsequent arrest of the parties.

ROYAL IRISH TOUR.

King and Queen in Dilapadated, Damp and Grimy Landau.

"JARVEY" OF USUAL CLASS.

The Two Jaded Horses Assisted by Willing Peasants, Who Pushed the Royal Carriage Up Hills, and Impeded It Down-Hill by a Rope to the Axle — Visited Lansdowne.

Galway, Ireland, July 31.—King Edward, Queen Alexandria and their party arrived at Kenmare from Galway at 3 p.m. Their Majesties visited the residence of Lord Lansdowne, the Foreign Secretary, where they were entertained by His Lordship. The King and Queen afterwards proceeded to Berhaven and embarked on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, bound for Queenstown.

Peasants Pushed Royal Carriage.

Galway, Ireland, July 31.—For the visit of King Edward and the Queen to the famous Connemara marble quarries, near Recess, yesterday, the local authorities provided a dilapidated, dump, grimy landau with two jaded horses and a "Jarvey" of the usual class.

It was doubted whether Their Majesties would enter such an equipage, but to the delight of the crowd of peasants and barefooted women with red petticoats, who lined the steep, muddy hill, the King, smiling at the singularity of the vehicle, entered it without hesitation, the Queen, the Princess and the Earl of Dudley following him. The "Jarvey" was somewhat nervous, and the King asked a member of his suite to take the box beside him. In a similar vehicle were Lady Dudley and other ladies of the Queen's suite. An escort of Connemara cavalry completed the procession.

Progress was slow on account of the mud, but going up hill there were always a dozen peasants who sprang to the back of the landau to help push, the Queen smiling encouragement. At the quarries mementos were presented to Their Majesties, and returning down hill the progress of the equipage was checked by two ropes attached to the axle to which a score of men were holding and acting as a brake.

Thruout the utmost good humor prevailed, the peasants pressing closely around the royal party without restraint.

CAUGHT IN UNDERTOW.

Three Brothers, Named Wilson, Meet Death in Muskoka Waters.

Ogdensburg, Aug. 1.—Word has just reached here from Beaumaris that a drowning accident occurred on the Bonnechere River between Round and Clear Lakes, by which three members of a family named Wilson perished. The victims were brothers. While engaged in gathering floatwood one swam out toward a log when his progress was arrested. Another went to his rescue. He, too, seemed to be caught in some mysterious undertow. The third brother was hastening to the rescue when the bank gave way and he was carried over a chute. A fourth brother, a boy of twelve, started to wade to the rescue, but fearing he could do nothing, turned about and ran for his father, who had gone to a neighbor's for a boat to help gather the driftwood.

The father was within a short distance of the two older sons when they went down for the last time. Neighbors recovered the bodies. An under-current of an eddy is supposed to have caught the two older sons.

CASCADDEN MAY DIE.

Two St. Thomas Boys May Be Charged With Manslaughter.

St. Thomas, Aug. 1.—George Orr and Frank Clark, both 18 years of age were arrested yesterday morning on a warrant charging them with assault and doing grievous bodily harm, a charge which will likely be changed to manslaughter, as the man they assaulted, Benjamin F. Cascadden, M.C.R. switchman, it is said by the attending physicians, cannot recover. The assault took place last Friday night and the victim has since been in an unconscious condition and is growing worse. It is charged that he was knocked down and kicked in the head by the youths under arrest. Cascadden is a married man and has a family. The accused were remanded till next Tuesday.

CONFESSED THE BRIBERY.

Count Ezapary Asked For Pardon and Exonerated the Premier.

Buda Pest, Hungary, Aug. 1.—At a meeting of the independent party yesterday Francis Kozuth was reelected President.

The bribery commission, assembled last evening and after Deputy Papp, who charged that ex-Deputy Dienes had attempted to bribe him with 10,000 kronen to desert the Obstructionist party and leave Buda Pest, had given his evidence, Count Ezapary confessed that he was the author of the whole affair. He exonerated Premier Dedeany and asked pardon for his act.

Ottawa, Aug. 1. The Government has been notified that Hon. Edward Blake is seriously ill in London. House of Commons Passes Over a Million Dollars.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

The Private Bill in Connection Therewith to Come Up on Monday For Discussion—The Binder Twine Question—Motion Made to Strike Out Mr. Haycock's Salary Was Unsuccessful.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—In both appearance and in business the House yesterday presented a complete contrast to the brilliancy of Thursday. The galleries were empty and the quorum of members was barely maintained. As is usually the case under such circumstances much business was done, and when the House rose at 11.30 p. m. considerably over a million dollars had been voted. A motion to strike out the salary of Mr. Joseph Haycock, inspector of binder twine, was discussed at great length, and with much good-natured banter, but the item stands. The Grand Trunk Trunk Pacific private bill will likely be taken up on Monday.

In the afternoon Hon. Mr. Sifton brought down a return of persons who have been naturalized in the northwest during the past ten years. The return was a most formidable looking volume, about six inches in thickness, which taxed the strength of the diminutive page who undertook to lay it on the table of the House.

In the evening the following bills were passed through the final stages: Respecting the St. Chrysostome Railway Company.—Mr. Brown.

To incorporate the Southern Central Pacific Railway Company.—Mr. Riley.

To confer on the Commissioner of Patents certain powers for the relief of the Kelhar Heater Company of Canada, Limited.—Mr. McIsaac.

Notice of Condemnation.

Ottawa, July 31.—(Special.)—Senator Macdonald has given notice of a motion categorically condemning the Grand Trunk Pacific policy of the government and regretting that the practice was prevailing of bringing down important business in the last days of parliament, when there was not sufficient time to discuss them.

The motion also endorsed the action of Hon. A. G. Blair in resigning his portfolio rather than be party to a scheme of which he did not approve.

Manitoba Schools Delegation.

Ottawa, July 31.—The Manitoba Separate School delegates, Messrs. F. W. Russel and T. D. Deegin, had an interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick, Minister of Justice, to-day. They were courteously received, and represented their views to the Minister, and it was arranged that they should have another interview on Tuesday, when a written memorial of the objects they desire will be presented.

THE BRIDGE COLLAPSED.

Over 100 Dropped Into the Water—Three Were Drowned.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 1.—A section of the bridge which spans the Willamette River here collapsed yesterday afternoon, precipitating more than one hundred people forty feet into the water. Three people are known to have been drowned, and it is feared that the list of dead will be much larger. Many fell on two small boat-houses, moored to a pier of the bridge, immediately under the spot where it gave way. About 25 were injured. The known dead: Minnie Raymond, aged 10, Lottie Cameron, aged 16. Unidentified boy, aged 15. The crowd had gathered to watch Clarence Lutz, an armless man, swim the river.

Drowned From a Raft.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 1.—Stella Uppel of Providence, and Teresa Mahoney of this city, were drowned late yesterday afternoon in Cazenovia Creek. They were playing in a flat scow which started to drift into the centre of the stream. Two little girls who were with them jumped into shallow water and waded ashore. The other girls waited too long and jumped into deep water. Two men tried to save them. John Henses was nearly drowned, and Denis McCarthy hit a rock as he dived and broke his arm. The drowned girls were each fourteen years old.

Died in Harvest Field.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Fred Shafer, a market gardener near this city, died suddenly of heat-failure through overexertion in the heat of midday on Thursday, while at work harvesting. Deceased, who had lived here for 10 or 12 years, was over 60 years of age. He belongs to the Dunkard sect, and leaves a family of married children, the wife of his wife.

Baby's Body Found.

Hamilton, Aug. 1.—Evidence of a horrible crime was found last evening when the body of a five-months-old baby was discovered at the mouth of the sewer at the foot of Ferguson avenue. It was stark naked. Coroner Wolverton will open the enquiry this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Murphy Given Five Years.

New York, Aug. 1.—Lawrence Murphy, former treasurer of the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Union, who was arrested last December, charged with embezzling $12,000 from the organization, was yesterday sentenced to five years and six months in State Prison.

INDUSTRIAL DIVORCE.

Dominion Steel and Coal Companies Have Dissolved—The Terms Are Promised For Next Week.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—The Dominion Steel and Coal Companies have been dissolved. The cancellation of the lease was voted to-day at the directors' meeting and the terms were promised in a circular to be issued to the shareholders the first of the week. A leading director made the following semi-official explanation:

"The separation of the two companies will be beneficial to both. The chief reason for the Steel Company giving up the lease is one of finance. It needs capital to complete its finishing mills which it could not obtain and at the same time find the capital necessary to carry on the coal business. It has over $2,000,000 invested in the latter department, which will now be released, and was besides committed to capital expenditure on the coal property, chiefly in completing the great works at Dominion No. 2, which will cost in all approximately $2,000,000 from its commencement some three years ago to its completion at the end of this year. This capital expenditure will bring them in an ample return in the years to come, and if the Steel Company were so situated financially that it could now take care of these expenditures and provide for the requirements for the completion of its own mills, separation would be neither advisable nor necessary.

"The Coal Company, which is financially very strong, can develop the coal property without being hampered for want of capital, and those interested in that company are naturally pleased to resume the management of their own property and the undivided control of its assured earnings.

"The Steel Company has thru this arrangement been able to make provision for the completion of its plant by the erection of finishing mills which will turn out its product in a ready marketable form, with the advantage of government bounties for the present and a distinct hope of suitable tariff protection in the near future."

ENGINE DRIVER JUMPED.

Engine Sank in the Earth to the Level of Smokestack.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—On Thursday afternoon, while a gravel train on the Aurora and Schomberg Railway was passing over a portion of the roadbed, a short distance from the intersection of that railway with the Metropolitan Railway, a gang of workmen were engaged in ballasting the roadway at this joint, and had just finished unloading the gravel cars and were backing down to the gravel pit to reload when James King, foreman of the construction gang, who was standing on a flat car, immediately in the rear of the tender, noticed that the roadway was rapidly sinking. He called to the driver, Norman Walton, apprising him of his danger. Walton instantly reversed the lever and together with the fireman, William Obe, jumped from the engine.

The monster engine has buried herself to a depth of fully 15 feet in sand and water, carrying the track along for a distance of probably 50 feet. In a lesser degree the track has subsided from 2 to 10 feet. The smokestack of the engine is now lower than the roadway. It is thought quicksand is the cause of the accident.

Steamer Still Hard Aground.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—The Lake Manitoba is still aground. The work of discharging the cargo is being done rapidly. It was decided to land the passengers, and this was done at noon yesterday. They will be forwarded to their destination by the other boats. The steamer is drawing nearly 25 feet of water, and the depth of water on the bank against which she is resting is 21 feet the shallowest part.

Warning for Young People.

Worthington intends to warn young persons from plays that are of a sensational character. The theatre manager has decided to advertise plainly that the boxes with white posters, while those they should keep away from are printed on red paper.

DROWNED AT BALA.

John Johnston of 388 West Front Street the Victim.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—A report comes from Bala, Muskoka, of a sad drowning accident of a Toronto youth.

John Johnston and R. F. Dodge, both of Toronto, while canoeing in the Moon River, were upset above Moon chute, and Johnston, who tried to swim to shore, was drowned, while Dodge, who hung to the canoe, was rescued.

The drowned lad is a son of James Johnston, foreman of the Shedden Co., living at 388 West Front street, and was employed in the G. T. R. shops.

Johnston's body has been recovered and his father went up yesterday at noon and will return with it this morning.

ONE MORE LIBERAL.

Result of Kildonan and St. Andrew's Recount in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Aug. 1.—The recount for Kildonan and St. Andrew's seat resulted in the judge declaring O'Donohue, Liberal, elected by five. The returning officer had given his casting vote in favor of Grain, Conservative, The final totals are: O'Donohue 918, Grain 913.

Drowned Herself in Thames.

London, Aug. 1.—Loneliness and depression, following loss of her husband, who died last spring, caused Mrs. Jos. Tilson of this city to commit suicide by drowning herself in the Thames. Yesterday morning about 10.30 two boys, bathing in the river, noticed the body lying in the water close to a clump of willows, and they notified their parents. A physician was summoned, and though there was a spark of life in the body, his efforts at resuscitation were without avail.

Postal Frauds Indictments.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The federal grand jury which has been considering evidence growing out of the postoffice investigation yesterday returned indictments against several Ohio officials for conspiracy.

Boys Changing Places.

For years the country boys have been deserting the farms for the village, the town boys have been winning success in the cities, and the city boys have been making their mark in the metropolis. The process, however, threatens to leave the farm without its workmen. As the urban population which must be fed from the farms increases, the tillers of the soil become fewer in number and poorer in quality. Those who remain to care for the crops have one fault which the city dweller is quick to notice. The worker somehow does not put the spirit into his tasks that the eight-hour-day man in town exhibits. The city boy grows up in an atmosphere of hustle. With his ability to make every moment count, the city-bred man may get out of a farm immeasurably more than the average rural resident. Agricultural schools and a business instinct and training are not bad substitutes for farm breeding; and it will not be surprising if the next few years witness an exodus of city-bred workmen, filled with spirit and speed, to the districts which produce the original matter for all the breakfast foods.

SOME PRACTICAL POULTRY ADVICE.

Bulletin From Agricultural Department Treats of Many Subjects.

The following practical poultry advice is given by Mr. F. C. Hare, Chief of the Poultry Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture:

Sale of Fowls.

It is most profitable to dispose of old hens before the moulting period. There is then a ready market for fowls on account of the scarcity of chickens. At the present time six cents a pound live weight is offered for hens by a large produce company in Toronto; eight cents a pound plucked weight is paid in Montreal. In several months live chickens can be bought by the produce merchants for the above rates, or for a small increase in them. If the hens are held until fall they will not realize as great a profit as they will this month, owing to the reduction of the market price for fowls and the loss of flesh in moulting. Hens should be sold when they are two years old. All male birds should be sold in the summer and cockerels used for breeding the following season.

Pullets for Laying.

The advantages of retaining the early pullets for fall and winter egg-production have been repeatedly stated. Early pullets will lay in their first year five times as many eggs as old hens. The cost of feed will be practically the same for the pullets as for the hens. The profit from the pullets will be correspondingly greater. The most promising utility-type pullets should be selected now, fed liberally so that early winter laying may be encouraged, and later on placed in comfortable winter quarters. Transferring mature pullets to a strange pen defers egg-production.

Utility-type Fowls.

For poultry farming the utility-type fowl should be selected. This type of fowl can be had in the proper breeds, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes. Utility-type fowls should be broad, blocky, and of medium size and weight (mature weight—cock seven to eight and a half pounds; hen, five and a half to seven pounds.) The breast should be full, broad and carried well forward. The legs should be set well apart, short, white or yellow in colour and without leg or foot feathering. The utility-type fowl corresponds to the shorthorn type in cattle,—a square and broad-bodied low-set fowl.

Sale of Chickens.

From eleven cents to twelve cents per pound live weight is offered in Toronto and Montreal for chickens weighing over one and a half pounds each. The prices correspond approximately to fourteen cents and fifteen cents per pound plucked weight, and twenty cents and twenty-two cents per pound drawn weight. It is evident that an increased profit will be realized by selling the earlier and heavier cockerels of the flock at once. This profit corresponds to the increased revenue derived by market gardeners and fruit growers who place staple articles on the market before the regular supply is available.

Crate-fatted Chickens.

The increased consumption of chickens in Canada is due to the improved quality and appearance of the chickens that are offered for sale. This improvement has been established through the business of crate-fattening chickens introduced by this Department of Agriculture, and to the methods of killing, plucking and shaping the chickens before they are marketed. Every farmer in Canada should be in possession of the details of the crate-fattening business. It is a business that can be managed by any member of the household; the required number of crates are easily constructed; the chickens will gain from one and a half pounds to three pounds each during the twenty-four days fattening, and the cost of feed per pound of gain in live weight will average from five cents to six and a half cents.

Fall Fairs.

Fowls that are to be exhibited at the fall fairs should be shaded from the sun during moulting. This will prevent the new feathers having a faded or mottled appearance. Breeders of fancy fowls are very particular in this respect and cover the tops of the yards used by the moulting birds with old carpets, lumber, etc. The fowls are given liberty during the late afternoon and evening only. Animal food and vegetables are necessary for moulting fowls. The animal food, such as waste meat or raw bones will increase the supply of protein or albumen for the growth of feathers. The vegetables are useful in regulating the system.

DID I DO MY BEST?

By Llewellyn A. Morrison.

A fascinating story in the "Onward" of May 2nd, written by the late Secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Church Extension Society, Rev. Dr W. A. Spencer, describing the splendid heroism of his noble brother, Mr. Edward W. Spencer, when a college lad at Evanston, Ill., many years ago, in rescuing from the jaws of death, amid an awful Lake storm, seventeen persons, the tremendous physical strain having made him a nervous wreck for the remainder of his life, has more than a passing interest for the writer of these notes. There is to him, in his relation to it, a most profound illustration of the mysterious and hidden providential operations of God, wherein by word and deed we become the instruments and "vessels of honour" in bearing the incense of a divine oblation to a noble action.

In the autumn of 1891, the writer, 1,200 miles from home, was passing on an afternoon train from Chatham to St. John's N. B. There were but a few passengers on board. One of these, a bright-faced lady, appeared to have some difficulty with a car window and he adjusted it for her, and sat down in the adjoining seat. A pleasant conversation followed, each one not only discovering the other to be a Christian, but that each was endeavouring to do a work of their own. The lady was Mrs. Dr. Murray, of Albert, N. B., returning home from the northern part of the Province, where she had been holding evangelistic meetings. The writer gave her a copy of a lately written hymn, at the same time requesting that if she ever ran across in her work, any phrase, sentiment or truth, which she considered strong enough for the subject of a hymn, she would mail it to him.

A few months afterward a brief letter, referring to the meeting on the train and suggesting the subject: "Did I Do My Best?" saying that a young man had said so who had fainted when rescuing some people from a wreck, on his being restored to consciousness. She gave no names or other particulars. After prayerfully pondering over the thought, the subject appeared to resolve itself into another form of the same thought: "Has Thou Done Thy Best?", and so the song was written, a copy sent to Mrs. Murray and another sent to the Christian Guardian.

Rev. Dr. Withrow, of Toronto, the distinguished and venerable editor of the Methodist Magazine and Sunday School publications of the Methodist Church of Canada, attended in the summer of 1901, the great Epworth League gathering at San Francisco, where he met Rev. Dr. Spencer, coming into heart touch and personal fellowship with him. Dr. Withrow is a class leader in the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and the writer is a member of the class. Not many weeks after the Convention, in a friendly chat previous to the opening of the class one Sunday morning, Dr. Withrow spoke of the translation of his dearly beloved friend, Rev. Dr. Spencer, of his magnificent character, address at the closing meeting of the great Convention in the Alhambra, and of the delightful fellowship for two days on the return journey. He told of some of the conversation and closed by telling the story of the Brother, using the phrase, "Did I Do My Best?"

The writer said to Dr. Withrow, "It interests me very much. I wrote a poem or song on that subject many years ago. I knew the subject was taken from a story and I have no doubt that is the story, but I never saw or heard the particulars before." He requested a copy, which he used in a sympathetic article in memory of his friend. The article and the poem were then printed in the Memorial number of the Canadian Epworth Era, as "A Tribute from Canada."

Thus it came to pass that the writer, unknowingly, by Spencer's death-bed, placed as a coffin button on his memory. He believes, however, that the whole matter is of the Lord, who used strangers to each other, and to him, as the framers of the far away reply to the momentous question of the elder brother and to the earthly honour of him whose helping hand through all the years since that wrathful day provided for the human necessities of the invalid.

DO WOMEN SWEAR ON GOLF LINKS?

Clergyman Charges Halifax Ladies With Using Profanity.

Halifax society women are in a flutter over sensational charges made by Rev. W. J. Ancient, Diocesan secretary of the Anglican Synod, in a sermon preached at St. Luke's Cathedral, the fashionable Anglican Church of Halifax, on Sunday night. Mr. Ancient said he was informed that women who come to church and approach the holy communion with all appearance of sincerity and humiliation, wept on the golf links the next day and swore like troopers. There was a time, said the preacher, when a gentleman, forgetting himself, and using profanity in the presence of a lady, would instantly apologize in the most humble manner. "What are we to expect of the men now," said the preacher, "when the women look upon profanity as the correct thing?"

The Halifax Golf Club is one of the most exclusive institutions, and numbers among its members many prominent in the smart set of this city, as well as in army and navy circles. Several of its members belong to St. Luke's, and the preacher's charges have made a great sensation.

The lady golfers are highly indignant and yesterday a deputation from them waited upon Mr. Ancient and demanded a retraction. This Mr. Ancient declined to make, and reiterated what he had stated in his sermon. In an interview later he further stated that Ven. Dean Gilpin had told him that ladies not only swore but smoked on the golf links.

The affair has caused a lively sensation and the golf club will take official action to secure the vindication of their lady members, who indignantly deny the preacher's aspersions. Mr. Ancient, however, is not likely to abandon his guns. He has at all times the courage of his convictions and has a record of heroism of which any man might be proud.

At the memorable wreck of the White Star Liner Atlantic of Sambro, in 1873, Mr. Ancient rendered heroic service in saving the drowning swimming out to the wreck with a life line, and thus was the means of saving many lives. The outcome is likely to be interesting.

THE PRESIDENT AND LABOUR UNIONS.

The following article from the Buffalo Express indicates the attitude of the United States Government towards the Labour Unions:—

The foreman in the bindery division of the Government printing office, W. A. Miller, who was discharged at the request of a labour union and reinstated by President Roosevelt's order, has reported at the office and will be assigned for work to-day. Thus the issue between the bookbinders' union and the Government of the United States is squarely defined. Various members of the union have said that Miller would not return to duty, evidently the wish being the father to the thought.

There can be no question in the public mind as to the propriety of the course taken by President Roosevelt. The Government's position on the matter of union and non-union labour has been completely defined by him in his action in respect to Miller and he will unquestionably have the full support of all right-thinking people. It must have been somewhat of a surprise to most persons to learn through the statement issued by the bookbinders' union that, while the members believed the President acted according to national laws, he acted contrary to the laws and rules of the union—a proceeding which the organization could not stand for. It has, indeed, come to a pretty pass if a labour organization feels itself powerful enough to force the Federal Government to observe private "laws."

If the acts of congress do not meet with the approval of the majority of the people, it is the duty of the people to have them changed; certainly it is not the duty of any small body of men to attempt to hold up the Government business because it does not approve of the national statutes. If it comes to a stopping of the Government printing business by a walkout or strike of the bookbinders on count of the reinstatement of Miller, let the business stop until the places of the strikers can be filled by other men. It is arrant nonsense for the officers of the bookbinders to talk about the bindery being a union shop. There can be no such thing as union or non-union in Government affairs. All places are, or must be, left open to all men, the only determining factor in appointments being ability and personal conduct.

The affair in the printing office is much more important than appears on the surface, as there has been considerable talk of strikes in other branches of the public service, notably in the navy yards and at the arsenals. The President's statement regarding the Miller matter, therefore, is timely as well as important. It will serve as a notice to those foolish labour agitators who believe they can induce the Government to discriminate in favour of the unions that they had better desist from any efforts in that direction. It would also be wise for these labour leaders to take note of the trend of public opinion on the Miller affair. If they do not heed they will have to fall on themselves.

SAFETY OF THE AUTO.

Statistics Showing Accidents Resulting in Death on Other Conveyances.

In the forthcoming issue of the Automobile Club Journal appear some important statistics of fatalities caused by motor cars and other vehicles. They are drawn from the official figures of the annual reports of the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis, and cover an area of 688 square miles, from Colney Heath, in Hertfordshire, to Tadworth Heath, in Surrey, and from Lark Hall, in Essex, to Staines Moor, in Middlesex, the most congested and densely populated part of the United Kingdom. The figures cover the years from 1896, when the motor car was legally empowered to run on the public roads, to 1901, and on the strength of them the leading article in the Automobile Club Journal is headed "The Safest Vehicle on the Public Roads."

The Journal says: "It will be seen from these figures that a very common impression that motor cars are responsible for a large number of fatal accidents is totally unsupported. Since the act of 1896 legalized the use of light locomotives upon the highway, the average number of persons killed annually in the streets of the metropolis by light locomotives is less than one. * * * The slow-going vehicles are responsible for more fatal accidents than the quick traveling ones. The following figures speak for themselves:

Killed annually by vehicles in London:

By vans	70
By carts, wagons, and drays	43
By cabs	19
By omnibuses	17
By private carriages	6
By Cycles	4
By light locomotives	1

"Making every allowance for the fact that the number of motor cars is still limited as compared with horse-drawn vehicles, it is still clear that autocars are among the safest vehicles in use in London, and that the popular opinion as to the number of persons killed by them is totally unsupported by the facts. * * * The real fact is that control, and not speed, is the measure of safety. Motor cars and bicycles being the most under control are the safest vehicles on the streets, while the brakeless, slow-going, clumsy vans, drays, and wagons are the most dangerous."—London Telegraph.

How Iron-ox Tablets Completely Cured Jas. Huston of 20 Years' Serious Trouble.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

A HERMIT'S DEATH.

Romance of the Laurentian Range—Why Honore Paquette Fled From and Shunned Haunts of Men.

Honore Paquette, the hermit of the sixth range, Quebec, is dead. Thirty years ago a man of this name, in the full flush of manhood, loved a pretty country maiden of St. Jerome, and seemingly fortune smiled for him, for the wedding day was named, and the bans were published in the little church near the girl's home. But before the hour of Honore's happiness arrived, even as he stood bedecked for the ceremony, a man came with a note, and the expectant bridegroom crushed it in his hand. The friends who had gathered learned afterwards the contents of that note, it had told that the girl had gone with another lover. But Honore walked away, and no man would have known his great sorrow. He went into the backwoods, into the Laurentian Hills, and thereafter, repelling all advances of friend or stranger, eked out his lonely life. Few persons ever saw him, for he chose an unfrequented part of the range, and seldom again sought the haunts of man.

But a few days ago some lumbermen came by chance upon the hermit's home. In the little clearing surrounding the dilapidated shack lay the old man, prone upon the ground, one hand clutching the tin with which he had been about to prepare a meal. How long he had been there could not be told, for the body was fast returning to the dust from which it had come. A shirt, trousers, boots, scarcely holding together, were the only protection. The shack had but one room, and all that it contained was a stove, a heap of straw for a bed, and a few cooking utensils. Rumor had credited the mysterious hermit with having much gold, but all the treasure that has been found is a bag containing $160.

Buried treasure is a magic word, and the minds of an imaginative people cling tenaciously to pet theories. Everyone had heard that the hermit was wealthy, not a man in the county but had spoken of gold which the strange old man had hidden in the earth and guarded with the zealous watchfulness of a miser.

So, ever since the discovery of the body, when the sun has shone bright down upon the little clearing in the sixth range, men have probed and dug, hunting for the treasure. But Honore has taken the secret, if any, to the burial ground in the village of St. Adolphe de Howard.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Cholera Infantum is one of the most dreaded diseases of infancy. It is prevalent during the heat of summer in spite of all the care mothers may take to guard against it, and it sometimes progresses so quickly that death occurs in a few hours no matter what care is given the child. The first thing to do is to stop feeding the child and give him plenty of fresh air and pure water to drink. Give Baby's Own Tablets to carry off the poison in the system. Do not under any circumstance give a medicine to check the diarrhoea, except under the advice of a doctor. By using Baby's Own Tablets the cause of the diarrhoea will be removed and the disease will thus be checked in a natural manner. Proof that the Tablets cure this too often fatal trouble, is given by Mrs. Herbert Burnham, Smith's Falls, Ont., who says:—"When my eldest child was six weeks old he had an attack of cholera infantum, and was at death's door. My doctor advised me to try Baby's Own Tablets and in 24 hours baby was better; the vomiting and purging ceased and he regained strength rapidly."

Keep the Tablets in the house — their prompt use may save the little one's life. Sold by medicine dealers or sent postpaid at 25c cents a box by writing the Dr Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

The Dispute Is an Old One.

It is an extraordinary circumstance that the two oldest and most vexatious complications with which the latter day diplomacy has been beset should be centred in the Island of Newfoundland, the most ancient colony. One of these entanglements is the French shore question, the other is the Atlantic fisheries question. Both had their origin in the troublous times of the eighteenth century, and the legacy of irritation and international bickerings which they have proved is an eloquent testimony to the supineness or inaptitude of the British statesmen of those days who trafficked in the peerless fisheries of Newfoundland with every power that had to be conciliated.—P. T. McGrath in Nineteenth Century.

Crushed Under the Wheels.

Seaforth, July 31.—John Anderson, aged 15, son of Mrs. William Anderson of McKillop Township, near Seaforth, was instantly killed yesterday morning while drawing a load of rails from the barn to an adjoining field. Part of the way being down grade the rails slipped forward on the horses, which became unmanageable, and threw the young lad under the wheels.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life, I had a severe and sudden attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death." My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by all druggists.

'AMERICAN' DEFENCE

NEW YORK TIMES ADMITS TITLE TO BE NOT STRICTLY ACCURATE.

It Hurts the Modesty of the United Statesser, But the Claim Is Made That It Is Generally Understood to Mean the People of the United States—Canadian a Title of Which We May Be Proud.

A friend of Canadian descent, but educated and naturalized in the United States, complains that we do injustice to his ancestors and their descendants in Canada when we speak of the people of the United States as "Americans," as distinguished from the people of the British colony—or is it colonies?—to the north of us, says the New York Times. He points out that not only are our northern neighbors inhabitants of "America," and therefore "Americans," but that their territory is considerably larger than that of the United States, excluding Alaska, all of which is entirely true, though we do not see the exact pertinency of excluding Alaska in the measurement of territory. If we are to limit the use of the word American to the designation of an inhabitant of the continent of America, the Canadian is as completely an American as a resident of New York. The designation would, of course, be strictly logical and correct. But it would also be extremely obscure and inconvenient. The inhabitants of Central and South America are as much Americans, in that sense, as ourselves or the Canadians. And even if we try to make the term a little more exact by saying "North Americans," we must include the inhabitants of Mexico. Strictly, we must also include the inhabitants of Central America, since the dividing line between the two continents lies on their southern boundary.

The poet Cowper was wont to say that he never respected the good faith of a critic of his poems so much as when the critic re-wrote his lines to show the justice of the criticism. This is an extreme demand to make of critics of verse, but it is not too much to ask of our friend who objects to our use of the word American. What better is there for its purpose? We grant that it is not entirely accurate. We confess that it is not very modest for the people of the United States to claim the sole title to it. But as a matter of fact the word in that sense is perfectly understood. It misleads no one. It corresponds to the impression the world in general has as to this continent and its various peoples. We should be quite willing to drop it if there were any single word that would take its place and convey the same meaning. But is there? Our neighbors may be clearly described as Canadians, or, if on the south, as Mexicans, and each is a title of which its bearers may well be proud. But how, other than as Americans, can the people of the United States be briefly and conveniently described and the description be at once clearly recognized? We cannot call ourselves United Statesers, and we do not wish to call ourselves Yankees, because the term was originally one of contempt and is relatively local at best.

A like miscarriage of exactness exists in the case of the Scotch, or Scots, or Scottish, who object to being called English. The word includes them in the general term, English people or the English. Politically they are subjects of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to which, for perfect formality, some writers add the Isle of Man. Therefore, it would be more nearly correct to call them British, which term is perhaps gaining in currency. But for the greater part of the world the term "the English people" is the only one readily understood. Indeed, the French language has no word for the British as a people except "les Anglais," and the German language, though it has "Brittische" as a term of geography, offers only "Englander" as the general equivalent of the English, meaning the English people. Thus it will be seen that the selective process of the general mind of the world has given to American and to English an exclusive meaning, which is not historically or geographically accurate, but which has the supreme merit of being easily and everywhere understood. It is, of course, a tax on the naturally retiring disposition of those the world calls Americans to appropriate a name that others may with a good deal of justice lay claim to, but, so far as we can see, there is no help for it.

To Search for Wrecks in Lake Huron.

One of the most thoroughly organized hunts for lost treasures ever attempted on the great lakes is to be made on Lake Huron, where the Milwaukee Wrecking Company is preparing to search for the hulks of vessels. Representatives of the company have chartered the tug Phoenix of Oscoda, and, with another vessel to aid her, will seek wealth among the wrecks dotting the lake bottom six or seven miles off the shore. One of the most valuable cargoes is a large one of copper, lost in the early days of lake navigation. Another is of steel ingots, and still another is a cargo of whiskey, lost in a schooner bound for Mackinaw many years ago. The Milwaukee concern secured the copper cargo of the steamer Pewabic, off Alpena, after it had been in the water nearly forty years.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Explained.

A youth in a country school had very little appreciation of the talents of his teacher. The lesson was on the circulation of the blood.

"If I stand on my head," said the teacher by way of illustration, "the blood all rushes to my head, doesn't it?"

Nobody contradicted him.

"Now," he continued, "when I stand on my feet, why doesn't the blood rush to my feet?"

"Because," replied the daring youth, "your feet ain't empty."

Out of the Frying Pan.

Husband—She is by all odds the worst cook we ever had.

Wife—I know it. But she is going to stay until we get some one else.

"That's good. I didn't know but you would have to cook the meals."

British Insurance Statistics.

If all the persons whose lives are insured by the ninety-four life assurance companies of Great Britain and Ireland were unfortunately to die in a night, the companies would stand to pay out next morning the sum of £568,598,595. That, according to the Board of Trade statistics, is the total of the assurances at present in force. Besides this there are rather over 2,000,000 annuities.

R. B. SHERIDAN.

The Brilliant But Sad Career of the Great Comedy Writer.

Richard Brinsley Butler Sheridan, a younger son, was born in Dublin Oct. 30, 1751. At the age of eight he was set down as "a most impenetrable dunce." At Harrow he was the most popular of idle boys, while his masters mourned over him, they liked him for his liveliness. At eighteen he left school, but had lessons at home in Latin and mathematics. His father taught him English grammar and oratory, and he learnt fencing and riding. At Bath he fell in love with Eliza, daughter of Thomas Linley, an English musician of high mark. She was engaged at sixteen to an old gentleman of fortune, who released her, at her own wish, and settled £3,000 upon her. In his twenty-first year Sheridan eloped with Miss Linley. Later he went to London to study law in the Middle Temple. Miss Linley was then singing in oratories at Convent Garden, and her husband is said to have personated the hackney coachman and driven her home. The opposition of Mr. Linley was at length overcome, and on April 13, 1773, the marriage was repeated by license, with consent of friends. While living in Orchard street, Portman-square, Sheridan finished the earliest of his comedies, The Rivals. It was produced at Covent Garden, Jan. 17, 1775. The Duenna, with music arranged and composed by Thomas Linley, followed on Nov. 21, and its immediate success caused it to be acted seventy-five nights, the new dramatist being master of the hour. Garrick, then sixty years old, was preparing to retire, and Sheridan paid him £10,000 for two-fourteenths — his share in Drury Lane. Linley paid a like sum for another two-fourteenths. The young manager was in no hurry with a new piece. The School for Scandal not being produced till May 8, 1777. Its success was so great that the treasurer of the theatre said two years afterwards it "damped the new pieces." Within three years Sheridan turned from the stage to Parliament, being returned member for Stafford. One oration of his, delivered during the impeachment of Warren Hastings, excited unparalleled enthusiasm, Pitt declaring it to have surpassed all the eloquence of ancient and modern times. As an influential politician, a successful theatrical manager, and a boon companion of the Prince of Wales, Sheridan's star seemed in the ascendant, but its brightness lasted only for a few years. The death of his first wife, the misfortunes attendant on a second marriage, the fall of his Ministerial friends, and finally the burning of Drury Lane led to financial ruin. From this he never recovered, and with the bailiffs in possession of his furniture and effects, poor Sheridan died in misery on July 7, 1816. A magnificent funeral in Westminster Abbey, with some of the highest in the land for mourners, heightened the tragic contrasts of this brilliant Irishman's unhappy life.

To Encourage Latin.

An interim schedule of regulations for high school examinations has been published. One change is to give encouragement to pupils to take the Latin option in languages by allowing all marks over 50 per cent. in Latin to count as a bonus on the other subjects. The examinations for the commercial course diploma are abolished, and hereafter each school board will lay out its own commercial course, and grant its own diplomas, the object of the change being to provide greater elasticity. Each district may now teach the commercial subjects best suited to its individual requirements. For instance, cities may place emphasis on stenography, and in towns the greater stress may be put on simpler forms of bookkeeping.

A STRONG, VIGOROUS MAN

Is Liable to Break Down—Pe-ru-na is Sure to Restore.

Hon. Frank Dunn, Alderman Twenty-Fourth District, writes from 232 East Fifty-Eighth Street, New York City:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen: "There is no remedy for a broken-down system that I know of which will so effectually restore health as Peruna.

"Whenever I am overworked or suffer from the consequences of a cold a few doses of Peruna builds me up again more quickly than anything I ever tried. I find it especially valuable for catarrh. Three bottles cured me three years ago of catarrh of the stomach and I have never had the least symptoms of it since."

Very truly,

FRANK DUNN, Alderman 24th Dist., N. Y. City.

A TONIC is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membranes.

Peruna is a tonic to the mucous membranes of the whole body. It gives tone to the capillary circulation which constitutes these delicate membranes.

Peruna is a specific in its operation upon the mucous membrane. It is a tonic that strikes at the root of all catarrhal affections. It gives tone to the minute blood vessels and the terminal nerve fibres. Catarrh cannot exist long where Peruna is used intelligently. Peruna seeks out catarrh in all the hidden parts of the body.

Paul Landrum writing from Atlanta, Ga., says:

"In January last I began the use of your Peruna and Manalin for what was termed organic heart trouble. At that time I could scarcely walk to my place of business without stopping to rest and on arrival felt completely exhausted. Had severe pains in my heart and general dizziness. After using the first bottle of Peruna I began to improve and today I feel that I am a sound man and I work fourteen hours a day without any bad feeling."—Paul Landrum.

A. M. Ikerd, an employee of the C. B. & Q. R. R., West Burlington, Ia., writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief. Finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me, that I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was something awful. I could hardly stand it, it was so offensive. I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I got one of your books, and concluded I would try Peruna, and thank God, I found a relief and a cure for that dreadful disease. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle in my house all the time."—A. M. Ikerd.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

After a Break in Prices.

People whose money goes in a slump of the stock market, are, as a rule, blamed more than they are pitied. Sympathy for them there is, but it is of the mixed kind to which the great heart of the public is moved by the case of the culprit caught and brought to punishment. Mercy tempered with justice, rather than justice tempered with mercy, is the portion of the unsuccessful stock dealer. When Job's sores were in the rawest state his friends gathered about him to comfort him with words of sharp reproof for his former naughtiness. So when the unfortunate victim of a stock market reaction is trying to staunch the fresh financial gashes that are fast bleeding him white, he is forced to listen to the lectures and the censures of the innocents who never speculate. This salting of his wounds may be a moral duty and a public service. It makes the wretch writhe when he might be taking a little ease between spasms; and thus helps to keep him in a state of suffering which should be to all beholders a warning against the temptations of the stock market.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Our Chinese Placer Miners.

A place where the Chinese have assumed control of a British Columbia industry is on Wild Horse Creek in East Kootenay. This is one of the most famous historical placer mining camps, and from it fully $15,000,000 were taken in the early days. The Celestials work the "side-hill ground" with modern hydraulic appliances and no little success. The gold they obtain is worth $18.25 an ounce, and the exact amount they win is never told, though it is expected to reach $50,000 for the current year. That it is considerable is shown by their staying by the creek. The Bun Quon company has two six-inch "giants" in operation on the lower part of the Invicta ground. The Nip and Tuck ground has been leased by Celestials, and several other Chinese outfits are working along the bed of the creek, taking out on an average from three to five dollars a day per man.

The Day we Celebrate.

To-day the printers are celebrating the only day in the year that is really their own, and the paper to-day went to press at noon, in order that the printers in the parade participate in their annual outing. This is the event which is looked forward to from one year to another with pleasant expectations, and not once have they been disappointed, although it is true that occasionally a somewhat longer day is spent than was anticipated, and perchance the steamers goes aground, the printers, whose tempers are proverbially sweet will just "look pleasant" and wait patiently for daylight to appear, and release the prisoners. With renewed vigour the battle of life will be taken up again, and the printers will serve the public as they have done in the past.

POSTAL DEPUTATION SPEAKS OF ITS VISIT.

Interviewed Postmaster General and Minister of Public Works.

Hope to Secure Many Improvements in Postal Service, but Free Delivery is not one of Them.

The deputation appointed by the Town Council to interview the Post Master General in reference to improved postal service, returned last night and this morning. Mayor Roger when seen by the Examiner, said that they were well received by Mr. Mulock and Mr. Sutherland, who were interviewed together, and who gave an attentive hearing to the deputation, as the members of it pressed for an improvement in the postal service and particularly for a free delivery. The two ministers assured the deputation that their request would receive the immediate consideration of the Department, but held out little hope that a delivery could be given. The Post Master General said that it would be impossible with the revenue of Peterborough post office to finance a delivery system. There are many towns and cities with a larger revenue than that of Peterborough which have not been given a delivery system, although many requests for these have been received. It is a matter which the Postmaster General said could only be considered when the revenue had reached a sufficient amount to enable the Department to finance it.

He said there were many towns with a much larger revenue than Peterborough's and no delivery system had been given them.

The deputation was given good reason to hope that a much improved service would be given, however, and an inspector was ordered to come here at once to make a thorough investigation and report as to the needs and the best methods of relieving them. The inspector, Mr. Ross, arrived in town this morning, so that the deputation has evidently impressed upon the Postmaster-General, the necessity of prompt action. The advisability of keeping the general delivery wicket open until nine o'clock at night was urged upon Mr. Mulock, as was also an increased number of street boxes, and more frequent collections from them. The matter of opening a district office in the south end of the town was also discussed. It was thought that this would relieve to a certain extent the congestion at the town office. The Mayor feels sure that the result of the representations made at Ottawa will be some partial improvement being given. Ald. McWilliams was also seen and said that undoubtedly an improved service would be given as a result of the visit. The matter of building a new Drill Shed was discussed with the Minister of Public Works, but no definite action was taken, while in Ottawa the Mayor and Aldermen attended the House of Commons and heard Sir Wilfrid Laurier speak on the G.T.P. Ry. Bill. Ald. O'Connell and Finnie could not be seen by the Examiner this morning, so their opinions on the question cannot be given.

The singers have, in a few rehearsals, obtained a good grasp of the music, and have become genuinely enthusiastic about its beauties. New members will be admitted next Tuesday night, and for one week thereafter, when the membership list will be closed. 2d27

LACROSSE.

The greatest game of lacrosse ever played in this or any other town, was that last night between the "Terriers" of O'Brien's fame, and the "Never Flinches," managed by F. R. J. MacPherson, and was witnessed by about 200 enthusiasts, who saw the "Never Flinches" go down to defeat to the tune of 5—1. It was an interesting game, both from the spectators' point of view, and that of the players. The only unsatisfactory part was the fact that no one was hurt, and the provision made for attending to the unfortunates whom it was expected would require medical attendance, were not brought into use. The teams lined up as follows:

"Terriers."	"Never Flinches."

Gillman	Garden

Trollope	Anderson

L. J. Begley	Primeau

Mr. Corbett refereed the game and the strain was too much for him. A number of rather excellent plays were made, interspersed with some that were not as choice. Clarke played a great game, scoring 3 of the five goals allowed. The "Terriers" claim that the score should have been much higher, but the goal umpire did not happen to be looking and did not notice whether those claimed were scored, and the "Never Flinches" were given the benefit of the doubt.

Bugley, for the winners, also played a star game, displaying not only great stick handling ability, but as an acrobat he excelled them all. Such feats as turning somersaults, and still retaining the ball in his stick, were easy. Wood and Delaire each scored one goal, while the goalkeeper was having a chat with the goal umpire on the postal delivery question. Trollope also did some very effective work, as did Scriver. For the losers, "Captain" McPherson was a tower of strength to the team; the only trouble was that as soon as he would get the ball one of those rascally "Terriers" would come up and take it away from him. Appeals to the referee were unavailing, and this was the treatment the "Never Flinches" had to put up with, all through the game. Manager O'Brien was ruled off for 10 seconds for telling MacPherson that the "Never Flinches" were no good, and Doherty was given a few minutes rest for hitting a deg.

The prize, a box of Marguerite cigars, was donated by the defeated team.

St. Andrew's practically have the championship of the Guild League cinched; this was accomplished by the defeat of Charlotte street last night by a score of 7—4. The batteries were Patterson and Thornton for the winners and Ready and Thornton for the losers. St. Andrew's have played good ball and during the whole series have not lost a game. The members of the team have played well together and deserve the championship.

PRESENTATION.

Mrs. Morrow Severing Her Connection With Grace Street Sunday School Presented With a Clock.

On Wednesday afternoon the pupils of the primary department of Grace Sunday School, along with a number of the parents and friends gathered in the school room to formally bid farewell to Miss Lulu Morrow, who has been for some time assistant teacher in the Primary department, but who is severing her connection on account of her removal to Toronto. After tea had been served and all had done ample justice to the good things prtovided, Mr. Powell made a short speech referring to the work done by Miss Morrow, and the loss the School was about to sustain. Miss Butcher, on behalf of the Primary pupils presented Miss Morrow with a pretty clock. Miss Morrow in a few words suitably acknowledged the gift and expressed her regret at having to part with her pupils. Short addresses were also given by Mrs. Lewis, of the George street Primary department, and Mr. Might, former Superintendent of Grace Sunday School.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE EXAMINER went to press a month to-day to permit the staff to go en masse on the Printers' Excursion to Lindsay Lodi this afternoon. This is an important epoch in a printer's life. He puts in the remaining 364 days of the year in the pursuit of an art that fosters every other art, an art which is a means to the mother of the highest civilization. It's no use discussing the question, for no sane man denies that the printer is the salt of civilization — the preservative pickle of the highest progress, of the best in religion, morals, education, science, and the general progress of humanity. We owe it to the printer that the civilization of the present is superior to that of the 10th and 11th centuries.

• • •

OUR CITY FATHERS seem to have a limited appreciation of the mission of the printer — the press. Star chamber committee meetings are closed to the representatives of the press. There seems to be no good reason why this should be so. It is admitted that many things are discussed in committee whose premature disclosure would imperil important interests. But the discretion of reporters can be depended upon—they can be trusted to use no information gathered in committee which it might be considered desirable to suppress. They have never abused any confidence reposed in them in this regard. Information of this kind, while not used for publication, may easily be useful to the press in dealing with more or less directly related matters in the public interest. The council does not publish Hansard. The local press is the only means the people possess by which a record of the transactions of the council is made public. The press is the go-between the council and the people and it should not be treated as an enemy. The newspapers have just as much concern as the aldermen in promoting the best interests of the town. The aldermen are the servants, not the masters, of the people, and are responsible to the people. This responsibility may be evaded if the press is not permitted to furnish information that should be made public, while suppressing that which from considerations of policy it is desirable to withhold. The exclusion of the reporters from committee meetings prevents the public from receiving much information which it is their right to possess. Anything it is desirable to withhold would be effectually be withheld — if this course were suggested to the reporters — as if they were excluded by star chamber methods. Besides the popular idea will be that where there is the systematic and deliberate effort at concealment implied by the exclusion of the press, there is — to be something wrong, whether there is or not.

• • •

WHILE the Aldermen are being dealt with, it seems timely to call their attention to the manner in which the gates at the C.P.R. crossing on George street, are operated. "Generally Speaking" is informed that there is no gateman exclusively employed to handle the gates, that the bargeman has merely incidental connection with the gates, in the intervals of other duties. It is understood that the gates are not lowered for shunting, the very trains that are dangerous to human life. It was a shunting train or engine that caused the death of an old lady a few years ago. This is a matter which should be at once investigated by the authorities. The Grand Trunk is kept on its keeps up to the mark. The matter of the gates, and when are exclusively employed day and night to look after them.

• • •

THE RAILWAY GATES are for the protection of the public, but in some cases the public forfeit their right to this protection by their rashness. Pedestrians especially do not recognize the closed gates. They crawl under the bars and cross the tracks taking their lives in their hands in so doing, thus relieving railways and the authorities of all responsibility. A day or two ago a lady transversed and had a narrow escape from an awful death. A train was shunting behind the warehouse at the Charlotte street crossing. A car had been cut off and she, thinking that it was safe, though the gates were still closed, proceeded to walk across when the flange shouts out gestures of the gateman warned her that the engine was coming down on the side of the car opposite her. She left her life which she would otherwise inevitably have lost, was saved. Will be such expensive precautions are made for the public safety, the public should not risk any danger.

• • •

WARNINGS, however, seem to be wasted on many persons. We read daily reports of drowning accidents, the result of carelessness in assuming perilous risks. We know how many reckless people in the crowd we met on the crowds of cars, the merits of the latest device of Mr. Gillette's excessive growth of paper on which are sold long as we have tickets are exclusively employed to look after them. FISHING AND THE FISH SUPPLY

The fishing and fish supply of the Kawartha Lakes (which should include the Otonabee, Rice Lake and Trent River,) have both a sporting and economic side. The sporting aspect consists in the sport it affords the angler; and the economic aspect is connected with the tourist attraction involved, and the value of fish as a food article. The great problem consists in an adequate and constant supply to meet the great and continuously increasing demand, and consequent draft upon the stock of fish in these waters. The American tourist is a most industrious, not to say voracious and insatiable fisherman — it is a matter of habit. According to popular ideas, and the so-called comic papers, these average American spends eleven months of the year in fitting for suckers in fishing and industrial fish ponds, the remaining month of the year thousands take their holidays here, and do perhaps the hardest "stunt" of the year in capturing our lake fish. They devote themselves to the sport with a concentration of energy which makes it a business of like strenuous character to their ordinary vocations. Sitting in an arm chair under the chaperonage of a guide who knows the best fishing grounds, they will fish from dawn to [illegible]. We do not complain of the assiduous industry of our over-the-line neighbours. They are welcome in a double, or, perhaps, triple, sense; first, because, as a rule, they are good fellows; secondly, it is a pleasure to contribute to the pleasure and enjoyment of our neighbours; and, thirdly, our visitors are a source of profit. During the season, the different waters of the Kawartha Lakes are visited, perhaps, by a thousand American and other tourists. Each leaves in the county from the time of his arrival till his departure from $5 to $100, representing no small addition to the local circulating medium. Then we have the interests of local sportsmen to consult.

Now, the problem is, how shall we keep up the supply of game fish under these exhausting inroads. It is not in our interests to lessen the amount of fishing, but to increase the supply of fish. The waters of our lakes contain bass, maskinonge, pickerel whitefish, salmon trout, sunfish, perch and eels. The first two are our game fish, par excellence. The supply of these is our chief care. In considering our various kinds of fish, it is hardly a question of the survival of the fittest, for the fittest do not survive to the extent that is desirable. There is not much draft upon the supply of other fish mentioned, because they are not so much sought after, or so much found, or, rather, caught — for instance, the salmon trout refuses to rise to the fly, or assimilate the bait, and are only taken by methods that involve little more sport than trapping muskrats. But the lunge and the bass chiefly suffer and disappear. Now, must not something be done to maintain a supply and demand? Bass lend themselves easily to artificial propagation. The bass, it is said, owing to the nursing proclivities of the mother, will take care of themselves, if protected; but no protection can stave off depletion if the open season brings divers hosts of fishermen. The lunge is a gamey fish, and, considering the value of the individual catch, worth something when caught. But once in a while a specimen is caught, and it is suggested that it takes about 10 years to grow a 15 or 20 pound muskinonge. Nevertheless, something must be done to keep up the supply of these fish. The propagation of bass is comparatively easy, but the lunge presents greater difficulties. In New York State it is said the work of propagating lunge is being done; it is perhaps only in the experimental stage, but our local sporting enthusiasts will watch the development with interest, and no doubt science and skill and patience will combine to make the artificial propagation of the lunge practicable. The lunge is so plucky a fighter that he neither gives nor accepts quarter. It is a heart thing therefore to take him alive as the bass is taken. Bass caught in the spring can be used to furnish spawn for incubation, and the process is simple and comparatively inexpensive. An openshed with a trickle of running water is all that is needed to hatch millions of bass fry. The period of incubation is said to be eight ten days, and after exception of a month or two, have to reply to be conveyed in tanks by steamer to the several lakes and there dumped into the water by the million. Of course not a million will come to maturity—to a legal size for catching. Perhaps only one-tenth, but the other nine-tenths go to feed other fish and so their apparent loss is only conversion into other form of value—[illegible] lordly lunge.

The importance of our fish supply is a matter of moment—for on it depends our supply of tourists and their spending benefits—to our railways and steamers in transporting tourists to our lakes, in addition to them, our merchants in selling to them. And the fish supply is also important to our local sportsmen and to the people at large who depend upon our lakes and rivers for the supply of a delicacy peculiar to our locality. If the splendid system of waters included in the Kawartha Lakes and [illegible] Rice Lake, Trent River [illegible] were stocked by establishment of fish hatcheries, the [illegible] would not be impossible or improbable.

Considering the importance to the fishery interests of the Kawartha Lakes district in all senses, it seems that the Government, the municipalities interested, and private citizens, might combine to bring about sufficient propagation of fish to keep these waters well stocked with bass and lunge. The Ontario Government has done, and is doing, much in this direction, but it is obviously impossible that it can be expected to do all that is required to meet the local situation. Local enterprise should co-operate to extend local propagation to the measure of local requirements. The establishment of a hatchery at some central point, say Burleigh Falls, would not be a formidable undertaking, and if there were co-operation of the Government and those locally interested in the several ways mentioned, the expense would not be great and the results of incalculable benefit. It would seem that the conditions are all favourable but like many great movements of intrinsic importance a leader is needed to bring results. Who will lead in this important undertaking?

THE SUCCESS OF A CANADIAN STUDENT.

Mr. Edward Kylie Outranks Competitors in Oxford College.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday has the following appreciative note on the success of a young man well known in Peterborough. Mr. Kylie is a nephew of Mr. John Kylie, of Hunter street, and has often visited here:—"Every citizen of Lindsay, and, indeed the County, will doubtless hail with much gratification the good news that Mr. Edward Kylie, of this town, second-year student at Oxford University, England, has made a clean sweep in English and History subjects. A cable message to that effect was received this morning by his overjoyed parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kylie. The exams began June 5th and ended July 23rd.

Last year our clever young townsman stood first in Classics at Oxford. We know his grand record at our Collegiate, and at Toronto University. He is a phenomenal student, and in the providence of God has a great future before him. We believe the day will come when Lindsay will pride itself on having been his birthplace."

HOW THE WOODMEN ENJOYED THE VISIT.

Editor of Canadian Woodman Tells of Visit to Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes.

The Canadian Woodman, the official organ of the order of Woodmen of the World, contains a full page report of the chief officer's visit to Peterborough. Half tone cuts of Sov. R. Fair, Dr. C. H. Amys, Sov. W. H. Gibbs and Sov. A. A. Haskill, are reproduced. Chief Clerk Fitzgerald in the article speaks very highly of the entertainment provided for the visitors, particularly the trip to the Kawartha Lakes of which he says:—"After leaving the Otonabee River we entered the Kawartha Lakes, the Indian for Beautiful Waters, and our sail through Clear Lake, Stony Lake and Love Lock Lake was beyond description. The writer's command of the pen is not great enough to describe the beautiful scenery, hundreds of islands covered with evergreens, many inhabited by the more affluent citizens of this and foreign lands. Our people do not realize what they have in this country; no necessity whatever to go abroad for a holiday or change, nothing to equal what may be seen in these beautiful waters, scenery, fishing, fresh air and buoyant spirits. What more can be desired than what this Fair Dominion of ours possesses. Those of us who are plodding in our daily walks of life and unaccustomed to such an agreeable change of scene were astonished and scared in amazement. Were we in dreamland—in the land of the fairies, or where?

Too much praise cannot be given Clerk Haskell for his untiring efforts to make our visit to Peterborough enjoyable and pleasant; likewise also Sovereign Warden Farr, Con. Consul Sovs. Dr. Amys, Ald. Gibbs and Wilson."

GLADSTONE AND HIS WIFE.

Their Married Life Was Known to Be One Long Honeymoon.

A pretty glimpse of Gladstone and his wife is afforded by some reminiscences of Mr. George W. E. Russell, in his new volume, "The Household of Faith." It is well known that their married life was a long honeymoon, and that Gladstone entrusted her with all his secrets.

The jocose and genial side of the life of the Great Premier and his wife is very attractive. With quaint enjoyment Gladstone used to grasp his wife's hand and sing the refrain of his favorite "Fiddler's Song":

"A ragamuffin husband and a ranting wife,
We'll fiddle it and scrape it through the ups and downs of life."

Gladstone's confidence in his wife was delightful. At the outset of their married life Gladstone saw that he was destined for a public career, and gave her the choice between these alternatives—to know nothing and be free from responsibility; to know everything and be bound to secrecy. Fifty years later Gladstone said to a friend:

"My wife has known every political secret I ever had, and has never betrayed my confidence."

There was one exception, which shows the real strength of the rule. When Gladstone was first a member of the Cabinet, his young wife dropped a word in the presence of some of his colleagues which implied that she was acquainted with a matter of great importance. Realizing that she had made a slip, she left the room and wrote a note of apology, which she sent to her husband by a servant. The reply that came back was to this effect:

"Dearest C. Don't blame yourself. I don't blame you. It's the only little mistake you ever made. Your affectionate,

"W. E. G."

In later years, when people tried to "pump" Mrs. Gladstone, her look of ignorance was bland and convincing.

"Well, Mrs. Gladstone, what is Mr. Gladstone going to do about the Irish Church?"

"Well, I wonder? What do you think he ought to do?" And the questioner retired as wise as he came.

HOT WEATHER FAG.

No Vim, No Snap, No Energy, Exertion Dreaded and Work Shunned.

"Fagged right out," is an appropriate way to express the feelings of many people during the hot summer months. No strength, no vigour, no snap, no ambition, too weary to work and too languid to take any keen pleasure in life. You need a tonic for this summer fag, and the very best summer tonic in the world is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Every dose makes new rich blood, tones the nerves, sharpens the appetite, stimulates the liver, and banishes weakness and weariness, headaches, backaches, fangour and despondency. The only tonic that can do this for you is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—it's a waste of money to experiment with anything else. Mr. Louis Doucet, Grand Etang, N. S., says: "I was very much run down in health and was weak and easily tired. My appetite was variable, my nerves unstrung and I often felt a complete indisposition to work. After trying several medicines without benefit, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a few boxes I felt better than I had done for months, and equal to any exertion. I don't know anything to equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when one feels fagged out."

You can get the pills from any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Be sure you see the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around the box.

Famous Authors on Their Feet.

Professor Matthews recalls the fact that Washington Irving was a complete failure as an after-dinner speaker. When Charles Dickens first visited New York Washington Irving was selected to take the chair. He went about muttering "I shall certainly break down," and so he did after the first sentence or two of his speech. He hesitated, stammered, smiled, and stopped, then sank down, whispering to his neighbor, "There! I told you I should break down, and I've done it."

Hawthorne was equally uncomfortable on his feet, and the following note was found in his notebook: "Anybody may make an after-dinner speech who will be content to talk onward without saying anything. My speech was not more than two or three inches long . . . . but being once started I felt no embarrassment, and went coolly on as if I were going to be hanged."

Thackery, unlike Dickens, was a failure as an after-dinner speaker. In "Philip" he writes: "A day will soon arrive (but I own, mind you, that I do not care a whit) when we shall have the speeches done by a skilled waiter at a side table as we have the carving."

While Irving, Thackeray and Hawthorne dreaded the public dinner, Sir Walter Scott was in his element when acting as chairman. Harry Furniss, in The Strand.

WOMEN IN MAJORITY

STRONGER SEX IN ENGLAND GRADUALLY BECOMING THE WEAKER.

Recent Census Tables Show 106 Females to Every 100 Males—Seven Women in Every Hundred Doomed to Old Maidship—Causes for the Discrepancy in Numbers—Where Women Lead.

At least seven women out of every hundred are doomed to be old maids, for the sufficient reason that there are not enough husbands to go round.

Of the 32,527,843 persons in England and Wales, 16,799,230 are females and 15,728,613 are males, which gives a proportion of 106.9 females to every 100 males.

And the proportion of females is steadily increasing. It has gone up to nearly 3 per cent. in the last forty years.

Why is this? It is not that more girls are born than boys, although isolated reports sometimes convey that impression. During the last ten years, for the whole of the United Kingdom, the natural increase on the male side of the house—that is, the excess of births over deaths—was 12.8 per cent. The corresponding increase for females was 12 per cent. Yet in the same period the actual increases—that is, the number of people who were there to be counted on census night—were 12.1 per cent. for females and only 11.9 per cent. for males.

"The excess," says the Register General, "is partly attributable to the fact that men serving in the army, navy, and mercantile services abroad are excluded from the reckoning."

Women's Minor Worries.

Partly, but not wholly. Men go to war and men go to sea, but men also emigrate and engage in exhausting and dangerous occupations. While women stay at home, and live a quiet life, troubled by nothing more serious than domestic worries, men subject their systems, both mental and physical, to severe strains, and many of them fall out by the way. Of the 146 centenarians on census night, for instance, no fewer than 99 were women. And all the life tables show that the age of maturity a woman has a natural expectation of living some four years longer than a man.

If the women continue to gain at the present rate they need not trouble very much about their rights and their votes. They will get them by the mere weight of numbers. Unless men are to be regarded, by virtue of their sex, as a small privileged aristocracy, with powers of life and death and legislation, women will have to serve in Parliament and on local boards, because there will not be enough men to do the work.

In a period of forty years the women of England have increased their preponderance over the men by nearly 3 per cent. To use a billiard phrase, they are now "seven up in the second hundred." Let them score another ninety-three and they will be two to one.

At the present rate of progress that will take them about 1,210 years, which seems a long time to the individual woman, but is a mere breathing space in the history of the world.

In 2,500 years they will be three to one—from which it follows that in the long run, there will be no men left, except a few treasured specimens in a select compartment of the Zoo. Statistics, as Mark Twain said, are a beautiful science.

Where Women Lead.

Leaving out of account these higher speculations, it is interesting to see how the game has advanced up to the present—in which fields the women have forged ahead and in which the men have held their own.

Ask any average person where the women are making the largest strides forward, and he will probably reply, without a moment's hesitation, "In the towns which offer peculiar advantages for the employment of women." He will instance Nottingham and Leicester and Luton and Dundee and the cotton districts of Lancashire.

He knows that they make lace in Nottingham, and he knows that lace is made by women. If he has ever been to the town, and has seen the streets swarming with young women of an evening, he will be quite certain that the women must outnumber the men by two to one.

He is wrong—grotesquely wrong. The surprising differences are to be seen, not in places where women work, but in places where women enjoy themselves. In the following table the males are taken in each case as a fixed quantity of 100, and the females are worked out in arithmetical proportion:

	Males.	Females.
Farnborough	100	53
Barrow-in-Furness	100	83
Devonport	100	88
Chatham	100	90
Woolwich	100	91

Money the Attraction.

In the coal mining districts there are more men than women. In the lace districts there are more men than women. In the hosiery and lace towns there are more women than men. But, even in this restricted field, the balance of advantage is steadily with the women, for wherever there are men there must be women to look after their homes, while a woman who is at work can look after her home for herself. It might be supposed that Oxford and Cambridge, by reason of the universities, would show a preponderance of men. On the contrary, they are high up in the list of places where woman scores.

It may, indeed, be laid down as an axiom that wherever the money is there will the women be gathered together. Money means comfort and luxurious living. Well-to-do women, having no particular work to do, go where those are to be found, and less wealthy women—milliners, maidservants, and the like—go there to minister to their needs. That is why there are three women to two men in Kensington, Hampstead, Bournemouth, Hastings, and Bath. That, by an inverse process of reasoning, is why the sexes are equal at Southwark and the females in an absolute minority at Stepney and Poplar.

The larger the town the more nearly the proportions of the sexes approximate to the general average. Kensington and Hampstead do not count as exceptions, as they are parts of London, and London, taken as a whole, has only 110 women to every 100 men.

It is inevitable that there should be this balancing-up in the great cities. The larger a town the less it relies upon special industries and the more self-dependent it becomes.—W. R. Holt in London Express.

"The Good Old Summer Time"

With all its delights has its dangers and its drawbacks as well. Not the least of these is the depressing and enervating effects which the hot weather has on persons with run-down or naturally weak constitutions. The appetite lags, the digestion weakens and the system becomes an easy prey for the numerous diseases peculiar to the season.

It is therefore of prime importance that the system should be kept up to the mark, and in no other way can this be done so effectively and with such absolute certainty as by taking FERROL (the Iron Oil Food) three times a day, as per instructions. FERROL is a concentrated food scientifically prepared, pleasant to take and easy to digest. Sample free. 75c at all druggists or from

EIGHT YEARS OF MISERY.

What Maurice Best Might Have Avoided if he had Started to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Right at the Start

Maurice Best, of Southern Harbour, Newfoundland, suffered torture for eight years simply because he would not believe that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets would cure him. He says:

"In 1892 I was attacked with Dyspepsia. I was in continual misery for eight years. Sometimes I would go off in a faint and for ten minutes I would be more dead than alive. The doctors could not cure me and gave me but little help."

Then it occurred to Mr. Best that it would not hurt him to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. He did so and this is what he says of the result:

"The first two boxes I used gave me new life. I kept on using them and was soon a new man. I cannot say enough in their favour."

Why don't you try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets?

How They Raised the Rent.

The following incident reported from Manchester, England, recalls the old story of the landlord that stated that he was going to raise his tenant's rent whereupon the tenant replied that he was delighted to hear it because he was not able to do it himself.

A rent-collector had great difficulty in getting the rent from one Pat Maginnis. On being applied to for a couple of weeks' rent he said he would pay it if the landlord would put in a new cellar door. This was done, and the collector called for the money. Maginnis was out, but his eldest son paid the money that was due.

"Glad you have it ready for once," said the man.

"Yes, sir," the boy replied; "but it has been an awful trouble. We had to sell some of the furniture."

"Oh?" said he, pocketing the rent. "I didn't know you had any."

"Yes," continued the lad; "father sold the new cellar door to get it."

New Girls Won't Dance.

It was supposed that the growing dislike of dancing by young men was the cause of the decline of what the young reporter calls the "terpsichorean art." But an English paper hears that the ladies are claiming the credit. We are told that society ladies will not dance any more. Ball, excepting where a cotillon is given, have an air more like a conversazione, with a band and buffet, than a ball. Only quite young girls dance with any show of enthusiasm. Women prefer to talk and flirt rather than waltz. Such large sums are expended over ball dresses that women are frightened at the effect of the wear and tear of dancing. So women are, in yet another sense, slaves of the dressmaker!

The Mercenary.

Go, maricold, poor flower that caught
My lady's fancy for a day,
And kiss her if in vain I've sought
To win her love as she has taught
A score of hearts to own her sway.
Tell her the passion of my thought;
[illegible] her "Yes" I prize
[illegible] unwelcoming "Nay"
[illegible]

Short [illegible] I have naught
[illegible] to pay!
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible] I've but say,
—L. T. Newcross in Smart Set.

THE THINGS WE LEAVE UNDONE.

It isn't the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you might have sent, dear,
Are your haunting ghosts to-night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way,
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say,
The loving touch of the hand, dear,
The gentle and winsome tone
That you had no time or thought for
With troubles enough of your own.

These little acts of kindness
So easily out of mind,
These chances to be angels
Which even mortals find,
They come in night and silence,
Each chill, reproachful wraith,
When hope is faint and flagging
And a blight has dropped on faith.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great
To suffer our show compassion
That tarries until too late;
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone
Which gives you the bitter heartache
At the setting of the sun.

Canada's Holiday Resorts.

Besides being a great country to work in, Canada is a very beautiful place in which to holiday. Down South they have long admitted the truth of the latter statement, as the yearly increasing throng of visitors testifies. Nor have we ourselves been blind to the fact, though as a nation we have done little to advertise our sylvan wares. Year by year, however, the fame of Canada's summer glories is spreading. Quiet nooks where we used to sprawl in lazy enjoyment are taking on the hectic appearance of fashionable resorts. Where once the picturesque canoe alone was seen, steam launches and luxurious yachts now cruise. The old farmhouse, where people could get board for about $2 a week, has been transformed into a fashionable hotel.

His marriage was a failure, wasn't it?"

"Great smoke, no! It saved him from bankruptcy."

Bowser's Escape

He Has a Severe Attack of the Grip, but His Life Is Spared

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

WHEN Mr. Bowser had overslept his usual hour by fifteen minutes the other morning Mrs. Bowser went up to see what was wrong. He was awake, but he had just felt a shiver pass over him and had the quilts drawn up to his chin. He had made fun of the grip a hundred times over and had even asserted that only persons of weak intellect would give up to it, but now he had a feeling that he was in for it himself.

Mrs. Bowser scanned his flushed face and felt of his pulse and quietly said:

"It's a case of the grip, and you'd better stay in bed today. Of course the grip doesn't amount to anything, but you'd better take reasonable precautions."

"But it does amount to something," he contended as another shiver struck

"IT'S A CASE OF THE GRIP."

him. "I was reading last night that it had carried off over 400 people in this town alone in the last year. I want a doctor at once."

"But it is a mild attack, and you know you have often said that no person with an ounce of brains"—

"It makes no difference what I have often said. I am all of a shiver one minute and burning up the next, and my mouth is as dry as chips. Telephone the doctor at once and tell him not to be all day getting around here."

That was the beginning of the day. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Bowser brought up some tea and toast, and Mr. Bowser took a few sips of the one and nibbled at the other and said he had a feeling that he was not long for this world. His voice was very plaintive as he said it.

At half past 9 he called Mrs. Bowser up to say that his head ached, his feet were cold and he wanted a quiet funeral in case of death. She assured him that one day in bed would probably effect a cure, but he sighed and shook his head and hoped he would have his senses to the last.

At 10 o'clock the doctor arrived. Having heard Mr. Bowser disparage the grip and the medical profession combined, he felt it his duty to assume a serious look and announce that it was an aggravated case and might terminate in pneumonia.

The patient was to take three kinds of medicine, summon up all his will power and remain in bed for at least two weeks. He also inquired if Mr. Bowser had his life insured and his house in order. In taking his leave he observed that nine out of ten cases of the grip were proving fatal and that fat men were being mowed down like grass.

At 10:30 Mr. Bowser felt hot flashes and cold shivers, and a dog howled dismally in front of the house. He didn't inquire as to the color of the dog, but he felt more shivers as he heard the howls. He acknowledged that he was a crank and a kicker and begged Mrs. Bowser to turn his pillow over and forgive a dying man. He said he *didn't want to be buried in Connecti*cut, but wouldn't raise a fuss about it.

At 11 o'clock there were more shivers, and he had a hot flatiron at his feet and a cup of hot tea; also held Mrs. Bowser's hand and said he was sorry for finding fault with the gas bill.

At 12 o'clock noon the patient com*plained of numbness in his knees and* a buzzing in his ears. Had his pillow turned over and his feet tucked up, and Mrs. Bowser went down and chided the cook for singing, "I Would Not Live Alway."

At 1 o'clock Mr. Bowser seemed to be asleep, but as Mrs. Bowser wiped a tear off his cheek he opened his eyes and said that if he was to live his life over again he'd never buy a fire escape or a new milk cow without her consent. He would like to live on for her sake, but felt that he was called to go. More toast and tea, and he ate heartily for a dying man. Pillow turned over and the cat hustled out of the room.

At 2 o'clock the doctor came again. He looked more serious than before and sounded Mr. Bowser's lungs. Seemed to take a secret satisfaction in thumping him well. Announced that there was no sign of pneumonia yet, but advised the utmost caution against exposure or excitement. Said that most of his patients who died heard a dog howl a few hours before dissolution. It was just possible that he could pull the case through, but—As soon as he had departed Mr. Bowser had four shivers in succession and gave Mrs. Bowser a list of debts to be paid after he had become an angel.

At 3 o'clock the patient tried to sing a hymn, but gave it up in the middle of the first verse and asked Mrs. Bowser if she could possibly forgive him for jawing around when the coal was out. She wiped the tears from his eyes and kissed him, and he whispered that he was sorry for calling his mother-in-law a human hyena.

At 4 o'clock the patient felt a crinkling of his toes, accompanied by a twitching of the ears, and he declared his belief that they were signs of dissolution. He recalled the fact that he had once come home and raised a great row over finding a clothespin in the front yard, and he wanted to die knowing that Mrs. Bowser had forgiven him. Forgiveness was extended, and he was assured that he had many years of life still before him. This cheered him for a moment, but a new buzzing in the ears admonished him that his stay in this cold world might be brief.

At 5 o'clock more toast and tea. While the patient ate and drank he said that he was leaving the best wife in all the world behind him and that he deserved booting for the way he had held her responsible for broken windows and burst water pipes. He spoke of the cat as if she were a human being and wondered if she would miss him; wondered how he could have ever been so foolish as to try to ride a bike.

At 6 o'clock the patient felt that pneumonia had seized him in its deadly clutch and that two hours more would witness the end; held Mrs. Bowser's hand and asked her forgiveness for saying that she had no system about housekeeping; referred to his mother in law again and left her several farewell messages.

At 7 o'clock, as Mrs. Bowser sat downstairs and her patient was supposed to be asleep, Mr. Bowser suddenly appeared before her in his dressing gown.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "But you you"—

"Exactly, madam," he replied as he looked around for a cigar. "You and the doctor have fondly imagined all day that I was booked for Jericho, but you see me here before you, and now why in thunder are you letting that blamed old cat scratch that cover off the lounge?" M. QUAD.

MR. BOWSER SUDDENLY APPEARED BEFORE HER IN HIS DRESSING GOWN.

KING EDWARD'S PRESCIENCE.

First to Realise the Possibility of a British-French Reapprochement.

The recent change in the tone of the French press in regard to Great Britain is well exhibited in an article which appeared on June 29 in Gil Blas, one of the most "Parisian" of all the Paris papers.

Gil Blas, in commenting on the approaching visit of President Loubet to England, dwelt upon the deep impression made on British public opinion by the French sympathy manifested last year at the time of King Edward's illness. It went on to assure the French people that the feeling with which the British nation would welcome President Loubet would be something more sincere and durable than that usually excited on such occasions. A powerful current of opinion in favor of a good understanding between the two nations had, it said, arisen on both sides of the Channel. Gil Blas added:

"There is no European statesman or diplomatist who has a sounder and clearer conception of international relations than King Edward. During a period of thirty years while Prince of Wales * * * he took advantage of his leisure to study the institutions and the development of parties in the different countries he visited. His personal relations with sovereigns, statesmen, politicians, and even party leaders, which my correspondence was by no means precluded by his position, have given him an exceptional knowledge of European politics. Endowed with extraordinary sagacity and acuteness, he has thus acquired an unparalleled experience.

"King Edward recognized the movement tending to bring together the French and English peoples, which there is reason to believe corresponds to his own desire. He did so in advance of his advisers, and even before it was realized in Paris or London. He resolved to take advantage of this movement and in a certain sense to reveal it to the English as well as the French people, in order that they should benefit thereby."

"I do not look as though I ever was sick."

When a woman is sick she falls off in looks. This is particularly the case when she suffers from diseases peculiar to her sex. Not only is her strength undermined, but she loses beauty of face and grace of form.

It is characteristic of the cures of womanly diseases effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that with restored health there is a restoration of good looks.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me," writes Mrs. Mollie Brown of Carlton Fulton Co., Ill. "I was troubled with female weakness and was not well with several different doctors. They all at once advised me to have an operation performed. I did not want to submit to the knife. I had heard of your medicine and thought I would write you. I took seven bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two vials of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am now well and strong. I have had no return of my old trouble. My friends tell me I don't look as though I ever was sick."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

FOREIGNERS ON BRITISH SHIPS.

A Question That Has Caused Some Heartburning, But No Bar Yet.

The report of the committee appointed by the Board of Trade to inquire into certain questions affecting the mercantile marine has been issued, with the minutes of evidence. A summary of the report has already appeared in these columns, but it may be of interest to refer to the remarks upon the increasing of employment of foreigners in British ships. There were 37,171 foreigners in 1901, an increase of 12,184 in thirteen years. The committee proposes no bar to their service so long as they can speak English, while regretting, as might be expected, that the number of British-born men is falling off. The members of the committee asked themselves: Is there any objection to be felt or apprehension entertained in view of the undoubted increase of foreign seamen in the mercantile marine? As regards the shipping trade, it appeared to the committee that there was no apprehension to be felt in time of peace. It is stated that "the trade is efficiently carried on, and there is no reason to suppose that the supply of foreign seamen available will run short. There appears to be no more real danger of scarcity of men in the event of a naval war. It is doubtful if even the subjects of the State with which we might be at war would desert their calling, and even so, the foreign seamen employed are of so many different nationalities that the supply would still be sufficient. It is worthy of notice that Swedes are the most numerous of all the foreign seamen employed on March 31, 1901, and that the Swedes, Norwegians and Danes together amounted to more than one-third of the total number of foreigners employed. It is probable also that some ships of the mercantile marine would necessarily be laid up in time of war, and their crews added to the number of men available for employment; and if freights and wages rose the effect would be to draw men from shore into sea employment." As to the naval service, this committee agrees with the one appointed last year on Naval Reserves, that in the event of any great naval war it would not be practicable to draw men to any considerable extent from the crews of the sea-going vessels of the mercantile marine.—London Telegraph.

To Clean Brass on Bedsteads.

Brass on bedsteads should never be cleaned with the ordinary brass polishers, as they destroy the coat of lacquer that is put on to prevent the brass from tarnishing. The bright parts should be rubbed every day with a soft cloth, and if they begin to look discolored rub with a cloth slightly moistened with sweet oil and afterward polish with a soft cloth and chamois leather.

ACCIDENT TO THE STEAMER NORTH STAR.

Shaft Broken When in Rice Lake Yesterday.

An accident occurred to the steamer North Star, when in Rice Lake yesterday, when on her journey to Harwood. It appears that the screw of the vessel struck upon a rock, breaking the driving shaft at the stern post. The screw immediately sank, and it is thought that some difficulty will be experienced in recovering it. The accident occurred about 2.15 p.m., yesterday. It is thought the boat will not be able to sail until Monday. The shaft which is being repaired in town, will probably be ready this afternoon, when the steamer's engineer, Mr. Geo. Johnston, will take it down on the "Rainbow" to Gore's Landing, where the disabled steamer is at present berthed.

TO ELECT NEW POPE.

Cardinals All in Their Cells Ready for the Balloting.

USELESSNESS OF GUESSES.

Result Not Likely to Be Reached Before Two or Three Days, as the Foreign Cardinals Have Had No Time to Come to Any Agreement—Likelihood Is That an Italian Will Be the Choice.

Rome, July 31.—The largest conclave in the history of the Catholic Church has now assembled in the Sistine Chapel for the purpose of electing a successor to Leo XIII. Sixty-two cardinals, with over 200 clericals and lay attendants, are, to all intents and purposes, prisoners within the Vatican. One of them, Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, Archbishop of Valencia, was prostrated immediately after entering the conclave, and lies ill in his cell.

Tomorrow morning the cardinals will enter upon the solemn duty of choosing the new Pope by ballot. The general impression exists that within two or three days, possibly, tho not probably, to morrow, a new Pope will have been chosen. But no matter how long a time may be required, the absolute seclusion of the princes of the church from the outer world must, according to the church law, continue until a choice is made.

The Likeliest Candidates.

Prognostications as to who will wear the tiara as Leo's successor have little value, as even the cardinals who this evening entered their cells seemed to be without definite ideas as to the issue. Cardinals Rampolla Serafino Vannutelli, Di Pietro, Gotti and Oreglia continue to be most frequently mentioned as the likeliest candidates, but the moment the name of one of them is mentioned a hundred reasons are supplied to show that he could not possibly be elected. So seldom have the majority of the cardinals now here met each other, and so widely do they differ in nationality and personality, that no organized movement in support of any one cardinal has thus far been practicable, nor, in fact, seriously attempted. This does not apply to the Italian cardinals, who, naturally, are well acquainted with each other. With their numerical strength the Italians could, if united, practically insure the election of a Pontiff of their own choosing. It is the disunion and rivalry among the Italian cardinals which, in fact, makes the question of Leo's successor so open as to make one guess almost as good as another. The rival claims of the leading Italian cardinals, so freely ventilated in the local press, are matters which are all important in connection with the decision of the conclave, because it is assumed as a foregone conclusion that the next occupant of the Holy See will be an Italian. The foreign cardinals have shown no indication of opposition to this assumption, but, however willing they may be to honor an Italian it is believed that the serious differences among the Italians themselves on matters of political and religious opposition must be reconciled before one of them suitable to all sections can be elected.

Cardinal Gibbons' Denial.

Before entering the conclave Cardinal Gibbons requested the Associated Press to deny all interviews alleged to have been given out by him while in Rome, and also all published accounts of conversations he is alleged to have had with private individuals, referring especially to the statements of the Italian yesterday to the effect that he had criticized the policy of Rampolla.

At midnight news from within the precincts of the conclave is to the effect that after prayers the cardinals took supper at a common table with the exception of nine of them, who had their meals served in their cells. Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, with the assistance of a cordial administered by Dr. Lapponi, is reported to have gone quietly to sleep.

CUTICURA OINTMENT
Purest of Emollients and Greatest of Skin Cures.
The Most Wonderful Curative of All Time
For Torturing, Disfiguring Skin Humours
And Purest and Sweetest of Toilet Emollients.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer cases, by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humours, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing and healing the most distressing of infantile humours, and preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp and hair.

Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair, hands and feet, from infancy to age, far more effectually, agreeably and economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. Its "Instant relief for skin-tortured babies," or "Sanative, antiseptic cleansing," or "One-night treatment of the hands or feet," or "Single treatment of the hair," or "Use after athletics," cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence of this.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

What Canada's Aid to the G. T. Pacific Amounts to.

Comparison With, or Rather Contrast to, the Canadian Pacific Bargain.

"The liability incurred by the Government for the building of the section from Moncton to Winnipeg is simply seven years interest. The sum total of the money to be paid by the Government for the construction of the entire line of railway from Moncton to the Pacific Ocean will be in the neighbourhood of $12,600,000, or $13,600,000, and not a cent more.

"What is $13,000,000 in the year 1903? It is about the surplus of our revenue over expenditure. The surplus for this year will pay for the construction of the road. Sir, what is the liability incurred by the Government for the construction of this road from Winnipeg to the Pacific Ocean? Assuming the road to be 600 miles long, the cost of construction will be $18,000,000, and the total interest for three years will be $3,780,000. This is the whole liability to be incurred by the Government for the construction of the railway from Winnipeg to the Pacific.

"Compare its terms with those granted the Canadian Pacific in 1881. Twenty-five million acres of land were given the C.P.R. Not an acre of land is granted to the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"Twenty-five million dollars was paid in cash to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and works were handed over to that company which had been built by the Canadian Government at the expense of the Canadian people, the cost of which was, at least, if my memory serves me, $35,000,000, and therefore the cash aid which was given to the Canadian Pacific Railway was in the neighbourhood of $60,000,000.

"The cash subsidy which is promised, and which is to be given under the contract to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, will not exceed $13,000,000, or thereabouts." — Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

YOUNG SAILORS IN PERIL.

Excitement at Sturgeon Point Thursday Afternoon.

Two young men ventured out during the big blow at Sturgeon Point Thursday in Mr. Hopkins' sail boat, under closely reefed canvas. The craft was not able to weather the gale and the young men were thrown into the water. Several boats put out to the rescue from the Point, but as the Manita was crossing the lake at the time, Capt. Davis headed for the scene of the accident and took the young men off safely. In getting under way again the Manita struck the sail boat and stove in its bow.

THE C. P. R. WILL TAP LINDSAY.

New Line to be Built This Year From Burketon.

The Lindsay Post writes editorially of the new C. P. R extension from Burketon north to Bobcaygeon, and Lindsay, as follows:

Next week will see construction work begin on the line of the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, & Pontypool Railway. The contract for the entire stretch of line between Burketon and Bobcaygeon has been let to Mr. F. E. Duquier of Montreal, a gentleman of large experience in railway building in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Duquier has been in town part of last week and Chas. and his staff of assistants have been working overtime making the initial arrangements.

We understand that Mr. Duquier is under bonds to have the road completed before December 1st, and to accomplish this about 2,000 men will be required. Some eight miles of the Burketon-Lindsay section have been sublet to a contractor named Gee, and perhaps other portions will be farmed out. Our nearby readers will be pleased to learn that beyond a shadow of doubt there will be railway communication between Lindsay and Bobcaygeon and Lindsay and C. P. R. points during the coming winter.

MR. STRATTON AT THE SOO.

Delivered Several Addresses at Liberal Committee Meetings.

The Toronto Globe to-day contains the following dispatch from Sault St. Marie :—

"Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. Stratton spent three very pleasant days at the Soo this week. They came up on the C. P. R. boat on Wednesday, and left for home at noon to-day. During his brief stay in town many Liberals from various sections of the riding called upon the Provincial Secretary at the International Hotel, and he was urged to accept a complimentary banquet, but as it was impossible for him to protong his visit he was unable to accept the honour. On Thursday evening Mr. Stratton, accompanied Mr. Smith, the Liberal candidate, to a committee meeting in O'Brien's Hall, where an audience of about 400 Liberals gave him a most enthusiastic welcome. Again, on Friday night, Mr. Stratton attended one of Mr. Smith's regular committee meetings in Barnes' Hall, in the west end of the town, and found the place packed to the doors by an enthusiastic crowd of supporters of the Government candidate. At each of these meetings the Provincial Secretary was called upon for a speech, and his remarks were received with the utmost satisfaction. Brief speeches were also delivered by Dr. McLurg, President of the Sault Reform Association; Rev. Dr. Stone, Elgin Myers, K.C., and the candidate.

SUMMER SEASON AT STONY LAKE.

Hotels and Cottages are all Well Occupied.

THE DANCES AT PAVILION

Divine Services at the Pavilion Yesterday.

Victoria House at McCracken's and Burleigh Falls Hotels Well Filled—Personal Mention at the Lakes.

Juniper Island,
Stony Lake,
August 3rd.

The individual who would for a moment imagine that Stony Lake is losing its charm for summer tourists, is sadly mistaken—while the month of July may not have been an exceptionally busy month and the summer resort houses may have been able to handle all the trade that was offered, it can be safely stated that the month of August came in with a rush, and that for the next four or five weeks the Stony Lake region will be the Mecca of pleasure seekers from this portion of the Province at least. The cottages, with the exception of one or two whose owners are for various reasons unable to visit Stony Lake this summer, and who prefer not to rent their summer houses, are all filled, the hotels from this out are assured of an immense trade and the boarding houses at different points along the lake have as guests, the usual lot of people, young and old. It may be truly said however, that August is the month at Stony Lake.

As in former years Juniper Island is the capital of the lakes, so to speak. It is here most of the cottagers get their mail; it is here the social dance is held each evening; it is here the young man meets his lady friend; and it is here that all the gossip on the lake is heard. Juniper Island presented a gay appearance on Saturday night. By far the most enjoyable dance of the season was held. The floor was in excellent condition, and the young ladies in their cool summer costumes and the gentlemen in their conventional style of immaculate white ducks and dark coats, presented a decidedly pretty appearance. The dance was kept up until about eleven o'clock and when, according to the rules and regulations governing the use of the pavillion, the lights were turned out, there was general regret. The dance was attended by a great many people from all points of the lake. The music was very kindly supplied by Miss Helen Hall, Miss Gwen Hall, Miss Roberts, Miss Pearl Lundy, Miss Eva Bradd, Miss Gertrude Keanedy, Miss Molly Meldrum and others. Indeed the young ladies at Stony Lake, accomplished in the art of music are very generous in their services at the piano, during the evening. The boats that called at Juniper Island during the evening were met at the wharf by a great crowd of people, many of whom had been over to the Island to meet their friends from town, who usually come up on the Saturday night boats. There was an unusually large number of people who came up on the boats on Saturday night, many Toronto people taking advantage of the cheap fare from that city to Peterborough, and their own civic holiday which is to-day, to spend over Sunday at Stony Lake. The Alert and Majestic were very late in arriving at Juniper, the traffic being exceptionally heavy.

Mr. Fred. Morgan, the genial proprietor of the Victoria House, at McCracken's landing is having an excellent season, the demand for accommodation at this popular resort being as great as ever. Many American people have been spending a few weeks at the Victoria House, and the house is pretty well taxed the season throughout.

One of the best known camps on the lakes for the past 12 or 15 years, has been Eko Camp. They are up again this year, occupying Gemmell's Island as usual. The party is somewhat smaller this year, owing to the fact that many of the boys could not conveniently get away at this time of the season. But there is a big enough crowd to make Eko Camp as notorious as ever on the lakes—notorious for their hospitality and their jolly good manner. The party this year is made up as follows:—Messrs. Manson Comstock, Will Higgins, Jack Gemmell, Will Ackerman, Jack Watt, Jack Comstock, Dr. Tate, Sid Tiney and Will Comstock.

"Juniper Lodge", the summer home of Mayor G. M. Roger, of Peterborough, is well occupied this year. The party is composed of Miss Roger, Mrs. Jack Fairbairn and children of Ottawa, Mrs. Arthur Smith, and children, of Chicago, Mr. R. G. Roger, of Eagleclift, Eng., and Miss Alice Roger. The latter is being warmly greeted by her host of friends at the lakes, after a stay in the Mauritius Islands for more than two years.

Mr. E. S. Piper, of Toronto, is again at the lakes and enjoying his new cottage, which he has named "New Kimo". There are staying at "New Kimo" Dr. Clarence Piper, Mrs. E. S. Piper, Toronto, Miss T. W. Robinson and Miss Robinson, of Peterborough. They will be joined later on by a number of Toronto friends. "Old Kimo", Mr. Piper's old cottage is being occupied by Dr. Chambers, wife and family, of Toronto.

"Wenonah", Mr. Sheriff Hall's hospitable home is open this year as usual. Besides Mr. Hall's family there have been stopping at "Wenonah" Miss Stethen and Mr. Murray Kennedy, of Peterborough and Mr. Douglas Black, of Montreal. Mr. George Perks, of the Bank of Commerce was at "Wenonah" over Sunday.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn's cottage, a short distance from "Wenonah" is the scene of a large party. Amongst those who are present at this picturesque spot are the Misses Barlee, Mrs. Sherwood, Miss Sherwood and Mr. R. A. Morrow and Mrs. Morrow and Mr. Archie Morrow, spent Sunday there.

"Ishpeming" is the summer home of Messrs. T. Barrie and R. E. Layfield. Those who are enjoying the hospitality of this cottage are Miss Menzies, of Peterborough, Miss Hamilton, of North Bay, Miss Nellie Hall, Peterborough, and Mr. A. E. Brundrett, of the Ontario Bank, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Lech and family moved into "Pompadour Lodge" on Saturday. During the month of July this cottage was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lech.

Towards the upper end of the lake no more popular summer home is to be visited than "Belle Chasse", owned and occupied by Mr. H. LeBrun, of Peterborough. The cottage is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. LeBrun, Miss Dot Hagget, Miss LeMay, of Rochester, and Miss LeMay, of Watertown, New York. A number of visitors are expected at "Belle Chasse" before long.

"Fern Rock" cottage is one of the newest summer houses on Stony Lake. It is owned by Mr. H. O. Fisk and Frank Schneider, and is situated near Juniper Island. Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Miller, of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Will Miller and family, of Niagara, are guests at "Fern Rock Cottage."

Mr. Adam Hall's cottage on Syndicate Island has been the home of a jolly party during the month of July—amongst those who have been enjoying a few weeks at that delightful spot are Mrs. W. T. Hall, Miss Agnes Hall, Miss Helen Burnham, Miss Pearl Lunday, Mr. Llewellyn Hall and Mr. Harold Burnham, all of town, and Miss Lambe of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall are occupying their cottage as usual. They have as their guests, Miss Wilmot and Miss Eva Bradd, of Peterborough.

"Ballyraggett" is one of the best known summer homes on Stony Lake, as is well known to every one at all familiar with the lakes. It is owned by Mr. D. W. Dumble, of Peterborough, who every year enjoys the bracing atmosphere of Stony Lake. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Dumble, there are staying at "Ballyraggett," Miss Dumble, Messrs. Hal and Fred. Dumble, and Mrs. W. F. Johnston.

At Sandy Bay, Mr. R. B. Rogers house boat is situated as is also his Summer cottage. Mr. Rogers' family is summering there.

"Kenmore" is occupied by Mrs. J. H. Bates and family, of New York. Everyone here regrets exceedingly the death of Mr. Bates since last summer.

There was a most delightful service at the pavilion yesterday morning. The island was alive with people from all parts of the lake, and there were many who were unable to obtain admission to the pavilion, owing to the exceptionally large congregation. Seven or eight steam yachts were lying at the wharf, and about a hundred small crafts were pulled up on the rocks. One might have thought that there was not a cottager on the lake who was not present. Mr. Colville of Toronto, conducted the service. The address was given by Mr. Robert Garry, of Lockport, N.Y. A feature of the service was the excellent singing of Mr. Stutt, of Rochester, and Mr. A. L. Divis of Peterborough, both of whom rendered solos. Miss Cannon of Kentucky, who is staying with Miss Kendry at "Forest Nook," presided at the piano. There was Sunday school in the morning before service, and there was an evening service as well.

"The Hungry Four" is the name of a very jolly camp on Juniper Island. It is made up of Messrs Jim Lundy, George Lundy, Dug Hammond and H. Lawson.

"Glen Mar" is, as usual, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Eakins and family, of Toronto.

"Forest Nook," Miss Brown's well-known and popular resort, has among its guests, Mrs. Jas. Kendry, Miss Rutherford, Miss Gertrude Kendry, Miss Cannon of Louisville, Kentucky, and Mr. Sharpe of Pittsburg.

One of the finest yachts on the lake is the "Libbie," owned by Mr. Edward Carter of Pittsburg. He has had it refitted with a handsome 8 h. p. gasoline engine.

Mr. Lawrence Cluxton of Montreal, spent Sunday as the guest of Major Bellasis at the foot of Clear Lake.

Mr. Ed. Doyle, city editor of the Toronto News, was a guest over Sunday at "New Kimo," the summer home of Mr. Piper.

Mr. C. B. McAllister spend Sunday at his cottage. It is not Mr. McAllister's intention to occupy his cottage this year. He has removed his yacht to the lower waters.

Mr. Sam Hunter is occupying his cottage at McCracken's Landing, as usual.

Mr. Samuel Henderson, of Toronto has an elegant new yacht, which is giving much enjoyment to his friends. It is undoubtedly one of the finest yachts on the waters. He calls it the "Kannatha."

Mr. Willis Garrow and Mr. Les. Scott are spending a week at Victoria House, McCracken's Landing.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum's cottage has undergone extensive improvements since last year and it is now one of the prettiest little summer homes on Stony Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Meldrum have as their guests Rev. J. A. Wilson of Peterborough, and Miss Florence Cameron is spending a while with Miss Molly Meldrum.

Miss Daisy Mills is a guest at Dr. Morrison's cottage

"Catamaran," Mr. J. D. Collins' cottage, is again open. Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Montreal, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Collins.

MORE SURVEYORS FOR NEW ONTARIO.

Probable Extension to Temiskaming Railway.

It is probable that more surveying parties will be sent out this fall by the Ontario Government to take a preliminary survey of the country north of New Liskeard and up to the route proposed for the transcontinental road. The Government will then be in a position to lay information before the Legislature at its next session, and at the same time will probably induce legislation to extend the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway another hundred miles or so. It is expected that trains will be running to New Liskeard within a year and the northerly section will be pushed on with all possible speed.—Toronto Star.

THE MACEDONIANS.

Turkish Patrol Fell Into Ambush Laid by Bulgarians.

Constantinople, Aug. 3.—Isolated conflicts continue to occur in Macedonia. Last Friday a Turkish patrol which was pursuing the authors of a dynamite outrage, fell into an ambush laid by the Bulgarians near Drama, which is close to the famous plain of Philippi, where Brutus and Cassius were defeated, and seven Turks and three Bulgarians were killed. The Porte, however, announces that before long the forty thousand troops now in Macedonia will be disbanded.

It is stated that as a result of enquiry by Austrian and Russian consuls into the recent events at Salonica, Austria and Russia will demand the dismissal of the chief of police of Salonica. Reports from Armenia tell of rather serious disturbances, similar to those which preceded the trouble of 1894. Several conflicts have occurred between Turks and armed Kurds on one side and Armenians on the other, resulting in losses on both sides.

INTO A WATER VAT.

Dennis Keegan's Peculiar Death at Silverthorn Farm, Toronto Junction.

Toronto Junction, Aug. 3.—Dennis Deegan died Saturday evening under very peculiar circumstances. He was employed by Mr. Adams, the tenant of the Silverthorn farm, at the north end of the Junction, and when last seen alive was about to empty a pail of milk into a can which was standing in a vat of ice water used for chilling the milk. Shortly afterwards he was found dead, with his head and shoulders submerged in the water and the lower part of his body quite dry outside of the vat.

HON. EDWARD BLAKE.

He Cannot Act in the Alaska Boundary Case.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—The Government learns by cablegram from London that Hon. Edward Blake has been ordered by his physician to take a complete rest for six months. Under the circumstances he will be obliged to resign his position as senior counsel in connection with the Alaska boundary matter. It has not been settled who will succeed him.

Load Passed Over Him.

New Glasgow, N.S., Aug. 3.—Calder Fraser, a young business man of Stellarton, was killed four miles from his home on Saturday. He was removing a load of hay to his barn, when his horse became unmanageable. He had the animal by the bridle, and was trying to check it when the horse bolted and threw him down, the heavy load passing over his body, causing almost instant death.

WATCH WAS IN VAIN

Populace of Rome Disappointed at Seeing Smoke for Forth Time.

THE CARDINALS IN CONCLAVE

No Election of a Successor to Late Pope Leo XIII.—No Sign of What Result Will Be When Reached—Extraordinary Scenes in St. Peter's Square—50,000 People Roared "Ecco! Ecco! las Fumata."

Rome, Aug. 3.—No successor to Leo XIII. has yet been chosen. The conclusion is drawn that the strength of the leading candidates remains unbroken, and that no compromise candidate has yet appeared. And there is no indication of how long this condition of affairs will continue.

The prolongation of the contest has aroused tremendous public interest. Every trace of that apathy which followed the death of the late Pope has vanished, and instead there now exists a burning interest in everything pertaining to the election of his successor. Last night this culminated in the appearance of a great crowd which packed the square of St. Peter's, and presented a spectacle seldom seen, even at the scene of so many historic ceremonies.

Princes, princesses, archbishops, bishops, monsignors, priests, in short people from every walk in life from that of nobleman to street beggar talk of nothing but las fumata (the smoke from the burning ballots.)

In St. Peter's Square.

The scene at St. Peter's last night was by far the most impressive that has occurred in Rome since the late Pope became ill. After the fruitless morning ballot a belief spread that a new Pontiff would surely be elected last evening. Carriages and vehicles of every description rattled into the piazza of St. Peter's. The regular Sunday leisure was forgotten in the anxiety to see the new occupant of the Holy See. The streets converging into St. Peter's became black with the thousands who entered the square with the ceaseless regularity of an incoming tide. From the barracks came large reinforcements of troops, who marched across the piazza and lined up at the foot of the steps of the Basilica, leaving only small spaces between the companys in order to prevent a sudden rush to get inside St. Peter's to witness the new Pope give his blessing to the Catholic world. A strong force of cavalry was picketed in case if riot.

Two thousand soldiers were in the square. By 6 o'clock it was estimated that 50,000 people occupied the vast amphitheatre. Almost encircling this great audience rose the stately pillars of the colonnade, beneath which many rested and waited. Nearby hundreds of cabs were drawn up, their occupants eagerly scanning through glasses the little smokestack of the chapel. Stretching away for over a quarter of a mile, a distance from which it would have been absolutely impossible to see the smoke, were other thousands waiting to know the result. The rays of the setting sun glancing from the dome of St. Peter's lighted up the house tops at the opposite end of the square, and they also were crowded with anxious watchers. Among the vast throng in the square itself were many German students, whost scarlet cassocks formed vivid patches of color.

When the hour of 6 struck, a tremor of expectancy ran through the multitude, became, according to yesterday's program, the burning of the ballots, or the announcement of an election would come within a few minutes.

Hundreds gathered below the window from which the new Pontiff is to bestow his first blessing. Suddenly, exactly at 6.40 p.m., a sharp cry arose "Ecco Ecco." Instantly the cry was taken up by fifty thousand throats, and grew and grew until the immense piazza fairly roared with —Ecco! Ecco! las fumata." Then silence fell like a spell, while the thousands watched. From the smoke stack of the Sistine Chapel a tiny stream of light grey smoke curled lazily downward. With no wind to carry it away, the smoke hung heavily in the hot air and then gradually disappeared.

For a moment the crowd believed that the signal meant an election, for there is a tradition that the cardinals are allowed to send up a little smoke as a notification of an election, and much smoke in the case of a disagreement. Any such hopes, however, were almost immediately dissipated, for a cloud of very thick smoke emerged and continued for five minutes.

With many ejaculations of disappointment the populace watched the last trace of the ballots disappear, and then dispersed.

Quick Work.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 3.—Walter Nichols was arrested in this city at 4.30 o'clock Friday afternoon. He was wanted at Niagara Falls, Ont., on a charge of larceny. At 5 o'clock the same day he was turned over to the Canadian chief of police, and at 5.45 he had been sentenced by Magistrate Cruickshank to six months' imprisonment in the Central Prison at Toronto.

Girl Badly Burned.

Hamilton, Aug. 3.—Early Saturday evening Katie Dwyer, daughter of Frank Dwyer, was terribly burned about the back, arms and chest. Her apron caught fire while she was pouring water into the kettle and every stitch of her clothing was burned off. The doctors at the City Hospital said last night that they have hopes of her recovery.

MARTYR TO REFORM.

Chinese Journalist Beaten to Death With Bamboo Rods.

HIS FLESH TORN TO RIBBONS.

This Horrible Punishment Was Inflicted by Orders of the Empress-Dowager to Terrify Reformers—Most Horrible Incident Since the Massacre of 1900 — Glorified Reform in Farewell Message.

Pekin, Aug. 3.—A journalist of this city named Shen Chien, was executed here Saturday. According to the official report of the execution, Chien was beheaded, but it has become known that this report is false and that the condemned man was beaten to death in accordance with special instructions issued by the Dowager Empress.

The incident is declared to be the most horrible that has occurred in China since the massacre of 1900. The killing occurred in the court yard of the Yamen of the Board of Punishment. The victim was beaten with bamboo rods for two hours in the afternoon, the flesh on his back, arms and legs being torn to ribbons. After life had apparently become extinct the executioners, fearing that Chien had merely fainted and might revive, twisted a rope tightly around his neck and left the body in this condition until yesterday morning.

Despite the precautions taken by the officials, the prisoner smuggled from his cell a farewell message in the form of a poem, in which he glorified reform and exhorted his colleagues to continue the work.

Getting 23,000 Rifles.

Pekin, Aug. 3.—Yuan Shai Kai, the viceroy of Chi Li Province, is said to be placing large orders for arms in anticipation of the prohibition of their importation into China, which occurs this month. He has ordered from Japan 23,000 rifles and 48 field pieces and from Germany a number of machine guns.

Two thousand soldiers from Moscow have arrived at Port Arthur and 14,000 more are reported to be en route.

SCHR. GEORGINA GOES DOWN.

Was in Collision With the Barque Brigitte on Thursday.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 2.—The Norwegian barque Brigitte, from Havre, France, for Sheet Harbor, arrived at Canso yesterday and reported having been in collision fifty miles west of there on Thursday night with the schooner Georgina of Burgeo, Nfld. The schooner filled and sank, but the captain and crew saved their lives by climbing aboard the barque. The schooner was bound from Burgeo to Halifax with a cargo of dry fish and was uninsured. The barque's stem, bowsprit and headgear were carried away and she sustained other damages.

PROF. LESSARD DROWNED.

Tried to Save a Bather and Both Went Down at Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—Prof. Lessard, a famous swimming teacher, was drowned late Saturday afternoon while attempting to save Armand Duflesis, who had been bathing at St. Helen's Island. Seeing Duflesis about to sink Lessard swam to his assistance. The drowning man clutched his would-be rescuer and both sank.

Woman Hangs Herself.

Toronto, Aug. 3.—Another suicide occurred yesterday morning, Mrs. Mary McBride having hanged herself in the woodshed at her residence, 348 Wellesley street. The lifeless body was found by her 9-year-old daugter shortly after 9 o'clock. Deceased leaves a husband and three daughters. It is thought that melancholia, resulting from the death of her only son a short time ago, caused her to take her life. Coroner Greig decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The Boy Escaped.

St. Thomas, Aug. 3.—John Johnston, a 14-year-old lad of Springfield, was on Saturday committed for trial on charges of housebreaking and theft and was brought to the county jail here by County Constable Clunas. Governor Moore, however, refused to take the lad on the ground that he being under 14 years of age could not be received into the jail. The boy was taken to a hotel, but escaped.

Indian Stabbed.

"MY IRISH PEOPLE."

King Edward VII. Address on Leaving Ireland.

THE DAWN OF A BRIGHTER DAY

His Majesty's Earnest Prayer Is That the National Well-Being May Multiply From Year to Year in Ireland—Enthusiasm at Cork, Where the King Presented Colors to Two Irish Regiments.

Cowes, Isle of Wight, Aug. 3.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert reached here last evening, and King Edward immediately issued the following address:

"To my Irish People:

"I desire on leaving Ireland to express to my Irish people how deeply I have been touched by the kindness and good will they have shown to the Queen and myself. Our experience on previous visits had indeed prepared us for a traditional welcome of a warm-hearted race, but our expectations have been exceeded. Wherever we have gone, in town or country, tokens of loyalty and affection, proffered by every section of the community have made an enduring impression upon our hearts. For a country so attractive and a people so gifted, we cherish the warmest regard, and it is expected, therefore, with supreme satisfaction, that I have so often during our stay, heard the hope expressed that a brighter day is dawning upon Ireland. I shall eagerly await the fulfilment of this hope. Its realization will, under divine Providence, depend upon the steady development of self-reliance and co-operation upon better and more practical education, upon the growth of industrial and commercial enterprise and upon that increase of mutual respect which the responsibility my Irish people now enjoy in the public administration of their local affairs, is well fitted to teach. It is my earnest prayer that those and other means of national well-being may multiply from year to year in Ireland, and that the blessings of peace, contentment and prosperity may be abundantly vouchsafed to her.

(Signed) "Edward R. and I."

"August 1, 1903."

Copies of the address will be posted throughout Ireland to-day.

JUBILANT CORK.

His Majesty Presented Colors to Two Irish Regiments.

Cork, Ireland, Aug. 3.—The firing of royal salutes and enthusiastic cheering welcomed King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the royal party on their arrival at Cork Saturday morning on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert from Derehaven. The port was bright with bunting, the town was well decorated and the streets were filled with jubilant sightseers.

The Lord Mayor and corporation of Cork welcomed the visitors when they landed. Their Majesties drove through the decorated streets, which were lined with troops and blue jackets, to the race course, where the King presented colors to two Irish regiments.

During the afternoon Their Majesties visited the exposition. Addresses were presented by several local bodies, to which the King jointly replied, expressing his great interest in the welfare of Ireland.

Their Majesties subsequently returned to Queenstown, where they received further addresses. The King in his farewell reply said that the people could rest assured that he had the interest of Ireland at heart.

When Their Majesties embarked on the royal yacht for Cowes the strains of "Come Back to Erin" mingled with the saluto of guns.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, having on board King Edward and Queen Alexandra, sailed for Cowes at 7.40 p.m.

WANTED TO DIE.

Young Girl Discovered in the Water Just in Time.

London, Aug. 3.—May Barker, about 18 years of age, daughter of William H. Barker, of 14 Bruce street, left her home and proceeded to the cove about two blocks dissant. Here she entered the water unobserved and was afterwards discovered close to the banks in an unconscious condition. She was found by her mother and sister, some time afterwards, on being missed from her home. Assistance was called, and after some time she was restored to consciousness by Dr. Hunt and removed to her home. It is thought to be a deliberate attempt at suicide, as the girl had expressed the desire to take her life earlier in the evening, and would have succeeded but was found just in time.

THREE OFFICERS SHOT.

California Convicts Kill Them and Are Still at Liberty.

Placerville, Calif., Aug. 3. — Reports of an encounter between the law officers and the thirteen convicts who escaped from Folsom prison were received Saturday night. The sheriff's posse, assisted by a force of the Placerville militia, came upon some of the fugitives near the Grand Victory mine about dusk and shots were exchanged.

Dallas Bosquit, the son of Sheriff Bosquit, is said to be among the slain. Militiaman Dill was shot through the body, and is not expected to recover. The greatest anxiety prevails here concerning the safety of the soldiers. It is known that six of them went into the brush after the convicts, and the only trace of them was the wounded man Dill, who was unable to give any clue concerning his companions. The convicts are believed to have taken refuge in the Grand Victory mine, and there is talk of setting fire to it and driving out the criminals. Additional forces are being hurried to the mine.

The convicts are still at large. The five who engaged in a fatal fight with the pursuers at the Grand Victory mines Saturday night were not seen yesterday, and apparently have made a successful retreat. The dead bodies of Festus Rutherford and W. C. Jones, the two militiamen who were shot by the outlaws, were found yesterday morning where they had fallen. Gill, the National guardsman, who was shot through one lung, is now expected to recover.

Another victim of the convict chase was Philip Spinger, a resident of this district. He is deaf and failing to respond to an order to halt, was fatally shot by a picket early yesterday morning.

WHEEL PIT EXPLOSION.

Dynamite Cartridge Causes Serious Injury to Five Workmen.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 3.—A bad explosion occurred in the Dawson and Riley wheel pit of the Canadian Niagara Power Company about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, knocking five men unconscious for some time, cutting their heads and bruising and breaking their limbs. It seems that the man known as the "monkey driver" while loading a drilled hole in the pump hole section, by accident knocked the cap of one of the dynamite cartridges against a rock, prematurely exploding it.

The explosion felled the men around the hole to the ground unconscious. One of their number, named Lundy, received a five-inch scalp wound, while another, named Willick, got his ankle broken. Both men named, with the "monkey driver," were badly injured. The latter had his face badly lacerated. The other two men escaped with a bad shaking up and bruises. None of their injuries will prove fatal.

INSPECTOR OF POST OFFICES IN TOWN.

Investigating Postal Service With View of Improving it.

Mr. George Ross, Chief Post Office Inspector for Canada, was in town on Saturday and to-day looking into the postal service here with the view of recommending improvements.

Mr. Ross was ordered here as a result of the deputation's visit to Ottawa last week, in which the needs of the town for a better service were impressed upon the Postmaster-General.

On Saturday morning Mayor Roger and Ald. McWilliams went over with Mr. Ross the conditions of the service here, and the improvements desired were enumerated to him. Two general delivery wickets were asked and one parcel wicket, and also keeping the general delivery open at night. One change asked for and immediately granted by Mr. Ross was that the outer doors might be left open until a later hour. The hours have been from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., but commencing to-day these have been extended from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m.

During the afternoon the inspector was taken over the town and shown the distances from the post office of the different sections of the town, as an evidence of the need of a very much improved service being given. A special visit was made to the works of the Canadian General Electric Company, and the difficulty of the men there to get their mail was shown him.

Mr. Ross was here again to-day gathering information upon which to base his report to the department.

STREET RAILWAY AGREEMENT.

Workingmen's Tickets are Again the Subject.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I read with much interest the proposed agreement re the street railway in Wednesday evening's paper, also "A.B.C's" letter and the answer thereto in regard to the same in Thursday's paper.

I think Mr. Donnistoun's statement in regard to granting 32 tickets for $1 very good, but I think in view of the large bonus being granted by the town for the long space of 30 years, which means the coming generation as well as the present, that it should be put in the agreement.

As it is now, the man who has the $1 to put down for his 25 tickets has the advantage over the poor man as well as our working boys and girls who do not always have the $1 handy, and therefore have to pay 1-6 of a cent more for their ride.

I think this agreement cannot meet with public approval under its present form.

Yours, etc.,
R.J.P.D.

THE PRINTERS' EXCURSION.

A Delightful Trip to Jubilee Point Saturday.

A LARGE NUMBER PRESENT.

The Results of the Races and Other Details of the Most Successful Picnic of the Season.

What is perhaps the most looked forward excursion year by year, is the Printers' Picnic, which was held on Saturday afternoon at Jubilee Point, and at which there were a very large number of persons.

The day was one of the glorious midsummer ones, when everybody on dry land is perspiring visibly, muttering threats at everybody and everything within reach, and everyone on the water is feeling deliciously cool — in fact just as one feels after coming out of an ice cream parlour.

The City of Peterborough was the first of two boats to leave the wharf. She was laden with a human freight of no ordinary size in point of numbers, and after making several ear-splitting shrieks, steamed away at 1.45 o'clock for Jubilee. It was just 2 o'clock when the Water Lily weighed anchor and began her voyage.

The Little Lake cemetery, ever known as one of the beauty spots of this locality, looked very picturesque in the flashing sunlight, but no more so than the glinting river with its drifting saw logs and wooded banks. All made a sunny picture, so bright but calm, so full of life, and yet so peaceful, that many felt themselves being dreamily lulled off to sleep, musing on the old Indian encampments, which used to be, and which are now replaced by an occasional tent or two, near which a fire is trying to burn in spite of the frantic poking of the stoker.

And so all down the river, there was something to interest. If it was not the beautiful scenery, it was an unfortunate member of the male sex mournfully groaning over a pair of sculls, while he transported over the silvery waters a lady of unusual dimensions. If it was not either of these it was a group of campers looking very lonely, but vainly endeavouring to make everyone believe that they were spending a delightful vacation, while from the slope of the bank they gaze with longing eyes at the steamer, with its happy freight, swiftly wending its way down the river.

And so from bend to bend of the serpentine river, there was something beautiful to behold in nature, more especially when the turn for Jubilee had been made, for this portion of the Otonabee is perhaps the prettiest, and was shown off to perfection on so lovely a day.

Slowly the heavy, bright-decked steamer, the City of Peterborough, drew up to the landing place, and the people streamed off together, vainly trying to get out six times as fast as they possibly could. No sooner had the City reached the wharf, than the Water Lily, which had caught up to her forerunner some time before, reached her moorings and disembarked her passengers.

Once on the hill a suitable place was captured, the picnic baskets opened, and a meal begun. The mosquitoes were a terrible nuisance. Something should be done. Some enterprising professor of languages should study the mosquito language and then write out a few million signs—"Keep off the Grass"—which should be posted on all the tables and other comfortable resting places. If this could not be done, a mosquito police force should be organized for the season. Perhaps the council or the Board of Health will take the matter in hand. Anyhow, prompt action is needed.

After tea the crowd was collected by the means of a very musical dinner bell which was very forcibly rung, and a number of races and contests run off.

The first was a pie-eating contest in which four boys participated. It is believed all had bad dreams on Saturday night and it is rumoured that the doctor has been attending the winner, to whose bedside the entire family was summoned on Sunday. The Examiner, however, learns that some slight hope is entertained for his recovery. Those who entered were:—Patrick Gorham, Frank Hayes, W. Jones, and Gerald O'Brien. The largest, but not necessarily the greediest boy won. The contest resulted:—(1) W. Jones, (2) Frank Hayes, who were respectively rewarded with a tie pin and a pair of cuff links. If ever anybody deserved a prize those boys did. If they manage to live for another year after that pie they will do well.

The little girls' race resulted as follows:—Vera Peters, first, and Minnie Bolton, second. They received a silver spoon and a pin tray.

There were four entries for the little boys race, which resulted as follows:—J. O'Brien, first, a knife, and Frank Hayes, next, a baseball mitt.

There were six entries for the young ladies' race, which was won by Miss Gracie Snook, who received a blouse set. Miss Ettie Orishaw came second and got a chatelaine bag.

Mr. Fred. McGrath came in first and Mr. W. Crowley second in the Young men's race. The prizes were a knife in case and a clothes brush.

The married ladies' race was most exciting, the contestants coming down the track, in spite of their hampering skirts, with creditable speed. Mrs. Clark won and received a butter knife, while Mrs. Coursey came second and as a reward for her exertions got a pair of scissors.

The married men's race resulted as follows:—(1) Mr. Fred. Post, (2) Mr. H. Snook. The prizes were an alarm clock and a pair of cuff links.

This ended the racing contests, which were judged by Mr. G. Paxman and Mr. Alf. Smith, both of whom acquitted themselves creditably especially when it came to catching the female winners in their manly arms, as they dashed up to the winning post.

It was seven o'clock when the "City" commenced her homeward journey and shortly after when the Water Lily followed her example.

The passage was uneventful. Dancing and singing were indulged in from beginning to end, for which it is believed no one is the worse.

Occasionally ahead could be seen the twinkling watch-fires of the various encampments, which were developed into big blazes in honour of the passing vessels. The day had worn away and over the fair and wooded valley of the old Otonabee, the night descended as a dark cloud on a lofty mountain peak, bringing to a close the Printers' Picnic, which had been such a triumphant success and which everyone enjoyed so much, thanks to the untiring work of the managing committee, which was composed as follows:—Messrs. W. A. Smith, Geo. Paxman, G. Cairns and A. Martin (Secretary.)

Knowing "Where Your'e At"

Is very necessary in busines—especially in the prevention of remnants accumulating. We watch every department of the Bookstore, and cut deep to move out all oddments in their season. In consequence of enormous selling this summer we find a large accumulation of

Remnants

Wall Paper.

There is only one way to crowd them out, and that is by relentless reductions in price. All these nice bright Wall Paper Remnants must go regardless of profits. Battering down original prices to induce buyers to buy now and save higher prices in the Fall. Come and help the Bookstore to help you.

AUGUST BEST BUYING MONTH.

Not everybody takes advantage of August prices to buy their Dry Goods, but many of our customers do. August prices are low at this store—be it a late season want or an early Fall want or an all the year staple article. In any case there is a saving. Why?

Because this business is run on a percentage plan. We know to the fraction of a dollar what each month's business must be. Then we figure that for the usually dull months, such as August, very extra inducements must be offered. That's why we name these prices on these goods:

TORONTO AND TRENT CANAL.

Toronto "Saturday Night" is fearless and outspoken in its treatment of some questions, hitting with Donnybrook impartiality, wherever it sees a head. But there are spots on the sun, and Jupiter himself sometimes dozes. "Saturday Night" is not always consistent. In its last issue it falls foul of the Mail and Empire, and says: "What it (the Mail) can and does tell its readers is intelligible and interesting as long as it confines itself to what it knows." "Saturday Night" should take this to heart itself. In the very next column it "jumps with both feet," figuratively speaking, upon the Trent Valley Canal. It says:

"The enormous expenditure which has been made on the Trent Valley Canal, and the proposal to vote another $250,000 for its construction, was very properly the subject of an enquiry by Mr. Brock, M.P., for Centre Toronto. The absolute folly of starting to build a ditch of this kind, about five feet deep, and which has so far cost nearly $4,000,000, and which will be useless as an artery of trade, does not need to be demonstrated. It was started to help a few pull-backers in Parliament to help them in their elections. It has been continued for the same purpose, and is now the laughing stock of everybody who sees it and compares the income with the out-go. Scarcely enough to grease the hinges of the locks has been realized, yet to please the men through whose constituency the canal is being built these extraordinary sums are annually voted. If it meant the rapid development of the country it would be all right; as it means simply an additional burden placed upon the taxpayer who in the remotest possible shape is to receive any benefit the whole thing is preposterous."

If "Saturday Night" would apply to itself the language it applies to the Mail and confine its criticisms "to what it knows," it would be consistent. The "enormous expenditure" upon the Trent Canal constitutes a strong reason for sufficient additional expenditure to insure its completion. The Trent Canal in its present condition is like a trans-continental railway from ocean to ocean, with an impassable gulf in the middle forbidding the junction and operation of the line as a whole. The canal, as it is now, is comparatively useless, except for local purposes, but if opened from the Georgian Bay to Trenton it would be a national waterway, shortening and cheapening the grain route from the Northwest, and forming one of the most important outlets to tide water, and a powerful regulator of railway rates. If "Saturday Night" knew more about the Trent Canal it would not call it a "five-foot ditch." If completed it will be navigable for barges capable of carrying eighteen to twenty thousand of bushels of each, as much as an ordinary train load. Thus one tug with a tow of five or six barges would be transporting as much wheat as half a dozen trains, and at a much cheaper rate, and if sufficient barges were available a million bushels of wheat could be passing through the canal continuously. It would require considerable space to set forth fully the national advantages of the Trent Canal, for there is no disputing the fact that the Trent Canal is a necessity of transportation. With the rapid development of the Northwest and the phenomenal increase in the production of wheat, the glut of traffic will soon be very great. The present traffic outlets are already insufficient for the demand, and it will not be long before all the existing routes, and all projected routes, including the Trent Canal, will be insufficient to move our western crop to the seaboard. Therefore, not one can be spared, and more will have to be provided, or the capacity of present outlets increased. Our contemporary is voicing the jealous sentiment of Toronto on this question. Parochial patriotism may suggest and justify this attitude, but with a broader outlook Toronto would see that the Trent Canal, as a factor in developing, populating and giving prosperity to the Northwest, would contribute to the advantage of Toronto. This city, as a great manufacturing and commercial centre, stands to gain by enlarging and improving the Northwest market, and any enterprise which tends to bring this about will be to her ultimate advantage, in a degree to far outweigh any little local disadvantage the people of Toronto seem to think would accrue from the completion and operation of the Trent Canal.

Athletics and T.A.S. Play a Scheduled Game Wednesday.

Auburns Took Another Game From Pullmans—Athletics II Defeat Campbellford—Other Sporting Notes.

LACROSSE.

ATHLETICS WIN AT CAMPBELLFORD.

On Saturday the Athletic II. team journeyed to Campbellford and played a game with the team of that town. The teams lined up at 4.05 p. m. and after 2 1-2 minutes play Ketchum secured the ball and after passing three of the Campbellford men, shot, scoring the first goal for Peterborough. Referee Dryden got things going again and some hard checking took place, the ball finally being passed to Patterson, who scored, making it 2 straight—time 5 minutes.

Athletics took the third goal, Ketchum doing the trick after 3 minutes' play. The quarter ended 3-0 in the Athletics' favour.

After five minutes rest the teams again faced each other, Campbellford going in to win or die. Allie Alcott scored Campbellford's 1st goal in 1 1-2 minutes. Some hard checking took place, neither home being able to score and the quarter ended 3-1 in Peterborough's favour.

The next quarter the game got warmer, but the ball was kept near centre most of the time until after 10 1-2 minutes play. Patterson again scored for Athletics, making it 4-1 in their favour.

Patterson was sent to the fence for one minute for checking Crowe too hard. No more scoring was done in this quarter. Bob Crowe was sent to the fence for one minute for a slight infraction of the rules.

The next quarter Campbellford went on the field to win and they certainly made things warm for for the boys in blue. After 3 minutes' play E. Ford scored for the Athletics making it 5—1. This was too much for the home team and they started to play "lacrosse." They only played about two minutes when one of their boys scored and after the face off another of their men scored again in 1 1-2 minutes.

Time was getting short and the home team was doing great work, checking the Athletics hard, and seemed about to win out. The spectators catching the spirit of the game gave the home team every encouragement, and just as time was called they scored again, making the final score 5—4 for the visitors.

The teams lined up as follows:

Campbellford.	Athletics.

Shea	V. Hamilton,

Pope	T. Glover

Hamilton in goal played a good game and many times turned aside on the nets. Kemp and Moore also did good service on the defence. Pope Reesor and Crowe were the stars on the home team.

The Athletics are much pleased with the treatment they received, both from the Campbellford team and the spectators. While there they were guests at the St. Lawrence Hotel, and "Mine Host" McGuire did his utmost to give the boys a hearty welcome.

MODERN SPIES OF PEACE.

How Nations Discover What They Must Know in Their Neighbors' Territory, But Are Not Allowed To.

There are many things about each other which nations would like to know, says the London Express correspondent.

In order to discover what they must know but are not allowed to, civilized States employ military spies. They may be Military or Naval Attaches, duly accredited to an Embassy, or secret agents, who are sent to reside or travel in those districts from which information is required by the Intelligence Department.

The work of the first class is not unimportant, but it is not risky. The officer may not overstep the bounds of common honesty, and rarely, if ever, attempts to achieve anything secretly.

He is closely watched, and knows it. If he becomes a strong centre of attraction he may divert the attention of watchers from some secret agent who is possessing himself of the particulars the Attache is ostensibly so anxious to acquire, but is successfully prevented from securing. The Attache is useful as a clearing agent.

Spies become possessed of facts which are of no real value to those who employ them, but are assumed to be worth much by the agents of other countries, and an exchange of "pieces" is effected. Sometimes apparently useless information is sought simply for its exchange value.

For instance, some years ago two British officers created considerable annoyance in Russia by their persistence in hanging about the district in which the autumn manoeuvres were to take place.

Then representations were made at the British Embassy, where the officers were unknown, and subsequently they disappeared for a time, only to be discovered at the end of the manoeuvres in one of the five great fortresses which protect the west frontier of Russia, and the one that had been the centre of the military operations.

Had these men been Prussian officers their position would have been dangerous, and an unpleasant international incident might have occurred. The Russo-German frontier is nothing to Great Britain, neither is the Franco-German. We exchange the first "piece" with Germany for the second, and the second with France for a little bit of news about Russia in Asia which India believes to be important. And thus we get home.

Each country has its own peculiar sphere of interest to which it devotes its greatest attention. Great Britain has so many that, properly speaking, it has none. But India is always alarmed as to Russia; and agents—British and native—of the India Department are ever busy seeking particulars likely to be of service when we have to defend an Empire which already in the military sense extends from Aden to Hong Kong.

Most of the Indian agents in Russia are officers of the Indian army, but, needless to state, they do not travel as such. Some affect to be tourists of an innocent but inquiring turn of mind; some go as commercial travelers; some lean to religious propaganda; while others collect curiosities.

These agents have been so energetic and prolific in their disguises that in the South of Russia the bona-fide commercial traveler excites suspicion. The Russians now insist upon all "commercials" being licensed and taxed; moreover, the Intelligence Department has found the orders for goods obtained by its travelers somewhat embarrassing.

As a buying agent the spy has also worked well. No Briton can now go across the Caspian to purchase skins any more than to sell hardware or even just to amuse himself, without his letters being opened and the company he keeps carefully noted.

In ordinary circumstances, when the spy is known, he thereby becomes innocuous, and he knows it. If discovered, the impolite Russian way is to forbid him to enter the country, or to declare he comes from a plague-infested port, or that he is a Roman Catholic or a Jew.

The polite way is to offer him a guard, or helpmate, or companion. The spy is then shown what he must see, and as soon as he has seen and reported, the various military dispositions are changed so that the information he obtains is worse than useless, being actually misleading.

The polite British way is to take the recognized spy round the golf links, or give him pegs of whiskey and tell him soft stories as he sits on a stool enjoying (?) interminable regimental cricket, then to send or take him home a happy, talkative man with nothing to tell.

Many are the dodges resorted to by British agents in order to avoid being "spoofed" by their Russian hosts. Their common way is to hunt in couples, each independent of the other so that if one is taken the other may still succeed in getting through with the work.

In the Far East in the matter of espionage, Japan has the game almost to itself. A Japanese can readily become so good an imitation of the Chinaman, Manchu, or Mongol that the Russian cannot identify him, and the Chinaman who does will certainly not denounce him.

He can simulate ignorance, almost imbecility—which the Russian spy is too vain to do—and as merchant, artisan, or interpreter he can go anywhere. Then there are the women! The Japanese amah, apparently stupid and ignorant as a German gooseherd, is really as competent as the average spy in taking notice of things that matter.

What a Japanese does not know of the Russian military dispositions in Manchuria is not worth knowing, and this knowledge, like all careful espionage, makes for peace, not war. Had the British methods of espionage been better there had been no war in South Africa in 1899. Since that date we have improved considerably, but we have yet much to learn.—London Express Correspondence

BOB WHITE.

Shrill and clear from coppice near,
A song within the woodland ringing,
A treble note from silver throat,
The siren of the fields is singing—
Bob—Bob—White!
And from the height the answer sweet
Float's faintly o'er the rippling wheat—
Bob—White!

The elder flowers in snowy showers
Upon the velvet turf are falling,
And where they lie the soft winds sigh,
The while the fluted voice is calling—
Bob—Bob—White!
And far across the yellow grain,
The wafted echo swells again—
Bob—White!

The purple mist by sunbeams kissed
Drifts upward towards the morning's splendor;
And through the haze of shaded ways
The vibrant lute pipes low and tender—
Bob—Bob—White!
And fainter, sweeter, softer grown
The answer on the breeze is blown—
Bob—White!

The shadows sleep in hollows deep;
The dewy pawpaw leaves are thrilling!
The silence broods o'er sot tudes,
Unbroken, save one pure note trilling—
Bob—Bob—White!
So pure, so clear, so sweetly rare,
The answer steals upon the air—
Bob—White!

O song of youth! of love and truth!
Of mellow days forever dying!
Still through the years my sad heart hears
Your tender cadence, sighing, sighing—
Bob—Bob—White!
And far across life's troubled ways
The echo comes from boyhood days—
Bob—White!

Justly Indignant.

The house had been full of aunties come to spend the holidays, and the baby's six-year-old brother was heard one morning confiding his woe to his father:

"Say, papa, do you know, I've had to sleep a whole week in a room just full of women?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Extremely Cynical.

"Wasn't that a dreadful scandal?"

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne.

"I understand the people concerned are almost heartbroken."

"That's true. It was a dreadful humiliation to them to find they didn't have enough influence to keep it out of the newspapers."—Washington Star.

CANADA'S CROPS.

Outlook in Ontario Especially Pleasing—Generally Good Yield Promised From All Provinces—The Reports.

Toronto, Aug. 1.—Although it is early yet to forecast definitely the prospects for agricultural products the reports received promise another good, if not extraordinary harvest.

Altho it is early yet to forecast definitely the prospects for agricultural products the reports received promise another good, if not extraordinary harvest, taking Canada as a whole. The outlook in Ontario is especially pleasing, and the very poor crop in Southern Manitoba is counter-balanced by the good yield promised in the Northwest Territories, which is exceedingly good, notwithstanding the abnormal weather prevalent during the growing season. In general, the severe drought in May and early June will not apparently prevent a good all-round harvest, because of the abundant rains since.

The Farming World has undertaken the collection of reports from the different provinces, according to which the conditions of standing crops are as follows:

Ontario.

Fall wheat will yield from 20 bushels in the north and extreme west to 35, in Elgin and the Niagara peninsula. The spring wheat crop is found chiefly in the northern districts, and is fair. There is a greater acreage of oats, and a good prospect of a crop of from 40 to 50 bushels per acre. Barley is also promising, and 40 bushels per acre is expected. Corn does not show so well, partly on account of early droughts, but largely also because of inferior seed. A yield of over 70 bushels in some districts is expected, however. Pasture is in fine condition now, a fact very important to a dairying province, but the hay generally is below the average, being both thin and short, except in Wentworth and Haldimand. Apples are few. Fewer beets and mangolds are grown that last year, and the crop varies in different districts. Plums are a fine crop.

Nova Scotia.

Fall wheat—none grown, and but little spring wheat. Oats, a slight increase in acreage and a full average yield in prospect. Barley is a good average, recent rains having improved the crop. Pasture is only fair, tho improving a little. Hay will show about 60 per cent. of the average. Rather better than an average crop of apples is expected, and the root crop is fair.

New Brunswick and P.E.I.

Fall wheat is not grown. Spring wheat will average about 18 bushels to the acre. Oats are very promising for a good crop, and barley will yield about the same as last year. Corn, not extensively grown, is below the average. Pasture, which was poor till June 15, is improved very much. Hay will run about 75 per cent. of the average. Apples will be only about half an average crop, and plums about 40 per cent. Roots are an average crop.

Quebec.

No fall wheat grown, but spring wheat will probably run into a crop of from 25 to 30 bushels per acre. Oats are only of fair promise, tho some districts will have a crop of 30 to 40 bushels. Barley looks well, and, tho the acreage is less, the crop will be an average total. The corn was frosted early, and prospects are therefore poor. Pasture is poor also, and hay, the standby of the French farmer, is only half a crop. Apples are no crop, but potatoes are a good average.

Manitoba.

Southern Manitoba suffers this year very severely from early and continual drought. From Winnipeg to Deloraine the wheat crop will not average more than 12 bushels to the acre, where it harvested 25 bushels last year. Many farmers are summer-fallowing their grain field. Further north and west of this extensive area the conditions are not so unfortunate. In the north the pasture and hay, tho small, are much better, and oats will reap one-half the average crop over the whole province.

The N.W. Territories.

With abundant rains of late the wheat promises to thresh about 25 bushels per acre, off shorter straw because of early droughts. There is a somewhat increased acreage, but over the whole Northwest there is not thought likely to be more, if as much, of a total yield of wheat as last year. Pasture and hay are fine in the ranching districts. Oats are a fair crop, with a slightly increased acreage.

British Columbia.

All crops are reported doing finely, tho wheat is not grown to any extent.

An Expert's Opinion.

Priscilla—Do you approve of long engagements?

Mayme—Well, that depends. If the fellow has plenty of money and takes you to everything a long engagement is endurable. Otherwise it is better to rush it through and start a fresh one. —Detroit Free Press.

A Woman's Way.

She—Why, she's been out four seasons.

He—Well, I suppose she counts four seasons to the year.—Boston Herald.

A Bad Plan.

"Say, I got a scheme. I'm going to keep my bait and my fish all in the same can."

"You'd better not, Bill."

"Why?"

"'Cause your bait will eat up your fish."

Uncommon Colds.

"It is just a common cold," people say, "there's no danger in that." Admitting their statement, then there are uncommon colds, colds which are dangerous; for many a fatal sickness begins with a cold. If we could tell the common cold from the uncommon we could feel quite safe. But we can't. The uncommon variety is rarely recognized until it has fastened its hold on the lungs, and there are symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs, bronchitis, "weak" lungs and other diseases of the organs of respiration. It increases the supply of pure, rich blood and builds up the emaciated body.

"I took a severe cold which settled in the bronchial tubes," writes Rev. Frank Hay, of Nortonville, Jefferson Co., Kansas. After trying medicines labeled 'Sure Cure,' almost without number, I was led to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took two bottles and was cured, and have stayed cured. When I think of the great pain I had to endure, and the terrible cough I had, it seems almost a miracle that I was so soon relieved. That God may spare you many years and abundantly bless you is the prayer of your grateful friend."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

British Railway Accidents.

A Blue Book has been issued by the British Government giving returns of accidents and casualties as reported to the Board of Trade by the several railway companies in the United Kingdom, during the year ended December 31, 1902, together with reports of the inspecting officers of the railway department to the Board of Trade upon certain accidents which were inquired into. Accidents to trains, rolling stock, permanent way, etc., caused the death of 12 persons and injury to 854 persons. Of the 12 who lost their lives 6 were passengers and 4 servants of companies. Of the 854 persons injured 732 were passengers, 110 servants of companies, and 13 belonged to neither of these classes. In 1901, 11 persons were killed and 637 injured, but 1901 was noteworthy for the fact that in this year train accidents did not cause the death of a single person. Of the 641 persons killed and 2,094 injured by accidents from causes other than accidents to trains, rolling stock, permanent way, etc., of the 135 killed and 1,814 of the injured were passengers. While trespassing on the railways, 286 persons were killed and 116 injured, 135 persons committed suicide on railways, and 17 persons were injured while apparently attempting suicide. Accidents caused by the traveling of trains or the movement of vehicles used exclusively upon railways caused the death during the twelve months of 443 servants of companies and injury to 3,713 others. Of these, 15 were killed and 501 injured while coupling or uncoupling vehicles. Altogether, the number of persons killed on railways in the United Kingdom in the course of public traffic during 1902 was 1,096, and the number of persons injured 6,661. In addition to the above, the railway companies have reported to the Board of Trade accidents which occurred upon their premises, but in which the movement of vehicles used exclusively upon railways was not concerned, which brings the total number of personal accidents reported during the twelve months to 1,171 persons killed and 17,814 injured.—London Times.

The market is dull in the extreme. Dullness at this level of prices is taken to mean a paralysis of the buying power and to presage lower prices. There are rumours afloat of more liquidation to be accomplished this week. Some houses have been asked for a showdown, and the showing of securities has led to a demand by the banks that some of them be liquidated. Money is getting dearer at interest points and this tendency is expected to become more marked. Financial authorities here claim that the storm which has swept over Wall Street will extend to commerce, manufacturing, building and other channels, where borrowed money is required. With this condition there can be no bull market. We advise sale on all rallies.

BOARD OF HEATH.

Short Meeting Held This Morning.

A meeting of the Board of Health was held in the Town Clerk's office this morning at 11 o'clock at which the following members were present:—Mr. Robert Neill, chairman, and Messrs. A. Parker, G. Schneider, Dr. McNulty and Chief Roszel, the Sanitary Inspector.

On motion of Messrs. Schneider and Parker, it was resolved that the Town Council's attention be called to the need of a sewer from the Cereal Company's mills and from Sheridan street and Dixon street, etc., and that the Board recommend the council to have the sewer on Quaker street extended to the river below the bridge to provide an outlet and have the other streets mentioned connected with it.

POLICE COURT

At the police court this morning two prisoners were arraigned before Jas. Stevenson, J. P. Frank Willis Field was charged with being insane and dangerous to be at large, and that he had exhibited a purpose to do serious bodily injury to his wife and others. He was remanded until Thursday. The second prisoner was Frank Murphy, whose pugnacity was the cause of his having to appear before the Magistrate. He was remanded until Thursday on a charge of having taken part in a brawl on Brock street on Wednesday, July 22.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

HOW CANADA GROWS.

Immigration for the Year Ended 30th June Beyond All Precedent.

Mr. Smart, Canadian Deputy Minister of the Interior, has compiled a statement of the arrivals of immigrants for the fiscal year ending June 30th, which places the total for the year at 124,658. He thinks that this number will probably be added to slightly when the returns are completed. The showing is certainly a marvellous one, both in regard to the number who have landed in Canada to become actual residents and those who have taken up lands in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

The arrivals for the month of June are given as follows: United States, 7,939; British Isles, 6,439; continent, 6,154. Total for June, 1903, 20,532.

The statement for the twelve months ending June is as follows: United States, 44,980; British Isles, 41,787; continent, 37,891. Total, 124,658.

The returns for 1899 gave the arrivals as follows: United States, 11,945; British Isles, 10,660; continent, 21,938. Making a total of 44,543.

In 1901 these arrivals were recorded: United States, 17,987; British Isles, 11,810; continent, 19,352. Total, 49,149.

In 1902 these arrived from the United States, 26,388; British Isles, 17,259; continent, 23,732. Total, 67,379.

The total increase for 1903 over 1902 is 57,279. The increase from the United States is 70 per cent., from the British Isles 140 per cent., and from the continent 60 per cent. The homestead entries show even a greater average increase than the total arrivals, the number for the fiscal year ending June 30th running up to 31,343. In 1896 the entries numbered 1,857, in 1897 2,884, in 1898 4,848, in 1899, 6,689, in 1900 7,426, in 1901 8,167, and in 1902 14,633. The increase in 1903 over 1902 was 16,710.

The Land of Promise.

Rev. Canon Welch, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, speaking at the triennial Foreign Missions Festival in London, Eng., on July 2, thus spoke of Canada:

Here, he said, is a virgin land of vast extent, awaiting the settler; millions and millions of at present unbroken prairie will in time rustle with golden grain. Though the population is as yet scarce, the movement has set in, and will continue until it has peopled the broad plains. It is the modern land of promise, and, comparing it with Canaan of old, he quoted: "A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack anything in it; a land whose stones are iron and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass." Yes, a land of promise, indeed, and in it lay the great opportunity of the Church, such an opportunity as had never been and as would never recur. Twenty-five thousand immigrants were pouring in each month—English, Scotch, Americans and foreigners—were these to be left to themselves, or was it not the plain duty of the Anglican Church in Canada to gather them into her fold? "And now," he concluded, "I am not asking for financial help. It is men that we want; Englishmen, not to preach to Canadians, but to minister to the English settlers of this generation until they and their children shall become absorbed in the Canadian nationality. It is these people, having English shores, who will make Canada the granary of the Empire; let us not be backward in tendering them the bread of life."

The Homecomer's Memory.

As the home-comer goes through the crowded streets, with their busy marts of trade, he does not see what others see. The mass of people and the intruding buildings are hustled away to nowhere. In their places are set up the scenes of ten, twenty, or thirty years ago. Such an abundance of scenery as the home-comer brings along with him. No train could carry it. Ravines that have been filled up, hills that have been leveled down, streams that have ceased to flow, are all restored. The hand on the dial of time is turned back to the happy days that gave a glorious tinge to everything. When a picnic was a whole lifetime of joy. When a summer was an eternity. When there was not a care in all the world. Memory, indeed, is very kind to the past. It covers up the ugly places; it forgets the pains and troubles. So the home-comer brings along with him a whole world of pleasure. He is a true philosopher, for he discerns the realities of life. The real things are those that are remembered. The little home, its pure and wholesome influences, its atmosphere of rest and affection, needs not to be sung into our memories. It is enshrined in the holy of holies.

Till Dodd's Kidney Pills Drove Away His Rheumatism.

Story of W. J. Dixon, has set the Rainy River Settlement Talking.

Barwick, P.O., August 3rd. (Special.)—Among the settlers here the cure of William John Dixon of rheumatism is causing much talk. The story of the cure as told by Mr. Dixon himself is as follows:

"During the summer of 1901, I had an attack of typhoid fever and after I got over it rheumatism set in. I had pains in my back and in my right hip so bad that I had to use a stick to walk and had no comfort in sleeping.

"I could scarcely dress myself for nearly two months, and for three or four weeks I could not lace my right shoe or put my right leg on my left knee.

"My brother advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and after taking three boxes I began to walk, do my work and lace up my boots. And the best of it is I have had no rheumatism since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills take the uric acid out of the blood and the rheumatism goes with it.

TWO MALE TEACHERS WERE APPOINTED.

At Board of Education Meeting Last Night.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last night in Mr. W. G. Morrow's office, with the following members present: Messrs. J. J. Hartley, chairman; McBain, Stevenson, Hill, Fair, Pringle, Hamilton, Ferguson and Drs. Burnham and Eastwood.

The minutes of the previous meeting were on motion of Messrs Hill and Fair taken as read and adopted.

The Committee on Appointments presented the following report, read by the chairman, Mr J. J. McBain:

Your Committee on Appointments begs leave to report and recommend that Francis E. Kerr, of Coldsprings, and Roderick Roddick, of Port Hope, be appointed to fill the vacancies on the teaching staff, the salary to be according to the schedule in each case, namely, $550. Both are young men and come highly recommended.

Your committee recommends that the secretary be instructed to write a letter to Miss Beckett and Miss Throop, the two teachers who have not been re-engaged, that this Board, in the general interests of the public schools, had deemed it advisable to add two male teachers to the staff, and fewer female teachers are required, and that the Board regrets that it cannot consider their applications for re-appointment, and also that the Board appreciates the long and faithful service they have rendered.

This report was on motion of Messrs. McBain and Pringle, adopted.

As this was all the business to be dealt with the Board adjourned.

AUBURNS DEFEATED BY THE WELLESLEYS

Visiting Team of Baseball Players Prove too much for the Locals.

Score, 19-2 is the Story of the Game—The Visitors Played Good Game Making Only One Error.

A baseball game, in which some good playing was exhibited was that yesterday afternoon at the Murray street grounds between the Wellesleys of Toronto, and the Auburns of town. The visiting team is one of the leaders in the Sunlight League in Toronto, and played an almost errorless game, the work of the infield being particularly good, while the outfielders pulled in some difficult flies which looked like safe hits.

McCorry, who was on the rubber for the Auburns, was not in as good form as on Saturday, and his offerings were batted rather freely. His support was not of the best and this coupled with the really excellent work of the visitors, contributed to the locals' defeat. The Auburns scored in only the second and ninth innings, and then only one each, while 19 visitors crossed the plate.

The visitors were first at bat and failed to score during their half. Lepper who was first up, was thrown out at first, on a grounder to short. Coulter singled and Ramsby rapped a fly to Renton. Hepton retired the side by knocking up a foul fly which Graham pulled in.

In their half, the Auburns went out in order, Graham fanning while Sheridan and Long each hit grounders and were caught at first. In the second it looked as though the Wellesleys would score. Taylor singled but was caught in an attempt to steal second. Storey rapped a fly to deep centre, which Casson, after a long run, secured. With two gone Love came to bat, and stepped in the line of the ball, getting his base. Ferguson singled, advancing Love to third. Bentley, however, failed to connect with McCorry's shoots, and this opportunity was lost. In the second half Casson was out on a fly to right field; Earls followed on one to left, which Ramsby got with one hand. Renton singled, but died on first, as Layborne flew out to Storey.

In the third the visitors got their eye on the ball and the result, 5 runs. Lepper opened the innings with a single and reached second on a wide throw to Pilling. Coulter drove a bot grounder, which Layborne missed. Ramsby singled, scoring Lepper, and in a series of wild throws and muffs, Coulter and Ramsby both reached home. Hepton rapped out a three bagger and scored on Taylor's single. Storey and Love were both robbed of hits by Sheridan's clever catches. Taylor reached home on wide throw. Ferguson retired the side by a grounder to Earls, who threw the runner out at first.

In their half the locals again retired in order, Pilling singled, but was caught stealing second. McCorry was thrown out at first, and Graham was robbed of a hit by Hepper, who made a sensational catch of a difficult fly.

In the 4th innings a charge was made on the Auburn line-up, Parnell replacing Renton at 2nd. Bentley flew out to Parnell. Lepper made a double, but died on 2nd as Coulter and Ramsay both fanned.

In the last half, Sheridan, who was first up, was thrown out at first. Long singled, Cassan ripped up a foul fly, and Long who started to run to second was out.

Hepton opened the fifth with a fly to Parnell. Taylor was more lucky and made a two-bagger. Storey followed suit and scored Taylor. Love singled and Storey crossed the plate. Ferguson singled and Love was caught trying to reach 2nd. Bentley made a splendid hit to deep centre, but it was unavailing as Ferguson retired the side in attempting to reach 3rd. In the locals' turn only 3 batters faced the pitcher, Earls fanned, Parnell flew out to Ramsby, and Laybourne likewise to Hepton.

In the sixth the Wellesleys again took a batting streak. Lepper singled and stole 2nd, scoring on Coulter's single. Ramsay flew out to Cassan, but Coulter reached 3rd base and scored on a nicely placed hit by Hepton. Taylor also hit safely to right, advancing Hepton to 3rd, who scored. Storey walked and stole 2nd. Love hit a grounder to Laybourne, who with Pilling and Graham made a double play, retiring the side.

Pilling was first up for the locals but was thrown out at first. McCorry suffering a like fate. Graham bunted, reaching 1st, but was left there as Sheridan struck out.

In the seventh, after Ferguson and Bently were out the visitors scored 6 runs. McCorry started the trouble by passing Hepper. Coulter made a two-bagger, scoring Hepper. Ramsby continued the slaughter by making a three-bagger, bringing in Coulter. Hepton singled, scoring Ramsby. Taylor followed with a beautiful hit to deep left, scoring Hepton. Storey made a double, bringing in Taylor, and crossed the plate himself on a throw to second which Parnell missed. Love retired by flying out to Sheridan.

In the last half, the locals managed to bring in one run. Cassan hit to deep centre and made a complete circuit. Earls and Laybourne were out after Parnell had singled.

The eighth was but a repetition of the preceeding innings. The Wellesleys continued to bat unmercifully and three runs were scored. The Auburns retired in order in their half.

In the ninth the visitors failed to score, in fact none reached first while the locals added one to their score. Sheridan making a three-bagger scored on Long's fly to centre. Cassan made a double but died on first, as Earls and Parnell failed to connect.

CARDINAL GUISEPPO HAS BEEN CHOREN POPE.

Election was Made This Morning on Seventh Ballot.

Has Chosen the Name of Pius X—New Pope Born in 1885.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Rome, Aug. 4th. — Cardinal Guiseppo Sarfro, Patriarch of Venice, was elected Pope in succession to Leo XIII. The new Pontiff has decided upon the name of Pius X. Guiseppo Sarto, was born in Riesi, Diocese of Trevaro, on June 2nd, 1835, and was created by Leo XIII at the Consistory of June 12, 1893, receiving the title of Saint Bernardo Delle Torme. He has been Patriarch of Venice since June, 1893, and is also Bishop of Mantua.

INJURED BY CARELESS DRIVING OF TEAMSTER.

Mr. Mowry Run Down by Team on Charlotte Street Last Night and Mr. J. A. Tully has Narrow Escape.

There seems to be a tendency among the drivers of delivery wagons and express rigs to indulge in reckless driving on the street, and an example of this recklessness last night might easily have resulted in a fatality. Mr. Marcellus Mowry and Mr. J. A. Tully were wheeling home last night going up Charlotte street, about ten o'clock, when upon nearing the corner of Aylmer street; they were met by a furiously driven team belonging to Mr. I. G. Noble, and although they were upon the right side of the street, the team, of which the driver appeared to have lost control, ran so close to the curbing that Mr. Tully escaped injury only by jumping off his wheel and getting upon the sidewalk. Mr. Mowry was not so fortunate and was struck, to use a nautical tern, "amidships." His right arm was hit by the wagon tongue and he was knocked down under the horse's feet, and only by a miracle did he escape very serious injury, or perhaps death. As it was he was badly bruised and shaken up, and his wheel completely demolished. As legal proceedings will probably be the result of this reckless conduct on the part of the driver, it is thought advisable to sound a note of warning to the many teamsters who persistently indulge in furious driving, which has hitherto fortunately not been attended with serious consequences, but this is only due to the good luck of pedestrians. It is hoped that in future this careless and even criminal practice will be stopped.

WHOM THEY DELIGHT TO HONOUR.

(The Globe)

The banquet given in honour of Mr. Gamey, M.P.P., at Gore Bay, and the public demonstration successfully carried out, are open intimations that the Conservatives of Ontario will retain the famous scandal-maker as the leading feature of their platform, policy and campaign. This gives Mr. Gamey and his record an importance they could not otherwise possess, and necessitates the resurrection of a record that charity would otherwise consign to oblivion. The presence of leading Conservatives on the platform, the endorsation by Mr. Whitney, and the addresses of those who were present, are a sufficient excuse for again pointing out to the electors of Ontario, the manner of man on whose unsupported evidence they are asked to believe a most improbable and almost impossible slander against a Minister of the Crown. If Mr. Gamey had been seeking his own political notoriety in his own way, without the prompting or assistance of Conservatives looming large in the public life of the province, his spectacular escapades could be consigned to pitying forgetfulness. But it is evident that he had the assistance of the leading men of his party during the planning and carrying out of his scheme, as he has their support and endorsation now, when they try to perpetuate his slanders.

Mr. Gamey has been shown to be prepared for almost any kind of profitable transaction. After his election he began to negotiate with D. A. Jones, and the purport of his bargainings, as shown before the commission, was that Mr. Jones was to operate such franchises as Mr. Gamey could obtain by virtue of his position, the honourable member to secretly draw a share of the profits. These prospective lines of business included not only minerals, timber, fish and pulp, but the sale of evidence to unseat a political ally, Mr. Miscampbell. After various bargainings he chose to be the sleeping partner, not of D. A. Jones, but of Frank Sullivan. The latter appears to have dazzled Mr. Gamey by his pretended influence with Cabinet Ministers. In fact, the schemes that Sullivan was to carry out, with Mr. Gamey's secret aid as member and supporter of the Government, were estimated to net $100,000.

When the Government's position became uncertain, through the pending elections in "the three Norths," Mr. Gamey also became uncertain. When intimating his intention to support the Government, he began to negotiate with members of his own party. After these negotiations money came to Mr. Gamey, the source of which is still a mystery. It was after a secret consultation with an official in his own party organization that he used the money in his business. He successfully sought to destroy all evidence as to the source of it after, and not before, he declared in the House that it came from the Provincial Secretary. After ostensibly making a clean breast of the whole affair, with the object of implicating the Provincial Secretary, he destroyed the only available evidence by making away with a bank deposit ticket and substituting a false imitation. When questioned as to this, he refused to answer, on the ground of prospective criminal prosecution. The mutilation of a cash book to which he had access completed the destruction of the evidence as to the source of the money. His own stories as to where he obtained it are contradictory and palpably false. To the House he stated that he gave Frank Sullivan $1,500 out of $3,000 received from the Provincial. When a reference to his books made it necessary to account for $1,200 more, he said he got it back from Sullivan. The real source of this and of the other money he received was concealed by the mutilation of his cash book and the destruction of the bank deposit slip, after he had made his alleged disclosure in the House.

There are but a few of the palpable dishonesties it would require pages to expose. And this is the man whom the Conservative party are honouring with banquets and demonstrations, in the hope of fastening on the Provincial Secretary the stigma of having sought to purchase his support.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Cholera Infantum is one of the most dreaded diseases of infancy. It is prevalent during the heat of summer in spite of all the care mothers may take to guard against it, and it sometimes progresses so quickly that death occurs in a few hours no matter what care is given the child. The first thing to do is to stop feeding the child and give him plenty of fresh air and pure water to drink. Give Baby's Own Tablets to carry off the poison in the system. Do not under any circumstance give a medicine to check the diarrhoea, except under the advice of a doctor. By using Baby's Own Tablets the cause of the diarrhoea will be removed and the disease will thus be checked in a natural manner. Proof that the Tablets cure this too often fatal trouble, is given by Mrs. Herbert Burnham, Smith's Falls, Ont., who says:— "When my eldest child was six weeks old he had an attack of cholera infantum, and was at death's door. My doctor advised me to try Baby's Own Tablets and in 24 hours baby was better; the vomiting and purging ceased and he regained strength rapidly."

Keep the Tablets in the house — their prompt use may save the little one's life. Sold by medicine dealers or sent postpaid at 25c cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

G. T. PACIFIC BILL.

Amended in Conformity With the Agreement.

STANDS FOR THIRD READING.

Capital Reduced to $45,000,000—An Estimate of the Cost of the Line Given by Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Question of Government Ownership Discussed—Clauses Regarding Construction of Branch Lines.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—The private bill to incorporate the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company was considered in the House yesterday, the discussion, which was of a discursive character, lasting from 8 o'clock until nearly one in the morning. The bill was amended in conformity with the terms of agreement with the Government. The House rose at 1 a.m.

On the opening of the House yesterday afternoon the Toronto & Hamilton Railway Bill was referred back to the Railway Committee, in consequence, as the Premier explained to Mr. E. F. Clarke, of the representations made to the Government that the bill invades provincial rights. Both sides will be given an opportunity to put their views before the committee.

Mr. McCarthy's private bill to incorporate the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company was again taken up in committee. A couple of minor amendments, of which Mr. McCarthy had given notice, were made, and then the committee returned to the beginning of the bill in order to make its provisions conform to the conditions of the agreement between the Government and the company.

Mr. W. F. Maclean proceeded to discuss the general principle of the bill on the amendment to the first clause adding to the list of directors the financiers mentioned in the agreement. He again advocated the nationalization of railroads, particularly "the spout," the section between Winnipeg and Lake Superior, as the best means of relieving the congestion in the northwest. The Chairman, Dr. Macdonald, called him to order for discussing on a particular clause of a bill its general principles, and after some discussion an appeal was taken to the Speaker, who upheld the Chairman of the committee in his interpretation of the rules.

Mr. Maclean moved that the Chairman leave the chair in order to have an opportunity of discussing the question of Government ownership, which, he said, was the best and only way of regulating the rates. Mr. Maclean argued that the transportation problem is not solved by the Government's policy, and that the only true solution lies in the nationalization of a road between Port Arthur and Winnipeg, such road to give equal running rights to the Grand Trunk, the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the I.C.R., the whole four of which would gain immediate access to the West.

Mr. Maclean said that the measure proposed by the Government did not deal with the difficulty in the eight way. What the people of the West wanted was connected with a Government-owned road. The people of Canada say: "If we pay for a railway, if we supply all the money to build it, let the railway be our own. In no way let that railway pass into the hands of private companies." The proposal brought down by the Government, Mr. Maclean declared, gives no immediate relief to the people of the Northwest. That relief, he held, could be given immediately by the application of the principle of Government ownership.

In reply to Mr. Fitzpatrick, Mr. Maclean said he would get from Port Arthur to Midland over the Grand Trunk Railway by a line of boats.

Mr. Maclean said the I.C.R. was not administered according to his idea of Government ownership. If the I.C.R. were taken out of politics, if it were administered by commissioners independent of politics and members of Parliament, it would make a better showing. He would like to see a man like Sir Thomas Shaughnessy or Mr. Hays given control of our railway with instructions to run it in the interests of the people and keep it free from politics altogether. He believed our railways could be nationalized for twenty millions of dollars, but he did not believe one hundred millions would build the road proposed by the Government.

"How could you nationalize the three roads you have named for twenty millions?" asked Sir William Mulock.

Mr. Maclean: "You could nationalize the road from Winnipeg to Port Arthur for twenty millions or less."

"The hon. gentleman proposes to nationalize the G.T.R. from Midland to Montreal, the C.P.R. from Owen Sound to Montreal, the C.A.R. and the C.N.R. from Port Arthur to Winnipeg. Could all that be done for twenty millions?"

"Very largely," answered Mr. Maclean.

"Those four roads?" asked Sir William incredulously.

The House in Committee.

The House then in Committee took up various clauses of the bill. Interesting information as to cost was given on clause four.

Mr. McCarthy said the estimated cost of the road was twenty thousand on the prairie section and fifty thousand on the mountain section, with seven thousand a mile added in each case for rolling stock.

Mr. Hagart wanted to know why it had been thought necessary to provide fifteen million for equipment of the western division and five million for the eastern division.

Mr. Fitzpatrick replied that the total mileage of the road was multiplied by seven thousand dollars, giving a result of eighteen millions. This amount of twenty millions was named as the sum to be spent by the Grand Trunk on equipment of the road. The government took a first mortgage on five millions of this equipment to ensure the operation of the eastern division.

Sir Wilfrid said the intention was to have the terminus at Port Simpson.

Mr. Borden argued that, taking the capital stock and bond-issuing power, it amounted to a capitalization of fifty-five thousand per mile, more than double the estimated cost of the greater portion of the road. And the capitalization had a great deal to do with the regulation of freight rates in the future.

Sir Wilfrid explained that the government was guaranteeing 75 per cent. of the cost of the mountain section, 600 miles, not to exceed thirty thousand a mile, a total of eighteen millions, so that the total cost would be about twenty-four millions. The government 75 per cent. guarantees of the 1000 miles of prairie would be thirteen millions in all, so that the total cost of the prairie section would be between sixteen and seventeen millions. Taking the latter figure for the prairie section and twenty-five millions for the mountain section, the company would have to provide forty-two millions for construction, plus twenty millions for rolling stock, a total of sixty-two millions. As the stock could not be sold at par, he thought the stock and authorized bond issue left the company not more than enough leeway to finance upon.

Mr. Borden found that the aggregate cost of the road to the Grand Trunk would be $[illegible], forty-five millions capital and $[illegible] total possible bond issue gave the company $97,000,000 or $33,000,000 more than the cost of the road, which he regarded as a little too much leeway.

Mr. Monk wanted to know whether the Grand Trunk Railway Company would put $25,000,000 into the new enterprise, or would get the stock as a gratuity.

Mr. Fitzpatrick replied that it might not be given in cash, but in something equivalent to cash. In this way the Grand Trunk Pacific would get the value of its stock from the Grand Trunk Railway.

Mr. Borden observed that this meant that the Grand Trunk would get the $25,000,000 of common stock for whatever they chose to pay for it.

Mr. Barker declared that the Grand Trunk Pacific could give paid-up stock as consideration for rights, powers and privileges acquired, upon the mere presentation of the claim that these rights, powers and privileges were worth $25,000,000. Who could contradict such a claim? he asked.

Capitalization Clause Adopted.

Mr. Haggart said it was clear that the Grand Trunk did not propose to pay anything like $25,000,000 for the stock. They had not the credit to raise the money. The Grand Trunk, he said, already owes the government of Canada some $30,000,000, and the claim is worth less. He did not regard the proposed capitalization as too large. It must not be forgotten, however, that it would be necessary for the G. T. P. to build a branch to Lake Superior, another branch to North Bay and still another branch to Montreal.

The clause fixing the capitalization at $45,000,000 was adopted.

Mr. Fitzpatrick explained that the director of the company nominated by the government would not be a shareholder of the company. He said the object was to place the director in a position to tell the Government what was going on.

The question was then put on Mr. McCarthy's amendment to give the company power to build branch lines from the government's eastern division to North Bay, Nipissing Junction or Gravenhurst, Port Arthur, Fort William and Montreal.

Mr. McCarthy's amendment was adopted.

Amendments were also added to enable the Grand Trunk Pacific to lease the eastern section from the government.

Mr. Fowler moved to add to the bill that all freights originating on the line of the G.T.P. intended for export via the Atlantic shall, unless otherwise ordered, be carried to a Canadian port and the rates to a Canadian port shall not be higher than an American port.

Mr. Fielding could not see any good purpose to be served by the proposal as this same provision was contained in the proposed contract between the government and the G.T.P. Company.

The amendment was defeated and the bill reported, so that it stands for a third reading.

HE COULD NOT LACE HIS SHOE.

Till Dodd's Kidney Pills Drove Away His Rheumatism.

Story of W. J. Dixon, has set the Rainy River Settlement Talking.

Barwick, P.O., August 3rd. (Special.)—Among the settlers here the cure of William John Dixon of rheumatism is causing much talk. The story of the cure as told by Mr. Dixon himself is as follows:

"During the summer of 1901, I had an attack of typhoid fever and after I got over it rheumatism set in. I had pains in my back and in my right hip so bad that I had to use a stick to walk and had no comfort in sleeping.

"I could scarcely dress myself for nearly two months, and for three or four weeks I could not lace my right shoe or put my right leg on my left knee.

"My brother advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and after taking three boxes I began to walk, do any work and lace up my boots. And the best of it is I have had no rheumatism since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills take the uric acid out of the blood and the rheumatism goes with it.

DEATH OF DR. FOWLER.

A Founder of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Kingston, Aug. 3.—Dr. Fife Fowler, one of the founders of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, now affiliated with Queen's University, died this afternoon, aged 80 years. The deceased was born at Elgin, Scotland, and was educated at Aberdeen and Edinburgh Universities. He came to Canada in 1854 and settled in Kingston. The deceased was a clever physician. He was president of the Oddfellows' Relief Association for many years. His wife, one son, Henry, barrister, Toronto, and four daughters survive. He was president of the Ontario Medical Council in 1892.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life, I had a severe and sudden attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents cured me." For sale by all druggists.

It says:—"Mr. Best has no particular reason to be ashamed of the advertising he has done so far, as the outline of his campaign, as given in his letter, suggests a well-planned effort for business, and the ads. in the scrap book which he has sent me are far from the worst I have seen."

MUSICAL FESTIVAL CHORUS RECITAL.

Interesting Lecture by Mr. Wodell.

Instructive Reference to European Teachers of Note—The Programme Rendered.

Mr. F. W. Wodell, of Boston, Mass., who is in the city for the summer, teaching singing, and rehearsing the Musical Festival chorus, gave a song recital and lecture upon "Vocal Methods" at the Y.M.C.A. Hall last evening. There wuas a good attendance of the genuine music loving people of the town. The programme was as follows:

Songs—
Brahms—O Broadsword and Spear.
Schubert—Hedge Roses.
Schumann—Spring Night.
Lecture by Mr. Wodell on "Vocal Methods."
Songs—
H. W. Parker — The Lark Now Leaves.
G. Borch—Meditation.
Mrs. H. H. A. Beach—Extasy.
F. E. Sawyer—Shine on O Stars.

Mr. Wodell prefaced each song with a few remarks concerning the composers, and also called attention to the musical construction of the compositions. Mr. Wodell is as artistic a singer as has ever appeared in this town. A noticeable feature of his singing is the case with which he produces his tones, and his beautiful use of his clear soft voice. Mr. Wodell's lecture was entertaining and instructive. He referred to the many teachers who claimed to teach the "old Italian method," who, nevertheless, do not at all follow the same plan in their teaching. There were in these days attempts on the part of some to be particularly original, and these announced a new method; others claimed wonderful discoveries as to tone production and "method" with a view to humbugging the people. After referring to Lamperti, the teacher of Albani, and Madame Sembrick, and members of the Barili-Patti family, to Marchesi, Sbriglia, Delle-Sedie, Vannucini, Shakespeare, and other European teachers of more or less prominence, and contrasting their various specialties in "method," and giving a list of useful books on voice, the lecturer went on to say that as a matter of fact the differences in the 'method' of the really good teachers were more apparent than real. One emphasized one good point, and one another. All however must, if they made really good singers, of necessity provide for the all-round development of the voice, accordinging to the principles of the genuine old Italian school, which are based upon nature and, therefore, fundamentally true. In his own teaching he had reduced these principles to three—the control of the out-going breath, the absolute absence of rigidity throughout the body and the location and development of vibration. All exercises he used were based upon one or other of these basic principles and progress towards good tone production was begun with the very first lesson and was continuous.

Mr. Wodell outlined his lecture with vocal illustrations, in addition to singing the songs, and showed himself an accomplished lecturer upon subject. He was enthusuastically applauded at the close. The proceedings ended with the singing of God Save the King.

A new Plumbing and Heating House will open at 434 George street about the 15th of August. Communications addressed to Fred Butters, Peterborough, will receive immediate attention. 6d

NAVAL BRIGADE

From Toronto in Town With Oddfellows' Excursion.

Together with the Oddfellows' excursion from Toronto on Saturday night, came ten men of the Naval Brigade, which by the way is not connected with the Royal navy, but is a naval drill corps, and was originally organized by the Sons of England Society.

The men were under the command of Lieuts Nuttall and Jackman. At one time this corps numbered 70 members and manned a life boat in Toronto, but since the removal of the boat house for frontage improvements on the esplanade, a withdrawal of the city's financial support, and its organization on an independent basis, irrespective of any society, its strength has been reduced to 30 members, most of whom are youths in their teens. The corps is thoroughly drilled in naval exercises and is a very creditable organization in every respect. The brigade occasionally parades with societies with which any of its members are connected, and on each occasion gives an exhibition of its splendid training under Lieut. Nuttall and Jackman. The former officer expressed his surprise at the magnitude of the lift lock, which he says is much talked of in Toronto. The brigade registered at the C.P.R. hotel.

AUGUST BEST BUYING MONTH.

Not everybody takes advantage of August prices to buy their Dry Goods, but many of our customers do. August prices are low at this store—be it a late season want or an early Fall want or an all the year staple article. In any case there is a saving. Why?

Because this business is run on a percentage plan. We know to the fraction of a dollar what each month's business must be. Then we figure that for the usually dull months, such as August, very extra inducements must be offered. That's why we name these prices on these goods:

STREET RAILWAY AGREEMENT.

A.B.C. Writes Again on Workingmen's Tickets.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear, Sir, — In regard to fares in the street railway agreement, it is evident the council would be fully sustained in refusing to ratify the agreement as it now stands.

There are a few people who would be in favour of the road at any cost, but this is tieing up fares for thirty years, and in view of the fact that the company is virtually receiving a large bonus by street lighting contract, it is only a reasonable concession that workmen's tickets should be sold eight for 25 cents. The statement by the company's solicitor is not a guarantee and may be intended to tide opposition over until full powers are secured—and then good bye to the workingmen's interests.

If the company are as good as their word they should have no hesitancy in putting the rate in the agreement, and so keep faith with the public. It would also be unfair to compel the purchase of $1 worth of tickets to secure the lower rate. These tickets will be used to a large extent by labouring men whose place of work is constantly changing, and whose wages are much lower than the skilled mechanic, and to whom the purchase of $1 worth of tickets would be an inconvenience, and also a privation. They should have the privilege of buying 25 cents worth, and the council should make a strenuous effort to secure this.

With the exception of the workmen's tickets the agreement seems a reasonably fair one, despite what a few interested parties may say. The council deserves credit for bringing it to its present stage, but it cannot meet with public approval unless the workmen's interests are better provided for. Better to wait five years than to suffer thirty.

Yours truly,
A. B. C.

Our campaign for August will be still more aggressive, as far as price cutting is concerned. Our stock in every department was very large this season, and although the selling has been enormous, we are still in the "have-to-sell" condition. Bargains that have never been yet equalled are still waiting you. You can almost buy with your eyes shut and strike luck.

CLEAN TABLE LINEN.

New Machine at Parker's Steam Laundry.

The Peterborough ladies all know only too well how difficult it is to get flat linen, take for instance, a tablecloth, nicely cleaned and ironed, especially at a reasonable rate. However, it is thought that the Parker's Steam Laundry, Charlotte street, has mastered the situation by purchasing a machine used exclusively for all flat work. By means of this useful piece of machinery, anything from a handkerchief to a tablecloth or bed sheet, can be beautifully washed and ironed, not only at a cost far less than other laundrymen charge, but without damaging the goods. This point is an important one, for it stands to reason that the continual rub of a hot iron, must wear away the cloth at a rapid rate. The cloth is passed on to a large roller, on which four other rollers revolve. The four rollers which are about 8 inches in diameter are well padded, and do not injure the cloth in the slightest. The large roller is made of steel, made perfectly round by machinery. It is hollow, and when working, steam is passed into it, thus heating it to any required temperature.

The excellence of this machine cannot be satisfactorily placed on paper—it is quick, and produces a beautiful finish. Its capacity allows the goods to be "got up" at a very low figure.

It is thought that Mr. Parker's enterprise in instituting this machine which has no opponent in town, will be thoroughly appreciated as it well deserves.

Charlotte Street Music.

The music in the Charlotte Street Church on Sunday was of an especially entertaining character. In the morning in addition to the Anthem two solos were sung, Mrs. Killin-Keough singing "Show Me Thy Ways", while Miss Clara Belleghem's selection was "The Better Land" both of which were very much enjoyed. In the evening the anthem was Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light", and it was rendered in a very creditable manner. Mr. N. Jolliffe sang a solo "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" in very pleasing voice. The trio "Lift Thine Eyes" from Elijah, by Mrs. Killin-Keough, Miss Brown and Mr. Keough was thoroughly enjoyed, in fact the whole service was about the best ever rendered in the church.

A TREATY OF PEACE.

Duke of Devonshire's Description of Irish Land Bill.

USED WYNDHAM'S ARGUMENT

Expenditure Called For by the Bill Will Be More Than Made Up by Various Economies—Danger of Altering the Bill Seriously Pointed Out—A Liberal Viscount Predicts Fierce Land War.

London, Aug. 3.—The Duke of Devonshire moved the second reading of the Irish land bill in the House of Lords to-day. He urged the same arguments in favor of the necessity for passing the measure as were previously uttered by Mr. George Wyndham, the Irish Secretary, in the House of Commons. The Duke declared that the Government was confident that the expenditure of the $60,000,000 provided in the bill would be fully compensated for by economics in the judicial machinery and the reducing in the police expenses, which the adoption of the measures would render possible. In conclusion the speaker declared that the House of Lords could not substantially alter the bill, as adopted by the House of Commons, without serious risk of losing it altogether. The bill was in the nature of a treaty or instrument of peace, and although it would be rash to predict that it would prove a final settlement of the Irish question serious alteration would release the contracting parties from the obligations that were mutually undertaken. Never before, he said, had the representatives of the various interests concerned asked Parliament to sanction a settlement, the main principles of which they had themselves suggested.

One of its stoutest opponents was Viscount Hampden, Liberal, who characterized it as thoroughly mischievous and corrupt. He said it would result in a land war more fierce, thus embittered, than any which preceded it. The discussion was concluded soon after midnight, when the bill was passed to a second reading without division.

Sugar and Bounties.

London, Aug. 3.—In the House of Commons to-day, replying to Mr. Lough (Liberal), who asked whether communications had passed between the governments of the United States and Great Britain relative to the possibility of the prohibition of American bounty-aided sugar, if the sugar convention bill passed, Viscount Cranborne, Foreign Under Secretary, said that the decision whether the sugar was aided by bounties lay entirely with the commission dealing with the subject. In the absence of such finding, there was no call for any action on the part of the British government.

FELL FORTY FEET.

George Hanson of Hamilton Killed From Falling Scaffold—Frank Logan of Thorndale Fractures His Skull.

St. Mary's, Aug. 3.—George Hanson, a stonemason and contractor, met a horrible death this afternoon about 4.30 o'clock by falling 40 feet from a scaffold on which he was working. The joist on which he was standing gave way, owing to the great weight of stone and mortar which had been piled upon it.

Another workman, James Clyde, also fell and was badly cut and bruised, but will likely recover.

Fractured His Skull.

Ingersoll, Aug. 3.—Frank Logan of Thorndale, lies at the point of death at Edmund Scatcherd's farm in Nissouri, the result of a terrible fall he sustained Friday. Logan was engaged with a number of other men in raising a barn for Mr. Scatcherd, and was at one of the highest portions of the frame, when in some manner he missed his footing, and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty-nine feet. He fell on his head and fractured his skull.

His Foot Amputated.

Kingston, Aug. 3.—Picola Cado, an Italian brought from Tweed to the General Hospital with his left foot badly mangled, had the member amputated.

Muddy Complexion.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. This great medicine awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels. As a result digestion is improved, bodily pains disappear and the health is benefited in every way.

Train Runs Twenty Miles Down Sharp Grade and Collides.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—A despatch to The Volks Zeitung from Breslau reports a serious disaster on the railway between Sucha and Kalvaria, Austrian Silesia. A train consisting of eleven cars heavily loaded with stone broke their coupling and ran at a terrific speed down a sharp grade for 20 miles until it collided with a passenger train. Thirty persons are said to have been killed and 52 others severely injured.

SIX FRUITLESS BALLOTS.

No Election of a Successor to Leo XIII. Yet.

Rome, Aug. 3.—After three full days of deliberation, during which six ballots have been taken, the members of the conclave still remain shut up in the Vatican without having selected a successor to Leo XIII. This evening the crowd estimated at 18,000 persons watched the smoke from the Sistine Chapel, announcing the futility of the sixth ballot.

Cholera Infantum.

This has long been been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by all druggists.

HOPPER V. DUNSMUIR

INCIDENTS IN CONTEST OVER THE WILL OF A RICH CANADIAN.

Edna Wallace Hopper, the Actress, Suing to Win Part of Vast Estate Left to Ex-Premier Dunsmuir by His Brother, Alex., Who Married Her Mother—Deceased's Remarkable Thirst—83,037 Gallons During Twenty-Five Years.

To break the will of the "King of Boozers," who owned the most majestic and eccentric thirst ever was, along with his coal mines and railways and steamships up yonder across the Canadian border—that is what a dainty mite of California womanhood is attempting in the bitter legal battle now in progress before His Majesty's white wigged judges at Victoria, B.C., says a San Francisco, Cal., newspaper writer.

The plaintiff is the sprightly Edna Wallace Hopper, known and loved of theatre-goers everywhere. As defendant to her suit comes no less important a personage than James Dunsmuir, once Premier of British Columbia, present chief owner of the Nanaimo and Wellington coal fields, a man to keep a tight grip on the $3,000,000 estate bequeathed him by his brother, Alexander, who was for forty days stepfather to the comedienne now suing as heir to her mother's rights.

Dunsmuir a Fighter.

James Dunsmuir is a born combatant, with Scotch stubbornness in his blood; a serious, self-sufficient, cynical man, who knows men and affairs, but to whom the making of a speech is fraught with nameless terrors. Scotch in his reserve, in his sense of humor, in the simplicity and integrity of his life, it is suggestive that his only vice is his pipe. Drinking he left wholly to his more versatile brother, the facile "Alec," who departed the parental roof to manage the outside business of this family of coal barons.

On the other side—Mrs. Hopper. An unequal contest, say you? Don't be too sure.

Back in the seventies, when Edna was born, her mother, Josephine Wallace, was the pretty wife of a well-known man about town. Walter Wallace was a lawyer's clerk, who had his ups and downs in life, like most other people in a city where everyone gambles. In 1879, to retrieve his shattered fortunes, he was head usher at the old Platt's Hall, an old-time auditorium at Montgomery and California streets, where Mme. La Chapelle, the favorite pedestrienne of the day, was starring in a walking match. Wallace's wife, a fascinating little woman, was much about the place. She met young Alexander Dunsmuir.

The acquaintance of Dunsmuir and Josephine Wallace began with an introduction by a prominent clubman. On December 21, 1899, she was married to Dunsmuir. The day after the marriage they left for New York, in order that Mrs. Dunsmuir, now broken in health, might obtain the highest surgical skill for a delicate operation. But death stood even nearer to Dunsmuir than to his bride.

Made Will on Wedding Day.

Before his marriage, Dunsmuir had bought the great Souther stock farm at San Leondro, expected a fortune in converting part of it into a park and erecting a stately colonial mansion, and conveyed it all to the patient, waiting Josephine. It cost him at least $350,000. On the day of the wedding he executed the fateful will. The wife was not numbered in it, and as soon as her husband was in his grave she began to make trouble for her brother-in-law, who had received the testator's whole estate.

The Victorian Premier, being a practical man and averse to the parading of family skeletons on the public highways, compromised with the widow. She waived her claim to the property in consideration of an annuity of $25,000. Figured according to the life tables of the insurance offices, this was estimated as about equivalent to $375,000.

Big Feats to Accomplish.

It will thus be seen that to win her pending action for her mother's third interest in Alexander Dunsmuir's estate, Mrs. Hopper must achieve two feats, which the courts are loath to favor. She must invalidate the will and she must set aside the compromise agreement. The former task she proposes to accomplish by showing that at the date of the will, and for years prior thereto, Dunsmuir was not of sound mind, but was a chronic inebriate, disqualified to transact business, and that the will was the result of improper influence exerted by the astute statesman of Victoria.

This is the issue: Was Dunsmuir a victim of alcoholic dementia when he made his will, or was he, like scores of other business men in every city between the two seas, simply addicted to periodical lapses? The question cuts both ways. If Dunsmuir was incapacitated to make a will on December 21, 1899, was he competent to marry a wife the same day? Mrs. Hopper's claim as heir of her mother rests upon a valid marriage. So it goes through the whole case. Probably no harder nut was ever given a court to crack.

Some Comedy in It.

Meanwhile there are comedy interludes even in a lawsuit. The fame of Dunsmuir's gigantic thirst will live long in this Western land, the home of hard drinkers. The newspaper reports of the testimony taken here have filled every ambitious drinker with envy. The stories told under legal pressure by club attaches regarding his high jinks in company with grave judges, eminent lawyers, and solid business men have raised a storm of wrath in every club where the possibility of an indiscreet and garrulous servant disclosing its secrets is a thorn in the flesh of the members.

The revelations of doings in high life have been a scandal to the town, for San Francisco boasts that it has buried its past and is "living respectable now," and likes to talk of its conservatism just as if it was not still the same jolly and vociferous abode of high livers and high players as when Mark Twain and Bret Harte and Louis Stevenson painted it to the life.

But there was one witness to whom Dunsmuir was a model for Sunday schools. He was Charley Green, bellboy at the Grand Hotel, where the millionaire lived five years of his checkered life. Green had never participated in the dividends distributed to the hotel attendants. He had carried only ice water and cigars up to that glorious room 8, which was a mint for the other bellboys. The coal baron had never appeared to him arrayed in his pyjamas and wandering about the hotel with his head bound in packages of ice. On cross-examination Green did a thing which a playwright might borrow with profit.

"How many times did you see Dunsmuir at the hotel?" asked Mrs. Hopper's counsel.

"Innumerous," the bellboy answered, with a generous wave of both hands.

"Well, tell us now, did you see him once?"

"Innumerous," said Charles, with emphasis.

"Twice?"

"Innumerous," with growing contempt.

"Five times?"

"Innumerous," with pity for the lawyer's obtuseness.

"A hundred times?"

"Innumerous." Now very much bored.

"A thousand times?"

"Innumerous, innumerous," with a finality that closed the incident.

What the Doctors Say.

The depositions of doctors, nurses, and other intimates show that the man who made the will disinheriting Edna Wallace Hopper's mother was on familiar terms with the spirits of the air and the creatures of the vasty deep. Here is a short catalogue of his imaginings:

Fishes singing "rag-time" songs.

Big black spiders floating on his liquor.

Huge green ants, with pink tusks, crawling over his pillow.

Elephants waltzing on a tight-rope above his bed.

Camels playing leapfrog.

Whales dancing on their tails.

Enough common snakes to restock Ireland.

Green monkeys feeding on the ceiling.

Roaring lions and dragons with scorching breath.

Sometimes he imagined he was a boa constrictor, and then it took four nurses to hold him.

He thought his teamsters were unloading coal on his chest.

He was angry with his nurse because she persisted in riding into his room on the back of a rhinoceros.

When relatively sober his talk rambled from sinking mines to building balloons.

A Gigantic Scheme.

He announced an elaborate scheme for having his coal mines brought down from Vancouver Island and placed on the dock at San Francisco, in order that Uncle Sam's White Squadrons might coal direct from the mines.

Once he became an airship, and had to be watched for five weeks, day and night, to prevent him from sailing out of a fourth-storey window.

Ordinarily he gave the bartender at the Grand Hotel $50 a night for keeping open until daybreak. Sometimes he saw two barkeeps," and then he gave each of them $50.

One night at the old Pacific Club on the San Francisco tenderloin, he called to the fact that he was a king. Looking from an upper window on a crowd he recognized the [illegible] and with [illegible] hands [illegible]

REAL ENJOYMENT.

The woman who reads this will understand to the full what Mrs. Tipton meant when she says: "I am enjoying good health." It takes a person who has been made wretched by sickness to understand the joy of health.

There are very many women who suffer as did Mrs. Tipton, who might be cured as she was by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"It is with pleasure I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mrs. Nora Tipton, of Cropper (Cropper Station), Shelby Co., Kentucky. "You remember my case was one of female weakness and weak lungs. I had no appetite and would often spit blood; was confined to my bed almost half of the time and could hardly stand on my feet at times for the pains through my whole body and system. My husband had to pay large doctor bills for me, but since I have taken four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, four of 'Favorite Prescription' and three vials of 'Pleasant Pellets' we haven't paid any more doctor bills. It had been seven months since I stopped using Dr. Pierce's medicines and I have been enjoying good health all the time. I can never praise these medicines too highly, for I have received so much benefit. I pray that many who suffer as I did will take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I am sure they will never fail to cure when given a fair trial. Everybody tells me I look better than they ever saw me. I am sure I feel better than I ever did before."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

HOW MUCH IS BABY WORTH?

tered the gold and silver coin to the cheering throng below. The royal endowment of the poor was only stopped when his majesty's supply of backsheesh gave out.

Testimony given by wholesale liquor dealers and grocers, hotel and club attendants, nurses and old-time friends, furnishes statistics for the following conservative estimate of the drinkables consumed by the late Canadian coal baron during his twenty-five years' residence in San Francisco:

Whiskey	27,375 qts., or 6,844 gals.
Champagne	18,250 qts., or 4,562 gals.
Other wines	14,376 qts., or 3,594 gals.
Cocktails, claret punches, fizzes, "eye-openers," and divers other mixed drinks	1,125 qts., or 2,281 gals
Bromos, ammonia cocktails, and other "bracers" administered to prepare him for business	3,024 qts., or 756 gals.
Water (only on the side)	60,000 qts., or 15,000 gals.
G'd t'ls	132,150 qts., or 33,037 gals.

Canada's Greatest Holiday Spot.

Few can afford either the time or the money for a summer in the Rockies. There are other places in Canada, but they are only others. This is the place. Travelers have said that for massive grandeur the Alps must yield the palm to our own great hills. He who is wakened by the negro train porter when the snow-clad peaks first come into view just east of Calgary will never forget the sight on the far horizon. In the old geographies there is a picture of the Rockies, and many must have commented on the striking likeness achieved by the artist. The Rockies look just like the old woodcut. Involuntarily one thinks of the poet who, never seeing a hill more than six feet two inches high, yet penned the most magnificent description of mountain scenery in our language. However, this may be doing the artist an injustice. If by taking no holidays for three years one would be able on the fourth to go to Banff, he would be repaid tenfold.

Young and Old Folks.

Pleasant to take, agreeable to the stomach, soothing and healing, Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians instead of cod-liver oil. It does all, and more, than cod-liver oil. The ideal medicine for children and enfeebled persons. 14a

River Question in Australia.

Notwithstanding all the tactless assaults on the Federation and the parochial attitude adopted toward national obligations at the recent Premiers' conference, writes our Melbourne correspondent, the Premiers have made a tremendous stride toward the settlement of the rivers question.

They have secured a five years' truce between the three States of New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia, which are vitally interested in the waters of the Murray, by means of an agreement which, if ratified by the three Parliaments, will enable the States to carry through important water conservation works.

Taking the second and clearer step first, it is a subject of intense satisfaction to Australians that conflict over riparian rights has been avoided. As the Nile is to Egypt, so is the Murray to great areas in New South Wales and Victoria. For prosperity to reach those areas irrigation and the conservation of flood waters are a sine qua non. South Australia has fought the schemes of her neighbor because she feared that the flow of water, when the Murray reached her territory, would be so low as to impede navigation. The agreement guarantees South Australia a flow of 837,000 cubic feet per minute, provides a commission to administer the schemes of the other States, and limits the diversions of water during the seven months, July to January inclusive, to 293,000 cubic feet per minute on the part of New South Wales, and 147,000 per minute on the part of Victoria, with lesser quantities during the rest of the year. The making of the agreement has been received with acclamation throughout the Commonwealth. Nothing short of a cataclysmic disturbance, or another drought can hinder the continuance of the agreement for a decade or more after 1908.—London Chronicle.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Sunday, the 26th of July, it being Children's Day, the pastor, Rev. R. R. Kelly, preached to the young people in the Baptist Church here. The choir which was mainly composed of children, sang very nicely. The church was beautifully decorated by the teachers and officers of the Sunday School with flowers, ferns and grain.

On Friday evening, the 24th of July, at Elmhill, the residence of Mr. John Duff, a number of young people gathered to show their appreciation of the services of Miss Annie Duff, as organist of the Indian River Baptist Church. Miss Duff, who had been out visiting, returned about 8.30 in the evening, and upon entering the house was met by her young friends who had previously arrived. A promenade was first on the list, then the couples divided up by a singular method and a conundrum solving evening spent. After all the conundrums were solved, refreshments, cake, ice cream, and candy were passed around to which every one did ample justice. The programme ended with an address by Mr. Kelly, and the presentation of a beautiful silver plated ladies' set, to Miss Duff, by Miss Shearer, on behalf of Miss Duff's friends. The guests from a distance were the Misses Fife, from Peterborough, Mrs. Robins, of Norwood, Mr. Samuel, of Newboro, Mr. Nesbitt, of Villiers, Mr. and Miss Gall, of Keene, Mr. Robins, of Norwood, Mr. O'Brien, of Douro and the Misses Callin, of Jermyn, Mr. and Mrs. Fife, of Bethel, and Mr. and Mrs. Kidd, of Warsaw.

A GENERAL STRIKE.

Has Commenced in Several Centres in Spain.

CAUSES OF PRESENT TROUBLE

Bad Harvest and the Sentencing of Men to Prison For Labor Agitation—Leaders Exhorting Men Not to Return to Work Until They Are Released—Government Has Taken Stringent Measures.

Madrid, Aug. 3—The threatened general strike commenced to-day in several centres, including Barcelona, Murcia, Cadiz, Renda and Alcoy. The general unrest is largely attributed to bad harvests, but the immediate motive for the strike is to reinforce the demand for the release of numerous workmen, who have been thrown into prison for offences in connection with recent strikes. The leaders of the movement are exhorting the members of the trade unions not to return to work until all the imprisoned men have been released.

The government has taken stringent measures to cope with disturbances. The military forces and the civil guards have been reinforced wherever necessary, and the troops have been confined to barracks. The instigators of the strike are threatened with severe penalties.

The residence of the Mayor and a number of private houses at Alcala Province of Cadiz, have been attacked by strikers, who exchanged shots with the gendarmery.

ON BAKU-TIFLIS RAILWAY.

Many Cossacks Reported Killed in Conflict With Mob.

London, Aug. 4.—The correspondents of The Times report the continued spread of labor troubles and prolonged suspension of traffic on the Baku-Tiflis Railway, which runs thru the Caucasus, connecting the Black and the Caspian Seas, with the result that the intervening towns between Baku and Tiflis are partially famine-stricken. Many Cossacks are reported to have been killed in encounters with mobs. Strikes are reported epidemic thruout South Russia. Twenty-five thousand men are idle at Odessa. Thus far no serious disorders have occurred at Odessa.

Cotton Mills Close.

Boston, Aug. 3.—In addition to the mills that have announced a suspension during August, because of the cotton situation, others to-day follow this action in Amesbury, Mass., Middletown and Higganum, Conn.; Nashua, N.H., and Lewiston, Me. The extent of the curtailment in Fall River this week is about 750,000 spindles in the Bufeex, Corney, Stafford, Border City, Davol, Union, C. H. A. Narragansett, Robeson and Weetamoe corporations.

Building Operations Stop.

Pittsburg, Aug. 3.—As a result of the Builders' League lockout, 18,000 men were out of employment to-day, and the officers of the league say that the number will be increased to 24,000 the total number of men affiliated with the building trades council. Work has been stopped on all the buildings in course of erection in the city, with the exception of the contracts of the George A. Fuller Company and a few other outside contractors.

DROWNING ACCIDENTS.

Young Men Drowned While Bathing at Prescott and Kingsville.

Prescott, Aug. 3.—A sad drowning accident occurred about 3 o'clock this evening. A young lad named Robert Gaw, about 17 years of age, was in bathing at the derrick east of the C. P.R. station, and while swimming in deep water took a cramp and sank to the bottom. The body was recovered in about 20 minutes. Medical aid was on the spot early, and the doctors worked hard, but were not successful in bringing back life. Robert Gaw was a son of Mr. Thomas Gaw of this place.

Drowned While Bathing.

Kingsville, Aug. 3.—Reginald, son of Fraser Westcott of Molsons Bank, was drowned in the lake while bathing this afternoon.

CANADA'S PART IN WAR.

Capt. Dixon Commissioned by the Government to Write a Record.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Replying this morning to a question by Lieut.-Col. Hughes, Sir Frederick Borden said that Capt. Dixon was sent to South Africa with the first contingent commissioned to write for the government a record of the Canadians in the war. That historical record had not yet been received, but when it came to hand it would be laid on the table of the House if deemed of sufficient importance.

Capt. Dixon is on the reserve of officers, the Minister further said, and has not been in the pay of the government since his arrival in South Africa.

San Domingo's New Rulers.

Santo Domingo City, Aug. 3.—The new government has been installed and is composed as follows: Senor M. J. Galvan, Foreign Minister; Senor Espaillat, Minister of War; Senor J. B. Rache, Minister of Finance; Senor J. D. Pichard, Minister of Agriculture; Senor Bido, Minister of Posts and Telegraph; Senor Febles, Minister of the Interior; Senor Despradel, Minister of Justice.

The country is quiet, and business is increasing. The government intends to favor agricultural enterprises.

Encountered a Hurricane.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 3.—The Nova Scotia schooner Strathcona, Capt. Gerald, reports having encountered a hurricane of four hours' duration on July 24, while on the way from Barbados to St. John with molasses, and furious winds and monstrous seas struck the vessel while passing along the southern edge of the Gulf Stream, and besides the loss of 40 casks of molasses the schooner's bowsprit and deck moveables were carried away.

A FISH HATCHERY FOR KARWATHA LAKES.

Probability of One Being Established at Burleigh or Bucknorn.

The editorial in Saturday's Examiner in reference to the depletment of fishing supply in the Kawartha Lakes, has evidently started those interested thinking, as at a meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers Association, held on Monday afternoon, a committee was appointed to ascertain the best means to adopt to impress upon the authorities the advisability of establishing a hatchery for bass and maskinonge in these lakes. They recognize the fact that the pleasure of summer residence at the lakes depends upon the quality of the fishing to be had, and if the present rate is to be continued, and no effort made to replenish the supply of fish, other than that now being made, it will only be a matter of a few years until the summer tourist will have to seek other waters for their annual fishing expedition. This would be a calamity not only to Peterborough, but also to the whole surrounding district, and, it is to be hoped that prompt means will be taken to establish a hatchery. It is thought that such an institution should be located at Buckhorn or Burleigh, and the committee appointed by the Cottagers Association will interview the different sections effected to secure their co-operation in the work which they have undertaken. The owners of hotels, steamboats, the railways and local municipalities will be asked to help in the institution of a hatchery.

New York State has established a hatchery for the propagation of maskinonge and information will be obtained from it, as to the degree of success with which their efforts have been attended.

THE POSTAL FACILITIES WILL BE IMPROVED.

As a Result of the Deputation's Visit to ottawa.

Peterborough's Claim is Well Founded—A Comparison of the Reveuue and Expenditure of Different Offices.

Mr. Ross, the Post Office Inspector, who has been in town investigating the conditions of the service here, returned to Ottawa last night to present his report to the Postmaster-General, and while it is not known what changes he will recommend, it may be taken for granted that a number of much needed improvements will be made.

The Inspector has ordered that in future the general delivery wicket be kept open until eight o'clock in the evening, which is one hour later than has been the custom. This will be of considerable advantage to many of the citizens, as it was impossible for many to get to the office after having worked until six o'clock, before the wicket was closed at seven, and the new regulations will enable these to obtain their mail. It is believed that as a result of the Inspector's visit many other improvements will be made, and it is probable that the whole interior of the Post Office building will be remodelled to provide additional wickets and other changes. It is probable, too, that the work of improvement will be instituted almost immediately.

It was made evident to the deputation while in Ottawa that a free delivery would not be given by the Postmaster-General, as the revenue of the office is not sufficient to enable the Department to maintain a delivery here. The revenue at this office during the year ending June 30, 1902, was $21,427, while for the year ending June 30, 1903, it was $22,634. The cities in which a free delivery is being given, have a revenue of over $30,000; those with the lowest are Kingston, which has a revenue of $30,085 in 1901-02, and $32,188 in 1902-03, and Brantford whose income in 1902 was $32,394, and in 1903, $33,-191. On the other hand there are two offices which have a revenue exceeding that of Peterborough, in which there is no delivery system. These are Windsor, with a revenue in 1902 of $21,224, and in 1903 it jumped to $27,716; and Guelph, for which the figures are, 1902, $24,970, and 1903, $25,861, so that it would seem that the request for a delivery here is one which could not be granted in fairness to the other towns and cities whose claims should be stronger than Peterborough's.

St. Thomas has a population of about the same size as Peterborough but the post office revenue for 1902-1903 was but $17,616, while Brockville with a population of 2,300 less than Peterborough alone, had a revenue of $22,739 in 1901-1902, the figures for the last fiscal year not being available yet. This abnormal revenue is probably a tribute to Pink Pills, as Brockville is the home of the proprietors of that medicine.

It would appear however from a comparison of the expenditure with the revenue that Peterborough has a good claim for some recognition in the way of an improved service. This office has been a very economically conducted one, as the following list of offices in Ontario, with the revenues and expenditures of each, will show. The returns are for the fiscal year 1901-1902:

	Revenue.	Expend.
Lindsay	$10,662	$3,172
Owen Sound	14,411	4,510
Galt	14,482	3,700
Stratford	15,115	4,250
St. Thomas	17,374	5,204
St. Catharines	17,798	4,766
Chatham	18,525	4,899
Sault Ste. Marie	18,551	4,160

The average revenue of the above eight offices is a little over $15,864, while the average expenditure is $4,307, or more than 27 per cent. of the revenue, while the revenue for the same year here was $21,427, with an expenditure of $4,630, or only a little over 21 per cent. of the revenue, and while Sir William Mulock's assertion that a free delivery could not be given with the present revenue may be well founded, the claim that the town is deserving of a much improved service is certainly not an exaggerated one, and it is gratifying to know that a substantial improvement in the facilities will be made.

Work and Play.

The biggest summer resort within easy reach of civilization is what is commonly termed Muskoka, a district in the "Highlands of Ontario," about 100 miles north of Toronto, including an immense tract of country bordering on the Georgian Bay. This district is composed of lakes and rivers innumerable and is situate 1,000 feet above sea level. Good fishing and hunting are assured. Ample hotel accommodation at all points on the lakes is provided to suit the purses of everyone. Excellent transportation service. Copies of handsome, descriptive literature relating to the country may be had free by applying to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk Railway, Toronto.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD.

A Meeting in the Council Chamber To-day.

Mr. Publow's Address—6,194 Boxes Boarded and Quickly Sold.

A meeting of the Peterborough cheese board was held in the council chamber at 10.30 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which the following buyers were present: Messrs Gillespie, Kerr, Fitzgerald, Cook, Whitton, Rollins, Wrighton, Brentnell.

Before the sale commenced the president called upon Mr. G. G. Publow to make a few remarks to the Board.

Mr. Publow, who is the Chief Instructor of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, commenced by saying he did not intend to detain the sales, but would say a little about the cheese of this section. He remarked that the cheese which he ad seen in Montreal was on the whole very good, but perhaps not so good as that of last year. He dwelt at some length on the necessity of the factories to procure the best milk they could, and find out why there had not been such good cheese turned out. He in conclusion told his audience not to be afraid to report to the authorities, if their instructor was not a capable man.

The president remarked that several complaints had reached him that some buyers when it came to a point did not like to give the price they had offered. He said he hoped that this would not continue, as it was not business like, to say the least.

After considerable discussion on the point it was moved and seconded that the Eastern Dairymen's Association be requested to hold their next annual meeting in Peterborough.

The following factories were represented and some 6,194 boxes were boarded:—

Keene	240
Warminster	180

Trewern	150
Bensfort	215

Oak Leaf	50
Darlington	200
Buckhorn	204
Brickley	59
Apsley	75

The bidding commenced at 9 1-4 by M. Brentnell and immediately rose to 9 1-2, which offer was made by Mr. Whitton, who called Ormonde, Myrtle, Indian River, Melrose Abbey, Westwood, Villiers, Keene, Shearer, Central Smith, Oakleaf, Percy, Cavanville, Bensford, Fleetwood and Dartford. Of these Keene refused.

Mr. Cook, who also offered 9 1-2 called Oakdale, Missing Link, Laing, East Emily and Otonabee Union. All of which accepted.

Mr. Fitzgerald at the above figure bought Keene, Fraserville and Buckhorn.

There was no change in the price when Mr. Kerr called Lakefield, Treewern, North Smith, Ballyduff, Warsaw, Warminster, Pine Grove, Maple Leaf, Mount Pleasant and Peterborough, of which North Smith and Warminster refused.

Mr. Rollins at the same figure named the following which accepted — Warminster, North Smith, Young's Point, North Dummer, Cedardale, Stony Lake, South Burleigh and Apsley.

The remaining factory, Darlington Union was bought by Mr. Whitton at 9 7-16.

The Board then adjourned.

MR. STRATTON AT THE SOO.

An Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Which the Provincial Secretary Spoke.

The Sault Ste. Marie News has the following report of a meeting held there last Friday night, at which Hon. Mr. Stratton spoke:—

"Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, addressed a meeting in Barnes' hall last evening. The meeting was more or less impromptu, but nevertheless, very largely attended, it being crowded to the doors, evidencing the great interest that is being taken in the approaching bye-election. Mr. Stratton gave a very excellent address, which was filled with information as to the work of the government in general, and his department in particular, rather than any abuse of the opposition. He spoke very hopefully of the future and he also referred to the Consolidated company which he expected to see weather safely the financial storm they are now in, resulting in increased and continued prosperity to this part of the province, and in fact the whole of it. C. N. Smith and Elgin Meyers, K. C., also spoke. Dr. McLurg presided."

THE 57th BAND AT TORONTO FAIR.

A tribute to the musical ability of the 57th Regiment band, is the fact that the manager of the Dominion Industrial Fair, to be held at Toronto from August 27th to September 12th, has engaged the band to furnish music for a part of that period. Only the best bands in the province are being engaged, and Bandmaster Gliddon has his band in such excellent condition that it easily ranks with the best in the country.

Such musical organizations as the 48th Highlanders' Band, the Governor-General's Body Guards Band, and others in the same class, will furnish music, so that the 57th will be in good company.

The date on which the 57th will play is Wednesday, September 9th. This is not an occasion calling for any blowing about the good quality of the music furnished by the band. The boys will do all the necessary blowing themselves.

SUMMER COLDS

Produce Chronic Catarrh.

Madame Isabella Ellen Baveas.

Madame Isabella Ellen Baveas, Life Governor Grand Lodge of Free Masons of England, in a letter from Hotel Saratoga, Chicago, Ill., says:

"This summer while traveling I contracted a most persistent and annoying cold. My head ached, my eyes and nose seemed constantly running, my lungs were sore and I lost my appetite, health and good spirits. Doctors prescribed for me all manner of pills and powders, but all to no purpose.

"I advised with a druggist and he spoke so highly of a medicine called Peruna, that he induced me to try my first bottle of patent medicine. However, it proved such a help to me that I soon purchased another bottle and kept on until I was entirely well."—Madame Isabella Ellen Baveas.

Summer colds require prompt treatment. They are always grave, and sometimes dangerous. The promptness and surety with which Peruna acts in these cases has saved many lives. A large dose of Peruna should be taken at the first appearance of a cold in summer, followed by small and oft-repeated doses. There is no other remedy that medical science can furnish, so reliable and quick in its action as Peruna.

Address The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free book entitled "Summer Catarrh," which treats of the catarrhal diseases peculiar to summer.

SARTO IS NEW POPE

Patriarch of Venice Receives All the Votes.

ASSUMES TITLE OF PIUS X.

A Scene of Enthusiasm—Delight Expressed by Immense Crowd in The Basilica Over Election — Brief Sketch of the Career of the New Pope—In Appearance Pius X. Is a Very Handsome Man.

Rome, Aug. 5.—The conclave, after being in session for four days, elected Guiseppe Sarto, Patriarch of Venice, as Pope to succeed Leo XIII., and he now reigns at the Vatican and over the Catholic world as Pius X. Last night all Rome was illuminated in his honor. His election and the assumption of his holy office were marked by a striking demonstration and impressive ceremonies at the Vatican. To-day the new Pope, clad in all his full Pontificial robes and with all the ritualistic ceremony will receive the members of the diplomatic corps, the cardinals and the bishops, who will then offer official homage, this, notwithstanding the fact that twice yesterday the cardinals and many high officials of the Vatican went through a similar ceremony.

Coronation of Pius X.

The date upon which the coronation of Pious X. will occur has not yet been officially decided, but the impression prevails that it will take place Aug. 9. Although the election was over at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and was announced to the world 45 minutes later, by the appearance of the new Pope, at the window of St. Peter's, the conclave was not formally dissolved until 5.30 yesterday afternoon. The cardinals then returned to their various apartments in Rome, with the exception of Cardinals Oreglia and Rampolla, who temporarily retain their official suites in the Vatican, and Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa, who is too ill to be moved for several days. It was to the sick cardinal that the new Pope paid his first visit after being formally proclaimed Pontiff. The cardinals will remain in Rome for to-day's ceremonies, and should the coronation be fixed for next Sunday, they are not likely to return to their respective homes until after that ceremony.

Election Unanimous.

The election of the Patriarch of Venice was unanimous. After Monday's ballot, it was a foregone conclusion that he was the only candidate satisfactory to all to secure the necessary two-thirds. One of the cardinals said that he believed Pius X. would follow the broad lines of Leo's policy, although not likely to accentuate it. This voices the general feeling here, which is one of satisfaction.

Venetians who know the new Pope well, say that he will soon be as much beloved as Pontiff as he was yesterday as the beloved patriarch of the poor of the Adriatic. In appearance Pius X. is a very handsome man. He has a fine erect figure, despite his 68 years, his face greatly resembling that of the late Phillips Brooks. When he pronounced his first benediction yesterday at St. Peter's his voice rang out with splendid resonance.

New Pope Accepts.

The election of Cardinal Sarto, once it was consummated, was proclaimed in a loud voice by the cardinals' scrutineers to the sacred college. Cardinal Oreglia, as dean of the cardinal bishops; called Cardinals Nemo and Macchi, the deans respectively of the cardinal priests and cardinal deacons. They approached the newly elected Pontiff, saying in Latin, distinctly, but in a shaking voice:

"Do you accept your election according to the canonical law as Supreme Pontiff?"

The moment was one of extreme tension of feeling. There was a perceptible pause before Cardinal Sarto found and controlled his voice. Then he answered simply:

"Yes."

The cardinals thereupon removed their baldachinos so that that of Sarto was the only one remaining, thus marking him as their supreme head. The passing supremacy of the cardinals was gone, and was now concentrated in one person.

Red Cap For Merry del Val.

While Prince Chigi, the master of the conclave, was drawing up the official act of the election and acceptance of the new Pope, the latter, surrounded by his friends, disappeared into a small room near the altar, where he donned the white robes of his office. Pius X. was assisted by his conclavist, who first knelt and kissed his master's hand and thus received the first apostolic blessing given by Pius X.

When he was robed the secretary of the conclave, Monsignor Merry del Val, kneeling, offered him the Papal white cap amidst breathless silence. He did not follow the precedent created by Pope Leo, who declined to give his cap to the master of ceremonies, but with a slight smile Sarto took the white cap, placed it calmly on his head and dropped the red one lightly on the head of Monsignor Merry del Val, amidst a murmur of approval. This is taken as a certain indication that the happy recipient is soon to be raised to the cardinalate.

As the new Pontiff stepped from behind the altar he seated himself on the throne. His back was to the altar and he was enthroned to receive the so-called "first obedience" of the cardinals. They came forward, one by one. All kissed his hand and foot, while he saluted each on the cheek with the kiss of peace. Then all broke into the Te Doum with such effect that scarcely an eye was dry.

Pius X. then rose and, in a voice at first tremulous, but gradually becoming full and firm, administered the Papal blessing to all the members of the Sacred College. It was received with bowed and uncovered heads.

The Fisherman's Ring not yet having been found, a new one, designed by Camerlengo Oreglia, was placed on the Pontiff's finger as a symbol of renewed power and evidence that the Catholic Church has once more a sovereign head.

Sarto bore himself with becoming dignity and gave no outward sign of exultation in this the supreme moment of his life.

Greeted With Loud Shout.

When the great central window of St. Peter's facing the piazza swung slowly open, signifying an election, a loud shout arose and the crowds rushed madly towards the cathedral. At the open window half a dozen Vatican attendants appeared. Suddenly they broke out a gorgeous banner bearing a cardinal's arms.

In a few moments terrific cheers burst from every throat in the Basilica. There with the sun streaming in from the window behind was the new Pope. His rich red papal robes shown resplendent amidst the more sombre colors of those who stood beside him. For a few moments the tall form remained perfectly still—the Pontiff was gazing at the crowd beneath. The deafening roar of cheers showed no signs of diminishing. Then Pius X. raised his hand. In the twinkling of an eye the crowd, mad with excitement but a moment before, became dumb and deathlike silence prevailed throughout the basilica. It was broken only by the clear, strong voice of the new Pope. "A-ju-to-rium nostrum in nomine domini." He chanted, like the keys of a magnificent organ struck by a master hand. The response swelled up from the crowd below.

There was another silence and another response.

Then came the benedictions such as few will ever forget.

Career of Pope Pius X.

Giuseppe Sarto was born in Riesi, diocese of Treviso, on June 2nd, 1835, and was created cardinal by Leo XIII. at the consistory of June 12th, 1893, receiving the title of Saint Bernardo delle Terme. He is also patriarch of Venice since June, 1893, and Bishop of Mantua. He belongs to the ecclesiastical congregations of bishops and regulars, sacred rites, indulgences and sacred relics.

Cardinal Sarto enjoys great popularity in his diocese, and is honored by all for his purity, for the strict uprightness of his life, and for liberal ideas. He is a modest and agreeable man, highly cultivated, very kind-hearted, still strong and robust in spite of his 68 years. He has never taken great part in the political and public life of the church, but divided his time between study and good works. Although most faithful to the Holy See, he was presented to the King and Queen of Italy in Venice. He may be considered among the more liberal members of the Italian Episcopate and Sacred College. He is rather timid in expressing an opinion. It is said that Leo XIII. always thought very highly of him, and sided with him on one occasion when Sarto disapproved of Rampolla's policy.

Predicted by Leo.

Early in April Pope Leo, in a conversation with Father Perosi, the Italian composer, said in speaking of Cardinal Sarto:

"Hold him very dear, Perosi, as in the future he will be able to do much for your. We firmly believe he will be our successor."

He has been known for many years as one of the greatest preachers in the church.

NOR'-WEST BAD MAN.

A Calgary Jury Believes One Cashel Killed J. R. Belt.

Calgary, Alberta, Aug. 5.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of J. R. Belt, who was last seen at his shack in October last, has been cleared up. The jury summoned to pass judgment on a body discovered near Red Deer River last week brought in the following verdict: "In our opinion the deceased came to his death by the hand of one Cashel, now in the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, between October 27 and November 17, 1902."

From the evidence produced it was shown that Belt's horse and bridle had been left at a ranche by Cashel. The clothes produced in court were taken by Sergt. Evans from a half-breed, who said that they had been given to him by Cashel.

KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Suffering From This Disease are in Great Peril and Should Not Experiment With Other Medicines.

From the Sun, Seaforth, Ont.

The kidneys are the most important organ. They must filter every drop of blood in the body. If the blood is weak the kidneys cannot do their work, so the blood is left unfiltered, and foul, and the kidneys are left clogged with poisonous impurities. Then come the backaches that mean fatal kidney disease. Don't neglect that backache for a moment. Strike at the root of the very first symptoms of Kidney trouble by enriching the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the only medicine that makes the blood rich, red and health-giving.

Mr. William Holland, of Seaforth, Ont., has proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure the most obstinate case of kidney trouble. To a reporter of the Sun he freely gave the particulars of his case: "I have suffered from kidney trouble for about two years," said Mr. Holland, "Sometimes the backache which accompanied the trouble would be so severe that I would be unable to work, and I have often suffered severely for weeks at a time. I tried a number of medicines said to be a cure for kidney trouble, but I found nothing to help me until on the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills soon began to make their good work felt, and after using them for about a month every vestige of the trouble had disappeared, and I have not since had a single symptom of the disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a great blessing to me, and I am always glad to say a good word in their favour."

As a curative medicine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have never yet been equalled. They build up the blood and nerves, give new strength and enable the body to resist disease. Among the complaints cured by these pills are rheumatism, nervous disorder, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, indigestion, anaemia, lung troubles, and the troubles that make the lives of so many women miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent post paid at 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Don't take a substitute at any price—only the genuine pills can cure.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

MR. LOY EXONERATED

Mr. Monk's Charge Against M. P. for Beauharnois Falls.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

The Colonial Conference Proceedings—Question to Be Answered After Premier Sees the Governor-General—The Iron and Steel Bounties Resolution Passed and Bill Read a First Time.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—In the House yesterday, Mr. F. B. Wade presented the report of the Committee of Privileges and Elections on the charge of breach of the Independence of Parliament Act made by Mr. Monk against Mr. Geo. M. Loy, the sitting member for Beauharnois.

Beauharnois Case Report.

The report, which is a majority one, set forth that the property actually passed from Mr. Loy to Mr. Archambault on Jan. 4th, 1899, and reverted to him on the 15th of June next following; that the charge that Robert Bruce Johnston was not in any sense acting for or on behalf of Mr. Loy in the transaction, but that he represented that he acquired the property for commercial purposes, and that when he parted with the property Mr. Loy believed the statement to be true, and therefore there had been no violation of the act respecting the Senate and the House of Commons. The committee further found that the assessment roll was no definite criterion of the true value of property in Valleyfield, that the price paid did not exceed the real value of the property, that at the time the Crown did not possess any property in Valleyfield available and suitable for the purpose, and, finally, that the sworn statement by Mr. Loy had not been contradicted in any particular, on the contrary, that it had been corroborated by the other witnesses having knowledge of the facts.

Printing the Evidence.

Mr. Monk asked that the evidence taken by the committee be printed for the use of the members of the House. He said that there was a majority and a minority report, and their respective merits could not be fairly pronounced upon without the evidence.

Mr. Wade, Chairman, of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, informed the House that the committee on three separate occasions, had considered this question, and had almost unanimously decided that it was unnecessary to have the evidence printed, as there was absolutely no contradiction between the witnesses.

Mr. W. H. Bennett and Mr. Samuel Barker supported Mr. Monk's amendment, and Mr. R. L. Borden said the refusal of the Government supporters to have the evidence printed was one of the most unusual decisions which had yet come under his notice in the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier upheld the principle of sustaining the decision of the committee, and the matter was referred to the Committee on Printing, in accordance with the rules. A motion by Mr. Wade to adopt the report was, at the suggestion of the Premier, allowed to stand until to-day.

The Minority Report.

In the Committee on Privileges and Elections, yesterday morning, Mr. Monk, on behalf of the minority, presented a report, setting forth that since 1898 efforts had been made to induce the Government to purchase Mr. Loy's property for a postoffice, that Mr. Loy when Mayor of the town accompanied civic deputations to Ottawa to urge the purchase of the property, that following the election of Mr. Loy in the autumn of 1900, a vote was placed in the estimates for the purpose of purchasing the site, that Mr. Loy could not have been in ignorance of the fact that Mr. Johnston was the agent of the Government, and that he should not therefore have signed the deed.

Colonial Conference Proceedings.

Mr. Borden asked the Premier if there is any truth in the report that the British Government has asked the various colonial Governments if they would object to the publication of proceedings of the intercolonial conference, which have been regarded as confidential.

Sir Wilfrid replied that he could not make a statement until he had consulted with His Excellency the Governor-General.

Iron and Steel Bounties.

After an energetic debate the resolution granting iron and steel bounties, already published, was carried, and a bill founded on the same was read a first time.

The Fisheries Question.

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine laid on the table of the House a memo on the presentation of the fisheries question. It recites the events leading up to the reference of the question to the Privy Council and refers to the conference which followed the decision of that tribunal. In Ontario the memo states the fisheries were relinquished to the province as a proprietory right. This involves the issue of all fishery licenses in inland waters and the collection of all revenues therefrom, all rights of regulation being reserved. The Dominion may deem it expedient to make some further claim in regard to the waters of the great lakes which form the boundary line between two foreign countries. A final agreement will be reached as soon as possible.

Crops in Manitoba.

In committee on the bill to amend the Manitoba Grain Act, Mr Sifton said that the indications are for a good crop in the Territories and part of Manitoba with the rest of Manitoba not so good, and the average hardly up to the yield of the past two years. Since last year there had been an enormous increase in the elevator accommodation.

DEATH OF HON. WM. PROUDFOOT.

Passed Away at His Summer Home at Hamilton on Tuesday.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—Hon. William Proudfoot, former Vice-Chancellor of the Ontario Court of Chancery, died at his summer home here yesterday morning. He had been ill about a week. The funeral will take place today at 3 p.m.

Hon. William Proudfoot was born near Errol, in Perthshire, Scotland, Nov. 9, 1823, therefore, had he lived until November next he would have completed his eighty years. He came to Canada with his parents in 1832, and was educated in London by his father, the late Rev. William Proudfoot. He turned his attention to law, studied in the office of Messrs. Blake & Morrison, and in 1849 was called to the bar. He practised for a short time in Toronto, and then accepted the appointment of Master and Deputy Registrar of the Court of Chancery in Hamilton. Three years later he resigned and entered into partnership with Messrs. Freeman & Craigie, taking exclusive charge of the equity business of the firm until 1862, when he withdrew, and devoted himself entirely to equity.

The Ontario Government created him a Q.C. in 1872, but he declined a confirmation of the appointment by the Dominion Government. In May, 1874, he was appointed Vice-Chancellor of the Court of Chancery, which office he held until he retired from the bench in May, 1890. Mr. Proudfoot was twice married.

HERE IS PROOF.

That Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure Indigestion or Dyspepsia of any Stage or Standing.

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never got relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six sboxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably, which I never expected to do in this world."

This is the statement of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Grove, Digby Co., N. S. It is but one of thousands that prove beyond a doubt that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia of any stage or standing. Proof like this is worth more than all the theory in the world.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve. They cure to stay cured.

Attempted Murder.

Winnipeg, Aug 3.—Last night a young man, about 20 years of age, of extremely tough appearance, was arrested for attempted murder. He was raising a racket in the Windsor Hotel. When thrown into the street, he pulled a knife and, running at the bartender, Bert Corley, stabbed him in the abdomen just below the ribs. Altho the wound is a nasty one, the long knife having been thrust in up to the hilt, Corley will probably recover unless complications set in.

Pitchforked a Man.

Bradford, Aug. 3.—On Friday afternoon a young man named F. Hanmore, working for William Church of West Gwillimbury, ran a pitchfork into Church's side just below the heart. As fears are now entertained that the wound may prove fatal, a warrant was issued last night for the arrest of Hanmore and he was sent to Barrie this morning for trial. The men were quarrelling about the work being done when the assault took place.

Attacked by a Dog.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—The 2-year-old child of Albert Poulin, a butcher, living at Gatineau Point, will probably die as a result of injuries inflicted by a dog. The child was playing with the brute andw anted to take a bone from him. The dog turned on the child and tore his scalp from his skull.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings, suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no medicine which gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of Kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Secures British Rights in Cunard Vessels in Case of War.

THE STRINGENT PROVISIONS.

Admiralty Will Have the Right to Hire or Purchase All or Any of the Company's Ships Between Liverpool and New York, Boston, the Mediterranean Ports and Havre—The New Vessels.

London, Aug. 5.—The agreement between the Admiralty, the Board of Trade, the Postmaster-General and the Cunard Steamship Company, dated July 30, is assured in a Parliamentary paper last evening. All the company's steamships between Liverpool, New York, Boston, the Mediterannean ports and Havre, including the new steamships, which will have a speed of 20 to 24 knots an hour, will be at the disposal of the Admiralty for hire or purchase in the event of war. The vessels must be maintained under the British flag and managed witout any undue increase in freight charges or undue preference against British subjects. The masters, officers and engineers of all the vessels must always be British subjects and the same condition applies to three-fourths of the crew.

The company is not allowed to sell any vessel whose speed is 17 knots and upwards without the consent of the Government. The company must maintain the gun mountings, etc., ready for use. For these concessions the Government agrees to subsidize the new vessels at $375,000 per year each. The loan of $13,000,000 which will bear interest at 2½ per cent., and is to be repaid in 20 annual installments, will rank as the first charge in the whole Cunard fleet, and will be secured by debentures. The agreement provides for a reduction in the subsidy for the new steamships in the case of their failure to attain a minimum speed of 23½ knots.

Mr. Conroy's Contract at Lift Lock.

Mr. David Conroy, the well-known Peterborough contractor, who had the contract of sodding the immense terraces and considerable ground at the lift lock, has completed his contract in a manner that is credit to himself and to the government work at that place. It required about four acres of sod to fill the contract, and the sod is of an exceptionally good quality. The appearance of the lift lock has been decidedly improved by the completion of the sodding. Mr. Conroy is just finishing up several other large contracts, and it is stated that he will make a bid for a section of the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Perkins Ince & Co., of Toronto, Will Open Branch Here.

Bought McAllistor's Building on Charlotte Street and Will be Open for Business Last of August.

A tribute to the growing importance of Peterborough as a business centre, and an advantageously situated distributing point, is the decision of Perkins, Ince & Co., of Toronto, one of the largest wholesale grocery concerns in Canada, to establish a branch house here. The Company has bought the large warehouse at the corner of Charlotte and Bethune streets, on the G. T. R. tracks from the McAllister Milling Co., and the building is now being fitted up for their occupancy. The whole 3 stories of this building will be utilized, and an initial stock to the value of $50,000 will be placed here. Perkins, Ince & Co. have been in business for 50 years, and it was after fully investigating the advantages offered by other towns that they decided to open a branch at Peterborough. Mr. John Cameron, who has for some time been the representative of the company here, will have charge of the branch. Mr. Cameron is well known to the trade here and is popular not only with the business men, but in sporting circles as well. The business of the new branch will be safe in his hands, and no doubt it will continue to grow. The building will be ready about the last of this month, when the stock will be put in.

OBITUARY.

Sad Death of Mr. John Mercer at Noon To-day.

It will come as a surprise to very many to learn of the death of Mr. John Mercer, which took place to-day at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Neill, Hunter street. Deceased was the second son of the late William Mercer, and before leaving town was identified with athletic matters, and achieved some prominence as an oarsman. Fifteen years ago he went west and for some time was located at Vancouver, B.C. He was afflicted with a complication of kidney diseases which undermined his strength, and did not give to medical treatment. He was ordered home to recuperate, and after his arrival on June 25th, rallied, and gave promise of recovery. Latterly the ailment asserted itself, finally resulting in his death to-day. The funeral will take place from Mr. Neill's residence on Thursday at 3 p.m., to the Little Lake cemetery.

BRONCO BUSTING.

A Peterborough Boys' Victory Over a Wild Northwest Pony.

Mr. Herbert S. Wood, who is with a surveying party on the Northern Railway in the Northwest, sends a letter home, and an extract from it, relating to the experience of Mr. Cheeseman, a well known character among the boys in town, is interesting. The extract says:

Our new teamster, "Willie off the Yacht," alias "Wheels," viz., William Cheeseman, who used to work at Turners, has a new name now, viz., "Buffalo Bill." The chief bought a broncho of Hartman which has given considerable trouble, it is a nice little animal but not broken. It got away one night and he didn't get it for a few days. On Saturday Mr. Ross tried to saddle it and couldn't. He got the saddle on twice but could not fasten it. The blooming thing climbed up into a bob-sleigh twice. In the evening one of the boys bet "Wheels" that he could neither saddle nor ride the beast. The teamster won both bets. After a great deal of trouble and fighting he got the saddle on, and then tried to mount him. In the attempt the horse got away and went full tilt through a barbed wire fence, knocking it flat. We had just got the fence set up when "Wheels" succeeded in mounting the animal. He had no sooner touched its back than the broncho started to run like a deer straight for the fence. Down it went again and poor Willie went over the horse's head like a rocket. He got kicked on the head before he caught "Buck" again.

By this time it was good and dark but the struggle was not over. The man and horse went out on the open prairie where they had it out. They got mixed up and well soaked in a slough. In about one and a half hours "Wheels" rode into camp victorious, cheering, wet and sore, but satisfied. The broncho let him get off and get on again without moving.

Canada, will wrestle George Gouthier, of Peterborough, whose record is well known. This match will be for a purse of $35, the best two out of three falls.

Another contest which will be of especial interest to Peterborough persons will be a boxing contest between Mick Collins, of Ottawa, and Jack Jones, of Toronto. The purse will be one of $25 with eight rounds for decision. Collins has been in Peterborough before and gave a very creditable performance of good clean boxing. It is further understood that there will be specialties between the bouts. A very large audience is expected as the management put themselves to big expense in getting the above talent together and promise one of the best shows which has been put on before an audience.

TURF.

Large numbers are expected at the race track to-morrow when a number of races will be run off. Some excellent horses have been entered and the racing should be of a very keen nature. The entries for three of the races are as follows:

2.30 pace and 2.27 Trot. — For a purse of $500. — Lizzie McChard, C. Lorne, Montreal; Lady Hamburg, Ashley Stock Farm, Belleville; Dan Finister, John Aldous, Fenelon Falls; The Duke, E. R. Reynolds, Toronto; Jubilee, M. J. Dennistoun, Coldwater; Sphinx B., Geo. Powell, Peterborough; Minnie Keswick, Geo. Curtis, Lindsay; Black Boy, J. M. Brooks, Peterborough.

For a purse of $300—Free to all. — Pilly Gee, G. T. Thomas, Belleville. Jim Wilson, Robert Stewart, Guelph; Wisdom King, Fred Lasker, Tavistock; Bowalton, J. H. Allen, Picton; Gipsie Girl, A. Martin, Toronto.

Hurdle Race. — 1 1-2 miles running race, over six hurdles, purse $200.00.

1. Mango, Ellward
2. Fausate, Eden.
3. Venetian, H. Fife.
4. Cheathem, P. Cluman.
5. Rotho, P. Burrell.

SPRINTING.

D. Belland hereby accepts the challenge of A. Rose contained in yesterday's Examiner to run one-half mile for a cup at the Turf Club track to-morrow, (Thursday) afternoon, Belland giving Rose ten yards handicap. The former will meet Rose at the Examiner office on Thursday morning at ten o'clock to arrange details of the race.

• • • •

Under a four line heading the Montreal Star has the following relating to a sprinter well known in Peterborough:

"Mr. Belland of Quebec, the young gentleman, who it is claimed has broken the mile running record up West the other day, has been in this city and has had talks with several well known men interested in amateur athletics.

Mr. Belland says he is going to Great Britain to enter in all the important games there.

To use a sporting expression which verges upon slang, but which is frequently heard on race tracks, and is very expressive also, he claims that "he has them all skinned to death," and that he will have no difficulty whatever in beating any and all competitors."

The Star has evidently been misinformed, as Mr. Belland is not a long distance runner but has good grounds to claim distinction as a 100 yards runner.

GOLF.

A telegram has just been received from Port Hope saying that it has been impossible for them to get a team together, so that they will be unable to play the game here to-day.

THE TRIGGER.

The regular shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club will be held at the Riverside Park to-morrow evening at 6.30 o'clock.

LAWN BOWLING.

Two Millbrook rinks visited Peterborough last night with the following result:

Millbrook.	Peterborough.

A St A Smith, sk...17	G H Giroux, 21

The visiting teams arrived on the evening train and were given supper at the Oriental hotel. They gave an excellent exhibition of lawn bowling, boating, as the scores show, the two local rinks by 7 points. They left on the nine o'clock train for Millbrook.

TUG-OF-WAR.

On July 23rd, through the columns of the Examiner, the "Force" tug of war team, challenged the Quaker team to pull for the Turf Club's cup which the latter won on July 1st. The rules under which the cup is held state that any team holding the cup must accept any challenge to defend it within 12 days after the issuing of the challenge, otherwise the cup shall go back to the donors. Mr. R. H. Shepherd, captain of the "Force" team stated to the Examiner, that the Quakers have failed to accept the challenge within the 12 days, although they offered to pull with Captain Shepherd's team for a purse of $25 or $50, which the latter will not accept as he has a number of amateur athletes on his team who would be professionalized by this action. Mr. Shepherd expresses his confidence in the ability of the Force team to lift the cup, but declares that he will not allow his team to professionalize themselves. According to the terms of the cup contest it should be forfeited by the Quaker team.

LACROSSE.

THE EXAMINER'S CHALLENGE.

The Examiner will not make fun of the Review for flunking a game of lacrosse neither will any remark be made about their excuse for not accepting the challenge which appeared in their yesterday evening's edition. The Examiner will however again challenge the Review to a game of lacrosse and if they again flunk will buy them five cents worth of marbles, or else a ping-pong set, both of which infantile games it is known they indulge in.

AN HISTORIC SIGHT.

An historic sight in Toronto is the Royal Suite at the Queen's Hotel, where all Royal visitors to that city have been entertained. The Queen's itself is a fitting repository of such contents. Flanked on either side by a charming garden with its flower beds and ivied walls, it presents an old-world appearance. Its furnishings are at once chastely refined and sumptuous, cosy and home-like. The Queen's is thoroughly modern in its appointments. It possesses large and lofty rooms, with a telephone in each; more than a hundred bath rooms, and the most improved methods of lighting and ventilation. It is but three stories high, perfectly fire-proof, has numerous exits, making danger from fire impossible. Its cuisine is famed and the attendance given wins the highest praise. The rates are exceedingly reasonable, from $2.50 and $3 with bath, per diem. The Queen's is pleasantly situated a few minutes walk from the station, and close to the lake; it is delightfully cool and free from the noise of the city.

HELP THE PUBLIC.

Guide the Traveller on His Way—A Hint to G.T.R. Station Authorities.

The Grand Trunk Station is a busy scene in the holiday season with arriving and departing tourists and visitors to the lakes. In the morning three trains pull out within a few minutes and complaint has been made to the Examiner that travellers become confused and have difficulty in deciding which train they should board. This applies especially to strangers for their regular summer visits to the lakes have less difficulty. Formerly the several trains were provided with signs showing their destination. It seems this practice has been discontinued, and hence the confusion and inconvenience complained of. It seems it is only necessary to call the attention of the station authorities to the matter to have an improvement effected. It is to the interest of both the railway and this district that the path of the tourist and pleasure seeker should be made as straight and smooth as possible.

A Well Designed Ad.

The Examiner acknowledges the receipt of a well designed advertising card from Mr. C. LeBrun, city agent for New York of the Heinz Co., who put up 57 varieties of "pure food products." They have what is known as the "Heinz Ocean Pier" at Atlantic City, N. J., and the card referred to gives some illustrations of it. Mr. LeBrun is in town, the guest of his brother, Mr. H. LeBrun.

A new Plumbing and Heating House will open at 434 George street about the 15th of August. Communications addressed to Fred Butters, Peterborough, will receive immediate attention. 6d

HIAWATHA.

Miss Windsor and her nephew, Master Ewart Gladstone Windsor, of Sudbury, are renewing old acquaintances at Hiawatha.

Mr. Sutton of Cavan, spent a few days with friends at Hiawatha.

Miss Hagerman of Peterborough, and Miss Lockington of Port Hope, are the guests of Miss Hannah Cowie.

A number of Peterborough people are spending their holidays at Thompson's Point, Hiawatha.

The funeral of the late Jas. Atchison of Winnipeg, for many years a resident of Hiawatha, took place at Harwood, on July 25th. The deceased gentleman was born in the North of Ireland, and came to Canada when a young man. He had reached the advanced age of 91 years.

We regret to record the sad death of Mrs. Wellington Cowie. A large number attended her funeral, which was conducted by Rev. Geo. Dunkley. Her end was peaceful. Leaning on the bosom of her Saviour she launched out to stem the swellings of Jordan, confident that He who had been her pilot, would not forsake her in the hour of death. She has entered into rest but her name will be long affectionately cherised. Four boys and a girl, and the father, are left to mourn the departure of a kind mother and a devoted wife.

IN MEMORIAM.

Lines written to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nolan on the death of their beloved daughter, Mary Ellen, aged 12 years, who departed this life April 13, 1903.

Your daughter, dear, has left you,
And you will see her no more,
Until that happy day
When all hope to meet on the golden shore.

Death to us seems so much sadder,
When it claims one we have known;
But why sad, when we remember
She dwells in her happy home.

When in sickness she was lying,
On a bed of deadly pain,
Her young face was bright and happy,
For she never did complain.

She has gone to meet her school mates,
On that bright eternal shore;
Oh, may you who now are mourning,
Meet her there to part no more.

Dear parents, little did you think
When the spring flowers were blooming gaily,
That one who was greatly cherished,
Would soon from this life fade away.

She has soared away to that happy land
Across the silent river,
She now dwells in a beautiful mansion,
And shall live with our Saviour forever.

Then why should your tears roll down,
And your hearts with grief be riven,
For another gem is in our Saviour's crown
And another soul in heaven.

ONE OF HER SCHOOLMATES.

A Curious Egg.

A freak, the cause of which, probably scientists would find hard to explain, was shown the Examiner this morning. It is a hens egg of somewhat abnormal size, in which a smaller egg perfectly formed with shell was found. The discovery was made by Mr. Robt. Dobbin, of North Monaghan this morning, whereupon taking a boiled egg for breakfast he encountered the smaller shell inside, and immediately desisted eating. The shell with its curious enclosure is now at the Munro House, where many who see it are wondering how it happened.

We have cut the heart of prices in Fishing Tackle and Sporting Goods. No pipe dream, but an actuality. Also, Ladies' Hand Bags—at Salisbury's.

A Good Move.

It was a good thing we separated our groceries and liquors. Our separate liquor store is a great improvement on the old way. Customers are better served and like the change. This season finds us better equipped to fill orders than ever before. We're older and more experienced—we know your needs precisely. How well we have chosen for you and how moderately we've priced is a tale that tells itself in our wines and liquors. The Henry Company, opposite Opera House, George street.

THREATENING RAILWAY LABORERS.

Timekeeper on Canadian Northern Drew and Fired in Self Defence.

Erwood, N.W.T., Aug. 5.—A timekeeper named Van Alystyne, employed in a Canadian Northern construction camp, 60 miles west of here, shot and killed a Galician laborer last Friday evening. The Galicians wanted their time checks, which were refused by Van Alystyne. They assumed a threatening attitude, and Van Alystyne, becoming alarmed for his safety, drew a revolver and in self-defence fired into the crowd, the bullet entering one of the men, who died from the effects of the shot four hours after. Van Alystyne has left the camp, and the police have not been able to apprehend him.

THE CRAFT CAPSIZED.

Port Hope Young Man of Twenty Drowned in Bay of Quinte.

Belleville, Aug. 5.—A sad drowning accident occurred on the Bay of Quinte yesterday, the victim being Fred. Greenway, a clerk in the post-office at Port Hope. Young Greenway arrived at the Y.M.C.A. camp on Sunday night, coming from Port Hope with George Small. Yesterday he went out in a sail boat in company with two other young men. The craft capsized in a squall and Greenway was drowned. Deceased was a son of William Greenway, foreman in The Port Hope Guide newspaper office, and was well thought of. He was about 20 years of age.

IN SERIOUS TROUBLE.

Fred Hanmore Stabs His Employer With a Pitchfork.

Barrie, Aug. 5.—Fred Hanmore, alias Stratton, was brought to the county jail from Bradford Monday night, and over him hangs a charge of stabbing, which may yet be one of murder.

He was employed by a farmer named William Church, who lives six miles from Bradford. While at work in a mow on Friday a quarrel arose, and Hanmore stabbed his employer through the lungs with a pitch fork. At last reports Church was bleeding profusely from the mouth and lungs, and was in a critical condition. Hanmore acknowledges the stabbing.

WILL WRITE HIS REPLY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Will Answer Manitoba Schools Deputation Thursday.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—The interview yesterday between the representatives of the separate school supporters of Winnipeg, Messrs. Russell and Deegan and the Primo Minister and Minister of Justice lasted for over an hour. In that time the entire subject of the grievances of the Roman Catholic minority in regard to the education was threshed out, the delegates receiving a most sympathetic hearing.

Sir Wilfrid deferred giving his answer until Thursday, when he will deliver his reply to the minority's memorial in writing.

Wanted For Execution.

Pekin, Aug. 5.—The Chinese Government has addressed a note directly to the Foreign Ministers requesting the extradition of the editor and staff of The Supao, the Reform organ at Shanghai, who are charged with seditious writings, thus reinforcing the demand of the Shanghai officials upon the consuls. The demands state that the prisoners are wanted for execution.

Milton Octogenarian Suicides.

Milton, Aug. 5.—John Roper, sr., committed suicide on Sunday evening about 8 o'clock by hanging himself in his bake house. He was 82 years of age, and had been in business here for a great many years. No one knows his reason for taking his own life. He leaves a widow, three married daughters and one son.

$40,000 Fire.

Canso, N.S., Aug. 3.—A. N. Whitman & Son's loss on this morning's fire at their warehouse is about $40,000, believed to be well covered by insurance. The fire was over at 6 o'clock. The fire started in the engine-house on Whitman's wharf and had great headway before being discovered. There is little or no fire protection in the town, and in consequence the flames made great havoc and for a time threatened the town with destruction.

Almost a Murder in Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Several young men made insulting remarks about two young ladies Walter Welch and his brother were walking with in Queen's Park last night, and in a fight which occurred Welch was stabbed three times. It was at first feared that his injury was fatal, but this morning the doctors hold out hope for his recovery. His brother was badly kicked. No arrests have been made yet.

"NOTHING TO LIVE FOR."

Nothing to live for? Soul, that cannot be,
Though when hearts break the world seems emptiness,
But unto thee I bring, in my distress,
A message, born of love and sympathy,
And may it prove, O soul, the golden key
To all things beautiful and good, and bless
The life which looks to thee so comfortless!
This is the word: "Someone hath need of thee."

Someone—or who or where I do not know.
Knowest thou not? Then seek; make no delay.
And thou shalt find, in land of sun or snow,
Who waits thee, little child or pilgrim grey;
For since God keeps thee in his world below,
Someone hath need of thee, somewhere to-day.

TO FLY LIKE A BIRD.

English Genius Invents a Winged Mechanical Air Ship.

Despite manifold discouragement in high places T. Hugh Bastin of Brixton, England, with the indomitable courage of the inventor who is assured that he has mastered a great problem, has succeeded in bringing very near to perfection a winged mechanical air ship, says a London correspondent.

He has superseded his small model of 1901 by one of very considerable size whose powers of mechanical propulsion on the bird's wing principle, without the aid of any balloon attachment, are placed beyond a doubt, and the new air ship will probably make its first public flight at the forthcoming exhibition at St. Louis.

The machine consists of a cylinder which for practical purposes will be from thirty-four feet to forty feet long and will contain two saloons each eight feet square fitted with two pairs of wings which by means of a differentiating crank are capable of reproducing every movement of the natural wings of a bird.

Each wing of Mr. Bastin's model can be controlled separately, and one man working at one lever can regulate every requisite movement of soaring, steering, flying, hovering or descending. The motive power is supplied by a petrol engine, and propulsion is achieved by the air resistance to the beats of the wing.

The model is a twelfth part the size of the air ship which when the necessary funds are forthcoming he hopes to build. Shaped cylindrically, it has a pointed nose and tail, while all the weight is below the wings, thus maintaining the equilibrium. The two pairs of wings are exactly the same in size, and neither of them approaches the extremities of the ship's body. When they are set beating the model needs two men to hold it back.

The little air ship has made a flight round the workshop, and the inventor is confident that his full sized air ship will when completed be able to attain a speed of from 150 to 200 miles an hour.

BALFOUR'S IDLENESS

PREMIER OF GREAT BRITAIN A MAN WHO WAS BORN LAZY.

And Yet He Achieved Distinction and Rose to the Topmost Height in the Gift of His Countrymen, Thanks to Having an Uncle Who Was Premier Before Him.

During a recent dull sitting of the House of Commons several politicians were seated in the smoking-room discussing one of their colleagues. He was lazy, they said; he was utterly unpractical; he had not the faintest chance of arriving at anything great.

"Don't be so sure," said an aged statesman who had been listening to their talk. "It's a ticklish business to judge men. Do you know that we used to say the very same thing about Balfour less than twenty years ago, and now he is Prime Minister of Great Britain?

"In 1885 and 1886 none of us dreamed that he would ever become a successful politician, let alone a great statesman. As president of the local government board and secretary for Scotland he had managed to miss all his chances of doing anything remarkable. He was clever enough, but he simply couldn't take the trouble to work. It seemed to be almost too much bother to him to live. He seldom got out of bed before the afternoon, and often he would not go to his office for three or four days at a time. Dispatches bored him, parliament was a nuisance, and the officials of his department tore their hair over his neglect to keep appointments and sign important documents. They never expected him to read them; if they could get him to sign them a week late they thought themselves lucky.

Parnell's Prescience.

"Well, this was the man whom Lord Salisbury appointed Chief Secretary for Ireland in 1884—one of the stormiest periods in the modern history of that country. Of course, everybody raged and said that Salisbury had appointed the most unfit man he could have found in a day's march, simply because that man happened to be his own nephew. The Irish members were delighted. They thought they had got a man of straw for their chief opponent. Parnell alone saw the truth.

"'Don't deceive yourselves,' he told his colleagues. 'Salisbury knows what he is doing. There's a great deal more in Balfour than he has shown us yet. He will turn out to be the strongest Chief Secretary for generations past.'

"And so it proved. Faced at last with an immensely difficult and important task, Balfour altered his habits completely. There was no more lying abed until noon, no more neglect of business, no more scorn for petty details. He rose with the lark even after a hard night's session in the House of Commons and worked hard all day and everyday at his office. When he became Chief Secretary he knew no more about Irish affairs than the average man in the street, but in less than a month he surprised the permanent officials by his thorough knowledge of every branch of Irish government.

"And as he worked and learned his character and will grew stronger. The lazy, vacillating philosopher, who couldn't make up his mind about anything became, in a few short weeks, the stern administrator who telegraphed: 'Don't hesitate to shoot!' to the soldiers at Mitchelstown when they asked how they were to deal with a riotous mob.

"You all know how he has risen since then. It is a good lesson to be careful in your judgments," concluded the old statesman.

A Premier Who Sighs for Obscurity.

Strange to say, this man who has risen to the top of the tree in British politics is no lover of politics. He is a politician by family influence and chance, not by choice. The nephew of Lord Salisbury, Arthur J. Balfour was "born to the purple" and destined for Parliament from his Eton days. But his tastes are literary and academic, not political and practical. He cares more for the honors which have been showered upon him by all the British universities in recognition of his achievements in philosophy than he does for his political fame.

"Give me my books, my golf clubs and leisure," he once said to a friend, "and I would ask for nothing more. My ideal in life is to read a lot, write a little, play plenty of golf and have nothing to worry about. If I could give up politics and retire to-morrow without disorganizing things and neglecting my duty I would gladly do so."

Mr. Balfour has often said this and there is no doubt that he is sincere. He is too much of a philosopher to be ambitious. Entering politics more as a social necessity than anything else, he drifted from one office to another until at last he reached a position in which he had to work hard or, in his view, jeopardize England's interests by neglect. He worked hard and "made good." As a reward he was given still more important posts, which have kept him working busily ever since.

In the strenuous "Coercion" days when Mr. Balfour stood in grave danger of assassination, he worried his friends by absolutely refusing to take any precautions. He would not even allow himself to be guarded by secret service men, though a previous Chief Secretary, Lord Frederick Cavendish, had been murdered in Dublin.

Had Fun With Detectives.

But he was constantly "shadowed" by detectives against his orders, and he used to get great amusement by trying to shake them off. He did not hesitate to travel alone, even in the most disturbed part of Ireland, where scores of men would have been glad to kill him had they recognized him as their arch-enemy. "Bloody Balfour," the man whose stern suppression of riots made his name for a while as detested in Ireland as that of Cromwell.

Balfour's cool courage finally won the respect of the Irish, and when he relinquished control of Irish affairs he was as popular as any Chief Secretary could be under a policy of coercion. Even the Irish members in the House of Commons liked him, as they do to-day.

"He tells us with exquisite politeness that we are fools when we meet him here and sends us to jail when we are in Ireland," the late Dr. Tanner, M.P. for Cork, used to say. "But he has such a charming way with him that nobody can help liking him."

That is how all Mr. Balfour's opponents feel towards him. Nobody hits out harder than he does in debate, but there is never any personal bitterness, any malicious sting in his remarks, as there almost always is in Mr. Chamberlain's. Mr. Balfour is one of the kindliest, most gentle men alive. His courtesy and consideration for others are unfailing, and that is why he is the most popular leader of the House of Commons in the history of Parliament.

Decidedly an "Eligible."

In English society he is extremely popular and much sought after. Years ago dowagers used to angle for him for their daughters. He is decidedly "eligible" in the marriage market, being rich as well as distinguished, but he has never married, and nobody expects that he will. Even the most hopeful dowagers have given him up as a confirmed bachelor.

Next to books, Mr. Balfour finds his chief pleasure in golfing and cycling. Mr. Chamberlain has been heard to boast that he never takes any other exercise than that of walking up and down stairs. Not so his chief. Mr. Balfour is one of the best golfers in the House of Commons, if not in Great Britain. He started the annual parliamentary golf tournament, and always stands high up in it. He used to be captain of the oldest and most famous golf club in the world—the Royal and Ancient golf club of St. Andrews—and is still the president of the National Cyclists of Great Britain. The head caddie on the St. Andrews' links is fond of remarking regretfully that a splendid golf professional was lost in Mr. Balfour when he turned his attention to statesmanship.

HOLIDAYS BY CO-OPERATION.

How British Working People Can Have a Good Time by Joining Together.

"A holiday! How can workingmen and their wives get one? Why, look at the cost?" Many a workingman has said that in despair, writes a correspondent, and it undoubtedly is difficult—nay, well-nigh impossible—for a single workingman to manage it by himself, but if a number join together the case is entirely altered.

Co-operation has achieved some splendid feats in the way of managing stores, and it is high time it is adapted to holiday-making. As a matter of fact, it has been so adapted among the Midlanders and Northerners, with wonderful success; success that says plainly to Londoners, "Go thou and do likewise!" The Co-operative Holidays Association, the headquarters of which is at Hayfield, on the Cheshire borders, is only eleven years old, but last year 3,000 holiday-makers availed themselves of its privileges. One of the "guest houses," as they are called, has actually been bought by the members, and a lovely house it is, at Ardenconnel, on the Garelock, Scotland, accommodating 120 guests. Others are leased at Whitby, Hayfield, Upper Bangor, Portrush, North Ireland, Monmouth, and Galway, while the last born of the family is at Richmond. There is accommodation altogether for 500 members. There are also temporary centres, fixed according to convenience during the summer vacation.

How did the movement arise? Well, it began by Mr. Leonard, a Congregational minister at Colne, in Lancashire, taking out his Young Men's Guild for annual holidays. The scheme got wind, it was organized under Mr. Leonard's direction by a few public-spirited men, like Dr. Paton of Nottingham, and as it caught on the men themselves who came did the rest. Voluntary workers are found to spend a fortnight in charge. The hostesses at each centre are voluntary, even paying their own fares. The talks and lectures are given free, and the only paid staff are the manageresses and domestic helpers. A curious feature of the movement is that it has no servants. The helpers are all holiday-makers, and come on the distinct understanding that they are treated on an equality with the guests, and share in the excursions when there is time, besides receiving an honorarium of 8s. per week while there. This plan has simply annihilated the servant difficulty. The managaresses are chosen in the same way. It is amazing to see how completely workers and guests are at unison in one of these homes.

Nothing could be easier than for fifty or a hundred London workingmen to take a house for six weeks in the same way, forming a small guarantee fund as a preliminary, engage a manageress, get her to select helpers, and themselves undertake to become guests for a week. Why should not our great friendly societies or each of our clubs and every large firm organize its own holidays? It is not necessary that the employers should do this—self-help is the thing, and if the foremen of our large works would take the matter up it is not difficult to foresee the time when great numbers of our working class will find a holiday within their reach. Their sisters might act as the helpers, and the dignity of their labor be sustained by the courtesy of their treatment. This is no mere chimera.—London Chronicle.

William Ernest Henley.

The death of William Ernest Henley will probably mark the climax in that literary movement whose note has been the exaltation of the human will, says The Toronto News. The Titan, Prometheus, was Mr. Henley's hero, "indomitable" was his favorite encomium. He it was who expounded Stevenson's life to us until he made it a force even greater than his literature. Except George Meredith, no poet has so resolutely kept before us the old stoic idea of human excellence. Mr. Hardy showed us fate playing fast and loose with the life of man; Mr. Henley showed us the soul of man laughing at fate.

It was the only possible creed for a man who passionately loved life and who in the limitations of the body was withheld from almost all that he loved. It placed him at the head of the literature of force that marked the coming in of this century. But it is not a complete creed. The Platonic philosophy held within itself the germs not only of Stoicism, but of Epicureanism, from which latter, by the way, in the realm of poetry, Mr. Henley did much to deliver us. And neither of these systems takes account of factors which came into the world's philosophy in Judea and Galilee, and which cannot now be disregarded even in literature.

Then the Band Worked.

Some months after K., as Tommy calls Lord Kitchener, had taken over command from Lord Roberts during the recent war in South Africa he had occasion to visit some blockhouses which were in course of erection just outside one of the leading commercial towns. One, he noticed, had been placed in a rather exposed position, and he therefore ordered trenches and sangas to be thrown up at once, in order to strengthen it. Going inside one of the blockhouses—they are all connected by telephone—he rang up the officer commanding a unit in the town, when the following dialogue took place:

K.—Are you there?

C. O.—Yes, sir.

K.—Are you in command of the ——shire regiment?

C. O.—Yes, sir.

K.—I want a working party, fifty strong, with intrenching tools, to be here at 6 o'clock to-morrow morning.

C. O.—I beg your pardon, sir, but my men are all employed on something or other, the majority escorting prisoners down the line.

K.—Oh, I see. Ah, is that a band I hear playing there?

C. O. (hesitating)—Y-yes, sir.

K.—Oh, it is. What band?

C. O.—Regimental band, sir, playing outside the mess.

K.—Playing at mess? Well—ah—just have those instruments put away for some future occasion, will you, and make that working party 100 strong, to arrive here to-morrow at 6 a.m., or there will be a regimental command vacant.

C. O. (stammering) — Very good, sir.

That working party were mostly bandsmen. Kitchener had heard the music vibrating on the telephone instrument.

The dyspeptic may well be represented pictorially as being half masculine and half feminine, and combining the least desirable characteristics of either sex. He has all the stubbornness of the man with the peevish irritability of a sick woman. He's not pleasant company at home or abroad.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and associated organs of digestion and nutrition. It renews physical health which carries with it cheerfulness of temper, and makes life a pleasure instead of a penance.

The "Discovery" purifies the blood by eliminating the corrupt and poisonous accumulations from which disease is bred. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so increasing the supply of pure rich blood, which gives life to every organ of the body. It gives new life and new strength.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has performed a wonderful cure," writes Mr M H. House, of Charleston, Franklin Co., Ark. "I had the worst case of dyspepsia, the doctors say, that they ever saw. After trying seven doctors and everything I could hear of, with no benefit, I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now I am cured."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Bears a Charmed Life.

Colonel Gordon Money, the new commander of the forces in Ceylon, in succession to the late Sir Hector Macdonald, is a soldier who has borne a charmed life. He is being moved up slowly for an officer of his dash and ability, for he only now takes brigade rank at Colombo, but doubtless he will soon be given the K.C.B. Col. Money had his baptism on the Nile nearly twenty years ago, and for his brilliant work at Giniss he got special mention at the D. S. O. At Atbara in later times he had his horse cut from under him, and on the heavier day further on at Khartoum he had two horses shot between his legs, and got out of trouble by a miracle. For this the despatches included him again, and he was enrolled on the C. B. list.

Working Force of the Stomach.

A British engineer has calculated that when a boy of 100 pounds eats two ounces of ice in five minutes his stomach performs heat work equivalent to nearly an eighth of a horse power. In a machine wasting no power it would raise the boy 194 feet high.

HAIR GROWTH

Promoted by Shampoos of Cuticura Soap

And Dressings of Cuticura the Great Skin Cure

Purest, Sweetest, Most Effective Remedies for Skin, Scalp and Hair.

This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales and dandruff, destroys hair parasites, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, loosens the scalp skin, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of women now rely on Cuticura Soap assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet and nursery.

Cuticura remedies are the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the world. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, in the severer forms, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp and blood humours, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. German Officer's Brutality.

Berlin, Aug. 5.—A court-martial was held at Metz on a non-commissioned officer named Lunkel for maltreating private soldiers at Morchingen, Loraine. Five hundred and seventy-six instances of brutality, occurring since last December, were cited, such as compelling a soldier to run at full tilt across a room and ram his head against a wardrobe. The court decided that 366 counts of the indictment had been proven and sentenced Lunkel to two years and a half imprisonment and degradation to the ranks.

What Russia Will Insist Upon.

1. A heavy reduction in the duties on meats and animals.

2.—To confine the minimum duties on grain to states entering into treaty relations with Germany, to the exclusion of the United States and Argentina.

VITAL STATISTICS OF ENGLAND.

Healthiest and Deadliest Places—London Healthy During Last Year.

Heartburnings will ensue from the Registrar General's annual summary of "Births, deaths, and causes of death in London and other large towns, 1902." For the Registrar, in his relentless statistical way, has weighed the health and virtues of these towns, and many are found wanting.

The deadliest town in the land is Merthyr Tydfil, where people die half as fast again as in the country as a whole. Its infantile mortality (185 die out of every thousand born) is second only to that of Preston. Merthyr Tydfil had ten cases of small-pox, for fever it was the worst town in the country but three, (Ipswich, Grimsby, and Birkenhead,) for diarrhoea the worst but seven, and for "deaths by violence" it was absolutely supreme.

The second deadliest town is Liverpool, and the next deadliest Wigan, Manchester, Middlesborough, Burnley, Hanley, Bootle, and St. Helens, and Newcastle-on-Tyne, Oldham, Preston, South Shields, Rhondda, Stockport, Sunderland, and Birmingham are thoroughly bad in this relation.

The healthiest of seventy-six great towns in England and Wales is Hornsey, where the death rate is only 9.80 per thousand. This is much better than the whole of England and Wales, whose death rate is 16.-28, and better even than the smaller towns and rural districts, whose rate is 14.80.

Other most healthy great towns are Walthamstow, Leyton, East Ham, Willesden, and Croydon; and the healthiest seaside towns of size are Bournemouth, (13.05,) Hastings, (13.91.) Yarmouth, (15.50,) and Brighton, (15.59,) London cannot be called healthy, for its rate is 18.64, which is well above the average and places the metroplis forty-eighth down the list.

The worst towns for measles were Burnley, Bristol, Barrow, and Cardiff, and for scarlet fever West Bromwich, Burnley, Bolton, St. Helens, and Wigan. Diphtheria was worst in Hanley, Rhondda, and Middlesborough, and whooping cough in South Shields, and Barrow.

In London itself the healthiest suburbs are Hampstead, (10.8 — a shade below Hornsey,) Stoke Newington, (13.4) Wandsworth, (13.5,) Lewisham, (13.6,) Paddington, (14.-6.) The worst places to live in are Finsbury, Southwark, Holburn, Bermondsey, Bethnal Green, Shoreditch, Stepney, and the city.

The year was a healthy one for London, and disease was much below the average, excepting smallpox, cancer, suicide, and homicide. There were 329 deaths in the streets from horses and vehicles, 3,410 from other violence, 535 suicides, 71 homicides and 7 executions.

The death rate in Bombay was 62.2 per thousand, Paris 18.4, Vienna 19.4, and St. Petersburg 23. — London Mail.

LABOUR DAY CELEBRATION.

Arrangements Being Completed for Successful Day's Programme.

A special meeting of the Trades and Labour Council was held last night in the I.O.O.F Hall to receive reports from the various committees appointed to arrange for demonstration on Labour Day, September 7th. The committees all reported progress and judging from the enthusiasm displayed by the various organizations the celebration this year will eclipse that of any previous year. They are all entering into the plan with vigour, and almost every trade will be represented by a float. It has been decided to offer three good prizes for the best designed industrial floats, and this has induced the different organizations to put forth special efforts to prepare something which will be to their credit. It is proposed to arrange for a lacrosse game in the afternoon between two of the best teams it is possible to secure, and altogether no effort is being spared to make the day in every way a success.

THEFT OF AMBITION

Sydney White Stole $8,000 to Join the Royal Navy.

WAS A TRUSTED EMPLOYE.

How a Lad of Sixteen Years, With No Previous Criminal Record, Burglarized a Toronto Legal Firm—Was Expert in Method of Crooked Work—Money and Valuables Were Recovered.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Through a skylight to the vault of Macdonald, Shepley & Middleton, the law firm at 28 Toronto Street, Sydney White, a 16-year-old office boy, gained admittance and secured $8,396.12. It was one of the most daringly planned and executed robberies that has been committed in Toronto for a long while. On Friday night some time after 8 o'clock young White approached the offices from the rear, going by the Rice Lewis warehouse and the Victoria Hotel. A ladder used in cleaning the windows at the rear was put up to the low roof that runs back from the building in which the law firm are situated. The thief by this means gained entrance and having in his possession the keys of the outer doors of the vault and a knowledge of the whereabouts of those for the inner, was soon in possession of the big pile. He had, however, to break open the door of one of the compartments to get at a number of gold coins.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon he showed such signs of alarm that he was arrested.

Arrested at 3 O'clock.

A search of where White slept was then instituted. Nothing was found. Then a search was made of the gouse where he takes his meals. Under the floor of a front room on the first floor, the detective discovered a metal cash box containing the plunder. Upon examination it was found to contain all the money and securities missed. There was $330 in bank bills, $1,185 in gold, a marked cheque foe $4,250, and other securities, including bonds, stock certificates and notes, amounting to $8,653.52.

The young burglar had things well planned. He purposely disturbed the papers and put the office in a state of confusion that he might better throw everyone off the right trail. White had told his uncle's family and the people at the place he took his meals that he intended shortly leaving Toronto for England, where he intended joining one of His Majesty's battleships. But he demonstrated the greatest nerve by continuing his employment after the burglary. Even the police were nonplussed by the way in which the youthful crook conducted himself.

Anxious to Be a Sailor.

After his arrest, however, he broke down completely. He told how he had come from Norwood, Ont., last February to engage with Macdonald, Shepley and Middleton as office boy, and that he had never done anything wrong before, but wanted the money to go to England. He was anxious to become a sailor.

When his employers were apprised of the culprit, they would hardly believe it. To-day White will be formally charged with the robbery.

WILL MEET NEW ROAD.

Ontario Government Will Join Its Line With Grand Trunk Pacific.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—The Ontario Government has determined that as soon as the rails of the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific Railway cross Ontario, the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway shall be ready to connect with the new transcontinental road, and to do business for this Province. With this object in view the route from New Liskeard northerly will be at once surveyed, and the location of the road decided upon. Immediately the point at which the Grand Trunk Pacific will cross the proposed northern extension is decided upon, the Temiskaming & Northern rails will be laid to that spot, and a junction made with the transcontinental.

MAGAZINE EXPLODED.

Three Employes at Bluffton, Ind., Were Blown to Pieces.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 6.—The Empire Nitro-Glycerine Company's magazine, three miles northwest of Bluffton, exploded yesterday. Three employes were blown to pieces. It is also believed that a stranger who entered the plant just before the explosion, was killed.

Eleven hundred quarts of the explosive was destroyed. It is supposed the explosion was caused by a driver dropping a can.

Aurora Burglar Got Three Years.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Thomas Hall, the Aurora burglar, was sentenced yesterday morning by Judge Morson to three years in Kingston Penitentiary. He was charged with two burglaries, the last at William Warre's grocery store. It was at this place that Hall received several bullet wounds about the head. His head is still swathed in bandages.

A SUMMER DAY OUTING.

All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary Pass a Pleasant Day at Gore's Landing.

About a dozen of the ladies of All Saints' Woman's Auxiliary went down by steamer North Star yesterday to attend the bazaar of St. George's—Anglican—church at that charming lakeside retreat. The bazaar, by the way, was a gratifying success, about $100 having been netted by the afternoon opening, apart from the evening part of the affair. The ladies from Peterborough had a most delightful day and not a little of their pleasure is to be credited to Captain Harris, of the North Star, whose courtesy and kindness, throughout the whole voyage, won the warm gratitude of the ladies. A good name is better than riches, and there is no better investment for any person with relations to the public than courtesy and little acts of attention.

POLICE COURT

A Larger Numer of Cases Before the Magistrate than Usual.

Travelling always involves considerable expense, which generally falls on the head of the voyager. However, sometimes others have to pay travelling expenses, which fact was to-day made known to Thos. Hubble, who allowed his cow to wander around the streets of the town. Police Magistrate Dumble fined him $2 and $2.60 costs.

Some consider it bad manners to walk about town with both hands in the pockets. Notwithstanding the opinions of others a young man will in future probably promenade the streets in that wise, as he was fined $5 for assault.

Alf. Cooney was charged with being drunk and disorderly on August 5th. He pleaded not guilty to the disorderly part of the charge, but was remanded to gaol for 1 week.

The results of yesterday's races were too much for Mick O'Brien, who was charged with being found in an intoxicated condition. "You should have gone to the lacrosse grounds" remarked Mr. Dumble, "there is no whiskey there." Mick was allowed to go this time.

Frank Murphy was this morning charged with assaulting Mr Jos. Sheaney on Sunday, August 2, and Robert Smith on July 22nd on Brock street. Frank pleaded not guilty, but in the end was fined to the tune of $10 and costs, amounting in all to $23.15.

James Chard sued the Beet Sugar Company for $7.50. However, during the evidence the tables were turned and Chard had to pay the costs, amounting to $2.75.

Two young men were charged with being disorderly on July 22nd on Brock Street. Their scrap resulted in their being each soaked for $5.

A RUNAWAY.

Serious Accident, Owing to a Passing Train.

A runaway accident, which might have ended much more seriously than it did, occurred at noon to-day, near the Hunter street crossing. Two young ladies, Miss S. J. Robertson, and Miss Roberts, both of whom reside at the corner of Rubidge and Hunter streets, were driving in a buggy up the latter street when the horse took fright at a passing train and bolted. In the excitement of the moment Miss Roberts laid her hand on the driver's arm, which action turned the horses and upset the buggy. Miss Robertson was somewhat cut about the face while Miss Roberts got a severe shaking up.

Six canoes, five row boats and a sailing yacht were used to convey the party of forty-six persons. The usual songs and choruses were in order and after tea the party floated home by moonlight.

Miss Florence Miller is having a week's outing at Sea Breeze with her sister, Mrs. T. J Wallace.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The country and crops never looked better, nor has there ever been more favourable signs of a bountiful harvest.

The Division Court Inspector, Mr. Dukey, has been here on his rounds, and was half a day inspecting the affairs of the local office. He reports everything O.K.

Rev. J. G .Potter of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, most acceptably filled the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here on Sunday.

Mr. J. Lamb, proprietor of the Omemee tannery, has returned after a five weeks trip to Manitoba and the Northwest. He went as far as Moosejaw.

SPRINGVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The harvest is ripening fast. Fall wheat and barley are almost all cut. The earlier varieties of peas are being harvested, and promise a good yield.

Mr. Albert Reynolds, our popular thresher, has opened the season by threshing a field of peas for Mr. Geo. Raper.

Mr. Joseph Wright, one of his assistants, had a very narrow escape from a serious accident, while cleaning the machine at the conclusion of Mr. Raper's job, attempted to push some straw into the cylinder, when he had the misfortune to have his forefinger badly lacerated by one of the spikes. It is a marvel that Mr. Wright's hand was not drawn into the cylinder. He had the finger dressed by Dr. Greer, who found it necessary to amputate a portion of the finger. Although it is very painful he expects to be able to attend to his duties ere long.

Mr. James Baptie had a valuable Shorthorn heifer killed by the cars. It is considered fortunate that the train was not ditched, as the animal when first struck alighted some 20 yards ahead of the train between the rails; it was then rolled in front of the engine for some 300 yards.

Two young men were driving south on Friday evening last. When passing Mr. David Wilson, J.P.,, one individual, who was apparently intoxicated, pointed a revolver at Mr. Wilson, which he snapped. Mr. Wilson cannot conceive of any motive other than the foolhardiness of an intoxicated man. It was certainly a dangerous piece of fun for this individual.

IN THE STRAIT OF BELLE ISLE.

French Cruisers Fail to Pull Steamer Holmlea Off Rocks.

Quebec, Aug. 6.—The steamship Holmlea is reported ashore at Point Rich, Strait of Belle Isle. Up to the present nothing definite is known of her position. According to a report from Point Amour, it is learned that two French cruisers tried to haul the vessel off but, failed. The Holmlea left Montreal on Tuesday of last week loaded with lumber, and was bound for Fleetwood, England.

SUGAR BEET INTIMATIONS.

The following pointers have been sent out to his company's patrons by Prof. A. E Shuttleworth, of Berlin:

Beet cultivation with the horse cultivator even to the depth of 4 to 6 inches will increaase the tonnage, and by forming loose open soil air is admitted, soil moisture preserved, and thereby partial ripening of the beet during dry weather in August is prevented. Further the size of the beets not only become greater but also the percentage of sugar is higher when they are harvested.

Therefore, even when the leaves almost or quite meet, nearly covering the ground, go through the beet fields with a deep cutting horse cultivator loosening the soil between the rows to the depth stated above.

No beets are too far advanced yet to perform the above deep cultivation. Such cultivation NOW will increase your profits from $5 to $10 per acre.

Notices regarding harvesting will be sent to you the second week in September, and all arrangements for loosening and delivering your beets will be placed before you at the same time, so that the work of harvesting your beet crop may be performed with order ,and at the greatest profit to yourselves and factory.

It will not be necessary to harvest your beets on any particular day but at some time convenient, say between September 20th and November 1st.

Now is the time to prepare the beet land for 1904.

If a fall wheat stubble, gang shallow (two inches) as early in August as possible, to sprout seeds and decompose the stubble, Fall manuring is always advisable.

If a clover sod, plow down the sod early in autumn, turning a shallow flat furrow. Roll and harrow with a light harrow, forming a mulch to preserve moisture, germinate seeds, and rot sod. Later in autumn, manure and plow

While fall wheat and clover are the best crops to precede sugar beets, beets may follow practically any crop; but i tis well always to remember the importanc eof fall preparation, which should have for its aim, cleaning, manuring, and deepening the soil.

Sugar beets should yield from $40.00 to $80.00 per acre; their cultivation cleans and pulverizes the soil quire as well as summer fallowing.

Prepare from three to five acres this fall for growing sugar beets in 1904. The best crops of oats or barley will be on sugar beet land.

HAMILTON BOY DROWNED.

Playmates Waited in Vain For Body to Come Up.

Hamilton, Aug. 6.—Yesterday afternoon Gordon Forbes, a little son of George Forbes, one of Hendrie Company's teamsters, who lives at 39 Railway street, was drowned at the foot of Macnab street. He was between five and six years of age. In company with an older brother and two boys named Walton, from the same street, he was playing on what is known as Doyle's slip. His playmates say that he tripped and fell into the water. They waited for him to come up, but his body was held by the weeds, and it was about 8.30 before it was taken out. The youngsters were so frightened that they were afraid to tell anybody what had happened for some little time.

STORM STRUCK WORLD'S FAIR.

One Man, Struck by a Flying Plank, Is Dead.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 6.—Onr of the heaviest storms of the year, but of brief duration, swept over St. Louis yesterday. A furious wind tore through the World's Fair grounds, killing one man, probably fatally injuring another, and seriously injuring seven others, besides causing $10,000 property damage.

The agricultural building was struck by the gale and six laborers working on the scaffolding were hurled to the ground. Theodore Richter, a florist, from Kirkwood, was on the ground running to shelter when a flying plank struck and killed him.

Last year 2,098,905 patients were treated at the public hospitals, or nearly one in every two of London's entire population.

CORONATION SUNDAY

Pope Pius X. Yields to Pressure of Foreign Cardinals.

CARDINAL GIBBONS' SUCCESS

At His Request His Holiness Granted an Audience to the American Pilgrims Who Went to Pay Homage to the Late Pope—Confirmed Appointments of Officers—An Early Riser.

Rome, Aug. 6.—The spirit of "The King is dead; long live the King" was the dominant note yesterday at the Vatican among those gathered there not to acknowledge an earthly sovereign, but to accept without reserve Pope Pius X as their spiritual king.

The American pilgrimage conducted by John J. McGrane of New York and Father Lynch of the Niagara University, Suspension Bridge, N.Y., which came to Rome to receive the blessing of Leo XIII, arrived while the conclave was sitting. They were to leave for home yesterday and were disappointed in the possibility of not seeing the new Pope.

Cardinal Gibbon's Success.

Cardinal Gibbons, however, secured the consent of the Pope, and at 5.45 yesterday afternoon the Americans were at the bronze doors of the Vatican. They were met by Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American College. All trooped up the high stairway and were taken to the unique hall of inscriptions.

The kneeling women were dressed in black, while the men wore dress suits and the priests black gowns. Pope Pius X appeared to be very much interested when Father Lynch presented to him a box containing a white zucchetto, saying: "We would be extremely gratified if Your Holiness would accept this gift in exchange for the one you wear."

Asks For Their Prayers.

"I will cheerfully do so," the Pope replied immediately. Thereupon Monsignor Bisleti lifted the zucchetto which the Pope wore from his head and replaced it with the one which had been presented by Father Lynch. Mr. McGrane handed to Pius X the offerings which the pilgrims had hastily put together yesterday after lunch. To Father Burke, who represented Archbishop Farley of New York, the Pope gave a special benediction for the colored people. Occasionally, as the Pope passed along, he laid his hand upon the head of one of the pilgrims. When he reached the last person in the line he turned and while all the pilgrims knelt he gave the apostolic blessing, ending with them: "I recommend myself to your pious prayers."

Italian Government Order.

Premier Zanardelli has sent out a circular ordering all Government officials to abstain from participating in the festivities over the election of the new Pope, as Pius X had not notified the Government of his election.

The Pope has confirmed Monsignor Constantini as Secret Almoner, and has appointed his gentleman-in-waiting Cavazzi, private carver. The Pope again yesterday visited Cardinal Herraro y Espinosa, who is improving.

After the many receptions yesterday Pius announced that he must have absolute rest. The attendants turned as if to show him to his apartments, but he stopped them, crying: "No, I am going for a walk in the gardens."

Does Not Change His Habits.

Pope Pius X. rose at 5.30 yesterday morning, saying that he did not wish to change his habits. He slept in the apartment occupied by Cardinal Oreglia during the interregnum, located on the first floor of the Vatican. No decision has yet been taken concerning the Pontiff's ultimate quarters, but it is said that he desires them to be extremely modest.

At 7.15 the Pope said mass, assisted only by Monsignor Bressau, his conclavist. He afterwards took breakfast, which consisted of coffee, milk and a roll. Then as he stood against the window, from which he caught a glimpse of the gardens of the Vatican, the Pontiff exclaimed:

"My first pleasure when I can spare a moment will be to explore the gardens which now confine my little world. Heigho! How shall I get on without my long country tramps? How I shall miss them, and my sea."

Pope Pius wished to see personally most of the innumerable telegrams of congratulation received, giving instructions for the answers to those for which he cared most, and looked at the copies, changing here and there a word. Then he prepared for the morning's state reception of the cardinals in the Sistine Chapel, which during the night had been cleared of its temporary furniture used for the ballots, and was assuming its normal aspect.

Third and Last Obedience.

The third and last obedience of the Sacred College was consummated yesterday morning with the same ceremonial as before in the Sistine Chapel, the Pope being in his full pontifical robes and palpably restored in mind and nerves by a night's rest. The cardinals filed before him and kissed his hand and foot, all smiling and apparently in a perfectly contented frame of mind.

They then in turn received a hearty embrace from Pius X.

The music was directed by Abbe Perosiat, who was the Pontiff's protege. Every available corner of the small chapel was filled yesterday morning, and those present seemed to forget Pius X. in their pleasure in the magnificent harmony of the voices of the choir and the feast of color as they rested their eyes on the picture before them. The ceremony ended about noon.

Both going to and coming from the Sistine Chapel, when he passed through the Raphael Loggia and the Ducal Hall, the Pope refused to be carried in the sedia gestatoria, which, however, followed him. After taking a few steps, he turned to Mgr. Bisleti and said: "I shall never voluntarily get into that box."

Te Deum Sung.

A Te Deum was sung in the Sistine Chapel in honor of the election of the new Pope. All the cardinals were present except Herrero, who is still in his cell, although somewhat better than Tuesday.

Yesterday morning the Pope confirmed in their posts as secret chamberlains Monsignors Zichy, Scapinelli, Misciatelli and Sanz De Sampere, and confirmed the Marquis of Serlupi, as master of the horse and Monsignor Silli as dean of the grooms. He appointed Mgr. Galli secretary of Latin letters, to replace Mgr. Tarozzi, who is ill, and also Mgr. Sardi as secretary for briefs to the princes, to replace Mgr. Volpini, who recently died.

The Coronation.

The Pope, yielding to the pressure exercised by the foreign cardinals, who are desirous of returning to their respective countries as soon as possible, has decided that his coronation shall take place next Sunday.

Britain Declines to Hand Over Chinese Editors For Punishment.

London, Aug. 6.—In the House of Commons yesterday Premier Balfour in reply to Henry Norman, announced that instructions had been sent to the British Minister at Pekin not to agree to the Chinese Government's demand for the surrender at Shanghai of the editor and staff of the Chinese reform organ Supao.

The demands presented by the Chinese Government to the foreign ministers for the extradition of the editor and staff of the Supao on the charge of seditious writings, said that the prisoners were wanted for "execution," a trial was not mentioned. The Russian, French, and American ministers were said to be in favor of surrendering the prisoners.

U.S. Will Not Act.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Acting Secretary Loomis yesterday received a cable despatch from the Bow Wong Society of Honolulu, asking that the United States Government interest itself in the "reform" editors, who are under arrest in Shanghai. The United States Government will not take any steps in the matter.

Scholars Flee From Pekin.

Pekin, Aug. 6.—Six scholars, whose essays at recent examinations proposing reforms in the administration of China were denounced by the censors, have fled from Pekin, through fear of arrest and execution. It is supposed that they have gone to Japan.

Marshal Su, who was summoned to the capital to explain his failure to crush the rebellion in Southern China, has had an audience with the Dowager Empress. It is predicted in official circles that Su will be included in the autumn list of those condemned to be executed.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life, I had a severe and sudden attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful, I could hardly realize that I was well again or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents cured me." FIRST GAME GOES TO ATHLETICS.

Defeated T.A.S. by Score of 5-2 at Murray Street Grounds.

THE BEST TEAM WON.

First in Series to Decide Junior Championship of C.L.A.

Game was Fast and Hotly Contested—Number of Players Penalized for Rough Work—Deciding Game Next Wednesday.

A lacrosse game in which more interest was taken than in any previous contest this season, was that played yesterday afternoon at the Murray street grounds between the Athletics and T.A.S., being the first of a series of two home nad home games to decide the Junior C. L. A. championship of District 13. Nearly one thousand spectators were on the grand stand and other parts of the grounds, and were treated to the best exhibition of Canada's national game seen on the local grounds in a long time. Both teams have since the defeat of Belleville by the Athletics, been preparing for the struggle, and when they faced each other yesterday afternoon it was with a determination on the part of each to play the very best game of which they were capable. Whitty, who played with Belleville, earlier in the season, was on the field in a T.A.S. uniform, and played a good game. He was first on the home, but was later moved back to point, where he did some effective work.

The playing of both teams was on the whole good, but the combination work and shooting of the Athletics were of a superior character, and judging the merits of the teams by the playing exhibited yesterday, the better team won.

Mr. F. C. Manning of Stouffville, refereed the game, and his work was satisfactory; he showed a desire to render impartial decisions, and promptly penalized any player whom he saw over stepping the bounds. The ball was faced at 3.25 ,and in one minutes after it had travelled the length of the whole field. Cavanah notched the first goal for the Athletics on a pass from Glover. The whole of the first quarter was characterized by very fast playing, but the T.A.S. were clearly outclassed, as their opponents scored three goals, while they failed to locate the nets once. The Athletics were in splendid condition, and every man was in his place when needed. The home played the game of their lives, and seldom has such clever combination work been seen in Peterborough. Cavanah and Best did the bulk of the scoring, two each being credited to them, but the other men on the home played well to them, and every goal scored was the result of some very clever passing, in which almost invariably every man on the home participated. On the other hand the T.A.S. players were somewhat erratic, and their passing, though on the whole, good, failed at critical times. Their shooting on goal was not as accurate as it might have been, and another feature which contributed to their defeat, was the fact that they were frequently short-handed, one, two and, sometimes, three men, adorning the fence at one time. Towards the end of the game they got their combination working better, and their playing was of a higher order of merit. They were still unable to avert defeat, however, as the Athletics defence proved a stonewall. Ketchum, who played point, did some elegant work, and many times goals were saved by his timely aid. He successfully broke up some rather dangerous looking combinations. Howell, at cover, was always "Johnny on the spot," and played a good steady game. He seldom went after the ball without getting it, and when once it landed in his stick, it was good bye to the expected score. Morgan on defence, checked his cover closely, and played good, clean, consistent lacrosse, which was very effective, while Foreman, whom many remember as having figured on the Y.M.C.A. team last year, gave an excellent account of himself, displaying his old-time form, and his presence proved a valuable acquisition to the team. After the first quarter's play Glover was moved back on defence ,and his work here was of championship caliber. His passing and catching were some of the prettiest exhibitions seen in a long time. Mein played a game fully up to his usual standard of effectiveness, which is saying considerable. Geo. Robertson, who in the change made after the first quarter was placed in centre, distinguished himself by making many brilliant plays, in fact his work throughout the game was made the subject of much favourable comment. He never failed to take a pass and his playing to the home man was perfect. Wilkinson was seen for the first time in an Athletic sweater, but he gave ample evidence of his ability to play the game, assisting in many effective combination rushes. When it comes to discussing the home players, it may be said that the Athletics have gathered together a combination that can score if there is any possible chance. Ernie Best, although pitted against the fastest, and one of the heaviest men on the T.A.S., more than held his own, and, with Cavanagh, Wilkinson and O'Flynn, made some combination plays which dazzled the spectators. He was always on the spot when needed and his stick-handling and shooting were suberb. Cavanagh played just a little the best game he has ever put up. The particular feature of it was his elusive passing to Best, who was on to his style, which was unique, and never failed to relieve him. Cavanagh scored two of the five goals and made a number of shots which O'Brien spoiled. O'Flynn, the lightweight on the team, was as quick as a trap, and seemed to have a faculty of eluding his cover. He took all kinds of risks and worked some clever combinations. He scored the last goal for the Athletics. Clarke in goal turned aside some hot ones, and his presence on the team was a decided help as he steadied them in their work.

The T.A.S. have on their line-up a number of brilliant players, whose work yesterday proclaimed them to be in championship class. McCabe, whose reputation as a player is well known, did excellent service, although he adorned the fence too frequently for the good of the team. Doyle in centre was a marvel for quickness, and also figured in some pretty combination work, while McGrath and Crowley also gave a good exhibition of stick-handling and running. During the early part of the game the combination work of the home was somewhat inaccurate, but later they got in some good combination plays, although it was too late to retrieve the game. McNicholl's work was especially good and had he been well supported there might have been a different story to tell. After making a rush he often found no one to take his pass. Deroucher, also played an elegant game and after making a bold rush up the field scored the first goal for the T.A.S. It was a piece of splendid work and won him hearty applause. O'Brien in goal was given plenty to do and did it well, stopping many hot shots on the nets.

The teams as they faced each other lined up as follows:

FIRST GAME.

In one minute after the face off in the fastest kind of playing, in which the sphere rapidly travelled the length of the field, Cavanagh notched the first for the boys in blue, on a nice pass from Glover. It was a long shot and immediately after having shot Bill was laid out with a crack on the head, made in an attempt to check his shot.

SECOND GAME.

On the face off the ball went to the Athletics' territory on some pretty T.A.S. combination playing. Ketchum was on hand, however, and saved the nets. McGrath secured the sphere, and made a rush, which Foreman stopped, passing to Cavanah, who again brought the ball back, and made a good attempt to repeat his work of the first game. O'Brien made a fine stop and the ball again travelled down to the Athletics' end, Whitty doing the rush act. He shot but the ball went wide. McCoy also made a shot, but a goal was not the result, as it was also wide. McNichol then had his turn, but with no better result, as Ketchum again relieved the situation. He and McNicholl, however, unconsciously got into a tangle, and were sent to the fence for five minutes each. The T.A.S. again made an attempt to score, Crowley and Lapierre being the principals, but Lapierre missed his shot, and the scene of operations was quickly transferred to the other end of the field, Best scoring on a pass from O'Flynn after ten minutes play.

COMBINATION IN THIRD.

The third game was the result of some of the cleanest kind of combination playing, in which Glover, Robertson, O'Flynn and Best figured, the latter putting the ball in the nets after playing four minutes from the face-off. The ball during this period was kept almost continuously in the T.A.S. territory, although some rushes were made, which at first looked dangerous. Howell and Ketchum quickly relieved and the play was transferred to a less dangerous position. No further scoring was done in this quarter, and it ended 3—0 for the Athletics. Whitty and Ketchum were given two minutes rest for exhibiting too great a desire to be in each others company.

FOURTH GAME.

This also went to the boys in blue, Cavanah doing the trick. The quarter opened with a rush by Best, and a shot which O'Brien stopped. Nothing particular was "doing" for some time and play dragged somewhat, The red sweatered boys made a splendid for a goal. Wilson had a busy five minutes. Lapierre was given five minutes to witness the game from the side for some questionable checking. O'Flynn and Robertson made a running combination play, the latter passing to Cavanah, who scored. This goal was contested, and Dillon, who was goal umpire, retired, R Watt taking his place. McCabe was relegated to the fence for five minutes. The Athletics again got their combination at work but no score resulted. Just before half time Muldoon was penalized for five minutes for throwing his stick. Half time was called with the score 4—0, the T.A.S. having failed to locate the net.

FIFTH GAME.

The play after half time was not as clean as that in the former period, and at one time five men were watching the game from behind the rope. O'Brien and Best were the first to suffer; they got five minutes each. They were soon joined by McCabe and Cavanah, who were given a similar period of rest. It was during this period that the Athletics scored their final game, O'Flynn doing the trick in two minutes, after some nice combination work by Wilkinson and Glover.

SIXTH GOES TO T.A.S.

In this game the hard checking which characterized the former playing was continued, and at times the referee was compelled to punish some too ardent "Total Abstainers." Crowley and Meagher were given five minutes each, the former for using his stick too freely on Robertson, and the latter for showing a desire to enter into a pugilistic contest with Best. The T.A.S. played some good combination in this game, although it was Derocher, unassisted, who succeeded in securing the goal after a magnificent run down the field, after 18 minutes play.

SEVENTH AND LAST.

This game also went to the T.A.S. after five minutes play, McCoy scoring on a pass from Lapierre. The play during the last quarter was a better exhibition of the game. The T.A.S. showed much better form and their passing was much more accurate. Just before time was called Cavanah, Best and Robertson got in some good work, and O'Brien was kept busy warding off shots on the net, although for the most part, the play was confined to the Athletics' goal. The last goal credited to the T.A.S. was contested, and Mr. R. Meagher, who was goal umpire, retired from the position, Mr. R. Hayes replacing him.

NOTES.

The Athletics call a full practice to-night.

Comparatively very few dead-head spectators lined the fence.

Rickey and Parnell directed the playing of the teams very effectively.

McGrath brought his sprinting ability into requisition frequently and easily distanced most of the players.

The Examiner is informed that the conduct of some of the T.A.S. players will be reported to the C. L. A. Executive.

Howell demonstrated his value to the team on the defence. He was always cool, and right in the place where he could do most good.

Capt. Dillon of the Athletics had to be content with looking on. His hand is not in such shape as to permit him playing.

Manager Clarke received congratulatory telegrams from Mr. H.R.H. Kenner, J. Bowes and A. W. MacPherson, on the victory of the Athletics.

The deciding game will be played at the Oval next Wednesday, and the President of the C.L.A., Mr. Lennox, and Secretary M. Hall, will honour the game with their presence.

Mr. F. C. Manning, referee, is an old lacrosse player of 23 years standing. He played with Cannington against Peterborough 18 years ago, and also lined up with a Barrie aggregation on Riverside Park 16 years ago. He also assisted in the organization of the C.L.A. and was the first to suggest the goal nets and goal crease.

FIRST DAYS EVENTS OF TURF CLUB'S MEET.

Three Good Races Pulled off to Delight Spectators.

Turf Club's Effort to Provide Good Meet Appreciated—Good String of Horses in Different Events.

The officials of the Turf Club have every reason to feel elated at the success which is attending their second annual summer meet here. Yesterday, the first day, the attendance was good, and the three races pulled off were in every respect highly satisfactory to the well pleased spectators. The track was somewhat heavy on account of the recent heavy rains, but was in much better shape than many had hoped, and has satisfied the Club that in good weather conditions, it would be one of the fastest in Canada. The attendance was affected, too, to a certain extent by the threatening weather, and had it been a bright day doubtless a very large crowd would have been at the track to witness the three interesting contests, which were on yesterday's programme. The Turf Club deserves great credit for the enterprise manifested by them in giving the sport loving patrons a meet which in point of excellence is not surpassed. The horses were of the best and on the whole the first day's programme was one which reflects credit on the management.

The 2.16 trot was won by Wisdom King owned by F. Liebler, Tavistock, with Billy, of whom the owner is G. F. Thomas, Belleville, second. The 2.47 trot went to Jim Wilson, owned by E. M. Stewart, of Guelph, and George Curtis' chesnut mare, Minnie Keswick, came in for second money. In the 3-4 mile running race C. Bolander's Logan Laudenan, took first, while Glassy owned by A. Murray, of Hamilton, came second. Mr. F. G. Smith, of Buffalo, was the official starter, and he filled his position well. He got the horses off with as little delay as possible, and was strictly impartial. The judges were Messrs. Fred. Peak and James Noble, of Toronto, and Mr. P. Clunan, of town, and their decisions were unquestioned. Messrs. A. Gibson and Alex. Elliott acted as time-keepers.

The first race was the 2.50 pace or 2.47 trot, mile heats, best three in five, for a purse of $500. 12 horses had entered but only 5 started, as follows':— Little Boy (Snow and Dennis, Toronto) Jim Wilson (Stewart, Guelph), Blutcher (Smith, Toronto), Keepabell, (Johnson, Peterborough) and Minnie Keswick. (Geo. Curtis, Lindsay). The horses drew in the order named. After some scoring they finally were sent off at a rattling pace, Little Boy beating to the first quarter in 37 1-2 seconds, with Jim Wilson second, the others close up. At the half mile Jim Wilson took the lead which he held to the finish, passing the third quarter in 1.52 and winning the heat in 2.27 3-4, capital time, when the heavy track is considered. Little Boy, Minnie Keswick, Blutcher and Keepabell finished in the order as named.

In the second heat of this race, Little Boy again sprinted to the front and set a hot pace from the wire, with Wisdom King second, the field doing the quarter in 38 seconds and holding same positions to the half mile in 1.13. Little Boy kept the lead to the three-quarter pole, with Minnie Keswick pulling up, and Jim Wilson pushing to the front, which he gained on the homestretch, and captured the heat in 2.29, with, Minnie K., Little Boy, Blutcher, and Keepabell as placed. The third heat was eagerly looked for as if it made a break in this run for first place, the five full heats might require to be trotted to reach a decision. There was a deal of scoring, and admonition from the starter to the delinquents, but finally the field got off in a burst of speed that threatened to cut down the time despite the heavy track. Minnie K., led off with Jim Wilson close up and Blutcher third and trotted to the quarter mile in 37 seconds. Minnie K., held the lead to the half in 1.1-4, and kept it to the three-quarter post in 1.52. A neck and neck race resulted, the field being well bunched and going finely. On the last quarter Jim Wilson put on a burst of speed that pulled him out of the race and under the wire, gaining the heat and race in 2.29. The balance of the field finished in order as named, Minnie K., Little Boy, Blutcher, Keepabell. Following is the summary:—

Minnie Keswick	3	2	2
Little Boy	2	3	3
Blutcher	4	4	4
Keepabell	5	5	5

Time—2.27 3-4, 2.29, 2.29

THE 2.17 TROT.

The second race was looked for to show some pretty fast going, and all things considered the spectators were not disappointed. The schedule defined this race as a 2.19 pace or 2.16 trot, for the "Old Abe" purse of $500. by the Havana Cigar Co., of Toronto. Of the 5 entries only one has scratched, four horses coming to the wire; Wisdom King, Liebler, Tavistock; Jubilee, Dennistoun, Coldwater; Gipsy Girl, Martin, Toronto; and Billy G., Thomas, Belleville. They drew in the order named, with Wisdom King at the pole and were sent off on the first dash. Everybody on the grand stand stood up, and those with reserved seats on the fence and whitewash on the seats of their trousers stood up too, while the crowd made remarks. The field scored seven or eight times before they got off with Gipsy Girl leading, and passing the quarter in 36 1-4, and the others well up. It looked as if the heat would go to the grey mare until Wisdom King collared her at the three-quarter with Jubilee well to the front, and the heat was pulled off and won by Wisdom King in 2.27, with Billy G., Jubilee, and Gipsy Girl in order as named.

In the second heat Wisdom King led the field to the quarter in 37 1-2, and at the half-mile, in 1-4, still kept in front, and was never reached, finishing in 2.30 1-2, with Jubilee, Gipsy Girl and Billy G. in order as named.

The third heat changed things at its finish. Wisdom King having the pole sprinted off at a rattling gait, with Gipsy Girl second, and Billy G. making the pace of his life to take the money. The quarter was done in 37 seconds, the half in 1.11. It was a pretty heat with hard trotting between Wisdom King and Billy G. for first place, but the heat and race went to Wisdom King with Billy G. second, Gipsy Girl third, and Jubilee fourth, the purse being divided in the order as named.

Below is the summary:

Wisdom King	1	1	1
Billy G.	2	4	2
Jubilee	3	2	4
Gipsy Girl	4	3	3

Time, 2.27, 2.30, 1-2, 2.25.

THE RUNNING RACE.

It was evident from the remarks made that this event was a popular one, and in the running off of which the spectators expected to get something nice for their money: These hopes were verified. The schedule called for three-quarter mile heats, best two out of three for a purse of $150. Seven horses entered, one being scratched. The field lined up as follows: Logan Laudenan, Bolander, Guelph; Mango, Elliner, Toronto; Rathlin, Northgrave, Toronto; Rotha Burrell, Toronto; Glassy, Murray, Hamilton; Gen. Buller, O'Neill, Cobourg.

The horses were started from the quarter mile post, and so passed the stand twice in coming to the finish. It was a tedious wait while they were being sent off much time being taken in scoring up. The horses were restive and not easily managed, but finally they were sent off in a bunch that held the field pretty well around the track. The heat was taken by Glassy in 1.20 half, with Mango second and Rathlin third. The rider of Rotha was thrown and the horse withdrawn from the race. The second heat was taken by Logan Landenan in 1.19. For the third heat only Logan Landenan and Glassy ran, and the former captured the heat and race in 1.21. Following is the summary:—

Logan Landenan	4	1	1
Glassy	1	2	2
Rathlin	3	2
Gen. Buller	5	5
Mango	5	5
Ratha	6

Time, 1.20, 1-2, 1.19, 1.21.

NOTES.

Many favourable comments were made upon the excellent arrangements for the spectators, and the track was kept clear of vehicles.

The improvements made to the track and grand stand at a cost to the Turf Club of $600, enables patrons to witness the races with comfort.

A contingent of the 57th Band was on the grounds and furnished a good class of music and plenty of it.

One of the most interesting events on to-day's programme will be the hurdle race. Six hurdles will be jumped.

The purses divided up 50 per cent. to first, 25 per cent. to second, 15 per cent. to third, and 10 per cent. to fourth.

CHARGES DISMISSED.

Committee Report in Loy Case Adopted by 65 Majority.

RECEIVED LIBERAL OVATION.

The Member For Beauharnois Returns to the House—Grand Trunk Pacific Amendments — Mr. Fitzpatrick's Resolution Providing For the Superannuation of Judges—Discussion in Committee.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—The debate on the report of the Privileges and Elections Committee on the Loy investigation lasted until 10 o'clock last night, when the report was adopted by a majority of 65, the largest majority of this Parliament. Mr. Loy, on entering the House, from which he had been absent during the investigation, was given an ovation by the Liberal members. The judges' superannuation resolution occupied the balance of the day. The debate on the Grand Trunk Pacific resolution was postponed at Mr. Borden's request until Tuesday next.

The Beauharnois Case.

On the opening of the House yesterday afternoon the majority and minority reports of the Committee on Privileges and Elections on the Loy investigation were presented.

Mr. Wade moved the adoption of the majority report.

Mr. Monk moved the acceptance by the House of the minority report.

At 10 o'clock a vote was taken on Mr. Monk's amendment. The amendment was lost on a vote of 105 to 40.

As soon as the result of the division was announced, Mr. Loy entered the House and took his seat, amid tumultous Liberal applause.

The Grand Trunk Pacific.

The private bill, through which the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway seeks incorporation, was moved to a third reading.

Mr. Fowler of Kings moved that the Grand Trunk be required to pay in cash, par value, for the twenty-five millions of stock which it undertakes to acquire from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

After considerable debate, the amendment was declared lost.

Mr. Sam Hughes moved to exclude the company from Gravenhurst. This was also voted down.

Mr. Kemp moved in amendment to Section 8 that a majority of the directors on the Grand Trunk Pacific should be British subjects.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier accepted the amendment, but he asked that it be moved in connection with the resolutions. This proposal Mr. Kemp accepted.

Mr. Geo. Fowler of Kings moved an amendment providing for the construction of a branch line direct from Fredericton to St. John. He was defending his proposal when the hour for private bills expired.

Judges' Retiring Allowance.

The resolutions of the Minister of Justice to provide larger retiring allowances for judges were taken up. Mr. Fitzpatrick said he thought men who had served their country for thirty years were entitled to generous consideration, especially in view of the small salaries paid to Canadian judges.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was a painful spectacle to find sometimes judges compelled to remain on the bench though disabled by age or infirmity because of their financial position.

Mr. Jabel Robinson thought it was a mistake to fix an age limit for retirement. Many judges at 75 were well able to perform their judicial duties.

Mr. Osler said that the salaries paid judges are too small.

Mr. Gourlay advocated the payment of equal salaries to judges exercising the same jurisdiction regardless of the size or population of the province in which they act.

Mr. Gus Porter made a plea for larger salaries for County Court judges.

Mr. Fowler, M.P. for King's, expressed similar views.

Mr. Fitzpatrick agreed that High Court and County Court judges are underpaid. This was only his personal view.

Mr. Lancaster also argued in favor of more generous retirement of county judges.

The committee rose and reported progress.

The County Court judges in Ontario affected will be: Judge Elliott, 80 years of age, served 34 years on the bench; Judge Hughes, 80 years, served 48 years on the bench; Judge Deacon, 79 years, served 35 years; Judge Lazier, 79 years, served 21½ years; Judge Ketchum, 75 years, served 14½ years; Judge Woods, 84 years.

WOMEN'S HAIR.

An English View of How It Should Be Cared For—Excellent Advice for Its Treatment—A Good Shampoo.

The average healthy woman's hair is healthy. It may be abundant, or it may lack luxury; that will depend primarily upon the texture of the tresses, for hair that is coarse looks six times as abundant as hair that is fine. Physiologists say that that is a matter of temperament and character, and try to console the woman whose crown of glory is so fine that it makes no show at all with the information that she is the most refined of mortals mentally and morally. But be its quantity what it may, the hair of a healthy woman is healthy. Only it must be cared for systematically to keep it at its best beauty. An illness will spoil its splendor temporarily, but a physician's treatment will restore it to its pristine excellence. Time after time I have noted fresh vitality and new growth, the burnished gloss that is an unmistakable sign of bodily vigor, and a renewal of the rich, natural tints of the hair, result from a course of treatment for impaired health directed by the family physician. For instance, a long and persistence absorption of iron taken internally as a tonic under a doctor's directions will brighten and color the hair and often prevent early grayness, since the pith of the hair owes its pigment or tint to the iron in the system. Such a prescription is composed of two and a half grains of iron sulphate and one and a half grains of potassium carboonate, made into pills, one to be taken after each meal three times a day, increasing the dose to three after the principal meals of each day.

An excellent shampoo for the hair is made in these proportions. Take the yolk of one egg, a pint of warm rain-water, and one ounce of spirits of rosemary. Beat up the mixture thoroughly and use it while it is warm, rubbing it well into the scalp. Rainwater is so soft and satin-like that that is why it is recommended, for the hair abhors anything that impoverishes its vitality, so it should be sought for, especially in those parts of the country where the water is naturally hard, but if it cannot be obtained, borax should be added to the ordinary water to soften it, or boiled water should be used. Another excellent shampoo is composed of two ounces of soap, the juice of one lemon, the yolk of one egg, and half a pint of rain or distilled or boiled water. Place the soap and the water in a clean saucepan and stir the water over the fire until the soap is melted. Beat the yolk of the egg and the lemon juice together, pour the soap and water on it, stirring it briskly, and when it is cold bottle it for use.

Girls with a luxuriant crop of hair will find that they will require if they use eggs only as a shampoo seven or eight, and plenty of rain or softened water. The way to use eggs alone is to dip the fingers into the yolks and to massage the scalp with the finger tips, repeating this process with shampoo of warm water between each, for three or four courses. Egg shampoos are particularly useful for greasy hair, and ensure a very nice, fluffy and well-burnished crown of glory as a result, without any of that dry appearance that sometimes ensues after washing the head.

As every head, even the healthy one, is sometimes subject to dandruff, I shall do well to add here a prescription for its cure. It is made of 48 grains of resorcin, one-fourth of an ounce of glycerine, and half an ounce of rectified spirit, and water to fill a two-ounce bottle. Pour a little of this mixture into a saucer each night, dip the finger tips in it, and massage the scalp, rubbing it well into the head with the finger tips. Or a dropper may be fixed instead of a cork into the bottle and a little sprinkled over the head, followed by a massage of the finger tips. It is impossible to exaggerate the excellent effects of scalp massage with the finger tips for every head, be it healthy or not. There is virtue in the finger tips, and the head, benefits by massage quite as much as the face or body, which is a fact few people realize. Moreover, it is a quick process for busy people. Five minutes' massage every night will work wonders. Brushing is simply splendid for the head if someone else does it. Failing a maid, I think scalp massage performed by one's self is just as efficacious.

Girls with hair that is too dry should massage it every other night with a little oil, using odorous castor oil if their hair is inclined to be thin or weak in any way, cocoa butter for the same species of hair, or pure olive oil or almond oil. Very little should be taken up by the finger tips, and the long tresses of hair need not be touched by it at all. Girls who possess very fluffy locks are generally inclined to be proud of them, but dry hair is well known to change color more quickly than hair with a certain amount of natural moisture in it, and, if this natural moisture is lacking it should be added and cultivated.

Fatal Fogs.

London fogs always increase the death rate. One of the worst on record, both for density and protractedness, lasted from the beginning of November, 1879, to the following February. The deaths for the six weeks ended February 21 were 1,730, 1,900, 2,200, 3,376, 2,495 and 2,016, the deaths in the fourth week being thus nearly double those in the first. The deaths from asthma were most affected by the fog. The death-rate for bronchitis rose to 331 per cent., and for whooping-cough to 231 per cent. above the average. Again, in 1882, in the week ending February 13, the death-rate, owing to the dense fog, rose from 27.1 in the previous week to 35.3, diseases of the respiratory organs being 994, as compared with an average of 430. During the great fog of December 8 to 14, 1873, the horned cattle at the Islington Cattle Show exhibited symptoms of suffocation. Some actually died, and others were slaughtered to save the value of the meat.

PLAYFELLOWS AT HOME.

Countess of Minto and Her Children Where the Governor-General Also Joins in Their Romps.

People who complain of the so-called American method of dealing with the rising generation may be interested to know that it is the one pursued by the Countess of Minto, whose husband is the Governor-General of Canada, says a writer in the New York Times. Time was when it was almost impossible to see the children of a Governor-General, if he had any, but Lord Minto's children are always in evidence. They and their parents are the jolliest kind of comrades, and are constantly together. The children share in all the pleasures of their elders, and with the exception of functions of state are present at all social affairs at Government House. They are prominent figures in the private theatricals, which are a favorite form of entertainment under the present regime, and the older ones appear with their parents at the theatre, at skating carnivals, and at various other places.

The Earl and Countess seem, indeed, more like an elder brother and sister with their children than like father and mother. The Governor-General can romp like a school-boy, it is said in the privacy of his family, and Lady Minto, so far from being characterized by that severity which is often associated with the English mother, is the most sympathetic of confidantes for childish troubles.

"I have no doubt you did very well," she is reported to have said once to a small daughter who was complaining of the zeal of her governess, "but you know Froy"—a family abbreviation for Fraulein—"is never satisfied."

Lady Minto thinks that nothing is too good for her children, and in spite of her numerous social duties and the burdens of public work which she has voluntarily assumed, she finds time to attend personally to their dress and education and everything pertaining to their welfare. Three of the best and pleasantest rooms at Government House have been set apart for their use, and all sorts of pleasant affairs, of which the other children of the Canadian capital often get the benefit, are constantly being planned for them. Christmas, though celebrated quietly, with only the household and house party, is a great occasion, and much trouble is taken to make the advent of Santa Claus interesting.

One year the great ball-room was converted into a winter garden, with trees that bore the presents, real socks and any quantity of frost and snow. On another occasion the good ship Santa Claus, ablaze with lights from stem to stern, cast anchor at Port Elliot, and proved to have all sorts of wonderful things in her hold.

Whatever may be the effect of this system of education on American children, it has certainly produced none but the most desirable results in the case of the young Elliots. They are absolutely simple and unassuming young people, and appear to be quite unconscious that their position in life is any different from that of ordinary mortals. Lady Eileen, who came out only last winter, and is now eighteen years of age, is immensely popular in Canadian society, and of Lord Melgund, the eldest son, who is about twelve, many pretty stories are told. One of these dates back to the great Ottawa fire, when his small lordship attracted much attention by giving his boots to a little fire sufferer who had the misfortune to be without footgear.

"I didn't need them," he explained to the horrified members of his party, from whom he had strayed for a few minutes, "as I am going to drive home, and the other boy hadn't any."

There is one other son, the Hon. Esmond Elliot, a fascinating little fellow of six or seven, and two daughters, who come between Lord Melgund and Lady Eileen. Lady Ruby is just a little younger than her eldest sister, and will probably be introduced with her to English society next year. Lady Violet is a jolly little girl in her earliest teens, who is generally regarded as her father's favorite.

As a housewife Lady Minto can scarcely be said to have any American characteristics, for she gives careful attention to the prosaic details of housekeeping, and is an excellent manager.

Lady Minto's public work has not attracted so much attention as that of her predecessor, the Countess of Aberdeen, but it is perhaps not less important. She does things in a different way, but she works very nearly as hard and to quite as much purpose. Her chief public interest in Canada has been the Victorian Order of Nurses, and the organization owes much to her untiring exertions. Through her efforts numerous cottage hospitals which cannot fail to have an important effect on immigration have been established in the sparsely settled districts of Canada, and she is now engaged in getting the order endowed at an expense of $125,000. For education, particularly manual training and domestic science, Lady Minto has also done much, and it is mainly through her efforts that the graves of the Canadian soldiers who fell in South Africa are now being located and marked.

In appearance Lady Minto is strikingly youthful and so like her eldest daughter that they are often taken for one another. She is a tall, slight woman, dresses very artistically, and always wears and has flowers about her. Her manner has a charm which is not easily defined, but which has combined with her rarer and more serious qualities to make her one of the most popular of British Vice-Queens.

As They Looked at It.

"It's a fine day, deacon!"

"Yes; but we're all miserable creeturs!"

"Craps lookin' tiptop!"

"Yes; but thar's some big calamity comin' on us!"

"Health never better!"

"Oh, yes; but we'll be sendin' fer the doctor 'fore long!"

"Well, thank God, we're livin', any how!"

"Yes," groaned the deacon as he shuffled off; "but our time's comin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

After Recreation.

"What we need," he said, "is more of exercise in our summer outings. We don't get much benefit from hotel verandas."

"What would you suggest—a cabin in the woods, with your own work to do?"

"Not exactly that; but I did think of going as far by rail as my money will carry me and then walking back."

"Even then you wouldn't have far to walk, would you?"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Frequent Throbbing Headache.

There's many a cause for headache. Men are not often troubled by headaches. When they are it is generally due to biliousness or indigestion. But women have headaches which seem peculiar to their sex, frequent nervous throbbing headaches. Does it not seem as if such headaches peculiar to women must be at once related to womanly disease? Women who suffer with diseases peculiar to the sex do not realize the drain of vital strength and nerve force they undergo as a consequence of disease. It is this which causes the familiar headaches of sick women.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures such headaches by curing the cause—irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration or female weakness. "Favorite Prescription" invigorates and tones up the entire system, encourages the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep.

"I was troubled with congestion of the uterus and female weakness for five years," writes Mrs. Robt. Kerwin, of Albert, Hastings Co., Ont. "Was so weak and nervous I could hardly do any work. Had severe pain in back, also dizziness and pain in head. My heart would beat so hard and fast at times I would have to sit still till I got all right again. But after taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one of his 'Golden Medical Discovery' I felt entirely well. I also used one box of 'Lotion Tablets' and one of 'Suppositories' as directed. All the symptoms of my trouble have disappeared and I am completely cured. I thank you for your kind advice and your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the complexion and sweeten the breath.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

Wrestling and Boxing Bouts at Opera House Last Night.

Brantford Lost to St. Catharines in a Senior C.L.A. Game—Orillia Plays T.A.S. This Afternoon.

WRESTLING

There was a large audience at the opera last night when an interesting programme of wrestling and boxing was run off.

The bouts were somewhat late commencing, but were nevertheless excellent. The first one was a boxing bout between Mick Collins, of Ottawa, and Jack Jones, of Toronto, for a purse of $25. The Toronto boy was somewhat the larger of the two and had decidedly the best of the fight from the start. However, Mr. D. Belland, who refereed, announced it a draw. The last round was two minutes in length instead of one and was most exciting. Jones commenced it by landing his right into Collins' face, bringing the Ottawa man to his knees. However, Mick with a wide sweep of his left arm landed his opponent a hard blow on the side of his head. The Toronto boy kept cool and after some nice defence, hit Mick several times in succession just as time was up.

George Gauthier, of Peterborough, was to have wrestled John Jackson, the heavyweight champion of Canada, but as the latter did not put in an appearance, Gauthier wrestled A. MacDonald, of Toronto, for a purse of $100, the best two out of three falls. The Peterborough man succeeded in throwing his opponent in three minutes, with apparently no difficulty. MacDonald got the second throw but Gauthier won the contest by getting a fall from his opponent within two minutes.

Mr. John Gillogly sang and was encored. The third item was a wrestling contest between Art Edmonds, of Toronto, and Farmer Burns, the undefeated featherweight champion of Ohio. Edmonds, who has been to town before, seemed to be the favourite. He is the champion feather weight of America, and last night gained two falls, the first in two minutes.

GOLF.

The Lambton Golf and Country Club of Toronto, will bring a team to play a match on the local links on Saturday. The visitors will arrive on the 11.30 C. P. R. train. On their arrival they will be given a luncheon at the club house and the match will be played immediately after. This will be a most interesting match and the playing will be well worth watching.

All the members of the Ladies' Golf Club are extended an invitation to be present at this game.

The following item appeared in the Toronto News last evening:

"The Lambton Golf Club will send a team to Peterborough on Saturday to play the local club. The team will go down on Saturday morning, returning the same night. About ten players will compose the team, and these players have so far arranged to go: J. T Clark, C. C. James, G. S. Lyon, H. W. Edgar, F. E. Capon, W. J. Crossen and A. H. C. Proctor. Mr. Wilfrid Hepton may also go. Mr. Hepton has just returned from England, arriving in New York last week. He is an enthusiastic golfer, a member of the Leeds Golf Club of England, and a member of the Lambton Club.

The following players will represent the Peterborough Golf Club:—Hamilton, Pepler, Lawrence, Burnham, Ray, Burnett, McGill, Neill, Eastwood, Garvin, Dennistoun, Stratton, Gracey.

• • • •

The Telegram speaks thus of the Lampton golf links:—"The wonderful growth of the Lampton club is something to ponder over. It is really marvellous. It is true they have one of the very finest links in the whole world, filled with natural hazards, but that would not fill their membership lists if the game hadn't taken a wonderful hold on the people, young and old."

LACROSSE.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

Wrestling and Boxing Bouts at Opera House Last Night.

Brantford Lost to St. Catharines in a Senior C.L.A. Game—Orillia Plays T.A.S. This Afternoon.

WRESTLING

There was a large audience at the opera last night when an interesting programme of wrestling and boxing was run off.

The bouts were somewhat late commencing, but were nevertheless excellent. The first one was a boxing bout between Mick Collins, of Ottawa, and Jack Jones, of Toronto, for a purse of $25. The Toronto boy was somewhat the larger of the two and had decidedly the best of the fight from the start. However, Mr. D. Belland, who refereed, announced it a draw. The last round was two minutes in length instead of one and was most exciting. Jones commenced it by landing his right into Collins' face, bringing the Ottawa man to his knees. However, Mick with a wide sweep of his left arm landed his opponent a hard blow on the side of his head. The Toronto boy kept cool and after some nice defence, hit Mick several times in succession just as time was up.

George Gauthier, of Peterborough, was to have wrestled John Jackson, the heavyweight champion of Canada, but as the latter did not put in an appearance, Gauthier wrestled A. MacDonald, of Toronto, for a purse of $100, the best two out of three falls. The Peterborough man succeeded in throwing his opponent in three minutes, with apparently no difficulty. MacDonald got the second throw but Gauthier won the contest by getting a fall from his opponent within two minutes.

Mr. John Gillogly sang and was encored. The third item was a wrestling contest between Art Edmonds, of Toronto, and Farmer Burns, the undefeated featherweight champion of Ohio. Edmonds, who has been to town before, seemed to be the favourite. He is the champion feather weight of America, and last night gained two falls, the first in two minutes.

GOLF.

The Lambton Golf and Country Club of Toronto, will bring a team to play a match on the local links on Saturday. The visitors will arrive on the 11.30 C. P. R. train. On their arrival they will be given a luncheon at the club house and the match will be played immediately after. This will be a most interesting match and the playing will be well worth watching.

All the members of the Ladies' Golf Club are extended an invitation to be present at this game.

The following item appeared in the Toronto News last evening:

"The Lambton Golf Club will send a team to Peterborough on Saturday to play the local club. The team will go down on Saturday morning, returning the same night. About ten players will compose the team, and these players have so far arranged to go: J. T. Clark, C. C. James, G. S. Lyon, H. W. Edgar, F. E. Capon, W. J. Crossen and A. H. C. Proctor. Mr. Wilfrid Hepton may also go. Mr. Hepton has just returned from England, arriving in New York last week. He is an enthusiastic golfer, a member of the Leeds Golf Club of England, and a member of the Lambton Club.

The following players will represent the Peterborough Golf Club:—Hamilton, Pepler, Lawrence, Burnham, Ray, Burnett, McGill, Neill, Eastwood, Garvin, Dennistoun, Stratton, Gracey.

• • • •

The Telegram speaks thus of the Lampton golf links:—"The wonderful growth of the Lampton club is something to ponder over. It is really marvellous. It is true they have one of the very finest links in the whole world, filled with natural hazards, but that would not fill their membership lists if the game hadn't taken a wonderful hold on the people, young and old."

LAWN BOWLING.

The two following games were played last night:—

Cottrell	Kitley
Dr. Greer	Runnals
Weddell	Giroux
Moore 9	Holmes 12
G. Weddell	R. Cottrell
G. Hay	S. T. Medd
R. M. Waddell	W. Salisbury
R. Kerr 16	A.H. Stratton 9

LACROSSE.

• • • •

The Orillia Intermediate C. L. A. team is this afternoon playing an exhibition game with the T.A.S. on the Murray street grounds. The teams lined up as follows:

THE STORM FURIOUS

Brick Boiler House at Deschene, Upper Ottawa, Wrecked.

ONE KILLED, OTHERS HURT.

Three Walls of the Power House of the Saw Mill of the Fraser Company Blown Down — Plympton Township Experiences a Disastrous Cyclone — Buildings Demolished — Heavy Loss to Farmers.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—A terrific electrical storm accompanied by a wind of cyclonic force, which swept down the Upper Ottawa and over Lake Deschene, struck the city, with awful force at 4 o'clock yesterday. At Deschene, seven miles from Ottawa, it hit the big saw mill being erected by the Fraser Company, blowing down three walls of the power house, killing one man, and probably fatally injuring another, seriously injuring a third and slightly injuring three others.

The dead man is James Campbell, son of ex-Ald. W. J. Campbell, boiler maker, Ottawa; Joseph Valiquette, boiler maker's assistant, had his back broken and will die. John Chugg, a line man, was seriously injured, but has a good chance for recovery.

The loss to the Fraser Company was about $10,000.

CYCLONE IN PLYMPTON.

Buildings Demolished and Crops Destroyed—Several Persons Injured.

Forest, Aug. 7.—Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock a disastrous cyclone swept through a portion of Plympton Township, two miles west of Forest, and the damage done by wind and hail is serious.

The following farmers had their barns blown down or unroofed: Geo. Beatie, Thomas Gammon, Arthur Gammon, Annister, James Hubbard, John Stonehouse and George Core.

Dozens of windmills were wrecked, several chimneys were blown off; a dwelling house and fences were levelled to the ground.

The hail which accompanied the wind was terrific. Windows were shattered, orchards were stripped of their fruit, and foliage and fields of oats literally threshed out and beaten into the ground. The hail was three inches deep.

Several persons were injured by loads of grain being upset and flying boards.

In Forest some damage was done, the end of the Franklin House barn, a brick building, being blown in and the fruit trees riddled.

In Warwick Township the roof was blown off Frank Jenkins' barn, and apple orchards were badly damaged. The storm came off Lake Huron without a moment's warning and spent itself in a short time.

In Niagara District.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Aug. 7.—This district was visited by a severe hail storm yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. Stones fell the size of marbles and covered the ground. The effect on the fruit crop will be disastrous.

Barge Lost in Storm.

New Bedford, Mass., Aug. 7.—A tug which arrived here last night from the south, reported the loss of the barge Florrie, between Barnegat and Fire Island during Wednesday's storm. Five persons went down with the barge.

WANT THE TRADE.

Montreal Manufacturers and the Construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—At the annual meeting of the Montreal branch of the Manufacturers' Association yesterday, a resolution was adopted asking the Government to protect the interests of Canadian manufacturers in the construction of the proposed new transcontinental railway.

The meeting, after calling attention to clauses 17 and 37 of the G.T.P. bill, decided to ask the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to draw the attention of the Government to the need of the following regulations:

That all contractors who undertake to build parts of the eastern section should be compelled to pay duty upon their imports.

That in all importations of supplies by the Government, the Government shall follow the usual procedure of Ministers within departments of computing the duties and giving the preference to the Canadian manufacturers when his price is the same or lower than that of foreign articles with duty and freight added.

That the Government take strict precautions to enforce clause 37 in accordance with the course adopted by the Government of the Province of Ontario, prohibiting importations by the G.T.P. Company for the construction of the western section without showing due cause to the Governor-in-Council.

London, Aug. 7.—The agreement of the International Marine Company with the British Admiralty and the Board of Trade was published in a Parliamentary paper last night.

It provides that the British companies in the combine shall remain on an equal footing with other British companies in respect to any military, naval or postal services that the British Government may require from the British Mercantile Marine. No British ship in the combine shall be transferred to a foreign registry without the consent of the president of the Board of Trade.

The agreement shall continue for twenty years, dating Sept. 22, 1902, and shall be terminable, thereafter, at five years' notice on either side. WRECKED THE CIRCUS TRAIN.

Wallace Bros. Circus' Loss at Durrand, Michigan.

21 men Killed and as Many Injured—Railway Employees and Circus Hands in the List of those Killed.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Durrand, Michigan, August 7th. — Wallace Bros.' circus trains were wrecked in the Grand Trunk yards here early this morning, and 21 men, mostly employees of the circus, including a few of the performers, were killed outright; 20 more were injured, some fatally. The show was travelling in two sections over the Grand Trunk tracks from Lansing to Lapeer, and the accident it is said was caused by the failure of the second section of the train to stop in time. The second section crashed into the first section at full speed. The engine of the second section and four cars of the first section were completely demolished. Much valuable property was destroyed and the loss to the circus people will probably be very heavy. A number of the victims were railway people attached to the train. These include Train Master J. McCarthy of the G.T.R. Some of the animals were killed. It was some hours before the injured were rescued from the wrecked cars. Some of them were in terrible agony and it is thought that 7 more will die. The injured are Jas. S. Foley, special officer Grand Trunk, Detroit, shoulder dislocated, and bruises; Jos. Benton, New Millford, Cond., internally injured; W. H. Rose, Armstrong, Ill., internally injured; Frank Tilley, Rising Sun, Ind., hip dislocated, very bad bruises and internally injured.

Canada's Apple Crop.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 7.—The National Apple Growers' Convention ended last night. A statistical report covering all the apple-growing states and Canada was issued. The apple crop for 1902 was estimated at 47,625,000 barrels, and the crop for 1903 at 54,614,000 barrels.

The crop in Canada last year was estimated at 16,120,000 barrels, and for 1903 at 13,300,000 barrels.

Killed on the Track.

Colborne, Aug. 7.—The body of John Cronk was found about five o'clock yesterday morning lying on the north side of the G.T.R. track. He was struck by a passing train while walking on the track. Mr. Cronk was an aged man, and his hearing was defective.

GAMEYISM, THE NEW CULT.

The New Development in Opposition Politics.

The Creed of the New Sect – The Rise and Fall of Gameyism – Letter From Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C.

(The Globe.)

A queer, uncanny, political cult in these days of Dowieites and suchlike movements in the religious world, originating ostensibly in Manitoulin, but believed by many to have its birth place in the good city of Toronto, and fostered and brought to light by such well-known Tory politicians as Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, and the little clique of his style and methods in in politics, is now seeking to enroll members in the province, and the very boldness of its pretensions and the fakir-like methods adopted by its high priest and his sponsors are enough to put in the shade the hollow scheming and humbuggery that men have been known to practice in order to hoodwink their followers and gain notoriety and profit for themselves.

The high priest of this new cult is Gamey, of Manitoulin. His followers are called Gameyites. Whitneyites are no more. This cult or sect of hero-worshippers has a creed of seven articles. They are as follows:

(1) All men shall believe Gamey and no one else.

(2) All men shall utterly abjure and detest as falsehoods the judgment of the high commission, scatter to the winds their faith in upright and eminent Judges, and their findings upon the evidence.

(3) All men are commanded to regard as perjurers every witness who contradicted Gamey, no matter who —no matter how many.

(4) All men are commanded to disregard utterly such little things as the falsifying of a deposit slip by the high priest, or the production by him of a ledger, minus the missing leaf, or rather the missing link.

(5) All men are commanded to get accustomed to sulphurous language, and to use it recklessly and unsparingly against Judges and other men of high repute. Such expressions as "Guilty as Hell," "Sir John Boyd, a commissioner of the Government," and "Chief Justice Falconbridge, a mere chaperon," are samples of the vocabulary to be used by the new sect —in short, the express command is to vilify and satanize all things non-Gamey, and to magnify and deify all things Gamey.

(6) All men are commanded to have no other political god but Gamey, to burn their party prayer books, tear down the pictures of such men as Meredith and Whitney, and gaze only upon the face of the high priest from the land of the Manitou.

Men are told that the object of the cult is to gain political power at any cost, and by any method and by so doing the community will tell the Judges they have lied, and will elevate the high priest of Pug Mine fame of falsifying-deposit-slip and mutilated-ledger notoriety, to a position of influence in this province.

The meetings of the cult began at Manitoulin picnic, and are to be continued at Dundalk, or at any place that may desire to listen to a man utterly discredited by his own acts and by a cloud of respectable witnesses, and will be held all through the bye-elections, with Gamey the central figure and chief speaker. Nothing could be a greater blessing to the Government than the rise of the new cult. If the Tory Opposition were playing at assisting the Government, they could not do a better act than let Gamey talk as he is doing, and his statellities keep on with their slanderous attacks. The more Gamey talks, and the more he is kept on exhibition, the better for the Government, for the electors of Ontario are not such fools as to be caught by Gamey and his methods.

What a windfall of luck to the Liberals is Gameyism; but, then, was luck ever against the Liberals in this Province? And Mr. Ross has inherited it all, and brought in a good portion of it on his own account.

I have written for the rise of Gameyish. The bye-elections will tell the tale of its fall, and the Opposition will again learn that a broken reed is not safe to lean upon; that no Opposition without a policy can ever hope to gain power in Ontario, and they will be taught the lesson once for all that the sound common sense of the people cannot be captured by such a political cult as Gameyism and Gamey as its high priest. T. C. Robinette.

TO ONTARIO PEOPLE.

Brooklyn Broker Died Leaving Considerable Property to Residents of Coldwater Streetsville and Peterborough.

The Globe has an account of the death of Mr. Jas. McCormick, a well known broker of New York, who left a large estate to be divided among many Ontario people.

Mr. McCormick owned a farm known as Clyfields, near Coldwater, Ontario, Canada. He leaves lot 18 and one-half of lot 19, of this farm, in trust for the benefit of his cousin, Charles Drew, now 20 years old, who lives in the Northwest Territories. The young man may occupy the land or receive the income until he attains the age of 30 years. If he is then unmarried he is to receive it absolutely. If he is married he is to have a life estate, with remainder to his children. The testator leaves one-half of lot 19 and the whole of lot 20, of the farm of his cousin, William Noble Rutledge Ryan, son of Noble Ryan of Coldwater, subject to the payment of $1,000 within four year's to the beneficiary's sister, Katie Ryan, and $500 each, within two years, to Nellie Rutledge of Streetsville, and Nellie Harris Brown of Peterborough, Ont.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Happenings of Interest at Lakefield.

The Rachel Lewis Concert Co. held concerts in the town hall on Friday and Saturday evenings. The company decided that Lakefield was a very poor show town.

Hon. Senator and Mrs. Cox, of Toronto, and Mrs. A. L. Davis, of Peterborough, passed through the village on Tuesday en route to Stony Lake.

Mr. Alf. Cox, son of Mr. A. A. Cox, of Peterborough, who has just returned from an extended tour through the west, spent a short time in Lakefield with friends on Tuesday. It is Alf's intention to start a ranch near Medicine Hat, and with that object in view expects to return to the west this fall.

Mr. A. S. Butchart, Mrs. Butchart and Master George, took the round trip on the steamer Empress on Saturday.

Messrs. Lorne Knowles and F. A. Kilbourn spent Sunday at Stony Lake enjoying the beauties of nature at that place, and incidentally enjoying other beauties that happen to be summering at that popular resort.

Mr. Pullen, who is overseeing the installation of the electrical plant for the addition to the Lakefield Cement Co., is rapidly getting the plant in shape, and expects to have everything ready for a start about Aug. 10th. When these additions are made to the present works the output of the cement plant will be one thousand barrels per day.

Miss Flemming of Port Hope is visiting with friends in the village.

Mr. William Montgomery of Hawkesbury, is in the village, to spend a few days visiting his parents.

Owing to a break down in some of the machinery in the Lillicrap-Tate Lumbering Company's mill, the mill has been closed for a couple of days.

All the boats on the lakes are doing a good business, as there is much traffic to Stony Lake just now.

Mr. Wesley Wagner, who has been employed in Mr. W. H. Casement's Hardware Store for the past couple of years, left on Tuesday for Saskatoon, Saskatchewan Territory. The many friends of Mr Wagner regret his departure but wish him every success in his new home.

We are glad to report that Mr. John Northcott, who has been confined to his room for several months owing to an accident, is again able to be about.

AFTER THE GRAND TRUNK.

Cattle Dealers Want Damages For Detention of Cattle in Transit to Toronto Junction Stock Yards.

Toronto Junction, Aug. 7.—Fifteen live stock dealers of Ontario at a meeting here last night issued instructions to their solicitor to enter suit for damages to the amount of $20,000 against the Grand Trunk Railway for losses by wrongful and malicious detention of cattle in transit, and will also lay information against certain railway officials of that line for alleged cruelty to animals. They also passed a resolution in condemnation of the railway authorities in this matter, to be transmitted to Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture.

Some of the facts which were given at the meeting, which was held in the Union Stock Yards, were as follows:

Twenty cars of cattle arrived at the Junction at 3.10 p.m. yesterday, which started from such shipping points as Kincardine, Lucknow, Blythe, Ripley, Midmay, Walkerton, Clinton, Chesley, Tottenham, Whitechurch and Bobbington, between the hours of 7.30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Wednesday. These cars should all have arrived at the Junction about 9 p.m. the same day, but were sidetracked at Stratford and Guelph Junction, although other cars in the same train are said to have been taken on to the city stock yards at the Western Cattle Market without delay.

By the Criminal Code the limit of time within which animals in transit may be left without food or water is 28 hours. In the case cited the G. T.R. are claimed to have violated the law by a margin of from 4 to 8 hours, whereas the utmost time needed for delivery at destination in any case was 16 hours.

The solicitor for the complainants said last night: "The only reason which can be discovered for the deliberate outrage thus practised on independent, outside stock dealers, is that the Grand Trunk, which would be interested in the maintenance of a monopoly at the Toronto stock yards, have conspired with the Toronto stock yards to so discriminate against its young and formidable competitor at the Junction as to discourage outside farmers from beginning or continuing trade with them."

FARMERS AND THEIR STOCK.

Decline to Pay Because of Alleged False Pretences.

Toronto, Aug. 7. — About forty Southwold and Yarmouth farmers were yesterday served with writs by Bailiff J. McKenzie in actions to recover amounts of unpaid stock in the Farmers' Co-operative Packing Company of Brantford (Limited). The farmers refuse to pay their stock, claiming that they subscribed for it under false pretences. They said they were promised as good a price for their hogs as anyone else was paid, and they said the promise was not kept. Hogs were purchased from them, too, they say, at a certain price, and when the company came to settle, a lower price was paid them. Therefore, they decline to pay up the balance due on their stock.

OPPOSED THE LAND BILL.

Nationalist Circles Troubled Over Opposition in House of Lords.

London, Aug. 7.—The committee stage of the Irish Land Bill was reached in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon. There was an unusually large attendance of Irish peers.

The divisions on the amendments indicated a determined fight, and in the division on the first amendment the Government narrowly escaped defeat by one vote. In the following division the Government was defeated by three votes. Neither amendment was vital to the bill, but as notice has been given for 34 pages of amendments, this early opposition to the Government arouses in Nationalist circles apprehension of trouble before the committee stage of the bill is concluded.

Another amendment moved by Lord Abercorn (Conservative) was carried against the Government by a majority of three. After that the progress was easier to clause 42, upon reaching which the House of Lords adjourned.

Sugar Bill Passed.

London, Aug. 7.—In the House of Commons, after James Bryce (Liberal) and Chas. Wentworth Dilke (Advanced Radical), and others had denounced the Sugar Convention Bill as a protectionist measure the bill was passed to a third reading by a vote of 119 to 57.

Broker Cowan Arrested.

New York, Aug. 7.—Detectives yesterday arrested Joseph Cowan, a broker, who lives at Matuchen, N.J., on a charge of larceny of $5,300, which he is said to have appropriated to his own use between March 10, 1902, and the present time. The complainant is Blanche H. Smith of Milwaukee, Wis., who is said to have entrusted the money to Cowan to invest for her benefit. This firm is a member of the Toronto Board of Trade.

Russia Gets Corean Concession.

Seoul, Corea, Aug. 7.—An agreement has probably been concluded between Russia and Corea, whereby Russia acquires 200 acres of land at Yonghampo and the Yalu River on a 99-year lease. The application of M. Pavloff, the Russian Minister, for permission to erect a telegraph and telephone line to Yonghampo has been refused. The extension to the northward of the Seoul-Wiju Railway is progressing.

The Interests of Workmen—Contractors to Be Made to Pay the Standard Wages—Safety Equipment on Cars—Compensation For Injured Employes—Plea For Cattlemen—The Lead Bounties.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—Marked progress was made with the Government business yesterday. The resolution fixing the salary of the members of the railway commission was passed through the various stages, and the railway commission bill was finally disposed of in committee, and now stands for the third reading. Several important amendments were made to the bill, among them being the provision that no change in the classification of rates can be made by the railway companies without six weeks' notice, and also the insertion of the provision regarding the payments of fair wages upon construction work on railways receiving Government aid. The resolution authorizing aid to the lead industry was also reported by the committee of the whole after an animated discussion, and the bill founded thereon put through its initial stages.

Railway Commission Salaries.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in moving the adoption in committee of the resolution fixing the salary of the chief railway commissioner at $10,000, the other two commissioners at $8,000 and that of the Secretary at not mare than $4,000, said the salaries were the highest paid by the Government, higher than those of the chief justices, and higher than the salaries of Ministers. It had, however, been strongly argued that the time had arrived for a revison of the salaries of judges. In view of the importance of the duties to be discharged by the commissioners, the salaries were not at all unreasonable.

The salary of $10,000 to the chairman of the commission was not out of proportion to that paid to high officials in the railway service. Another thing was that while judges held their positions permanently, the chairman of the Railway Commission only held office for ten years. The salaries of the other two commissioners, $8,000 a year each, and the secretary, $4,000, was, he considered, fair. The Prime Minister said no choice of commissioners had yet been made.

Mr. Maclean asked if there was any prospect of having the farming portion of the population represented on the commission.

"I understand that it is the intention to have the farming community represented," Sir Wilfrid replied.

Mr. Monk asked if the Government had any estimate of the cost of the commission.

Mr. Blair answered that he had looked into the subject and considered that the expense for the first year would be about $100,000.

The resolution was then adopted and considered as a part of the railway bill.

Classification of Freight.

In committee on the Railway bill Mr. Fitzpatrick proposed an amendment which provided that there should not be a change from a lower to a higher qualification of freight rates until six weeks' notice had been given in The Canada Gazette. The motion was carried.

Current Rate of Wages.

Hon. Chas. A. Fitzpatrick moved another amendment providing that contractors for railways receiving Government subsidies should pay to their laborers the current rate of wages in the district in which they are employed. This meant, Mr. Fitzpatrick said, that contractors would have no right to bring men into any district and pay them lower wages then prevailed there. After some discussion, Mr. Fitzpatrick consented to the proposal that declarations would be required of contractors which would ensure the payment of current wages.

Dr. Kendall wanted to amend section 212 so as to take from the commission and give to Parliament the power to exempt any railways from the obligation to equip their cars with certain specified safety apparatus as provided in the next preceding session.

Mr. Fitzpatrick declined to accept the amendment, but expressed his willingness to amend the clause to read that all box and freight cars purchased or leased by Canadian railways after the passage of this act shall be equipped with the appliances named in the bill.

Damages For Employes.

Hugh Guthrie moved an amendment to clause 242 providing that a railway employe may recover damages for injuries received through the company's negligence, notwithstanding any rights which he may have surrendered by becoming a member of an insurance or benevolent society.

Mr. Guthrie's motion was lost on a vote of 41 to 24.

Fires Caused by Engines.

Mr. Davis of Saskatchewan moved an amendment requiring railway companies in the Northwest Territories to plow fire guards at their own expense. At present the expense falls on the Government of the Territories. As the fires are caused by locomotives Mr. Davis felt that the full expense should be borne by the railway companies. The motion was declared lost.

Bounty on Lead.

Mr. Fielding moved a resolution granting a bounty on lead. The bounty, Mr Fielding explained, will be $15 a ton, but the total amount is not to exceed $500,000 in each fiscal year. The bounty is to be proportionally reduced when the price of pig lead in London, England, exceeds twelve pounds ten shillings per ton.

A long discussion ensued.

The Minister of Finance believed that the bounty would develop this industry. He had hopes, too, that a profitable white lead industry would be established.

After a protracted discussion an amendment was inserted in the resolution to the effect that the bounty should apply to lead produced by any other process than that of smelting. The Finance Minister explained that this was introduced to meet the wishes of several Toronto gentlemen who represented that they had a chemical process for the extraction of lead, and it was intended to establish it in the west. The resolutions were then adopted, and the House adjourned at 1.35 a.m.

CROWNING OF PIUS X.

Great Preparations Being Made at Rome For Sunday's Function—300 Bells Rang Welcome For an Hour.

Rome, Aug. 7.—The attention is now centred upon the solemn coronation ceremony which will occur on Sunday, and for which great preparations are being made. The throne of St. Peter, which Pius X. will occupy, will be surmounted by a canopy 40 feet high. The function will consume five hours.

The Pope has informed the Vatican officials that he wishes to be received on the threshold of the Basilica by Cardinal Rampolla, who, as archpriest of the church, will address the formal greetings to him.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the Pope will confer his blessing upon the people, but it has not been decided whether he will do so inside the church or from the balcony looking out upon the piazza. It is said that Pius is favorable to the latter plan, but that the influence of the Vatican officials is against it, on the ground that it might be interpreted as a recognition of the present state of affairs in Italy.

The holding of the coronation ceremonies in St. Peter's itself represents a concession, as in the case of Leo, it occurred in the Sistine Chapel. It is expected that 60,000 tickets will be issued for the event.

In the consistories to be held Monday and Thursday next, the Pope will confer the red hat upon Cardinals Ajuti, Taliani, Katschthaler and Herrero y Espinosa, who were raised from the purple, June 25, but who have not yet received those symbols of rank because of the illness and death of Leo. It is believed the Spanish Cardinal, Herrero, will not be able to be present at the coronation ceremonies.

During one full hour yesterday morning the bells of about five hundred churches were rung in honor of the election of Pius X., a welcome unique of its kind, and ordered by Cardinal Respighi, vicar of Rome, who issued special instructions therefor. All the churches contemporaneously celebrated masses for the event, the singing of the Oremus combining with the harmony.

PALACE BLOWN UP.

Fifty Turks Were Killed—Albanian Troops to Be Employed in Macedonia—Massacres Are Thus Inevitable.

Salonica, Aug. 7.—A special messenger from Monastir reports that the Bulgarian insurgents have dynamited the Konak (Governor's palace) in the town of Krushovo, 23 miles north of Monastir. Fifty Turks were killed.

A detachment of Ottoman troops has burned the village of Dihovo, near Monastir.

Eight Turkish battalions have been despatched to Monastir and three battalions to Salonica from Koscovo.

Telegraphic communication with Monastir is still interrupted.

Massacres Inevitable.

Constantinople, Aug. 7.—Consular advices received here Wednesday from Monastir indicate that the situation in Macedonia was constantly growing worse. At a meeting of the Ministers it has been decided to adopt measures of extreme severity to suppress the revolution. It is reported that Albanian troops will be employed, in which event massacres are almost inevitable.

General Uprising Aug. 31.

London, Aug. 7.—A news agency despatch from Vienna says that the Macedonian Central Revolutionary Committee has fixed Aug. 31 as the date of a general rising, and that Boris Sarafoff, one of the leading Macedonian agitators, has been appointed commander of the revolutionary forces, with Alexieff as his principal lieutenant.

Crops Destroyed.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 7.—The newspapers announce that Prince Ferdinand is returning. Reports received here show that the crops have been destroyed and bridges blown up in the districts of Monastir and Salonica, where the Macedonian Committee proclaimed a revolution.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Embezzlement Charged.

Windsor, Aug. 7.—Fresh trouble has arisen in the office of the Dominion Express Company in Windsor, and auditors have again been summoned to straighten matters out. Ben Holman, the former C.P.R. city ticket agent and representative of the Dominion Express Company in Windsor, is under bonds to answer to a charge of embezzling about $800. Gordon Henderson of Goderich was sent to Windsor to take his place Saturday he left for Toronto, and an examination of his books is said to have shown an apparent shortage of nearly $250.

SIR ROBERT STOUT ANGRY.

Why the Chief Justice of New Zealand Threatens to Resign.

Sir Robert Stout, Chief Justice of New Zealand, who is threatening resignation because the King has decided that Ministers in future must have precedence over Judges in that colony, is almost as assertive and determined a personality as Mr. Sedden himself. He and Mr. Sedden were the rival candidates for the Liberal leadership after the death of Mr. Ballance, and there was pretty general surprise when the caucus decided against his claims. Cynical people were heard to say that in making him Chief Justice, Mr. Sedden was actuated quite as much by a desire to dispose of a dangerous rival as to reward pre-eminent professional merit. If Sir Robert should resign and re-enter public life, New Zealand politics will become lively and interesting. Sir Robert, who is a native of the Shetland Islands, and still under sixty, was originally a schoolmaster, but became a barrister at twenty-seven, and a New Zealand M.P three years later. He served as Attorney-General In Sir George Grey's Radical Government of 1878, and attained the Premiership himself in 1884. Before his elevation to the Bench he was the Bradlaugh or the Ingersoll of New Zealand, and he was the leading orator at a Secularist Congress in Melbourne.

HERE IS PROOF.

That Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure Indigestion or Dyspepsia of any Stage or Standing.

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never got relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six shoxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably, which I never expected to do in this world.'

This is the statement of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Grove, Digby Co., N. S. It is but one of thousands that prove beyond a doubt that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia of any stage or standing. Proof like this is worth more than all the theory in the world.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve. They cure to stay cured.

Fortunes to Get Public Ear.

Let all those of the outside public who read that some eminent vocalist of the concert-room platform, or some astonishing instrumentalist of the same is drawing enormous fees, take the word of an expert that there is no effort in the world so difficult and so heartbreaking as that of obtaining the ear of the public in the way mentioned, says London Tit-Bits.

Every season, in London alone, the sums spent by newcomers in their desire to give a concert or to share in one are in the aggregate enormous, and generally the expense only comes as a culmination after both friends and money have been exhausted in paying for a long series of lessons in this country and abroad, during which period the student has never earned a sixpence. But, after years of study, a hearing must be got at any hazard for the novice, and if she be a girl the very dress on her back has often cost an infinite family sacrifice. In too many cases, though, agents have been propitiated and critics have been actually got to come to the concert-room—important concerts often clash on the same day—the result is a deep disappointment, for many a musical genius will break down under the ordeal and be seen at his or her worst.

From the colonies alone fortunes have poured into London that have been speculatively used in concert-giving in behalf of the tyros, but some nineteen out of twenty of the aspirants have been, as in the case of home-cultivated variety, comparative failures. One of the greatest concert-agents of the world said to the writer: "I have known scores of cases—I mean scores literally—where a student, praised to the skies by professors, has spent ten years of study without earning anything, and has then expended a small fortune in giving experimental concerts, only to find that he or she cannot even earn a living."

Payment of Genius.

At a recent sale in London "Defoe's Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson Crusoe, of York, Mariner," and "The Farther Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," two volumes, of 1719, in the original calf bindings, realized $1,535. If such a thing had happened in Defoe's own time it is probable that that gifted romancer would have ended his days in a madhouse. Such incidents are the irony of fate. Every other day one reads of a Poe manuscript having been sold at a large price. And then one remembers Poe's miserable life and ill-paid returns. Shakespeare, a prosperous dramatist, considering his time, would gladly have sold not only the manuscript copy, but dramatic rights to "Hamlet" for scarcely a larger sum than that given above. It is safe to say that the Avon bard, good business man as he was, did not receive from all his plays what a modern "popular" novelist gains from a single book with its dramatic rights. It looks rather unjust, but Shakespeare still lives, while the novelist sees his reputation flickering before his eyes. It is doubtful whether, taking all things into consideration, Mr. Shakespeare would care to change places with M——: you may fill in your own blank.—Current Literature.

A Promotion.

Mr. George F. Blackwell, who for the past year represented the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company as their general agent for the county of Peterborough, has received well deserved promotion at the hands of the company he so ably represents. He has been appointed to act as Inspector for the company in Eastern Ontario, with future headquarters at the head office, Toronto. Mr. Blackwell's successor for the general agency of the county will be Mr. Robert Armstrong, of Peterborough.

He cut his lip.

Some persons have a very funny idea of spending a holiday. A young man named McNab, of Orillia, came to town yesterday with the Firemen's excursion, and, sad to relate, took more Mountain Dew than he could stand. While staggering along Hunter street where Aylmer street ceases, he tripped and fell into the road, where he lay for some time. When picked up it was found that his top lip had been badly cut on a stone and his face was covered with blood. D. McNulty after looking at the young man called up the ambulance, which conveyed him to the hospital, where his lip was stitched up.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT TO DOUGLAS McDONALD.

Lost His Balance While Riding a Bicycle and Was Dragged Along by a Buggy.

A very painful accident happened to little Douglas McDonald, the young son of Mr. Alfred McDonald, Lock street, who while riding a bicycle down Hunter street at three o'clock this afternoon, lost his balance when passing a buggy in which there were three ladies. The bicycle, from which the boy was unable to extricate himself, in some manner caught between the two wheels of the buggy and both child and machine were dragged from the corner of George and Hunter streets to opposite Best's stove store. Here the buggy was stopped and Mr. William Willard of the Oriental Hotel, drew the boy from his perilous position. That the boy was not killed is almost inconceivable; however he escaped with a nasty cut on the top of his head.

Directly after being taken from beneath the wheels of the vehicle, he was conveyed to Macdonald's drug store, where his injuries were at once attended to. The boy's bicycle was very badly twisted.

QUICK WORK AT ONTARIO BANK

Business Now Being Transacted in Water Street Addition.

A record "moving" was made in the Ontario Bank, between closing hours yesterday and opening to-day. In order to allow the front portion of the bank building to be remodelled, the fixtures were removed to the new addition on Water street, No attempt was made to move until after banking hours yesterday, and this morning when the bank opened its doors, business was being done in an entirely new building. The rapid work is characteristic of the enterprise of Mr. Crane, the manager, and in fact the entire staff of the branch, every member of which assisted in the moving. Business will be transacted in the new addition for the balance of this month, when the interior of the front building will have been entirly remodelled and the whole building will be used, making it one of the best bank buildings in Central or Eastern Ontario.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.

Pleasant Trip Down the River per Steamer North Star.

The Mission Band of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a most delightful moonlight excursion last night. There were some seventy persons on the North Star, which took them some six or seven miles down the river. The boat left the wharf at a quarter past eight o'clock and did not regain her berth until midnight. Notwithstanding the somewhat cool weather everyone apparently enjoyed themselves—especially those who went downstairs where the silvery moonbeams do not penetrate to the cosy corners. It is believed that, beyond the skipper, no one trod the promenade deck—of course owing to the slightly biting wind.

GOOD RACES ON SECOND DAY.

Successful Closing day of Turf Club's Meet Yesterday.

FREE-FOR-ALL WAS EXCITING

Excellent Time Made and Every Race Was Warmly Contested—Turf Club Congratulated on Success of the Meet.

The second day's races at the Turf Club's tracks were even a more pronounced success than those of the first day, and yesterday afternoon 1,000 spectators witnessed three more interesting speeding contests, participated in by some of the fastest horses in Ontario. The track, which had been rendered somewhat heavy by the rains of the first day, had improved considerably, and, until a heavy storm yesterday afternoon again made it slow, the track, which is the pride of the management, and justly so, was in excellent condition, and had the rain held off, it is probable that the track record would have been considerably lowered.

It is unfortunate that the weather should have been so unpromising on both days of the meet, as the financial success of the meet was not pronounced. No doubt had the weather man showed a little more consideration, and given better climatic conditions, the attendance both days would have been much larger. The management, however, is pleased with the measure of support accorded the meet, and in turn their endeavor has been to present absolutely clean sport, and in this endeavour they have met with a decided success, and hearty commendations are being offered, both by the spectators and the horsemen, whose stables were represented at the meet. Special credit is due Messrs. Rountree, Munro and Brooks on whose shoulders the bulk of the work in connection with the meet, has fallen. They have worked indefatigably for its success, giving their time ungrudgingly, and, and financial support, without stint, and richly deserve any commendation which may have been offered them upon the result of their work. The track, and the general arrangement of the grounds and grand stand, were the subject of many favourable comments. Mr. F. G. Smith, the starter, declared that the track was one of the best he had ever seen, and that in good condition it should be very fast. The first race, yesterday, was the 2.30 pace, or 2.27 trot, and was won easily by Sphinx B., George Powell's horse, who took first in each of the three heats, Minnie Keswick taking second money. In the first heat Sphinx took the lead, and the result was never in doubt. The race for second place was exciting, however, Jubilee holding second place until the last half, when Minnie Keswick made a beautiful burst of speed. This was repeated in the second heat, when Jubilee led Minnie Keswick, until on the home stretch the mare made a strong finish, wining by a length.

Between the second and third heats a sharp shower of rain fell, which put the track in rather bad condition, consequently the last heat was not made in as good time as the preceeding two, being 5 3-4 seconds slower than the second. The four horses finished in the same order in each of the three heats. In the second the driver of Minnie Keswick was asked to step down and J. Fleming, of Toronto, was put in to drive her. Some of the spectators believed that her driver was holding her back and expressed their belief to the judges who decided to replace him by Mr. Fleming. The spectators immediately showed their appreciation of the action by applause. The summary of the race is as follows:—

Minnie Keswick, Geo. Curtis, Lindsay 2	2	2
Jubilee, M. J. Dennistoun, Coldwater... 3	3	3
Lady Hamburg, Ashley Stock Farm, Belleville... 4	4	4

Time—2.23 1-4, 2.20 1-4, 2.26.

The second race, free for all, for a purse of $500, was characterized by an especially good record being made in the second heat. The track record of 1.18 1-4 was equalled, and had it not been for the rain, 3 or 4 seconds would have been lopped off the record. In the first heat Wisdom King, Gipsy Girl, Boreatten and Billy G. started in the order named. It was an interesting contest for second place. Wisdom King making a fine finish coming up from fourth place. In the second Gipsy Girl took the lead at the start, but neck and neck with Boreatton cross and Wisdom King. In the 3rd quarter the latter made a beautiful burst of speed, coming down the stretch neck and neck with Bareatton cross the wire a neck ahead. Boreatton was set to fourth place for fouling Gipsie Girl. As this race progressed the heats became increasingly interesting the third being a very exciting one, Wisdom King, Billy G, and Gipsy Girl coming down the stretch abreast, each winning their respective place by only a neck. It was the fourth, however, which furnished the greatest excitement for the spectators, and experienced racing men say that they never witnessed a more interesting race. The three winning horses from the start to the wire were so close that they could almost have been covered with a blanket, and this, trotting in 2.24 rate. The result was in doubt until the wire was reached, when Wisdom King led with Gipsy Girl second. After this heat the starter congratulated the drivers, saying that he had travelled the circuit and had seen a great many races, but had never witnessed as pretty a contest as that, on a half mile track.

The summary of this race follows:—

Wisdom King, F. Liebler, Tavistock	2	1	1	1
Gipsy Girl, A. Martin, Toronto...	4	3	3	2
Boreatton, J. H. Allen, Picton...	1	4	4	3
Billy G., G. J. Thomas, Belleville...	3	2	2	4

Time—2.22, 2.18 1-4, 2.26, 2.24.

A hurdle race 1 1-2 miles over six hurdles followed and was won as follows:—

1. Rathlin, W. Northgrave, Toronto
2. Cheat 'Em, P. Cluman, Peterborough.
3. Mango, L. Elmore, Toronto.
4. Venetian, H. Fifer, Toronto.
5. Farsate, Egan, Toronto.

Time—2.54.

A special event was a half mile foot race between A. Rose, of Peterborough, and D. Belland, of Quebec, for a silver cup. Rose was given 10 yards handicap, but Belland won by 15 yards in 2.17.

The owners of the different horses speak very highly of the provisions made at the track for their animals. The stables were large and every attention was given the horses by the men in charge of the track. The Turf Club has made for itself a reputation by this meet, which should very materially help the future meets held under its auspices.

ANOTHER GAME OF GOOD LACROSSE

At Murray Street Grounds Yesterday Afternoon.

Orillia Intermediates Played T. A. S—Score 7 to 3 in Favor of Visitors.

Accompanying the excursion from Orillia yesterday were the members of the Orillia Intermediate C.L.A. Lacrosse Team, and in the afternoon an exhibition game was played at the Murray street grounds with St. Peter's Junior C.L.A. team, before about 400 spectators, many of whom were Orillia supporters. The visiting team included in its line up some who are classed among the best lacrosse players in Canada, and their work yesterday gave ample evidence of their eligibility to play intermediate or even senior lacrosse. The T.A.S. team was considerably weakened yesterday by the absence of three or four of the men who figured prominently in Wednesday's game, and were not in good shape to put up a very stiff argument. They made a good showing, however, against a heavier and more experienced aggregation, and although they were deafeated, it was by no means a disgrace, as the team which defeated them would make easy work of most junior teams.

During the first quarter's play four goals were scored, three of them credited to the visitors. The first was scored by Raymor in 1 3-4 minutes after the face-off. This was followed by McKinnon in 1-2 minute, After a magnificent rush, Donaldson repeated the trick in 3 1-4 minutes. T. Repell notched the first for the home team in 4 minutes, which ended the scoring for the quarter. Arens in the Orillia goal was given plenty to do, however, as a number of dangerous shots were made by the T.A.S. home. The visitors have a find in their goal tender; he turned aside many which looked like sure shots on the nets.

The second quarter opened with another score for Orillia in 1-2 minute, the trick being accomplished by M. O'Connor, who is one of the best home men in the business, and a sure shot. After having played five minutes in this quarter a sharp shower of rain forced the players to the doubtful shelter of the unshingled grand stand. The rain was of short duration, however, and play was soon resumed on the grounds, which by this time had become somewhat soft. Northcott scored the fifth game for the visitors in 14 1-2 minutes. The whistle blew for half time with the score 5—1.

On resuming play after half time, the visitors made an attempt to score on a rush from the face off as in the preceding quarter, but the attempt failed, and after some fairly fast playing the first goal after half timewent to the T.A.S. in 12 minutes, the score being made by Derocher, the result of some nice combination work on the part of McCabe, Parnell, Whitty and Derocher. No further scoring was done in this period, 3-1 time being called with the figures 5—2. In the last quarter the visitors added 2, and the home team 1 to the score, Northcott getting the first in 7 minutes on a pass from Raymor. Parnell got the second in 3 minutes on a pass from Whitty. McKinnon took the last in 2 1-2 minutes, which ended the scoring.

Corbett on defence for the T.A.S. played a good game and should have no trouble in qualifying for a place on the team in a championship game. Parnell also gave a good account of himself.

The Orillia home is one of the best seen this season and should score against any ordinary defence.

The game throughout was fast and clean. The referee did not find it necessary to rule a man off during the whole game. Mr. Anglesey acted as referee and had little difficulty in keeping the players well in hand. The teams lined up as follows:

A CLOSE CALL.

A Bullet Passed Between two Men on a bus.

The drivers of the Clarendon House bus had a close call on Thursday night last although at the time they thought it was an accident caused by some passer-by. While crossing the bridge and near the south end the large glass in front of the bus just back of the driver's seat, was smashed. The blame was at once put on a couple of young men who were passing at the time, but the next morning when a .22 calibre bullet was found in the bus, the cause of the accident was quickly arrived at. It is said that a boy with a rifle was shooting sparrows just above the bridge that same evening. To break the glass the ball must have passed between the two persons on the front seat. — Hastings Star.

SIR GILBERT PARKER.

Prize Essay in The Globe About the Distinguished Canadian Novelist.

Gilbert Parker, the most distinguished of Canadian men of letters, who is, in fact, one of the great novelists of the world, was born November 23rd, 1862, in Camden East, Addington County, Ontario. His childhood was spent at Belleville, and he early became a school teacher. About the year 1884 he began contributing poems and ballads to magazines, many of which have since been included in "A Lover's Diary." In 1886, in the hope that a change of climate would prove beneficial to his health, he went to Australia, where he became a journalist. He also became interested in the drama, his most successful work being an adaptation of Goethe's "Faust." He soon determined to devote himself exclusively to literature, and, with this object in view, removed to London, where he began to write his short stories of French-Canadian life called "Pierre and His People," which at once became very popular. In these stories Mr. Parker has caught the life of the North-west and presented it vividly. He has great power of language, and one cannot escape from its spell. In "The Tall Master," for instance, where Shon McGann, who had lost his way and been taken to a strange camp, telling of his experience, the homely prose talk is a symphony.

"An Adventurer of the North," is a continuation of these stories, and in the last story Pierre and his sweetheart Kate ride to their death in the cruel prairie fire.

Nearly all of Parker's stories deal with Canadian life, among them being "The Trail of the Sword," which tells of the overland expedition to Hudson Bay by Lomoyne, over two centuries ago, and "The Seats of the Mighty," an absorbing story of the fall of Quebec, which contains one of his most famous characters, "Doltaire," the brilliant and crafty colleague of Bigot. Still another of his fine characters is the woman "Gukda," loved and repudiated, a noble and tragic figure in "The Battle of the Strong." "The Translation of a Savage" is a pathetic story of "Lali," a beautiful Indian girl, who is married by an Englishman in a fit of pique and sent to his home in England.

"When Valmond Came to Pontiac" is a very finished production, and well displays his literary methods. Valmond, representing himself as the son of Napoleon Bonaparte, comes to the little French-Canadian village of Pontiac, and exerts such a powerful influence over those he meets that, almost against their will, the villagers flock to him and join him in his filibustering enterprise. The scene where he meets the soldier of the Old Guard, Eustache Lagroin, is very fine. The old soldier, believing that Valmond is only an adventurer, determines to meet and expose him. He does meet him, but Valmond's influence is so great that he slowly but surely yields. At last Valmond, finding that the man had been a drummer at Auerstadt, sends for a drum.

"In a moment the boy came out with the drum. Valmond took it in his hands and said softly:—'Soldier of the Old Guard, here is a drum of France.' Without a word the old man took the drum, his fingers trembling as he fastened it in his belt. When the sticks were in the hand all trembling ceased, and his hands became steady. He was living in the past entirely. 'Soldier,' said Valmond, softly, 'with "The Little Sword that Danced" play up the feet of the army.' A light broke over the old man's face. The swift look he cast on Valmond had no distrust now. Instantly his hand went to his cap. 'My General' he said, and stepped in front of the white horse."

The "Right of Way" might be called a character study. In Charley Steele, a clever, cynical lawyer, with an eternal interrogation on his lips, and doomed to drink, Mr. Parker has created one of his most interesting characters. The story opens with a scene in a courtroom, where Charley is the lawyer for the defence of a criminal. By the aid of whiskey, which had the curious effect of opening up his intellectual life, he was able to get the man acquitted. A further issue of the trial was the decision of Kathleen Wantage to marry Charley, although all the love she was capable of was given to Major Fairing. One night some years later, when he went to the Cote Dorien Tavern, attracted there by the innkeeper's daughter, Susan Charlemange, the rivermen provoked a quarrel, fell upon him, killed him, supposedly, and threw his body into the river. He was rescued by the man for whom five years before he had won the acquittal at the trial. For seven months, at the cabin of Jo Portugais, he lived the life of a child without a past. Memory of Kathleen, of Susan, of that wild night at the Cote Dorien, was gone. Then, through the care of a surgeon, he was restored to the world, only to learn at the moment of waking that his wife had married Fairing, believing him to be dead. Charley then assumed the name of Mallard, with the dress of a habitant, and entered the employ of the tailor in the French village. Here he became passionately in love with Rosalie Evanturel, the daughter of the village postmaster, whom he could not marry because Kathleen had "the right of way." The ending of the story is artistically perfect, and, although at first it seems incomplete, yet one would not have it different. His sudden death, with his eternal question still unanswered—it is a noble incompleteness.—Merle in The Globe.

Hygiene in the Home.

Household hygiene is by no means limited to sanitary dwellings and suitable diet and dress. It extends to the atmosphere of the home and includes the influence of thoughts and emotions upon the body. It is a physiological fact that gloom or constant fault finding in the family besides depressing the spirits actually reacts upon the vital forces. Morbid tendencies are strengthened and incipient diseases are developed in the homes which lack the healthful stimulus of cheer and kindness.

FOR THE MOTORISTS.

Sketch of the Man Who Recommends Shotguns for Them.

Sir Ralph Payne-Gallwey, Bart., who has been recommending recourse to shot-guns against offending motorists, says The London Star, knows what he is talking about, for he is the author of those two volumes of "Letters to Young Shooters," which give more practical information on this subject than any like work. He is himself a first-rate sportsman and a good shot, who could be relied upon to bring down a scorcher flying. He has been declared the best living authority on wild-fowl shooting, and, though he is a little prejudiced against shooting over dogs, it is clear he has no objection to knocking over a motor-maniac. He is the grandson of that General Sir William Payne-Gallwey who commanded the heavy cavalry at Talavera, and the son of Sir William, who represented Thirsk for a period of more than thirty years. His mother's father was Sir Robert Frankland-Russell, M.P., the seventh Baronet of Thirkleby, whose predecessors occupied their Yorkshire lands for three centuries, and intermarried with the family of Cromwell. He himself was born in 1848, and went from Eton into the Rifle Brigade. He had an uncle who shot eighteen elephants in one day. What a bag he would have made among the big motor cars down the Brighton road on a fine Sunday!

Clever Men Are Ugly.

It is a curious subject for reflection that in any collection of clever men the majority are ugly, writes Mr. Henry Furniss in The Windsor Magazine, and supplies a little pen picture gallery of ten portraits to prove the point. "Nature," he says, "gave Edward George Earle Lytton Bulwer Lytton a face as long as the name he bore a name that might serve in point of length for a Spanish hidalgo." His was certainly not the head of a precocious, brilliant, skilful, successful, aristocratic man of genius. Ireland has produced, for its size, a remarkable number of great men—soldiers, lawyers, scientists, clerics and orators—a number of handsome men, and a remarkable number of ugly ones. Baron Dowse was, perhaps, the ugliest. The day his caricature by Pellegrini appeared in Vanity Fair he ran out of the House of Commons, and left London the same night—to remain away until it was forgotten. But it never can be forgotten, for it was true to the life. Another Irishman, the Most Rev. Dr. William Connor Magee, Bishop of Peterboro', afterwards Archbishop o York, known as the Chrysostom of the House of Lords, was one of the most eloquent preachers of the Victorian era, and a fine debater, and one of the most effective platform speakers of his day. Like the majority of eloquent men, he was ugly. His heavy eyebrows, small eyes, short nose, long upper lip, large mouth, massive jowl, and shaggy side whiskers, when represented in repose, produce the portrait of a gargoylish head.

Der German Cobbler

Mr. Voglestein Calls and Relates His Adventures.

I VHAS putting some cement patch on a shoe vhen Mr. Voglestein vhalks in und lifts oop der growler to see if it vhas empty. He finds no peer und he vhas mad for fife minutes. Den he says:

"Hans, did you hear how I safed twenty dollar a few days ago?"

"No."

"Vhell, it shows you how smart I vhas. I vhas going along Second street vhen a man runs after me mit a pocketbook in his hand und says:

"'Oxcuse me, but haf you lost your money? I vhas a poor man, but I vhas honest, und so I run after you to give it back.'

"I neffer carry a pocketbook in all my life, but if somepody finds one und runs after me vhat shall I do? It vhas my peesness to take it, of course. It vhas a fat pocketbook, und I slip it in my pocket und reward dot man mit a fife dollar bill. It don't take me ten minutes to be a mile avhay und hide behind a coal office to count der money. How mooch you belief vhas in dot pocketbook?"

"One t'ousand dollar."

"Humph! Not a cent. It vhas stuffed out mit old paper. It vhas all a trick, you see."

"Und you lost fife dollar?"

"No, sir. I safed twenty. I safed it pecause if dot man had asked for twenty-fife dollars' reward I should haf given it to him right off. Dot's vhat ails you, Hans. You vashn't smart und you don't know how to safe. I don't wonder you vhas only a cobbler after ten years."

Mr. Voglestein puts herself on der back und smiles und laughs, und vhen he lights his pipe he says:

"Maype you don't hear about me und dot undertaker? It vhas sooch a smart tricks dot all my friends would like me to be alderman of my ward. Dot undertaker vhas Schmidt, und I call into his place und ask how peesness vhas. He says she vhas poor und dot he vhill make me a bargain. If I buy a feefty dollar casket now I shall haf it for feefteen dollars. If it vhas you, Hans, you don't buy, but I vhas a man mit a tricks oop my sleeve. I pay him der cash und take a receipt, und next day my friend Hoopenlaker goes down to Schmidt und says:

"'It vhas verry sudden, vhasn't it?'

"'How?'

"'Vhy, der vhay Voglestein pegged out last night. Didn't you hear about it?'

"'N-o. Good gracious, how she vhas?'

"'He drops dead of heart failure after supper, und of course his wife vhill want der coffin. It vhas a good bargain you made. How mooch you gif to get out of her?'

"Dot Schmidt says he vhill gif $10, und by und by Hoopenlaker hands him oafer dot receipt und takes der money, und we make fife dollar apiece. Next day vhen I goes down to see Schmidt he swears for half an hour, but vhen he gets through he says I vhas der smartest man in town. You see, Hans, shoe pegs vhas nottings. It vhas brains dot count. Maype you haf some brains to send out for a quart of boer?"

I don't haf, und after waiting a long time Mr. Voglestein sighs und says:

"I shall wait until I get home und den drink a barrel. Hans, if you vhas me der odder day you lose forty-nine dollar in two minutes."

"How can I do it?" I says.

"Shust like grease. I vhas over on Green street vhen I see a man mit a bike. He can't ride at all. He falls off more ash ten times. Py und py I ask him vhy he don't ride a cow, und he says:

"'Look here, old mans, maype you think I can't ride?'

"'I know yon can't.'

"'Maype you like to bet me I can't go oop dot ladder to der roof?'

"'Of course I do.'

"'Vhell I bet you a dollar I go up.'

"We put oop der money und he leaves dot bike on der ground und goes oop like a cat. It vhas some tricks on me, but I don't kick."

"But you vhas a dollar out."

"Cobbler, don't you see dot your head vhas full of sawdust? I shall bet feefty dot man can't go oop dot ladder, but he lets me off mit one. Don't I safe forty-nine?"

Mr. Voglestein beliefs I vhas some fools, und he don't speak to me again for some time. Den he grins und chuckles und says:

"Maype you don't hear about me und dot policemans on Third place? One day last winter vhen I falls down on der ice he says I vhas drunk und takes me to der station house und makes me pay two dollar. He tells der shudge dot if I vhas sober I fall oop instead of down. I like to get eafen mit him for dot, und so vhen I sees him py a fire alarm box der odder day I comes running oop und calls out:

"'Queeck! Queeck! How you open dis box?'

"'Vhas it some fire?' he says.

"'Hurry oop! Don't wait!'

"He opens der box und rings an alarm, und fife engines come out. Eaferypody looks for a fire, but dere vhas none.

"'How vhas it?' says der policemans to me.

"'I like to see if it vhas a letter box,' I says to him.

"He gifs me der collar und runs me to der station house, but der captain says:

"'You vhas a fool, officer. Release dot man. He don't tell you dere vhas a fire, und he don't open der box. It vhas no crime to be curious.'

"So you see I got eafen mit der cop und vhas all right. Last night he finds me py a lamppost und he calls out:

"'Ah, you vhas tight again, eh? Vhell, you must come along mit me.'

"But my friend Kleinfeldt comes out of his grocery und says:

"'Officer, you look a leetle out. It vhas two vhays. Maype Voglestein vhas holding oop der lamppost und maype der lamppost vhas holding opp Voglestein.'

"Und dot officer whistles py himself und goes on und lets me alone."

Starting and Staying.

At the start in a long race, the advantage often appears to be with an outsider. But the race is won not in starting but in staying. The quality which wins is staying power. It is so in the race of life. Staying power wins, and as a rule the best stayer is the man with the best stomach. All physical strength is derived from food which is properly digested and assimilated. When the food eaten is only partly digested and assimilated there is a loss of nutrition which means a loss of strength and the general result is physical break-down.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gives strength and staying power, because it cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food eaten, and so strengthens the body naturally by the nutrition derived from food.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliaetta, Latah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to you and you told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought that it would kill me. Now I am glad to write this and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Accept no substitute for Golden Medical Discovery. There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are easy and pleasant to take. A most effective laxative.

"Our colleges turn out some pretty good men nowadays," remarked the elderly gentleman.

Machinery on the Farm.

An investment that returns 10 per cent. of the amount put in will satisfy most financiers, but the farmer sometimes hesitates about the purchase of machinery that will make a return of 25 per cent of its cost. Machinery that is not needed is expensive at any price, but very few farmers buy more than can be used to advantage.

ENGLAND, MY ENGLAND.

What have I done for you,
England, my England?
What is there I would not do,
England, my own?
With your glorious eyes austere,
As the Lord were walking near,
Whispering terrible things and dear,
As the song on your bugles blown,
England—
Round the world on your bugles blown!

Where shall the watchful Sun,
England, my England,
Match the master-work you've done,
England, my own?
When shall he rejoice agen
Such a breed of mighty men
As come forward, one to ten,
To the song on your bugles blown,
England—
Down the years on your bugles blown?

Mother of ships whose might,
England, my England,
Is the fierce old Sea's delight,
England, my own,
Chosen daughter of the Lord,
Spouse-in-chief of the ancient Sword;
There's the menace of the Word
In the Song on your bugles blown,
England—
Out of heaven on your bugles blown!

— W. E. Henley.

Sketch of W. E. Henley.

W. E. Henley, who has just died, at the age of 54, was recognized for many years as a foremost journalist, poet, dramatist and essayist, a leader in the literary life of London. He was editor of The Scots Observer, The National Observer and of The New Review. He was a protege of Robert Louis Stevenson. He began life as a laborer, unconscious of latent intellectual power, unversed in the primary elements of education, and a man of dissipated habits. He met with a terrible accident, both lower limbs being crushed beneath a boulder. While in a hospital for treatment he met Robert Louis Stevenson, also a patient in the institution. Then commenced the mental existence, which has led him through the stages of newspaper correspondent, art editor and magazine contributor, to the rank of poet. His limbs remained paralyzed, and he did all of his work in an invalid chair, out of this towered his massive blonde head, set on a magnificent pair of shoulders. He was noted as a brilliant conversationalist, and was the centre of a coterie of the cleverest literary men in England. Much of his verse was characterized by that dominating, conquering spirit now called Imperialism, as the above selection shows.

COUGHED FOR YEARS.

"For four years I had a severe cough. I was so weak and exhausted from coughing that I was unable to attend to my business. Two bottles of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion cured my cough and benefitted me in every way."—A. Milligan, Toronto, Canada. 3a

All That Was Left.

The scene was the garden of a suburban villa, and little blue eyed, sunny haired Dora was joyfully playing with her latest possession, a red toy balloon.

High in the air she threw it, shrieking with delight, and Charlie, the puppy, did his little best to shriek with delight also.

Up it went and down it came, and at last, after long waiting for an opportunity, Charlie pounced upon it—one bite, a little bang and Dora's balloon was no more.

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co.:—

New York, August 7th 9.45 a. m. — By not a few is claimed the decided turn in market was due entirely to technical conditions and not to reports of bankers conference, etc. Other stories were hat alleged warring interests have come to be settled and buried hatchet and whatever had been hanging over the market had been removed. Street had generally believed that some formidable barrier was in the way. Last night we got information from men in position to know that in reality such a barrier had been removed during the day. Further temporary improvement is at least looked for with credit so badly startine and confidence shaken and heavy losses from extreme depression in prices, it will take a little time to bring out confidence in the market. We do not expect any further trouble.

M. & M.

New York, August 7th, 11.40 a. m.— From action of market this morning it is quite plain that better feeling prevails. Things have not become sufficiently settled to warrant buying to any extent on idea that there is some good buying in spots, but at same time there is evidence of further liquidation. We are afraid rally will not hold, and therefore, after shorts have pretty well covered the market will begin to slump again. Confidence has not been sufficiently restored because there is no sign that the liquidation movement has yet been completed and the large market interests are ready to turn and bull the market.

M. & M.

Messrs. McMillan & Maguire, stock brokers, Hunter street, have received the following:—

The violent fluctuations which have ruled the market recently offers fine chance for trade. When stocks are demoralized they are a purchase for long or short action, and for some time to come, we think are a sale on all rallies. The bulge yesterday was of the same which has come to the market through strength support every time it has seemed to be on the brink of going to pieces. The stocks bought yesterday will be for sale as soon as the market will take them. We advise the sale of stocks on all rallies.

BEAUTY SPOTS.

Don't let the hands hang down or the blood will fill and stretch the veins.

Don't wear gloves every night or the hands will become yellow. Occasional use of gloves, however, is advisable.

Bathe the eyes several times a day in cold water. This will make them bright and also help to preserve the sight.

Don't use lemon juice too often on the hands. Try white vinegar instead. Lemon juice shrivels and yellows the surface.

Half olive oil and half glycerin is good to massage arms and throat. Once a week bathe with rosewater containing a few drops of benzoin.

To darken the eyebrows a harmless stain is made of one-half dram of gum arabic, four ounces rosewater and enough india ink—perhaps half a dram—to color the mixture.

With a high forehead and a large face wear the hair parted with "love locks" over the temples; or, if you don't care for a part, brush it straight back, bringing a few wavy locks about the brow.

For an oily complexion bathe the face twice a week in warm water containing powdered borax, one teaspoonful of borax to one quart of water. Rinse with clear water. Daily use of borax would make the skin too dry.

LOSS OVER $20,000.

Figures of Devastation in Plympton and Warwick.

CYCLONE TRAVELED FAST.

Hundreds of Acres of Oats Pounded Into the Ground—Corn, Clover and Fruit Also Suffered Severely—List of Principal Sufferers and Their Losses—Falls Heaviest Upon James Hubbard.

Forest, Aug. 8.—The damage done by Thursday's cyclone in this locality is much greater than at first estimated, the total loss being over $20,000, about $12,000 in Plympton and $8,000 in Warwick.

The storm came off Lake Huron in the shape of a funnel-shaped cloud and traveled at tremendous speed. It struck near the shore in Plympton and crossed the northeastern corner of that township, then across the north end of Warwick, devastating a stretch of prosperous farm lands, a mile wide and ten miles long, its whole course being marked with damage to buildings, crops, fences and trees. The greater part of the damage was done by the terrific hail which accompanied the wind and battered the crops into the ground. Fortunately the wheat and barley crops are harvested, but oats, corn, clover, seed and fruit all suffered severely. Hundreds of acres of oats just ready for cutting were totally destroyed by wind and hail, the straw being actually pounded into the ground. Corn and seed clover fared almost as badly, thousands of bushels of apples, plums and pears were stripped from the trees, and in many places the trees were uprooted.

Some twenty barns were unroofed, score of wind-mills broken down and hundreds of panes of glass shattered.

The heaviest individual sufferer is James Hubbard, an extensive farmer in Plympton, whose loss is $2,000. The roof was blown off his house, nearly all the windows were smashed, of his three barns one was totally unroofed and the others partly so; all his oats, corn and fruit were utterly ruined and most of his poultry killed by the hail. Horses attached to reapers and wagons, maddened by the hailstones, ran away, and cattle were driven wild.

A quantity of fish, including several sturgeon, were carried some distance inland by the water-spout off the lake.

The principal losses sustained in Plympton are: Jas. Hubbard, $2,000; George Beattie, $900; John Stonehouse, $800; Jas. Clark, $700; Wm. Hilts, $700; Eli Carns, $600; Amos Bannister, $600; Thomas Gammon, $600; Leslie Hilts, $500; John Hubbard, $500; Earl Bannister, $300; W. S. Adler, $300; Henry Hare, $300; John Love, $300; W. Anderson, $200; Mrs. P. Hubbard, $200; James Bannister, $200; John Perkins, $200; James Irwin, $150; David Dunham, $150; John Doyles, $400, and many others for smaller amounts.

In Warwick the losses are both heavy and numerous, among which are: Frank Jenkins, $1,000; Albert Melton, $600; Wallace Melton, $500; Aaron Smith, W. Grout, Wm. Burnham, Mrs. Tomlin, Alex. Campbell, Mrs. Brooks, George Daly, Ed. White, James King, Ambrose Logan, Wm. Knapp, Amaso Weaver, George Harwood, John Kernoham, David Kernoham, Sam Farrell, Robert Campbell and others, each from $100 to $600, making the total in both townships about $20,000.

Had the storm been half a mile farther north it would have swept the town of Forest with disastrous results. As it was, the fact that no lives were lost is remarkable.

WRIT FOR THE GRAND TRUNK.

Ontario Cattlemen Carry Their Complaint to Osgoode Hall.

Toronto, Aug. 8.—Eleven cattle dealers of the province have combined to fight the Grand Trunk Railway, as a result of the company's alleged discrimination against the stock yards at Toronto Junction in favor of the western cattle market. Thomas Mason and George Paulin of Clinton, William Finlayson and Henry Harris of Lucknow, Edward Watson of Dobbington, Thomas E. Durnin of Blythe, Smith McLean of Kincardine, Urban Schmidt of Ripley, John Wolf of Walkerton, Albert Walker of Chesley and John Martin of Whitchurch, all well-known cattlemen of western Ontario, instructed W. E. Raney yesterday to issue a writ asking $20,000 damages for the "wrongful, wilful and malicious detention of cattle delivered by the plaintiffs to the defendants as common carriers for transportation."

THE POPE'S CORONATION.

Venetians Rushing to Rome by Thousands—Selection of Papal Secretary of State Is Becoming Complicated.

Rome, Aug. 8.—St. Peter's is closed while the preparations for the coronation to-morrow are proceeding. Pope Pius has expressed a desire to have as many humble members of the faith as possible admitted, and fifty thousand tickets will be distributed by the parish priests, Catholic clubs and associations, seminaries, ecclesiastical colleges, monasteries and convents. The remainder of the seats will be reserved for distinguished guests. Only two tribunes have been erected, one for the diplomatic body and one for the Roman aristocracy. The body of the church will be divided into compartments, with separate entrances.

From the Venetian provinces they are already leaving by thousands to attend the coronation of "Their Pope." The papal master of ceremonies has issued the invitations to the archbishops and bishops who will participate in the procession from the Vatican into St. Peter's. They are requested to be at the Vatican at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The selection of a new Papal Secretary of State is daily becoming more complicated, as there is a division in the Sacred College such as existed before the election of Pius X.

Pius X. offered the position to Cardinal Agliardi, who declined to give up the Vice-Chancellorship of the church. Cardinal Sutolli also declined on the ground that he was not sufficiently acquainted with the French language, and that he knew too little of foreign questions generally, except those relating to America. He suggested Cardinal Vinconzo Vannutelli. Negotiations are proceeding to have Cardinal Agliardi, while retaining the Vice-Chancellorship, assume the Secretaryship of State temporarily.

Dr. Lapponi stated yesterday that Cardinal Herrero y Espinosa is out of danger.

Cardinal Gibbons was received by the Pope yesterday in a private audience. In closing the audiences, the Pontiff charged Cardinal Gibbons to carry the apostolic benediction to all the faithful of America.

CABLES FOR CANADA

Press Service Grant Approved in the House of Commons.

THE RESOLUTION IS PASSED

Grant of $15,000 a Year For First Three Years, $10,000 For Fourth Year and $5,000 For the Last Year—To Assist in Resisting Yankee Tringe in Cable News—The King's Medal.

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—The House of Commons yesterday adopted a resolution to aid a purely Canadian cable news service for the purpose of securing the transmission of news from Great Britain free from the suspicion of color which it is apt to receive in passing through American channels. Several Government measures were advanced a stage, and a large amount of supply was voted. Mr. E. F. Clarke brought up the claims of members of the Canadian contingent to South Africa to the King's medal, and Sir Frederick Borden at a later stage of the sitting made a statement showing that the regulations which apply to Canadians are identical with those which govern the distribution of the coveted distinction to the Imperial and all colonial troops, and further, that repeated efforts and representations had been made by his department to the War Office, but without success.

Canadian Press Cable Service.

There was not a murmur of objection to the resolution moved by Mr. Fielding authorizing government assistance in the establishing and maintenance of an independent and efficient service of telegraphic news from Great Britain for publication in the Canadian press. The aid amounts to $15,000 a year for the first three years, $10,000 for the fourth year and $5,000 for the fifth year. After the fifth year Mr. Fielding said he hoped that the newspapers would be able to carry on the service without assistance. The newspapers must raise and spend an amount equal to the aid supplied by the Government.

Mr. Fielding spoke of the existing cable service from Great Britain to Canada as eminently unsatisfactory. The news came through American channels and was often colored to suit American sentiment. Some years ago Mr. Fielding said he had asked his colleagues to offer encouragement for such a service such as is now proposed, but only recently had this offer been taken advantage of by the Canadian press.

The service will be open to every newspaper in Canada which choses to pay its share of the cost of the service.

Mr. Borden supported the resolution. He, too, complained of the coloring of news cabled from Britain to Canada. If this Government grant ensured fair reports of public events in Britain and if Britain was supplied with better means of learning of events in Canada it would be money well spent. Mr. Borden said he had noticed while in England the scarcity of Canadian news in British newspapers.

Mr. Fielding explained that a service from Canada to Britain is not contemplated just now. The proposed service may, however, grow into a more complete interchange of news between Canada and Britain.

Wireless Telegraphy.

A discussion as to the cable tolls that would be charged brought up the Marconi system. Mr. Fielding said that he had no information as to the recent movements of the Marconi company. The company had encountered some difficulties, but he has assurances from officials that they would soon be able to carry out all they have undertaken.

Mr. Borden asked about the De Forest Company. Mr. Fielding replied that the De Forest Company had made great progress, but it had not yet attempted ocean message.

Mr. Borden suggested that no money should be spent by the Government before the possibilities of the wireless company were distinctly understood. To this Mr. Fielding replied that while the Marconi system was not yet a commercial success, he did not regret the expenditure the Government had made to aid it. Canada had gained considerable kudos as a result of its contributions, the Dominion being the first Government to offer the inventor a friendly hand. The resolutions passed.

Jurisdiction of Exchequer Court.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved the second reading of the bill respecting the jurisdiction of the Exchequer Court as to railway debts. Mr. Deniers, who had charge of the bill until it was made a Government order, explained the provisions of the bill. Railways under the jurisdiction of Parliament which become insolvent or cease to be operated for ten days may be placed in the hands of a receiver at the instance of the Minister of Railways or any creditor of the railway. The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Fitzpatrick moved the second reading of the bill respecting penitentiaries. The bill makes several changes in the internal management of penitentiaries.

The King's Medal.

Mr. Clarke then read a petition from the Canadians who had served twice in South Africa, addressed to the Governor-General, setting forth the circumstances under which they were shut out by the regulations governing the grant of the King's medal for service in South Africa, and asking that the regulations be altered to meet their case. He asked if this petition had been received by the Government and forwarded to the Imperial authorities and if any request had been sent by His Excellency that the regulations might be altered.

Mr. Fielding regretted the absence o the Minister of Militia and his own inability to give any information on the subject. He promised, however, that the matter would be communicated to Sir Frederick Borden.

The Medal Conditions.

The Minister of Militia made a further statement to the fact that representations had been made to the War Office to secure recognition of the services of Canadians who had sailed for South Africa, but arrived after peace was declared. The War Office had held that the time occupied in the voyage to South Africa would not be counted in considering claims for medals. An appeal was then made to the commander-in-chief with the same result. The commander-in-chief ruled that the Canadians could not receive more favorable consideration than other volunteers, and that the time occupied in the voyage could not be counted.

A GUNNING ACCIDENT.

School Principal Sutherland Somehow Shot His Feet—Leg Amputated.

St Stephen, N. B., Aug. 8.—A very serious shooting accident, by which J. Brook Sutherland, principal of Milltown High School, will be crippled for life, occurred yesterday morning at Oak Bay. He was at his summer camp on the shore of the bay and had got up early and gone out alone, taking a gun with him.

How the accident happened is not known. Dr. W. H. Laughlin of Milltown, who was camping near heard his cries for help, and found him lying with one foot shot off and the other badly injured.

Mr. Sutherland was brought to the Chipman Memorial Hospital, where the left leg was amputated. He has not recovered from the shock, and his life last night was hovering in the balance.

JAIL DELIVERY.

Hit Keeper With Bar of Iron, But Was Overpowered.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 8.—Fred Goodspeed, the accomplice of Frank Higgins, the condemned murderer of Willie Doherty, who was shot in Rockwood Park in this city a year ago, made another attempt to escape from the reformatory, near this city, Thursday night, while his guard was handing him a glass of water. Goodspeed struck him with a long bar, stunning the official and inflicting a deep gash. The attempt was futile, however, as help soon arrived and the lad was overpowered. Friends were waiting outside to help the boy Thinks War May Result.

Vienna, Aug. 8.—One of the gravest features of the situation as seen here is the danger that it may lead to war between Turkey and Bulgaria. The feeling is strong in Bulgaria that it is feared that Prince Ferdinand might be faced with the alternative of declaring war or abdicating.

Not Very Serious.

London, Aug. 8.—Confidential official reports received at the Foreign Office regarding Macedonia, have caused the British Government to adopt the view that the situation is not very serious for the moment, although sufficiently so to warrant the taking of precautions. The Porte is looked to to re-establish order in its own territory, and the British officials do not believe that Turkey contemplates an attack on Bulgaria in view of the known attitude of the powers, especially Russia and Austria.

According to a despatch from Vienna Thursday night, the Macedonian Central Revolutionary Committee had fixed Aug. 31 as the date for a general rising, and had appointed Boris Sarafoff, commander of the revolutionary forces.

French and Moors Clash.

Madrid, Aug. 8.—A fight has taken place between French and Moorish troops near the village of Beni-Fatt. The Moors, who were pursuing a body of Kabyle insurgents, entered French territory in spite of the protests of the French frontier post, and a conflict ensued. Three French and two Moorish soldiers were killed and a number were wounded.

CHARGED WITH ARSON.

Aunt and Three Nephews Arrested—The Boys Confess.

Cornwall, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Sydney Gallinger, of Newington, and her three nephews, Thos., Cory and Percy St. Pierre, from near Aultsville, were incarcerated in Cornwall jail last night, to await trial for an attempt to burn the residence of Mrs. Alguire, a neighbor of Mrs. Gallinger. The boys broke into Mrs. Alguire's house, smashed the furniture, and set fire to the place. This, they claim, they did at the instigation of their aunt, Mrs. Gallinger. The fire was extinguished before much damage was done. The boys were arrested, and confessed their crime, implicating Mrs. Gallinger. By Magistrates James Martin and George F. Jardine, the quartette were sent to Cornwall to await trial.

Confessed to a Plot.

Elmira, Aug. 8.—Charles Brooks, the convict from New York who on Wednesday shot and badly wounded James H. Gunderman, a head keeper at the reformatory, has confessed that his attack on the keeper was part of a plot to murder all the chief officials of the prison.

Mrs. Emmons, saved from an operation for Ovaritis, tells how she was cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I am so pleased with the results I obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it a duty and a privilege to write you about it.

"I suffered for over five years with ovarian troubles, causing an unpleasant discharge, a great weakness, and at times a faintness would come over me which no amount of medicine, diet, or exercise seemed to correct. Your Vegetable Compound found the weak spot, however, within a few weeks—and saved me from an operation—all my troubles had disappeared, and I found myself once more healthy and well. Words fail to describe the real, true grateful feeling that is in my heart, and I want to tell every sick and suffering sister. Don't dally with medicines you know nothing about, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and take my word for it, you will be a different woman in a short time."—MRS. LAURA EMMONS, Walkerville, Ont.

OUR GROWING WEST.

Facts and Figures Which Tell of the Rise and Progress of the Western Country.

At Portage La Prairie farmers are anxious to engage men now and keep them on until the harvest is finished, a term of three months. The demand for men is greater than the supply, and in consequence the men are holding out for $45 per month.

Nearly 7,000 immigrants reached the Canadian west during July. This is a considerable dropping off from the 19,000 arrivals in June, but July always shows a decided decrease in immigration. Compared with 1902 the figures show an increase of nearly 2,000.

There is said to little wheat in store through the country. At country points there is at present in store 700,000 bushels, and in the elevators at Fort William awaiting shipments 631,896 bushels of wheat, 207,699 of oats and 18,541 of barley.

More than 90,000 sheep have been sheared in the Sterling, Alberta, district this season and over 600,000 pounds of wool have been obtained.

Regina ratepayers will vote next Monday on a by-law to raise $200,000 to instal a waterworks and electric lighting system.

The latest point of interest in the growth of the Northest country is the Craik and Girvan district. Craik has forty houses since the spring. There are large lumber yards, four general stores, hotels, blacksmith shops and a quartette of implement firms doing satisfactory business.

The customs returns for Winnipeg for July show an increase of $87,489.3. The figures for July, 1903, are $266,347; those for July, 1902, were $178,858.67. This increase alone would have been considered a large month's business three years ago.

The Edmonton Bulletin says farmers in the Edmonton district are hopeful of harvesting the largest crop in the history of the district. The percentage of increase under crop for this year over last year in oats is 15.65 per cent. in wheat, 15.85 per cent.; and in barley, 54.20 per cent. These figures show that there is over fifteen per cent. more land under crop this year than last.

A NATIONALIZING INFLUENCE.

(Witness.)

A remarkable instance of the effects of environment on the habits and customs of foreign immigrants may be seen in the scattering of the Mennonites over Manitoba and the Territories. These people came to this country in the early years of Confederation and settled on land in Manitoba, granted them by the government. Following their hereditary Russian custom, they formed mirs, or village communities, and cultivated farms in common, sharing the products among them. But the generation that has grown up since the first settlers were settled, found the communistic system too cramping for their energies. Unlike their forefathers in Russia, the young men were not confined by restrictive laws to a circumscribed area. They could spread out over fertile virgin land that they could have for the asking. At first they sought employment among other settlers as farm hands. They became accustomed to the ways of the country, tasted the freedom of individual exertion, drifted further away from the communal home, took up farms for themselves separately, and rapidly became like other people in their methods of living and working. It has been urged, and with reason, that the settlement of foreigners in colonies by themselves would perpetuate distinctive and separate nationalities, retard and possibly long prevent assimilation desired to cement the population into a homogeneous whole. No doubt such have been the effects in some parts of the Western States, where several distinctive nationalities have struggled to maintain their languages and customs. But the allurements of the wide fields of endeavour and enterprise, the very air of the country, and the success of those among them who adopted American ways and struck out for themselves, offered irresistable attractions and the process of assimilation went on increasing as the children became old enough to seek their own fortunes. The same influences are operating in our western territories and, though languages and customs may long survive in the original settlements, the language and the business habits of the continent must prevail in the long run. The Doukhobors are hardly more peculiar and wedded to their own ideas than were these first Mennonite immigrants, and it may be reasonably expected that they will yield in time to the forces of assimilation. Environment is everything in America. To resist it is to fight against nature, for the generations as they rise become more and more Americanized.

SPRINGVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On Sunday last the Springville congregation congratulated Rev. Mr. Yule and welcomed Mrs. Yule to her new sphere, who in company with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hewson, of Dundee, Scotland, arrived at the manse on Saturday evening. Rev. Mr. Hewson preached on Sunday morning and evening. He selected for his text at the morning service, the 22nd and 23rd verses of the 5th chapter of Ephesians. The nine virtues mentioned in the text were considered separately and declared by the reverend gentleman as essential to the Christian life. The practicing of them by the justified believer was considered necessary to the development of the sanctified Christian, when the display of them is but the natural result of the life within, and should be a distinguishing characteristic of the true Christian. An earnest appeal for all to be so known concluded the morning service. At the evening service the text was the 59th verse of the 2nd chapter of Ezra After reviewing the history of the Jews as chronicled by the inspired writer of the book under consideration, showing the necessity of a knowledge of their kinship for appointment to offices in the sanctuary, he made a most practical application of the analogy to the Christian, showing the absolute necessity of a knowledge of their acceptance by the King of Kings, which entitles them to sonship, making them heirs to an inheritance which is incorruptible, undefiled and fadeth not away. Lacking this knowledge we are aliens. All were intreated to make allegiance to the King of Kings, and fight the good fight of faith. Both sermons were characterized by earnestness, and were most practical expositions of Gospel truth eloquently delivered. Rev. Mr. Hewson will preach again next Sunday at 10.30 a.m., and 7.30 p.m.

It Would Look Cosy.

The minister of a little Scotch village was at the bedside of a Scotchman named Donald, preparing him by pious exhortations for the great journey. "Have you anything on your mind, Donald?" he asked; "is there any question you would like to ask me?" And the minister bent down to listen to the dying man's reply. "Na, meenister, I'm na afeard . . . I wad like to ken tho' whether there'll be whiskey in heaven?" Upon his spiritual counsellor remonstrating with him upon such a thought at such a moment, he hastened to add, with a knowing look: "Oh! it's no that I mind, meenister, I only thought I'd like to see it on the table!"

Counsel for English Prisoners.

It is a curious fact that the laws of England make no provision for the defence of persons charged with criminal offences when they have not the means to employ their own lawyers. In very serious cases the bench usually takes it upon itself to provide counsel, but thousands of persons are prosecuted each year without any legal advice. A bill has lately been introduced into the House of Commons which seeks to remedy in part this state of affairs, but it does not go to the extent of having the state pay for the services of the counsel, as is the case in this country. It merely provides for voluntary service on the part of the lawyers.

Canal From Clyde to Forth—Engineering Undertaking That Will Involve Great Expense and Bring Great Returns.

Scotland is perturbed by the idea that it is about to be cut in two by a canal from the Forth to the Clyde. Since the visit of Lord Selborne to the proposed Admiralty base at St. Margarets' Hope a couple of months ago, it has been well enough known that the Government officials have been keenly interested in the question of a ship canal westwards, and it may prove that, with definite plans and estimates before them, they will be ready with the guarantee of interest on capital without which none of the schemes could possibly proceed. Acting in conjunction with the London promoters is a committee in Edinburgh, who seem sanguine enough that such guarantee will be forthcoming. Meanwhile, all that can be profitably said is that Messrs. Stevenson are now acting upon instructions to prepare the necessary plans for the construction of a canal big enough for the passage of the largest ship of the British navy.

An estimate of the cost of construction of the Stevenson canal is £10,000,000. It is said that the promoters have the guarantee of this figure, and that the £400,000 deposit required for lodging the plans before Parliament is also secure. The canal will be designed with a view to commercial trade as well as to meet the exigencies of the navy, and it will have a depth of some 30 feet. A great feature of the Stevenson scheme is that it will ensure an inexhaustible supply of water from Loch Lomond, while the gradual and comparatively slight rise to the loch, which is only 22 feet above sea level, will obviate the construction of a number of locks.

The suggested route lies along the Forth Valley. There is a tract of country from Alloa westward to within ten miles of Loch Lomond where the surface of the ground is only from 30 to 50 feet above the main sea level, and the strata is an alluvial deposit. Betwixt that and Loch Lomond the ground rises rapidly and attains a maximum height of 210 feet above mean sea level, and dips again to the south end of Loch Lomond, the surface of which is only 22 feet above mean sea level. The distance across that higher ground is about seven miles, 1¾ miles of it being above the 200 feet line. Loch Lomond, which has ample depth for vessels of the largest draught, could be utilized as the canal towards the north end of the loch to Tarbet, and thence across to Loch Long there is only a distance of 1¾ miles, the ground attaining a maximum height of 130 feet above the mean sea level. Loch Long is practically the Atlantic Ocean, and the navigation of it is safe and the water of ample depth. The surface of Loch Lomond which is only 22 feet above the mean level of the sea, is taken as the proposed summit level of the canal, and, having a water area of 21,000 acres and ample gathering ground, it would form an inexhaustible reservoir for supplying the locks with water.

Only two locks at either end, at Alloa and Loch Long, would be required, as the level of the canal is only 13 feet and 17 feet above high water level at these places respectively. Both approaches are in smooth water, and free from any danger to navigation. The western outlet into Loch Long is considered exceedingly favorable, as vessels of the largest class could at once proceed to sea quite free from the interruption and liability of grounding which they would meet had the canal debouched into the Clyde. The eastern entrance to the canal it is proposed to form about a mile above Alloa, where vessels will be raised to the canal level by suitable locks From Alloa the canal will pass to the north of the links of the Forth, and to the northward about half a mile off the town of Stirling, then along the valley of the Forth to Gartmore, and enter Loch Lomond near the mouth of the Endrick, a distance of 28 miles. Near the Loch Lomond end there will be a deep cutting. It is proposed to make the canal throughout with a depth of 30 feet, with a width at the bottom the same as the Suez Canal—namely, 72 feet, and side slopes varying with the nature of the material. The locks will be capable of passing the largest vessels afloat, or about 600 feet in length and 80 feet in width, with smaller locks alongside for smaller vessels.

One of the engineering features of the scheme will be the carrying of the canal through the high ground near the Loch Lomond end. At one time it was proposed to tunnel that ground to the extent of 2½ miles, the tunnel to be not less than 150 feet in height above the water line. But it is understood the idea of making a tunnel has dropped, and an open cutting has been substituted. The distances on the route from the Forth to the Clyde are as follows:—From Grangemouth to Alloa, 10½ miles; from Alloa to Loch Lomond 28 miles; up Loch Lomond to Tarbet, 14 miles; and across the neck of land from Tarbet to Loch Long, 1¾ miles. Loch Long is 15 miles in length to its junction with the Firth of Clyde. The total distance, therefore, from Grangemouth to the Firth of Clyde is 69¼ miles.

Apart from the question of strategy, an indication of the saving in distance that would be effected by the canal will be gained from the following list.—(1) From the Clyde to ports on the east coast of Scotland, northeast of England and northwest of Europe, the distance saved would be from 529 to 238 miles. (2) From the Forth to ports on the west coast of Scotland, northwest of England, Ireland, America and the Mediterranean, the distance saved would be from 487 to 141 miles; (3) Tyne ports to the St. Lawrence River, the distance saved would be 150 miles; (4) west of Britain and north-east of Ireland to middle western ports of the continent the distance saved would be from 377 to 98 miles.

To Harness Victoria Falls.

The southern section of the Cape to Cairo railroad has almost reached the Zambezi river in central Africa. It will cross that river just below the famous Victoria falls, and preliminary work will be begun on an enormous power plant like those at Niagara as soon as materials can be transported to this point by rail. It is thought that a head of at least 200 feet will be available, that each turbine and dynamo will gave a capacity of 5,000 horse power and that a conduit eight feet in diameter will be sufficient to drive each wheel.

When at the flood the volume of water in the Zambezi is twice that of the Niagara, and the fall of nearly 600 feet will give an estimated total force of 30,000,000 horse power, while that of Niagara is estimated at about 6,000,000.

The first use of the power drawn from the falls will probably be to work the coal mines at Wankie, from fifty to a hundred miles to the southeast. A little farther to the north are beds of copper of vast extent. There is talk, too, of trying to work the gold mines of Johannesburg with electricity from the Victoria falls.

A Summer Emulsion

There is a proper impression that Cod Liver Oil is only suitable for cold weather, and, so far as plain Cod Liver Oil and most emulsions are concerned, there is a good foundation for this idea. However, it does not apply to FERROL, which [although it is particularly rich in oil] may be taken as freely in the heat of summer as in the coldest weather.

This must be considered a fortunate circumstance, because on account of the enervating effects of the hot weather, a reconstructor is really more urgently needed in summer than at any other time.

Ferrol is the ideal summer emulsion. Sample free.

A DISTINGUISHED NEGRO.

Career of Sir Samuel Lewis, of Sierra Leone, Who Died in London on July 9 Last.

The career of Sir Samuel Lewis, Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, who died in London on July 9, furnishes an excellent argument for those who desire to refute the often-heard statement that when a negro becomes eminent it is because he has more or less white blood in his veins.

Sir Samuel was of pure African parentage and was born in Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa, in 1843. After passing through the local Grammar School he was sent by his father to England to complete his education. He arrived in London in 1866 and entered University College, where he gained prizes and certificates in the English language and zoology. He matriculated in the London University First Division in June, 1868, having in the previous year entered the Middle Temple to study for the bar. It may be mentioned that the London University examinations are the "stiffest" of any in the United Kingdom.

Sir Samuel won an exhibition for an essay on the law of real property in 1870, and, having passed the necessary examinations, was called to the bar at the Middle Temple in 1871. Returning to his native land in 1872, he began the practice of his profession, and earned the reputation of being an able and painstaking advocate. He served the local Government on several occasions in the capacity either of judge, magistrate, or Crown advocate, and offers of permanent employment in the legal branch of the Colonial Civil Service were made to him. But not even the high office of Chief Justice of the Gold Coast could tempt him to leave the lucrative practice which he had made for himself in Sierra Leone. In February, 1882, he was appointed an unofficial member of the Legislative Council, an office which he continued to fill up to the time he left the colony in May last. He was the first Mayor of Freetown. He was much revered by his countrymen and respected by the European element in West Africa, as his efforts and endeavors were for the welfare, not only of his native colony, but of the whole of the British West African colonies. In 1893 he was appointed a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and was created a Knight Bachelor in 1896.

Sir Samuel went to London to obtain surgical treatment for cancer.

BABY'S SECOND SUMMER.

Why is it a Dangerous time for the Little Ones.

Baby's second summer is considered a dangerous time in the life of every infant because of the disturbance to the digestive organs caused by cutting teeth during the hot weather. In slightly less degree every summer is a time of danger for babies, as is shown by the increased death rate among them during the heated term. Of great interest to every mother therefore is a comparatively recent discovery of which Mrs. David Lee of Lindsay, Ont., writes as follows:

"My little girl had a hard time getting her teeth. She was feverish her tongue was coated, her breath offensive, and she vomited curdled milk. On the advice of our doctor I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she began improving at once. She had not slept well at night for about three months and I was almost worn out caring for her. Nothing did her any good until I gave her the Tablets. Now her food digests properly, her breath is sweet, her tongue clean and she is quiet and good. I can strongly recommend the Tablets to other mothers as they cured my baby when nothing else would."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all dealers in medicine or will be sent postpaid at twenty-five cents a box by the Dr Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A New Zealand Geologist.

Sir James Hector, the distinguished Director of the Geological Survey of New Zealand, and Chancellor of the New Zealand University, who has just retired on a well-earned pension, was born seventy years ago in Edinburgh, the son of a "Writer to the Signet." He took the M.D. degree at Edinburgh University in 1850, and in the following year was selected by Sir Roderick Murchison to accompany the Palliser expedition to the Rocky Mountains as medical officer and geologist. In this capacity it was his good fortune to discover the pass by which the Canadian Pacific Railway crosses the Rockies. He was traveling at the time with such scant supplies that his party were reduced in the pass to divide among them a single grouse and some odds and ends of fat and candles. This, however, is not the reason why the pass is now known as the Great Divide. On his return home, after four years of hardship and adventure, he was recommended by Sir Roderick Murchison to the New Zealand authorities, who were seeking a geological expert. In 1868 he married a daughter of Sir D. Munro, M.D.

Penny-in-the-Slot Postage.

One of the latest applications of the penny-in-the-slot principle is reported from Australia. In the post-offices of the Commonwealth, if time or opportunity does not permit the prompt purchase of a stamp, the person in a hurry is able to drop his letter into one orifice of a machine and his penny into the other, and when this process is completed, "one penny paid" will be found impressed on the envelope as an equivalent to the orthodox stamp.

Durand, Mich., Aug. 8.—The death list, as a result of the collision early yesterday in the Grand Trunk yards between the two sections of Wallace Brothers' circus train stands last night at 23, eight of whom are in the morgue unidentified. Coroner Farrer yesterday afternoon empaneled a jury, which viewed the remains and adjourned until Aug. 14, when the inquest will be held. Following are the dead and injured:

Joseph F. Benton, New Milford, Con., internal injuries.

W. H. Roe, Armstrong, Ill., internal injuries.

Frank Tilley, Rising Sun, Ind., hip dislocated, very bad bruises and internal injuries.

Engineer Is Blamed.

In discussing the question of responsibility for the horror, the railroad officials unhesitatingly lay it to Engineer Probst of the second section of the train, whose home is in Battle Creek. Probst says that the air brake on his train refused to work, but the officials declare that he could have stopped the train in time to have avoided serious consequences. General Manager F. H. McGuigan said yesterday afternoon:

"Probst knew that he was coming into a yard where trains usually stand and take on coal and water. The rules say plainly that engineers shall approach such yards with their trains under control. A brakeman sent back by the first train warned him of the danger three-quarters of a mile before he got to the standing section. For nearly half a mile before he got to the first train the track is straight and clear and he should have been able to see the red light on the back of the train ahead of him in time to stop his train. Of course, he, like anyone else, will try to avoid such a dreadful responsibility."

The official report on the accident issued by Superintendent Brown declares positively that the air brakes have been tested since the accident and found to be in perfect condition and that there is evidence that they were not applied.

The head brakeman and fireman, however, who were on the engine, bear out Probst's statement that the brakes refused to work.

A Notable Linguist.

Major the Hon. Henry Dundas Napier, who has been selected to succeed Colonel C. E. de la Poer Beresford as Military Attache at St. Petersburg, is a son of the first Lord Napier of Magdala. He entered the army in 1884, receiving a commission in the King's Own Scottish Borderers, from which he transferred to the Indian Staff Corps two years later. For a considerable period he was employed in the intelligence branch of the Quartermaster-General's department, and won an excellent reputation as a diligent staff officer. Subsequently he officiated as staff captain at headquarters, and in 1900 accompanied Sir Alfred Gaselee as special service officer during his march to the relief of Pekin. He was appointed Military Attache at His Majesty's Legation at Teheran in the following year. Major Napier is a notable linguist, qualified to act as an interpreter in both Russian and German.—London Star.

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter.

"Last winter I was advised to try Peruna, and within five days the cold was broken up and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. *There is nothing like Peruna for catarrhal afflictions. A Prominent Singer Saved From Loss of Voice.

Mr. Julian Weisslitz, 175 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., is corresponding secretary of The Sangerlust, of New York; is the leading second bass of the Sangerlust, the largest German singing society of New York and also the oldest.

In 1899 The Sangerlust celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a large celebration in New York City. The following is his testimony:

"About two years ago I caught a severe cold while traveling and which settled into catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and so affected my voice that I was obliged to cancel my engagements. In distress I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had never used a patent medicine before, I sent for a bottle.

"Words but illy describe my surprise to find that within a few days I was greatly relieved, and within three weeks I was entirely recovered. I am never without it now, and take an occasional dose when I feel run down."—Julian Weisslitz.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

A Genuine Fish Story.

—Master Herbert Eastwood, the eight year old son of Dr. Eastwood, has accomplished a fishing feat, which many older anglers would have considered it an honour to be able to claim. While fishing in the creek behind Brightman's tannery, he hooked and landed a speckled trout. While it is known that years ago there were trout in the creek mentioned, none have been caught for some time, and the young fisherman naturally feels elated over his success.

While the numbers presented were most enjoyable last night, there were two notable additions. The first was the overture to Auber's "Fra Diavolo," and later came a beautiful excerpt from the third act of the opera Attilla.

Next Tuesday Evening.

On Tuesday evening next it is expected that the attendance of singers at the Musical Festival Chorus rehearsal at the Y.M.C.A. Hall will be even larger than it was last week, —which was a record breaker — because that will be the last opportunity for singers to join the chorus. It is an opportunity for learning some of the grandest and most charming music ever written, and also for obtaining instruction in style in singing such as has rarely been offered. The rehearsals are unique, there is never a moment wasted; there is no interest in anything save the beautiful music; everybody is kept on the qui vive by the rapid, keen, stimulating illustrations, corrections, and explanatory remarks of the conductor. Mr. Wodell, of Boston, is not content with the mere singing of the notes—he insists upon interpretation, and this is one of the reasons why the rehearsals are so intensely interesting and valuable. No singer, however advanced, but would be benefited by studying the Oratorio under so conscientious and capable a conductor. The roster of soloists is not yet complete, but two of great reputation have been secured, and negotiations with others are under way. The list would have been completed long since had the management been satisfied with merely good talent. They want the solo talent to measure up with the chorus, which is going to be a very fine one indeed, and hence they are making haste slowly. 1d

WRECK ON G.T.R. NEAR CAMBRAY.

Freight Train met Disaster and Fourteen Cars Wrecked.

Accident Occurred Thursday Night—Line Blocked for 24 Hours.

An accident occurred on Thursday night about 12 o'clock on the line between Lindsay and Lorneville Junction, on the Midland Division of the G.T.R., and as a result fourteen box cars loaded with corn were wrecked, and damage done to the track and property in the vicinity. The scene of the catastrophe this time is at the semaphore west of Cambray station, about three miles east of the spot where the wreck occurred last September, when Engineer Swanton and Fireman Falconer lost their lives.

The wreck, although it is not known for a fact, is supposed to have been caused by the dropping down of part of the braking gear. It was a double header train in charge of Conductor W. McCarthy and Drivers Andrew Clegg and Jas Maybee, and was bound from Midland to Belleville. The train was made up of twenty-seven cars, heavily loaded with corn, twelve of which are completely destroyed and the other two badly damaged. The debris is piled high in the air in a space of about two car lengths, making a complete blockade of the track. Fortunately the crew escaped injury as no person happened to be on top of the cars involved when the crash came.

The Lindsay auxiliary train and crew were despatched to the scene of the disaster about an hour later, and immediately got to work to clear the track. This was not accomplished until late last night. The Coboconk train and all trains from Midland reached Lindsay yesterday by way of Blackwater Junction.

CANADIAN BOAT WINS.

The First Race To-day Goes to the "Strathcona."

The following telegram was received by Messrs. E. M. Poussette & Co., stock brokers, shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon:—

"Strathcona wins by about a hundred yards."

The name of the American Challenger is Irondequoit.

The crew of the defender is thus disposed:—Skipper, Aemilius Jarvis; top-mast backstay, port, F. A. Turner; starboard, Norman Gooderham; waist, C. S. Lowndes, port, G. Francis, starboard; mainsheet, port, G. E. Macrae, starboard, H. Logan; forward, James McMurray and the professionals, Jack Hunter and Bill Bruce.

The American crew consists of Capt. James Barr and three professionals and Commodore Van Voorhis, T. B. Pritchard, L. G. Macbeth, Fred L. Smith, Wilson Cross and F. B. Hoyt.

Mr. James W. Rutherford is the Canadian scrutineer on Irondequoit.

The race to-day is over a triangular course, seven miles to a leg.

The trophy for which the boats are battling, it might be explained, was first won by Canada at Toledo in 1896, against Vencedor of Chicago. Genesse of Rochester, took it away for the Chicago Yacht Club from Beaver of Toronto, in 1899. Beaver held off the score by beating her soundly in the L.Y.R.A. race yesterday. Invader of Toronto, carried off the cup from Cadillac of Detroit, the Chicago Yacht Club's defenders in 1901, and that is why the cup is being sailed for here. Rochester having challenged for it.

ACCIDENT AT CEREAL WORKS.

Miss Lizzie Noyes Hurt by Shift Pole Yesterday Afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon while at work in the Cereal Company's works, Miss Lizzie Noyes met with an accident which will prevent her from working for a few days. One of the men was shifting a belt from a loose to a fast pulley when the shift pole becoming caught struck Miss Noyes with terrific force on the head, cutting a rather severe gash. The wound was dressed almost immediately and the manager had the injured young lady taken to her home, where she is now recovering nicely, and it is thought that she will soon be able to be out again. The affair was purely accidental, and was not due to any negligence on the part of the company, the manager of which uses every precaution for the protection of the employees.

KING MAY VISIT AMERICA.

It is being quite seriously suggested that Edward VII breakthrough all traditions, should signalize the year 1904 by paying a state visit to America. The idea is perhaps, not quite so surprising to the sovereign as it is to his subjects, for, as we all known, His Majesty, as a youth, made a memorable sojourn on the great continent, beginning his tour, as he would in all probability do next year, were such a noteworthy event to come to pass, by making a stay in the loyal Dominion. America has yet to receive the visit of a crowned head, but now that the journey across the Atlantic is becoming shorter every day and scientists are conquering the air with apparently the same ease as they conquered the earth, no one can doubt that the visit of a European sovereign to the States is but a matter of time.—London Sketch.

AN ACCIDENT AT THE C. P. R. BRIDGE.

Brakesman Cooper Fell off Moving Train Last Night, and Severely Injured.

An accident occurred at the C. P. R. bridge last evening by which Arthur Cooper, a C. P. R. brakesman, was rather seriously injured. He was riding on the ladder at the end of one of the cars when, as he was about to pull the coupling pin to shunt some cars into a siding, his hand slipped and he fell between the rails. He escaped with a severe shaking up and a pair of badly bruised arms and legs, also his ankle is sprained and it will be some days before he is able to resume his occupation. His escape from instant death is due to two circumstances. First, the car was an American car of new design, on which the brake beams are high enough from the ground to admit of a man being squeezed without killing him. It was the only car in the train with this brake beam on. Had he fallen on any of the other 39 cars he would have been ground to pieces. The second fortunate circumstance was the fact that the engineer, T. E. Ward was on the alert and immediately applied the air brakes, which stopped train within a car's length.

EVANGELIST KENNEDY.

Evidence of the Value of his Evangelistic Work at Napanee.

That the work of Evangelist H. D. Kennedy of Peterborough, has been successful is fully proved by the following letter from Rev. S. T. Bartlett of Napanee, where Mr. Kennedy conducted services, also the extract from the Christian Guardian:

"Last Sunday was reception day and the morning was one seldom equalled. A class of 139 members on trial were received in full membership by the pastor. The centre seats of our large church were nearly filled with candidates. This grand service was one of the happy results of the revival services held in the Methodist churches last winter by Evangelists H. D. Kennedy, of Peterborough, and J. M. Whyte. These services at the time were not very widely reported, but a better series were never held in Napanee. The reception of last Sunday in the one church is the best evidence of the thorough work done in the meetings and gives ample proof that modern method at revivals have lost none of the old time power, and that converts at revivals do not all backslide. Messrs Kennedy and Whyte are able men whose work is as thorough as the most particular pastor could desire, and their meetings in Napanee will not soon be forgotten by hundreds who in them were led to Christ."

The Christian Guardian also says:

"Mr. Kennedy leaves to-day for Toronto, where he will supply the pulpit of Rev. Hincks of Trinity, and Dr. Tovell of Queen street churches for four Sundays. These churches are two of the largest churches of the city. Mr. Kennedy is now planning for another year's campaign in the towns throughout Ontario. We are glad to hear of his remarked success and hope it may continue more abundantly."

T.A.S.-ATHLETICS GAME.

Letter From Spectator Suggesting a Coalition.

The following letter referring to the C.L.A. game last Wednesday has been received by the Examiner:—

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—It was quite evident to the spectators who witnessed the lacrosse game last Wednesday afternoon between the Athletics and the T. A. S. lacrosse teams, that the coming together of these two teams is not in the best interest of sport in this town. Both teams have a large number of supporters who are not animated by the most friendly feelings toward each other.

As the game progressed these supporters were by no means reluctant to display what I might call their prejudices. The most abusive and scrurilous language was indulged in, and insulting and opprobious names applied to the players from time to time during the progress of the game.

It is most unfortunate that two of the athletic teams of this town cannot meet in a game without it being made the occasion to display ill-feelings and animosity between two sections of the community. Such practices not only mar the pleasure of witnessing the game and are detrimental to wholesome sport, but are well calculated to impair the harmony which should exist amongst our citizens.

We are undoubtedly anxious to see our young people contending in athletic games and are desirous of seeing our various clubs excelling in the different sports in which they take part, but if the meeting of these two teams is made the occasion to stir up the animosity of two sections of the community then certainly it is most desirable that the meeting of these two teams be discontinued.

I would suggest under these circumstances that, perhaps, the best course to pursue, and one which would be likely to remove friction between two sections of the people would be the forming of one team by a selection of the best players in both the Athletic and T.A.S. clubs. If this course should be adopted we certainly would have a much stronger team than either of those two teams are at present, and we might hope that future games would be conducted without the occasion of friction amongst the spectators, as was most unfortunately the case at the last game.

I am yours truly,
SPECTATOR

Lindsay, Aug. 7.—A very fast and interesting game of lacrosse was played here to-day between Orillia intermediates and Lindsay's junior team. The game all through was a good exhibition of lacrosse. At half time the score stood a tie, and at full time 2 to 1 in Orillia's favour. The game was refereed by Mr. Patterson of Peterborough, to the satisfaction of both players and spectators.

FOOTBALL.

THE STRATTON TROPHY.

The Stratton trophy, which was so kindly presented to the Midland Football League, by the Hon. J. R. Stratton, and which was won by the Y.M.C.A. first team, has been placed in the trophy case in the reception room at the Association building, and forms a very valuable addition to the increasing number of trophies there. The trophy was purchased from Mr. F. S. Schneider, jeweller, and is very handsome indeed in its design, being of silver, and mounted on a pedestal of ebony. At each side of the cup, as well as on the top, are miniature footballs, the latter one being encircled in a garland of leaves, the whole being richly embossed. The name of the winning team for this year is on a plate on the front of the base, and there is ample room for the names of winners of succeeding contests, as it must be won for three successive contests in order to be the permanent property of any one team.

* * * *

In acknowledging the receipt of the Stratton Cup, the Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. wrote the following letter to Dr. Morgan, the President of the Midland League, and reiterates the complete exoneration of Dr. Morgan, of any impartiality:—

Dr. Morgan, Peterborough.—

Dear Doctor,—We beg to acknowledge the receipt of the Stratton Trophy in the Midland Football League, which we receive on behalf of the Y. M. C. A. club, they having been the winners in the league for the series of games just closed.

We hold this for them on the understanding that it remains the property of the Midland Football League executive unless it has been won by our team for three successive competitions, according to the rules of the league.

It has been a matter of regret to us and to all the members of our team that the last game of the series went to us by default, and that for this you and the other members of the executive have been most unfairly criticized by the defaulting club, because you were obliged by the rules of the league to decide in favor of our team.

We are pleased that such criticism rests entirely with the one team, for we feel that the other teams of the league with us are one in the opinion that you have been most fair and impartial in all your decisions on questions arising from time to time, and we know the young men of the district are most grateful for the time and energy you have given to make the league the great success it certainly has been.

Yours faithfully,
GEO. H. WILLIAMSON,
Sec'y Y. M. C. A.

OBITUARY.

The large circle of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neill, of Hunter street, town, will be grieved to hear of the untimely death of their daughter, Elizabeth Isabella, which occurred at Montreal yesterday, August 7th, at the age of one year and ten months. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Hunter street, on Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

A Handsome Photograph.

Considerable interest was centred in a large photograph displayed in the window of Medill's chemist shop. The photograph in question is one of all the members of the local Y.M.C.A. gymnasium besides the president and secretary of the association. It was taken by Mr. R. M. Roy, and is an excellent proof of that photographer's skill.

SUMMER READING.

A View of the Subject That Much May Be Said in Favor Of.

English weeklies one and all lament over the decline of literary taste and pursuits in England, and a great deal of the depression in the book trade they ascribe to the rage for "bridge" within the house, and out-of-door pastimes. Now we are inclined to think that the rage for "speed" is at the root of the evil, says The Toronto News. It has destroyed the taste for books in several ways, and, first and foremost, by bringing the art of writing down to the level of "book making." The rate at which authors are expected to conceive, arrange, and develop their wares has resulted in an immense quantity of unwholesome food being put on the market. Literary indigestion is the outcome. The men and women who rush madly through the air in their motor cars, who fly from city to country in yachts, who are forever receiving new impressions which obliterate those of the moment before, can have no possible corner in their receptive brain-cells left for the written impressions which have taken even months to ripen.

Let Canadians rejoice that nature and circumstances have not yet landed our people in the vortex of speed. We may safely look forward to at least a month or three weeks of weather, when the strenuous President of the United States would be compelled from sheer muscular relaxation to "put on the brakes."

The state of the roads in Canada preclude the chance of the motor car disturbing the tranquility of the inhabitants, and endangering the lives of the live stock of rural Canada. There will be hot days in July and August when, for some hours at least, a "shady nook and well-bound book" will be the only possible solution of existence. Lampman has drawn a picture of an ideal Canadian summer's day in his poem "Heat."

"In the sloped shadow of my hat,
I lean at rest, and drain the heat;
Nay more, I think some blessed power
Has brought me wandering idly here;
In the full furnace of this hour
My thoughts grow keen and clear."

The quality of brain power during the mid-summer heat is exactly that which is conducive to the absorption of all that is best in literature. Business for the average Canadian is fairly at a standstill. Households are not run at concert pitch. The intellectual, rather than the intelligent, portion of the human mechanism is in the ascendant. Out of door lounging is conducive to reverie, and the absorption of abstract ideas. "It is in the fight and battle of life we learn and grow, and during the hours of rest and lassitude that we gain understanding, that makes the fullness of life."

A big library in a summer house is a mistake; one or two good books, a magazine or two, and the daily paper, will suffice. But a summer devoid of books, even for those who are indefatigable readers during the rest of the year, is a mistake, for the very quality of intellectual power which comes with what Lampman calls the "full furnace of the hour" is one for which the most casual, as well as the most devout book-lover, may be thankful, as all Canadians may be thankful for a climate which insists upon their enjoying sylvan as well as intellectual pleasures at the same period.

One Theory of Music.

He was whistling "Annie Laurie" while he worked. Now, Annie Laurie was apparently a lovely girl, and her music is captivating, but she's not good music to work to. She's too slow, and this particular worker was whistling her about as slow as the "Dead March," and his hand kept time. He was only polishing a door plate, but it would have been all the same had he been doing anything else, for music has a subtle influence over the human soul, and through that over the human body. When the general wants to cheer his troops up he doesn't start the band playing mournful airs, when he wants his troops to step quickly he has the band play lively airs.

It seems to me that if I were an employer of labor, which I probably will be if I live to be about a million, I'd have a band hired to stay around the factory and play lively airs, and if I couldn't have a band I'd rent a piano and get some girl to play ragtime melodies and jigs and two-steps, and I think that besides giving the hands pleasure the experiment would pay me because the hands would keep time with the music.—H.D.C., in Toronto Star.

HERE IS PROOF.

That Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure Indigestion or Dyspepsia of any Stage or Standing.

"I had Dyspepsia for over nine nine years. I tried the best doctors in the place and never got relief. I had to starve myself from eating. No tongue can tell what I suffered.

"I bought six shoxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had finished taking them I could eat most anything and sleep comfortably, which I never expected to do in this world."

This is the statement of Mrs. James Bradley, of Smith's Grove, Derby Co., N. S. It is but one of thousands that prove beyond a doubt that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia of any stage or standing. Proof like this is worth more than all the theory in the world.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve. They cure to stay cured.

The Walking Mania.

Lord de Manley is a man who is familiarly known as the "Wandering Jew." He is a great walker, and is said to walk faster and over more ground than any other man in London. This, perhaps, accounts for his thinness, which is extraordinary, and almost amounts to emaciation. Lord de Manley began life in the Rifle Brigade, and afterwards held a staff appointment in Canada. He has a beautiful place in Dorsetshire but is unmarried, and his brother is heir to the title and property, which is extensive.

A LADIES' TUG-OF-WAR.

Canadians Beat Out the British on Board the Tunisian.

An interesting letter has been received by Mr. Thos. Bengough, Toronto, from his sister, Miss Mary Bengough, who arrived in England by the Tunisian on the 5th July, on company with her brother, Mr. J. W. Bengough, the cartoonist. She encloses a copy of a little paper called The Tunisian Gazette, printed on ship board and illustrated by the Canadian cartoonist with "jellygraph," or gelatine reproductions. Forty copies of this paper sold for £13! A printed program of an entertainment on Dominion Day in aid of the Liverpool Seamen's Orphanage is also enclosed, the second part being "crayon sketches and recitals by Mr. Bengough," followed by chorus, "The Maple Leaf For Ever," by the audience. The concert realized £20. Miss Bengough gives an amusing account of the tugs of war between Britain and Canada aboard ship. "Before beginning the Englishmen went to their state-rooms, and donned white flannel pants and shirts, and canvas shoes, with rubber sols. The Canadians were at a disadvantage, with their ordinary clothes and shoes, but when the word was given they simply carried the Englishmen right up the deck. Then they changed positions, and the old country champions were carried as easily down the deck. When the ladies took hold the Britishers appeared to have the best of it in strength, so far as appearance was concerned, our young girls looked so slight and pretty—they were mostly boarding school girls; but they handled the Britons with as much ease as their brothers did. There appeared to be no resistance whatever; the Canadian girls simply hauled them along. The other games were very funny, and I think the Canadians took all the first prizes and most of the others. Mrs. Hendrie of Hamilton presented the prizes. The first were belt buckles, the second pins and the third the ship's colors.

KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Piles for Pale People.

Suffering From This Disease are in Great Peril and Should Not Experiment With Other Medicines.

From the Sun, Seaforth, Ont.

The kidneys are the most important organ. They must filter every drop of blood in the body. If the blood is weak the kidneys cannot do their work, so the blood is left unfiltered, and foul, and the kidneys are left clogged with poisonous impurities. Then come the backaches that mean fatal kidney disease. Don't neglect that backache for a moment. Strike at the root of the very first symptoms of Kidney trouble by enriching the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the only medicine that makes the blood rich, red and health-giving.

Mr. William Holland, of Seaforth, Ont., has proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure the most obstinate case of kidney trouble. To a reporter of the Sun he freely gave the particulars of his case: "I have suffered from kidney trouble for about two years," said Mr. Holland, "Sometimes the backache which accompanied the trouble would be so severe that I would be unable to work, and I have often suffered severely for weeks at a time. I tried a number of medicines said to be a cure for kidney trouble, but I found nothing to help me until on the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills soon began to make their good work felt, and after using them for about a month every vestige of the trouble had disappeared, and I have not since had a single symptom of the disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a great blessing to me, and I am always glad to say a good word in their favour."

As a curative medicine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have never yet been equalled. They build up the blood and nerves, give new strength and enable the body to resist disease. Among the complaints cured by these pills are rheumatism, nervous disorder, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, indigestion, anaemia, lung troubles, and the troubles that make the lives of so many women miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent post paid at 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Don't take a substitute at any price—only the genuine pills can cure.

Mails to the Far North.

The forwarding of a mail from Winnipeg in the far north is an event which occurs only about three times in a year, says The Winnipeg Free Press. The Hudson's Bay Company send their Mackenzie River supplies about the 20th to the 25th of May from Athabasca Landing by scows until they meet the Athabasca steamer, then on to Fort Smith Portage, 16 miles and thence by the Mackenzie River steamer, Wrigley, on to the most northern post, Fort Macpherson, on the Peel River, a tributary of the Mackenzie River, within the Arctic circle.

Some idea of the remoteness of that territory may be formed from the fact that the only steamer, the Wrigley, can make only one trip in the year as far as Fort Macpherson. Passengers who wish to go after the steamer has left, have to depend upon the chance of getting an open boat late in the fall. Archdeacon McDonald of Mackenzie River, who is stationed at Fort Macpherson, has not been heard from since last July, but letters are expected from him shortly.

Pilgrimage of Sock-eye Salmon.

The sock-eye salmon has commenced his annual pilgrimage up the British Columbia Rivers and all is speculation as to the nature of the run. The owners of the American traps, which have caused such heartburnings among the British Columbians, have been disappointed so far. Labor troubles may diminish the value of the season on the Fraser.

THE MAGNET.

Prof. Silvanus Thompson, in a Lecture, Repeats Pliny's Story, as to Its Discovery—Bypaths of Romance.

In a lecture on "The Magnet and Its Author" at the Royal Institution, Prof. Silvanus Thompson diverged for a time into the attractive bypaths of romance. We need hardly say that Dr Gilbert was not the discoverer of the magnet, nor was he even correct in ascribing the introduction of the mariners' compass into Europe to Marco Polo. That idea is dismissed by Col. Yule with the remark that of it and the alleged bringing of gunpowder he will say nothing, since no one, he believes, any longer imagines Marco to have had anything to do with the matter. The properties both of the magnet and the magnetized needle have been so long known that their discoverers have been forgotten. They failed to obtain a vates sacer, and have gone down to oblivion like hundreds of the world's benefactors.

Probably the attractive effect exercised by the magnet on iron was discovered by accident, and its other properties ascertained by degrees. The professor repeated Pliny's story about the former—how an unsuspecting shepherd unconsciously stepped on to a mass of magnetic iron ore, and found that the top of his crook and the nails of his boots stuck to the rocks. Strange, if true; and that shepherd must have felt very much as if he were walking on soft asphalt on a hot day. But those who have scrambled in Alpine boots over spoil banks of magnetic ore tell us they were unconscious of any impediment. But to the first discoverer the property of attracting a bit of ordinary iron must have seemed "a very great medicine," and it is undoubtedly a marvel.

Why does that particular substance possess this property in so extraordinary a degree? Touch a common needle with a piece of pure iron and it remains on the table; the ore hematite which consists of two atoms of iron in chemical combination with three of oxygen has no more effect, but substitute the intermediate magnetic three atoms of iron combined with four of oxygen and the needle comes to its arms like a long-lost brother. So, too, when a hand magnet is dipped into a little heap of scaly hematite nothing happens; but granular magnetite rushes to it so eagerly that grain sticks to grain. Pliny's mention, however, shows that the loadstone was known long before his time, and the discovery was more probably due to wise men of the East than of the West. But it seems as if we must go further afield than even Chaldea, unless we are to suppose the Chinese to be Sumerian emigrants, and to have taken with them from their ancestral home in the Euphrates Valley the knowledge of the loadstone, if not of the compass. The Far East, by common consent, is credited with the latter, and if we may believe a certain Chinese historian, the rudimentary idea was known about forty-five centuries ago.

The Emperor of that day, finding the movements of his army impeded by a persistent fog, constructed a kind of chariot which indicated the cardinal points. But as the fog is said to have been raised by the machinations of his enemy the story invites experts in the higher criticism. The compass, however, is mentioned in early Chinese records, and something of the kind must have been known before the Christian era. It seems to have been used in navigation by sailors of that nation early in the fifth century, and in eastern seas, generally in the earlier Middle Ages, the first really definite mention of the mariners' compass by a Western writer dating from the twelfth century. At first the needle was supposed to turn due north because a huge mass of loadstone marked the position of that pole; but when its variation was discovered the theory had to be modified.

Then, as Professor Silvanus Thompson tells us, the centre of attraction was shifted about, as circumstances seemed to require some putting the magnetic mountains in Calcutta—certainly an unfortunate guess—others near the Red Sea, or in the north of Russia, or at the back of Greenland, or in Japan. We must, of course, not forget Sinbad's experiences with a magnetic island, or the way in which two magnets held Mohammed's coffin suspended between heaven and earth. Sir Thomas Browne has embalmed many strange notions about the magnet in his "Vulgar Errors," yet, after all, the scientific facts are sufficiently curious.—London Standard.

COL. HARRINGTON.

Only Common Soldier Who Rose From the Ranks to British Minister.

Colonel John Harrington, who has just presented to the Emperor of Abyssinia, to whose court he is accredited as Minister resident, a superb and perfectly trained Indian elephant, as a token of friendship from King Edward, is the only chief de mission in the diplomatic service of Great Britain who has risen to that office from the position of a common soldier in the ranks. In 1888 the Colonel, who received the Order of the Bath some years ago, and is now about to become Sir John as a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, was a private in the Middlesex regiment of infantry. A year later he won a commission, and eighteen months afterward was transferred to that picked body, the Indian Staff Corps. Before long he volunteered for service as Vice-Consul at Zeilah, a pestilential place, which serves as one of the seaports to Abyssinia, the post on question being avoided as much as possible by the other members of the corps, by reason of its loneliness and unhealthiness. So good was the use which Harrington made of his opportunities that he was able to render invaluable assistance to the special mission of Sir Rennell Rodd to Emperor Menelik in 1897, striking up a great friendship with Lord Edward Cecil, the soldier son of Lord Salisbury, who formed part of Sir Rennell's staff. The result was that when the British Government resolved upon establishing a permanent Legation in Abyssinia, where British interests are exceedingly important, both Sir Rennell and Lord Edward Cecil warmly recommended Lieutenant Harrington for the post. He has since received military promotion, and the influence which he has been able to acquire over the dusky potentate to whom he is accredited is so great that it has completely relegated into the background that of Russia and of France, which formerly predominated at Adis Abeba.

The Abittibi Waterpowers.

Mr. Vaughan Roberts, C. E., D. L. S., has just returned from exploring some of Ontario's North Lands. As a sample of Ontario's great natural wealth he instances the Abittibi River, which at a distance of a hundred miles from its junction with the Moose averages four hundred feet in width, contains numbers of magnificent water powers, awaiting development, varying from 15,000 to 150,000 horse power each. The banks of the river are lined with the best of pulpwood of all descriptions, which is practically valueless, however, until it is made available by the construction of a railway into the territory.

THE ARTIST AND WIT

ECCENTRIC OF ECCENTRICS WAS THE LATE J. A. M'NEIL WHISTLER.

A Three-Ring Circus, as Artist, Wit and Mountebank He Enjoyed Equal Fame —A Student in Trilby's Time—The Master Lithographer—Sued Ruskin for Libel—His "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies."

James Abbott McNeill Whistler, who died in London the other day, was a remarkable character. He was even more than that. He was a three-ring circus. As an artist, a wit and a mountebank he enjoyed equal fame. He dazzled bystanders, so that few of them to-day are able to tell much about Whistler, the man. Everything about him was apparently external. His art, instead of revealing the man, concealed it, or rather what his art revealed his actions denied. In studying him one realizes the pathetic truth in the story of the tourist who couldn't see the forest for the trees. This is how it is with Whistler.

Studied in "Trilby's" Time.

Like other people, he was born in a certain year, of certain parents, at a certain place, the year 1834, and Lowell, Mass., having been used by him for this purpose. His early education was acquired at West Point, where he went a mere boy. Before entering the Military College he had decided to become an artist. Even Whistler had an idea that it would be advisable to prepare himself by a few lessons, and with this object in view he set out for Paris. The Bohemian life in that city, at the period treated of in "Trilby," exerted a strong influence on the young American. The atmosphere was to him the breath of his nostrils. He drank deep of it. Always original and clever, he became popular in the Latin Quartier, where he was renowned for his humorous escapades. General Vinton, of the Confederate army, was studying mining in Paris while Whistler was an art student. During the war, a sentry approached the general one night, and reported a stranger captured who claimed to have known Vinton in Paris. The general couldn't remember the man, but asked, as a test question, "Who was the funniest fellow we knew in Paris?" The answer came, "Jimmy Whistler."

The Master Lithographer.

After traveling in Egypt and Southern Europe, Whistler made his descent on London in 1863. He boldly challenged the dragon Conventionality, and with a dozen weapons waged warfare on it. Lithography as an art he revived, after it had been dead for many years, and it is probable that he was the greatest master of this style of literary expression who ever lived. He was attacked and defended. To his traducers he opposed his own biting wit, while for the fulsome flattery of his admirers he was ever contemptuous. That his bold, arrogant, egotistical bearing should have provoked the most active hostility was only natural. Even his admitted genius, especially in etching, did not excuse him in the eyes of some of the foremost figures in the art world. His most famous piece of work, "A Portrait of My Mother," an exquisite thing, was almost refused by the Royal Academy Hanging Committee. Most of his drawings he entitled "nocturnes" and "arrangements." The bizarre always appealed to him. The finest things he ever did, in the opinion of critics, were "The Little White Girl," "The Gold Screen," "The Nocturne in Blue and Silver," the portrait referred to above, now in the possession of the Luxembourg, and the much-discussed portrait of Carlyle.

Sued Ruskin for Libel.

In reference to his "arrangements" and also his impecuniosity a newspaper once published the following verse:

"Of various arrangements, we've had an array,
Black and white, gold and silver, tawny and grey.
But of all the arrangements there ever remains one,
And that's to arrange with the troublesome dun."

Though he received princely sums for portraits and other drawings in later years, it was a "feast and a famine" with Whistler. For a couple of years his house in Chelsea boasted only two furnished rooms. That these were furnished exquisitely it is superfluous to say. Throughout the house, in packing cases, were stored priceless rugs and tapestries, valuable plate, curios, armor, and choice bric-a-brac. Whistler was either too poor or too [illegible] to prepare the house for the treasures it hid instead of displaying. One can well understand that this was not the sort of man to be loved by John Ruskin. Once Ruskin wrote a severe criticism of some of Whistler's pictures, whereupon the American sued him for libel. The jury gave a verdict, and fixed damages at a farthing. However, Whistler got what he wanted—advertising.

Looked Like a Poodle.

This, it may be, was the secret of Whistler's extraordinary conduct on many occasions. He loved to have people talking about him. Old enough to be a grandfather, he dressed like a French poodle. He wore his hair long, and had it dyed an unearthly black and arranged in countless long curls. One lock he suffered to remain white. This he usually tied with a bit of ribbon. His shoes and gloves were always faultless, but he wore a very high silk hat, brushed the wrong way. In his hand, when on the street, he carried a long wand, and wore a most remarkable overcoat, which descended to his heels. Usually, when he went abroad, he was attended by a crowd of urchins with whom he would bandy remarks unsuccessfully. As a humorist who survives him once said, "He looked like a cross between a Christmas tree and a pack mule."

The Valasquez Gem.

If he had never attained eminence as an artist, Whistler would be long remembered as a wit. The best thing he ever said, probably, was in answer to the adoring remark of one of his disciples, a woman. Said she, "There are only two artists, You, Mr. Whistler, and Velasquez."

"Why drag in Velasquez?" drawled Whistler.

On another occasion a lady remarked on the beauty of the Thames (discovered, artistically, by the way, by Whistler) as she had observed it while passing. "The banks," she said, "looked like an exquisite series of your etchings."

"Yes," he responded, dreamily, "yes, nature is creeping up."

The Art of Making Enemies.

His noted retort to Oscar Wilde will be immortal. He had related one of his epigrams in the presence of the decadent poet, and the latter had exclaimed, "I wish I had said that, Jimmy." To which "You will, Oscar, you will," replied Whistler. Some years ago he published a book entitled "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," in which he added fuel to the fires of enmity which lit his path for fifty years. One hopes that to-day only the ashes remain. But Whistler doesn't care.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is,

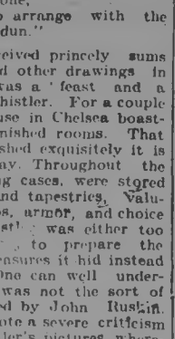
THE TRYING TIME

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic, to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.



Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity. It is a strengthening tonic, soothing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing restful sleep. It contains no alcohol neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

"I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Brodhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite ill, weighed [illegible] the picture of good health [illegible] was so run down her weight was [illegible] she kept failing and I gave up thinking there was no use, she must die. THE SOMALILAND MESS.

Uninviting Task of Winding It Up Has Been Given to Gen. Egerton.

Major-General Sir Charles Comyn Egerton, K.C.B., D.S.O., who has been given the uninviting task of winding up the Somaliland mess, is fifty-five years of age, and is a member of an old Cheshire family, the Grey-Egertons, of Egerton and Oulton, of which Sir Philip Grey-Egerton is the head. Born in 1848, General Egerton joined the 31st Foot as an ensign in 1867. In 1871 he exchanged into the Bengal Staff Corps and he saw his first active service during the Afghan War of 1880. He took part in the famous march to Kandahar and in the battle of September 1st, being mentioned in despatches. Eight years afterwards he began a long experience of frontier scrimmaging in the Hazara expedition of 1888, in which he was again mentioned. In 1891 he did good work in the second Hazara expedition, and in two campaigns against the Miranzai, in which he received a severe wound and won the D. S. O. Three years later he commanded a column in the operations against the Waziri. In 1896 he was selected for the difficult duty of commandant of the Indian contingent at Suakim, during Kitchener's expedition, which ended in the occupation of the Dongola province. During the Tirah campaign of 1897-8 he commanded the 1st Brigade of the Tochi Field Force, and in April, 1899, was appointed to a first-class command in the Punjab. In 1901, when the Masud Waziri began to give trouble, General Egerton was sent to deal with them, which he did in very thorough manner by marching four converging columns into their country. He is regarded as one of the most brilliant officers in the Indian army.

The English Pheasant.

It is claimed that the pheasant of the English preserves can trace its pedigree directly to the brilliant bird of the same species in Japan. About half a century ago a few live pheasants were brought from Japan and crossed with the common species. The result of this was, it is said, that a new race of birds was introduced, and the beautiful pheasant, with its iridescent plumage, was produced and naturalized as an English bird.

Limited Enjoyment.

"I didna see ye at McDougall's funeral yesterday." "No. I couldna go, and, besides, I wouldna have enjoyed myself. Ye see my wife's made me join the tee-totalers!"—John Bull.

HE COULD NOT LACE HIS SHOE.

Till Dodd's Kidney Pills Drove Away His Rheumatism.

Story of W. J. Dixon, has set the Rainy River Settlement Talking.

Barwick, P.O., August 3rd. (Special.)—Among the settlers here the cure of William John Dixon of rheumatism is causing much talk. The story of the cure as told by Mr. Dixon himself is as follows:

"During the summer of 1901, I had an attack of typhoid fever and after I got over it rheumatism set in. I had pains in my back and in my right hip so bad that I had to use a stick to walk and had no comfort in sleeping.

"I could scarcely dress myself for nearly two months, and for three or four weeks I could not lace my right shoe or put my right leg on my left knee.

"My brother advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and after taking three boxes I began to walk, do my work and lace up my boots. And the best of it is I have had no rheumatism since."

Dodd's Kidney Pills take the uric acid out of the blood and the rheumatism goes with it.

Furnishing the Sick Room.

The essential furnishings of the sick room are a bed, a bedside table, an easy chair, a lounge and a large movable screen. The latter can be readily improvised by fastening a shawl or a sheet over an ordinary clotheshorse. Convenient tables are made with the point of support very much on one side so as to reach well over the bed. They may be raised or lowered to any desired height. Bed trays, with a low rim around three sides, standing on legs high enough to keep the weight entirely off the body, may be used by the patient for all the purposes of a table.

A bed rest, a commode and similar small conveniences may be desirable, but the fewer superfluous things the better. All the furniture should be of the simplest possible style. Elaborate carvings only afford lodging places for dust, and whatever adds to the difficulty of maintaining absolute cleanliness is to be avoided. Everything should be substantial and in good repair. Ill fitting blinds, rattling windows and creaking doors are nuisances demanding speedy remedy.—"Textbook on Nursing," by Clara Weeks Shaw.

Cooking Salt Cod.

Captain Joshua Slocum, the old New England seaman who made a voyage around the world in a sloop forty feet long and entirely alone, says: "Very few people know how to treat a salt codfish properly. To freshen it they let it stand in water half a day or more, and, it may be, use several waters. That takes all the goodness out. You can get rid of the salt just as effectively and without hurting the fish by picking it to pieces and washing it with your hands—just shaking it up and down in the water. Then put it right into the pot and boil for fifteen minutes. When you get it ready for the table add butter and pepper and chop up a hard boiled egg and put on top. You take codfish cooked that way and I want to sit down prepared to hoist in a meal of it, and all I want besides are potatoes, coffee and bread and butter."

Cane Chairs Easily Cleaned at Home.

It is an easy matter to clean cane chairs at home. Wash the seats well with soap and hot water—not soda, for it makes them yellow. Turn the chair upside down, wet the seat well on the inner side, push the bulge to the right side and leave to dry. If not quite tight repeat the process. Should the canes be much discolored wash them over with a weak solution of vitriol and water. Dry in a shady place. Good drying weather should be chosen for washing the chairs, or if done in winter dry before a fire, with the legs and underside of the seat toward the fire. It is a great mistake to allow the canes to get very dirty before attending to them.

A Milk Diet.

An entire milk diet will be found an excellent thing for the woman who is on the brink of a nervous breakdown. A grown woman should take at least two quarts a day. No other food should be taken, unless perhaps a little fruit—a scraped apple or a little orange juice.

In cases where it is possible the person who is living on a milk diet should go to bed and stay there for a week, resting and living on milk. Most wonderful results have been derived from this simple remedy. If you are nervous and worn out try it.

THE NEW MOWN HAY.

Along the shaded lane comes down my way
At sundown, when the sky turns grey,
The dew dips down and sucks aloft
The smell elusive, subtle, soft,
Of new-mown hay.

The farmer boy—his feet may far off stray
Down many a weary, strange and heated way—
It helps a heartache if he smells
E'en in a dream the breath that swells
From new-mown hay.
How many perfumes come and go, but they
Are half forgotten in the fresh'ning day—
On mountain, moor, on sand and sod
There is no smell this side of God
Like new-mown hay.
—The Khan, in Toronto World.

Some Witty Toasts.

A publisher once gave the following: "Woman, the fairest work in all creation. The edition is large and no man should be without a copy."

This is fairly seconded by a youth who, giving his distant sweetheart, said: "Delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence and treacle stand appalled."

Further, in regard to the fair sex, we have: "Woman, she needs no eulogy; she speaks for herself." "Woman, the bitter half of man."

In regard to matrimony some bachelor once gave: "Marriage, the gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted ground and returns to earth."

At the marriage of a deaf and dumb couple some wit wished them "unspeakable bliss."

At a supper given to a writer of comedies a wag said: "The writer's very good health. May he live to be as old as his jokes."

From a law critic: "The bench and the bar. If it were not for the bar, there would be little use for the bench."

A celebrated statesman, while dining with a duchess on her 80th birthday, in proposing her health, said:

"May you live, my lady duchess, until you begin to grow ugly."

"I thank you, sir," she said, "and may you long continue your taste for antiquities."—Tit-Bits.

Obeying Orders.

The Irishman that figures in the following anecdote would seem to have been excellently fitted to shine in some branches of the civil service where red tape is at a premium.

The late distinguished architect, Richard M. Hunt, used to relate that in his younger days, while he was superintending the erecting of a brick building, a recent arrival from Cork applied for a job, and was employed as a hod-carrier after being instructed that he must always carry up fourteen bricks in his hod.

One morning the supply of bricks ran out, and do his best the new man could find but thirteen to put in his hod. In answer to a loud yell from the street one of the masons on the sixth story staging shrieked down, "What do you want?"

"Throw me down a brick," said Pat, pointing to his hod, "to make me number good."

The following despatches have been received by E. M. Poussett & Co.:—

New York, Aug. 8th. — The resumption of active liquidation which marked the beginning of the week and its continuance on a heavy scale has been somewhat demoralizing as many of the best judges of the financial situation had not expected any further developments of this sort and had left the street for long delayed vacations. The failures which occurred early in the week, however, explained in part one of the sources of heavy renewed forced selling. The rally which occurred the following day was mainly the result of forced support from banking interests. This upturn has proved as slight and temporary as the movement of the previous week and the market has again weakened under fresh liquidation today and prices for nearly everything on the list is back to about low record level reached Tuesday and Wednesday, and the market apparently in a weaker state than it then occupied chiefly the result of the elimination of a large part of short interest which has been furnishing principal support as outside investment and speculation demand continues so small even at these bargains, that outsiders are either alarmed at situation or else their buying power has been so greatly reduced that they are unable to take on much more stock. Banks statement is evidence of the continued necessity of some large interests for funds, and it looks as though further liquidation of a forced character will ensue during coming week and result in still lower prices. We, therefore, believe the rallies will prove short-lived and only temporary and it is best to continue to advert to a policy to extreme caution and conservatism in operations.

ON THE RIVER.

Boatmen navigating the Otonabee claim that much trouble is being experienced by logs in the river. Capt. Lane, of the City of Peterborough, had considerable difficulty in escaping injury to his boat last night, and this morning the North Star found the river at the point almost entirely filled. The logs are part of Gilmour's drive.

The North Star brought up a good load of passengers this morning from the different points down the river.

This is a busy day with the Calcutt steamers. The Martin and Stanley Piano Co's employees ran an excursion by the "City" to Jubilee and Idyl Wild, and the C.G.E. Angling Club are also down the river, being conveyed there by the Water Lily and barge Otonabee.

UNFIT TO RULE DESTINIES OF PROVINCE

Says "Don" in Saturday Night of Conservatives.

Scathing Denunciation of Gamey and His Methods Conservatives Have Low Estimation of Honour to Lionize Him.

"Don" in Saturday Night writing on the Gamey banquet recently given at Gore Bay, has the following criticism, which is particularly interesting as it comes from the pen of a man who has always been unpartizan in his writings and his criticisms have been characterized by impartiality:—

"On Friday at Gore Bay the Conservatives gave a reception to Mr. R. R. Gamey in which the president of the local Conservative Association, Mr. B. H. Turner, of Little Current, together with four or five of the prominent members of the executive, declined to take any part. Nevertheless the banquet, as reported in the newspapers, appears to have been a great success. That it was not entirely a congregation of neighbors, is made evident by the presence of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, M.P.P., J. W. St. John, M.P.P., Dr. Payne, M. P.P., R. Joynt, M.P.P., and R. Johnston, M.P., Mr. Whitney was noticeably absent, as he always is when the party meets at the crossings of the road and someone is required to direct. A letter from him was read by Dr. Payne, in which he said, "In my opinion, Mr. Gamey has done a great service to the people of Ontario." Johnston, M.P., congratulated the people "on having such a noble representative." He justified Gamey in being charged as an informer by declaring that the gang in Toronto had to be met with their own weapons. Dr. Beattie Nesbitt is quoted as saying, "I am standing by Gamey and I propose to stand by him to the end. He is good enough for me and good enough for the Province of Ontario in general." Gamey himself made what might be characterized as a red-hot speech. "Red-hot" speeches are not the ones which make the history of this country, but they are liable to be disturbing. No man can make Ontario better by calling his opponents "perjured liars." Of Mr. Stratton, Gamey said, "He is guilty as hell. I defy him to take any action against me. That money came directly from J. R. Stratton." He characterized the general finding of the Royal Commission as a lie, and asserted that he would undertake, if Sir John Boyd would make a declaration that the report was correct, to swear out a arrant charging him with perjury within fifteen minutes. J. W. St. John concluded the extraordinary performance of these political acrobats by asking where the $3,000 came from.

"The Gamey business has been avoided by me because it was not only ancient, but dishonourable. I cannot refrain from returning to the subject when this gentleman with agitated fingers returns to the front to be lionized by a certain section of his constituency. I know it is entirely useless to preach, and possibly I am a very poor selection as a preacher, yet I am quite within my limitations, when I enquire whether the moral aspect of this case has been properly considered. Granting Mr. Gamey's own contentions, he gave the "double cross" to the Government. Now, if anybody has ever been given the "double cross" he will appreciate the perfidy of a man pretending to be a friend and really being an enemy, or starting in as a friend and betraying those who were putting up for him. Let it be remembered that there is no apology either conveyed or intended in this article for the man who may have bribed (if he was bribed) and found intractable the member for Manitoulin. As long ago as I can remember, there used to be foot-racers who were called sprinters, who went about the country making the acquaintance of men of some means and sporty inclinations, and offered to run a foot-race in the town if anybody could be found to back them. Backers were nearly always found, and then the sprinter, having an assurance of so much if he won, sought another backer who would pay him a much larger sum if he lost. The foot-race came off, and of course whoever paid the larger sum got the result. This was called by sportsmen the "double cross", and the dirty little brats who did it always came to an ignominious end, no matter how much they won out of bets or the backers. Possibly it was quite necessary that men of this class should teach the sporting fraternity not to be too anxious to bet on a sure thing. Nevertheless these men were held in the greatest possible contempt, and though foot-racing is over, the memory of those days must be alive, particularly in the hearts of men who got hurt. Mr. Gamey, evidently, if his own story is to be believed, gave the "double cross" to the Ontario Government, and is a creature beneath contempt. That he should be glorified by his fellow-townsmen indicates that the moral sense of that section at least of this province is numb. That he should be backed by some of the leading Conservative politicians, indicates that in some sections of that party the sense of decency has ceased to prevail. We may have men do disagreeable jobs about our premises, jobs which sanitation make imperative, but it is entirely unnecessary to take them to our hearts and seat them at our tables. That Gamey is of sufficient political size and sweetness to please many Ontario Conservatives can be taken as nothing but a demonstration of the unfitness of a bit bunch of politicians to rule the destinies of the province. To me, as between men, he appears utterly contemptible, and I am no prude in estimating the worthiness of politicians. By a certain section of the Conservative party he is made a demigod which is only the first proposition of demagogueery in general. That anybody could fall down and worship such a creature seems to me an impossible proposition. That anybody could trust a man who has given the "double cross" to anyone, seems to me proof that those accepting him as sweet-savoured should have no voice in the selection of representatives, nor any hand in the conduct of the Government. That decent men would sup with him, or prominent politicians put their arms about him, is so incredible that I could not have believed it had not reports of this sort of thing appeared uncontradicted in the general press. That he who was tempted and fell should be ostracized is as natural as that water should run from a punctured can. That he who is accused of having tempted him stood the trial, is a different question, affecting a different outfit, and he must be judged by the attitude and verdict of that party and the general public. If he stands though nothing has been proved against him, and is banquetted to make him look large, it will afford an opportunity for another paragraphs which does not need to be written now."

POLICE COURT

Two men Charged With Being Disorderly Last Night.

At the police court this morning the information laid against a young man for assault was withdrawn on the consent of the informant, the defendant paying the costs of the court, amounting to $6.05, besides paying the informant $1.50 per day while he was unable to work.

Robert Maxwell and Jos. Snyder were charged with creating a disturbance last night. Snyder pleaded guilty and admitted that he was too drunk to remember what happened. His companion in the dock claimed to be innocent of the charge. The Chief remarked that Constable Adams had found the two giving an exhibition of their skill with their fists. Snyder was fined $5.75, which he immediately produced.

"You've got to be an old man," remarked the Magistrate to James Bird; "yes," he continued, "after 50 years of experience you spend your money on whiskey." The prisoner was allowed to go on stating that he intended to try and abstain from taking too much spirit of an intoxicating nature.

This concluded the business of the court.

PIUS X. IS CROWNED

Most Magnificent Rite of the Roman Catholic Church.

WITH THE TRIPLE CROWN.

The Pontifical Pallium Placed on His Shoulders—Mass Celebrated With Great Pomp—A Prayer and an Address by Cardinal Macchi—The Pope Fatigued—People Great in Enthusiasm and Numbers.

Rome, Aug. 10.—The ceremony of the coronation of Pope Pius X. took place yesterday in the Basilica of St. Peter's, in the presence of the princes and high dignitaries of the church, diplomats and Roman nobles, and with all the solemnity and splendor associated with this, the most magnificent rite in the Roman Catholic Church.

At 6 a.m. the ringing bells announced the imminent opening of doors. A gigantic crowd had waited for hours and the police and Italian soldiers had a difficult task to maintain order as the crushing and fatigue had begun to tell upon the patience of the people. When the doors opened, the inrush was terrible, many of whom started from the bottom steps outside were lifted off their feet and carried into the cathedral. It was a great human torrent let loose. Women fainted in comparatively large numbers and even men were overcome by the heat, but no serious accidents were reported.

Inside the Vatican palace there was no less movement and bustle as the Papal procession, composed of about 500 people, was formed. The Pope seemed to be the only tranquil one among them all. He rose unusually early and took a few turns in the Vatican garden. Then he allowed himself to be dressed by the cardinals. He evinced no nervousness.

The central figure in the long cortege was Pius X. borne in the Sedia Gestatoria. His heavy white robes and the red and gold mitre were worn without an effort. Over the Pontiff's head a canopy was held by eight men, while the historic ostrich feather fans with peacock tips gave a touch of barbaric splendor to western eyes.

The Pontiff was exceedingly pale, but composed his emotion. Cardinal Rampolla advanced with dignity, knelt and kissed the foot of the Pontiff. He then presented in a firm voice the wishes and greetings of the Chapter of St. Peter. The Pontiff answering in a trembling voice, warmly thanked the chapter for their well wishes. The procession then reformed and proceeded to the door of the Basilica. On the appearance of the Pontiff himself it seemed as though the people would seek to carry him in their arms, so great was their enthusiasm. Cries of "Pius, our Pope, our father," and "Long live Pius X." were raised, notwithstanding the large placards posted all over the Basilica, saying: "Acclamations are forbidden."

The cries were continued until the Pontiff was compelled to rise and bless the multitude, and at the same time he made a sign for more reverential behavior.

A quaint ceremony was then carried out. The master of ceremonies knelt three times before the Pontiff, each time lighting a handful of hemp which surmounted a silver torch, and as the flame flashed and then died out he chanted in Latin, "Holy Father, thus passeth away the world's glory."

The procession then proceeded, the Pope's face meanwhile illuminated by a smile. At the chapel of the sacrament, there was another halt and His Holiness left the Sedia Gestatoria, and prayed awhile at the altar. On re-entering the chair, he was carried to the chapel of St. Gregory, where he officiated at a mass.

From the throne Pius X. surrounded by his suite, walked to the high altar, standing over the crypt of St Peter, into which meanwhile Cardinal Macchi descended to pray. Returning from the crypt Cardinal Macchi placed upon the shoulders of the Pope the pontificial pallium and attached it with three golden jewelled pins.

Mass was then celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, the voice of the Pope becoming gradually firm and sonorous until it was even audible in the most distant corner of the immense church. The Holy Father then walked to the shrine of St. Peter for the culminating rites of the extremely fatiguing ceremony. The whole sacred college gathered about the Pope singing "Palestrine's corona aurea super caput ejus," while the choir burst forth into song, giving the dramatic touch. Cardinal Macchi then recited the "Peter Noster" and offered the following prayer:

"Omnipotent and ever eternal God, dignitary of the clergy and author of sovereignty, grant thy servant, Pius X. grace to fruitfully govern thy church so that he, who by thy clemency, becomes and is crowned as father of kings and rector of all the faithful, through thy wise disposition may govern well."

"Amen" rang out from all corners of the Cathedral.

Cardinal Deacon Segna then raised the Pontiff's mitre and Senior Cardinal Deacon Macchi placed on the venerable white head the triple crown. At this moment the church was filled with the ringing of bells, the blowing of silver trumpets, the triumphant strains of the choir and the acclamations of the multitude, which could no longer be repressed.

Pope Pius was quite overcome and had scarcely strength left to impart the apostolic benediction. Cardinals Macchi and Segna granted a plenary indulgence to all present, and the procession then reformed and left the Basilica in the same form as it came.

TRIED TO KILL COMBES.

At Marseilles an Italian Fired Two Shots at Him But They Went Wide of the Mark.

Marseilles, Aug. 10.—As Premier Combes was returning yesterday afternoon to the Prefecture from a banquet given by the Friendly Society of Teachers, two pistol shots were fired at the carriage in which he was riding. The Premier was untouched, and none of those accompanying him was hurt.

The attempt upon the life of the president of the ministry caused great excitement, and the crowd pointed out to the police as the author of the attempt, a man dressed in fishermen's clothes. His companion drew a knife, but the police disarmed him.

The police had much difficulty in protecting the man who had fired the shots. He struggled desperately, but was soon overcome, handcuffed and taken to the Prefecture, where M. Combes had already arrived. The first interrogation of the prisoner took place in the presence of the Premier. The man said his name was Sauvaire Picolo. He spoke very bad French, with a strong Italian accent.

He denied that he had fired the the shots, but when searched a revolver was found with two chambers which had been freshly fired. It is believed that Picolo and his companion, who had effected his escape during the confusion, are both dangerous Anarchists. The presence of a number of Anarchists in Marseilles is known to the police.

A SILVERTIP BEAR.

Prominent Rossland Citizen Dies From Injuries Received.

Rossland, B.C., Aug. 10.—George H. Bayne, a wealthy Rossland mining man, is dead at Ferguson, a hundred miles north of here, from the effects of wounds received in an encounter with a vicious Silvertip bear last week. His skull was broken, and frightful flesh wounds about his head caused septic meningitis. Two Rossland physicians went to Ferguson and trepanned Bayne's skull, but the relief came too late. Deceased was a son of a millionaire Nova Scotia wholesale merchant, and was independently rich himself. He had lived here for five or six years, spending half of each year in globe-trotting. Flags are flying at half mast in his memory.

PIANO COMPANY EMPLOYEES PICNIC.

The Martin and Stanley Company's Employees Enjoy a Pleasant day at Jubilee Point.

The Martin-Stanley Piano Co's. employees and friends to the number of over 225 took a pleasant outing to Jubilee Point on Saturday afternoon by the steamer City of Peterborough, and the event was one thoroughly enjoyed. The staunch steamer pulled out from her moorings at 1.30 to the pleasing strains of music furnished by the 57th Regimental Band, which accompanied the excursion. A pleasant run was made to the Point, where some time was spent in games, including football, tug-of-war, races, etc., and tea was partaken to before the return journey was commenced. The sail home was made doubly enjoyable by the beautiful moonlight, and the liberality of the band in the music, which they rendered. For those who enjoyed that form of amusement, dancing was indulged in, for which excellent music was provided. The party arrived home about 10.30, the unanimous opinion of those participating in the event being that it was one of the most enjoyable of the season. The committee to whom credit is due for the success of the excursion was composed of Messrs. R. Snow, Chairman, and J. H. Scobie, Secretary-Treasurer.

C. G. E. ANGLING CLUB'S EXCURSION

On Saturday to Idyl Wyld a Great Success.

The C. G. E. Angling Club's excursion to Idyl Wild, which was held per steamer Water Lily on Saturday afternoon, was a great success, and was attended by a very large number of persons. In fact the boat was so crowded that 25 got off at the locks.

The passage down the river was an uneventful one. The boat did not call at Jubilee as was understood.

After disembarking everyone got a meal, as best he could, for the hotel people did not expect anybody, and were unable to feed so many mouths.

It is stated that the fishermen, of whom a number were of course present, did not volunteer to go out and catch a 26-lb. lunge or two.

The stop at Idyl Wild, although a very short one, was pleasantly spent and, it is felt, everyone was sorry when the vessel sounded her warning note prior to departure.

During the homeward trip dancing and singing were indulged in. Some of those who contributed to the vocal part of the programme were Messrs. J. Legg, R. Shepherd and R. Anson, while Mr. P. Cain did some excellent work with the violin. The boat reached her berth about 11 o'clock.

MR. A. F. PIRIE SHOT

Well-Known Editor Tried to Kill Himself Saturday.

SLIGHT HOPE OF RECOVERY.

Cause of the Unfortunate Man's Deed Found in a Photograph of His Dead Wife Which He Held in His Hand —Mr. Pirie Is a Well-Known After Dinner Orator and Editor of the Dundas Banner.

Hamilton, Aug. 10.—Alex. F. Pirie, editor of The Dundas Banner, who is well known all over the Dominion, shot himself Saturday evening about 9 o'clock. At a late hour last evening the doctors held out a faint hope of his recovery.

It is supposed that grief over his wife's death led him to make the attempt on his life. He had spent the evening with his cousin, Robinson Pirie, of the W. E. Sanford Company, and T. H Begue. The three had sat chatting for some time. Mr. Begue went home and Robinson Pirie suggested a stroll. "Wait a minute till I run upstairs," was his cousin's reply to the suggestion. In a few minutes Robinson Pirie was startled to hear a shot. He hurried upstairs to find his cousin stretched out on the floor with the blood streaming from a bullet hole in his temple. The wounded man had evidently placed the weapon close to his head, for the bullet went right through the brain. Robinson Pirie rushed out for Dr. Ross. When they returned they found the injured man sitting up on the bed. He held a photograph of his dead wife in his hand and was looking fondly at it. In answer to questions, he made muttered replies, in which his wife's name was repeated over and over again, but he could give no connected account of what led him to shoot himself. He remained in this semi-conscious condition until about 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

A. F. PIRIE.

Dr. Olmstead of this city went to Dundas yesterday morning, and with Dr. Ross attempted to remove the bullet. They did not succeed, although they relieved the pressure on the brain, and they say there is just a chance of his getting over it.

Before coming to Dundas Mr. Pirie was editor of The Toronto Telegram. He was also connected with The Montreal Star. He was well-known as an after-dinner speaker. His wife's death occurred two years ago. For a long time after he refused to attend anything in the way of a public meeting, although he was much sought after. Last winter when the Young Liberal Club held a banquet, he consented to speak, and made one of his characteristic speeches and as usual brought down the house. He had just returned to Dundas after spending several weeks in Brandon, where he was editing a paper and stumping the country on behalf of the Liberal interests. It has been hinted that overwork in this connection and disappointment at the result had something to do with the attempt on his life, but his friends scout the idea.

Mr. Pirie is about 50 years of age, He has a family of four sons, three of whom are in Manitoba.

The news of the affair created a sensation in this city, where he has hundreds of friends who could hardly believe the story.

At 11 o'clock last night Mr. Pirie was still alive, but was unconscious.

MR. LOCKIE'S DEATH.

Mr. Lockie has been under treatment for some time past and for four days prior to his death had been confined to his bed. The coroner decided that there was no necessity for any investigation, and signed the death certificate.

By Poison and Gun.

Aylmer, Aug. 10.—Word has just reached here that Alex. Marshall, a prominent farmer of Orwell, a small place about two and a half miles from here, took poison and afterwards shot and killed himself. He was found yesterday morning in his own field.

Drowned While Photographing.

Quebec, Aug. 10.—Alphonse Legare, a clerk in the Agricultural Department, while taking photographic views at the foot of the natural steps at the Montmorency Falls, lost his foothold, fell into the river and was drowned.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FIERCE INSURGENTS

Massacre Mussulman Inhabitants of Village of Djivarok.

BURN SOME OF THE CAPTIVES

Women and Children Not Spared—Then They Furiously Attack Neighboring Villages and Kill some Greek Peasants—Greek Minister Makes Representations Thereanent to the Porte.

Constantinople, Aug. 10.—Fresh despatches from Hilmi Pacha, Inspector-General of the Reform Government, announce that insurgents in large numbers in the District of Clisuri, Vilayet of Monastir, attacked the village of Djivarok, near Kastoria, and massacred the inhabitants, including women and children, and then furiously attacked neighboring villages, taking many captives, some of whom were burned alive. Some Greek peasants were also killed in one of the Kasas of the Vilayet of Monastir, and in the Vilayet of Okhridaby insurgents likewise attacked some Mussulman villages. They everywhere displayed rage and ferocity, and the Mussulman inhabitants were greatly dismayed.

The Government is taking every measure possible to suppress the uprising. Eight more battalions have been ordered to the Vilayet of Monastir. M. Maurocordato, the Greek Minister, has made representations to the Porte on behalf of the Greek subjects.

M. Rostkovski, the Russian Consul at Monastir, it turns out, was murdered at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by a policeman who was on duty outside the Consulate. The assassin was arrested. The Grand Vizier and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, called on the Russian Ambassador and expressed the Government's deep regret over the occurrence.

SITUATION IS ALARMING.

Factory Hands Struck and Serious Disturbances Ensued in Russia.

London, Aug. 10.—The Standard prints a despatch from Kieff, Russia, dated Wednesday, which says that day before all the factory hands at Nikolaieff struck and that serious disturbances ensued. Twenty were killed and 60 wounded. The governor sustained a scalp wound. Half a battalion of Cossacks, summoned from Odessa, helped to suppress the tumult.

Situation Alarming.

Vienna, Aug. 10.—An Odessa despatch to The Trieste Il Picolo describes the situation as alarming. It says that the dockers were sacking shops and throwing their contents into the sea. The rioters put the chief of police to flight, tore down anti-strike proclamations and threatened to set the city on fire. At the first shot by the troops the Jewish population became panic-stricken and many fled afoot seaward, as the railroads were stopped.

FRUIT CROP OF CANADA.

Apples Seem to Be Plentiful Throughout Eastern Canada.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The July fruit crop report of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, just issued, says:

Weather conditions on the whole have been favorable for July, and hence there is no marked change since the June report.

Winter apples will be a full crop in Nova Scotia, medium to full crop in Southern Ontario, Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario Districts. In Eastern Ontario and Quebec the crop is light.

Early apples are a medium to full crop everywhere except in Quebec.

Pears will be a light crop, except in part of Southern Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Plums are a medium to full crop in all plum growing sections, with not more than the usual amount of rot.

Peaches promise well in Essex and the Niagara peninsula.

Grapes are a medium crop, except in Essex and Kent, where they are almost a complete failure.

CAVE OF THE WINDS.

Niagara From a New Point of View—The Scenic Tunnel on the Canadian Bank Is Partially Completed.

The world has its waterfalls. Canada has the world's waterfall in kingly Niagara. Its flood of great waters has held spellbound millions of sightseers who have come to its spray-shrouded feet as to a shrine, writes Frank Yeigh in Toronto Globe.

But a new wonder has been made available at the king of cataracts; a new revelation of its stupendous wall of white and green. As the prow of the Maid of the Mist is thrust into the very base of the thundering waters from the lower river level, so now the visitor may penetrate the age-long secret chambers back of the Canadian Horseshoe Falls, and gaze at the wonder from behind! It is a journey into the very heart of the mystery. It is a new disclosure of the might and majesty of this wonderful creation such as man has never before been able to enjoy.

The Scenic Tunnel.

All this has been made possible by the scenic tunnel on the Canadian bank, excavated during recent months, and now partially completed.

The present approach is under Table Rock. Entering the new tunnel (an under-world avenue 120 feet deep, cut through the slate that underlies the Niagara limestone), the journey is continued to a point where daylight suddenly appears. This is a lateral section of the tunnel coming out to the face of the cliff, within a few feet of the actual Horseshoe Fall.

The rock is further penetrated until a deep base roar thrills one, while the very rocks vibrate with the Titanic poundings of the ever-tumbling flood. The nerves tingle with the sensation, and the blood courses faster, as, rounding a curve of the grey-walled cavern, one actually sees Niagara from behind. There pours the cataract! There it sings its anthem of inconceivable power! There its white sheet acts as a pane of glass through which a strange, ghostly half-light percolates.

Spectacle in Perfect Safety.

An enlarged area at the mouth of the tunnel—sixteen feet wide—permits the vistors to gaze on the unwonted spectacle in perfect safety, and yet so near as to be in the very heart of the scene, and, as it were, feel the pulse of the cataract. Peering sheer upward, over a hundred feet higher, the eye can trace the first plunge of the green waters over the rocky edge worn smooth by the attrition of the centuries. One can follow the graceful curves of the fall as, by the impact of its leap, it makes the circle of an arch on its mighty plunge. One, too, may gaze sheer downwards, forty, fifty, feet, over a mass of jagged boulders to the point where the waters strike the rocks, producing that deep, dirge-like note that sings its own song beneath all other sounds. Here, as nowhere else, one may hear the everlasting music of Niagara, one may see the Wonder at closest range.

The sight fascinates while it thrills. In the space formed by the arched flood—possibly twenty or thirty feet from rocky wall to the falling water—is a gigantic cave of the winds, where roars a mighty maelstrom, as its imprisoned winds have roared and rushed in all their invisible fury through the countless aeons since God made Niagara.

The effect as seen from the tunnel aperture is indescribable. Through the shifting sheets of spray appear the arrow-pointed shafts of white water in the main fall, but in the intervening spaces chaos reigns supreme. Great gusts of wind sweep hither and thither in a vain attempt to find a vent, carrying within their grasp wraith-like curtains of mist.

A Feast for Dante's Soul.

It is such a scene as Dante would have feasted his soul upon. He would have made a pilgrimage from his beloved Florantine city had such a spectacle been possible in the middle ages. From below, the vapors belch upwards as if they were being projected from the mouth of a seething volcano—at times opening in regular fan-like form before being caught by cyclonic blasts and hurled against the cliff walls or across the face of the tunnel.

To the abrupt left-hand an occasional glance may be had of the cave-like space, over a hundred feet distant, where the Horseshoe Fall has its western boundary; but an attempt to pierce the cave on the right hand, along the way that leads to the great V-shaped vortex of the Horseshoe, reveals a dense whirling mass of waters, blown every which way, wherein no human being could live. No two combinations of mist alike, the scene takes on as many phases as a procession of clouds outlined against a summer sky.

Such is the sight that the ever-restless ingenuity of man has now made possible on the Canadian bank of old Niagara.

Contractor Conroy's Good Work.

The Burke's Falls Arrow contains the following note referring to a first class job performed by Contractor Conroy, who has just completed a contract on the lift lock here:—"The new town dock was finished on Monday. Contractor Conroy rushing matters the last few weeks and getting it completed a little sooner than expected. It was inspected on Tuesday by Mr. J. G. Sing of Toronto, who pronounced the work first class in every particular. It is 300 x 25 feet in size. All that is now required is a waiting room."

WANTED.

Prefers Peterborough.

After having lived in the much-talked-of Manitoba for four months, Mr. A. Hanna has returned to Peterborough, and will make his home here in the future. While not discounting the reports of the prosperity of the Prairie Province, he thinks that Peterborough is just as good as the best, and, on his return, purchased the Shearer residence on King street, and will continue to live here. Speaking of the crop prospects in the Northwest, Mr. Hanna said that while the acreage under crop would exceed that of last year, he believed that the aggregate number of bushels of wheat harvested would not be as large, however. An average yield of fifteen bushels per acre will be a fairly accurate estimate. Mr. Hanna is of the opinion that labouring men are as well off here as in Manitoba. The general run of wages for farm help is from $25 to $30 per month during harvest, which is no more than is being offered in Ontario, with expenses of living much less.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

GOLF.

A team from the Lambton Golf and Country Club of Toronto, was defeated by a team from the Peterborough Golf Club on the local links on Saturday afternoon by 21 holes up.

The Golf Links presented quite a brilliant appearance on Saturday afternoon on the occasion of the match between the Lambton Golf and Country Club of Toronto, and the Peterborough Golf Club. The course was in splendid condition, and the game, which was a superb exhibition of golf, was closely followed by a large number of spectators. The match resulted in a win for Peterborough by 21 holes up.

A strong wind was blowing, but outside of this the weather was perfect for golf. Each club played 12 men a side, and when it is considered that the Lambton club has 400 members to draw from, this victory is one which redounds with credit to all the players of the team, and to the Peterborough Golf Club.

The visitors arrived from Toronto on the 11.35 train, and were driven direct to the Links, where they were given a luncheon at the club house.

The match commenced shortly after one o'clock. After the match several foursomes were played. At 4.30 the Lambton players were driven to the C.P.R. station, where they caught the 5.10 train for Toronto.

A feature of the game was the splendid playing of Mr. George S. Lyon. He started the match by driving his ball on his first stroke quite a distance past the first green, which is 212 yards from the teeing ground. At the seventh hole his drive went twenty yards past a bunker, which is 240 yards from the teeing ground, making his drive here fully 260 yards.

The score was as follows:

LACROSSE.

The Athletics will hold a full practice to-night and also to-morrow afternoon in preparation for the game at the oval on Wednesday. O'Flynn will be here for the practices.

* * * *

The tickets for Wednesday's C.L.A. championship game at Nicholl's Oval are selling rapidly, and a great attendance is certain to be on hand when the ball is faced at 3 o'clock. The line-up of the team will doubtless be practically the same as in that of last Wednesday's game.

* * * *

President Lennox and Secretary Hall of the C.L.A., heard such good reports of the game played here last Wednesday, that they will be here on Wednesday, when the Athletics and T.A.S. play the deciding game at the oval. This will be an opportunity for the citizens to support the game, and a large attendance is looked for.

* * * *

Junior C.L.A. championship game at the Oval on Wednesday at 3.o'clock —T.A.S, vs. Athletics. Better secure your tickets now. 'Twill be the best game of the season.

* * * *

The Port Hope Guide does not take kindly to the action of the C.L.A. in not allowing the Ontarios to play a double schedule. It says, "Without the least exaggeration, Port Hope has the best senior team in the C.L.A." "And now a championship twelve must be content with third place."

BASEBALL.

In the Intermediate League only one game was played on Saturday, that between the Y.M.C.A. and the Victoria teams, the former winning in a score of 20—13. The batteries were for the winners, Patterson and Thornton, while Mulhern and Sawers were those of the Victorias. The League standing now is:

	Won	Lost.
Shamrocks	8	2
Y.M.C.A.	6	3
Victorias	4	5

CHEMONG PARK SUMMER RESORT.

A Review of its Attractions as a Haven of Rest and Recreation.

A MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

Cottages all Occupied, Hotel Full to Overflowing.

Capital Fishing This Summer—Splendid Boating and Bathing Facilities—Large Number of American Guests.

"See Seville, and die," the Spanish saying, is a poetical way of paying a tribute to the surpassing beauty and attractiveness of that city. "See Chemong, and live," would be the tribute of many a tourist to the beauty and recreative attractiveness of Chemong Park as a summer resort. Who has ever visited it, and tasted the delights of summer residence there, will come again, and stay as long as summer lasts, or the demands of life's duties will permit. Those who know Chemong Park need not, and those who do not may, be told that it is delightfully situated upon Chemong Lake, a sort of aqueous cul de sac of the Kawartha Lakes, and six miles from the beautiful and busy town of Peterborough. It consists of a bluff-like expanse of beautifully timbered park, grand old oaks and other trees at the eastern end, fringed with sturdy young pines at the south, and a dense, cleanly growth of cedars to the west, merging in the south-west, into a thick belt of the original forest. Nearly the whole front of the park is wooded down to the water. The soil is a light sandy and porous loam, covered with grass, and in dry weather pleasant to the foot, and is nearly always can be used, for in an hour after a heavy fall of rain the open soil has drunk up the rain, leaving the surface dry, fresh and clean.

The salubrity of the site of Chemong Park, is one of its strongest points of commendation to the health seeker and the rest seeker. The air is splendidly pure. In its lofty situation, "of a' the airts that wind can blaw,"—every breeze from every quarter — come over clean country. From the northward it passes over vast stretches of timbered country, and the shining faces of countless lakes; from the south-west—the prevailing quarter in the summer — the breeze comes from the broad expanse of Lake Ontario, and across forty or fifty miles of upland country, poisoned with no morasses, nor sources of malaria, while the pines and other evergreens that belt the park on the land side, load the air with their resinous fragrance, making it healing and sweet. Chemong Park is well watered. The bright waters of Chemong Lake lave its northward shores, and from the banks near the shore numerous springs of clear, pure water, filtered through miles of clean sand, come to the surface, showing their sparkling trickle as they pay their little tribute to the waters of the lake. Thus Providence has dealt lavishly in favours with Chemong Park, and it is no surprise that this little beauty spot, this sanitarium of nature, is at present populated with over 200 summer citizens.

A few years ago only was Chemong Park discovered—as a summer resort—and now 35 summer cottages and an hotel are occupied. This is the population at one time during the season, but the population in the aggregate is much greater, for the hotel guests and the cottage dwellers come and go in happy relays. At present every cottage is occupied, in numerous cases with the second or third set of tenants. Every room in the hotel is filled, and so great is the demand for rooms that guests are required to state the exact length of their stay so that their rooms will be available for waiting comers.

Chemong is a very pleasant place to stay. Not only are their grateful shade trees, cooling breezes, and pure water for drinking purposes, but fine water for boating, bathing and fishing. Mr. John Pope, the obliging and veteran caretaker of the park, has an excellent boat livery, and his commodious boat house is provided with shuffleboards and other rainy day aids to amusement. The bathing beach is unrivalled, especially for children. Though, contrary to the rule, for a considerable length of shore from the bold bluffs, a stretch of shallow water, floored with clean sand, extends to 300 or 400 yards of wading depth. The fishing is pronounced by the park dwellers to be first class this season. On Saturday Mrs. O'Reilly of Rochester, captured a 21-lb. maskinonge, and the day before a trio of fishermen landed with a catch of six fine lunge. In addition to boating there is the amusement of sailing, there being a fleet of three sailing yachts — Mr. R. M. Dennistoun's "Wha Hae," and "Pleo," and Mr. Hopwood's "Innominta."

Though Chemong Park is a delightfully restful resort, those who wish for quiet rational enjoyment can have it, and those who wish to convert their holidays into more or less strenuous hunts for excitement, instead of recuperation, have their chance also. A fine pavilion is placed in the park, 40 x 100 feet, used for dancing during the week, and for devotions on Sunday. Chemong, though it keeps itself aloof from the world, is careful not to divorce itself entirely from the world; it keeps itself in easy touch with Peterborough and the outside world, by a long distance telephone service. Leary's line of coaches plies regularly several times a day between Peterborough and the park, the Bobcaygeon stage makes two daily calls, and the steamer Ogemah daily touches and departs from the Government wharf, and there is a constant interchange of visits between the residents of the park, and the dwellers in less favoured parts of the Kawartha Lakes. On Saturday about a score of Americans, who are in summer retreat at Jacob's Island, made a friendly invasion of the park.

As remarked, 55 cottages are occupied, as follows. The numbers prefixed indicate not relative position, but merely numerical sequence.

1.—Mr. Alex. Elliott's "Rosewood" cottage, by Mrs. Gordon, Rochester, one son, two daughters, and guests.

30.—Mr. J. C. Smyth and family, Peterborough.

31.—Mr. John Pope and wife, Smith.

32.—"Saint's Rest", Mr. W. H. Rackham, town.

33.—Mr. Arthur Stevenson, wife and five children.

34.—Mr. Alex. Elliott, Peterborough, wife and two children, and guests Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradburn.

Cottages not being available, there are two tents set up near the hotel, one occupied by Mrs. Pearce, Walton street, town, children and two or three juvenile guests. The other is occupied by Mr. Turner, Peterborough, wife and party.

The hotel is full of visitors and Mr. Geo. Brown, the courteous and capable proprietor, reports that the present season is the most successful Chemong Park has enjoyed. He himself would have done a larger business if the capacity of the hotel had permitted. There is urgent need for enlargement of the hotel. If its capacity for guests were doubled all the additional space would be used by tourists, and it is to be hoped that some means will be found to provide the additional accommodation required. It is inhospitable as well as unprofitable to turn away our American cousins because we do not provide where to lay their heads. The following is a list of the present guests at Chemong Park hotel, some of whom have been there over two months :—

Mrs. W. H. Moore and daughter, Kathleen (American); Mr. and Mrs. Desbecker and sons Richard and Jack, Julius Levi, wife and daughter Bessie; Mr. Felix Wolfe, son Harry and daughter Maud, Buffalo; Mrs. Elizabeth Roby and brother, Rochester; Miss Estella Schwab, Rochester; Mr. F. D. Kinnear, Franklin, Penna.; Mr. E. H. Walke, wife and child, Rochester; Miss May O'Connor, Rochester; Miss Annie L. Breen, Miss Jennie Howell, Mr. Geo. Wein and wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Riley, Mr. Fred. Lutes, Mr. Geo. Dietrich, Rochester; Mr. A. Sykes and son Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Travis, Watertown, N. Y.; Dr. Allen Burns and "Moses", Toronto; Mrs. R. Burke and daughter, Miss Lydea Burke, Mr. J. H. Moran and daughter, Mrs. R. F. Burke, Miss Tillie Nord, Mrs. Theodore H. Bolt, Rochester; Miss A. Connolly, Syracuse.

Taking the average occupants of the cottages and tents at five and adding the hotel guests, 45, there is a total population of 220 at present domiciled at the Park, not including a large number who have stayed their time and departed, and not including the floating summer population, transient guest of hotel and cottages.

The scenic bits of beauty of Chemong Park have not been embalmed in railway guides as extensively as other parts of Kawartha Lakes, but on Saturday Mr. Fred. Roy visited the Park, making arrangements for taking a number of photographic views of the numerous beauty spots abounding at the Park.

MAJOR ARCHIBALD ON PRISON GATE WORK.

An Interesting Address at S. A. Barracks.

Canada Freer of Crime Than any Country in the World—Conversion of the Hardened Criminal.

There was a large congregation at the Salvation Army Barracks yesterday afternoon when Major Archibald gave an interesting address on "Prison Gate Work." The meeting opened with devotional exercises for which the band rendered some excellent music.

After expressing his pleasure at being present the Mayor spoke of his recollections of his last visit to Peterborough only one year ago. He then outlined his work of the past five and six years, which he said was one of great hope and which he thoroughly enjoyed. At first, he said, he experienced great difficulty in trying to uplift the men behind prison bars, men of whom a large majority were labelled "hardened" criminals. Major Archibald said that during the first year he used to go around and talk to the several prisoners in a friendly way, until he had straightened out the tangled threads of their lives. He spoke at some length on the Salvation Army Free Labour Union, by the means of which criminals, after being discharged were found employment alongside unionist men, which, he remarked, did wonders in reforming even the worst of bad characters. He incidentally remarked that by September the Free Labour Bureau would have secured positions for about 2,000 men, who have spent terms of different durations behind prison bars. Speaking of crime the Major remarked that there have been 5,321 serious offences committed during the past year, which, out of a population of 6,000,000 persons, showed Canada to be freer of crime than any other country in the world.

The speaker then touched upon the question as to whether drink was a motive for crime. He said that the hardened criminal—the man who would "hold you up" by pointing a revolver at your head was almost invariably the man who never touched intoxicating liquor.

He then dealt with the tramp element, a subject which is a most important one, and one which has been brought under the notice of the government, owing to the serious nature of crimes, which have of late been committed. The Major said that the man who went about from town to town with his arm in a sling and a woeful tale of starvation for a period of about three days duration, was the man to be most despised. These were not the persons who were really in need of charity, for, he said, those who need charity will not come and ask for it; you must find them out for yourselves.

In conclusion Major Archibald remarked, "We reach hardened sinners, and we undertake to help them. Bring a man to his God—to the God who put him in this world for some object. That is the only way in which the downward career of a man can be averted.

Thus ended a discourse on a work which is being done by the Salvation Army—a work which is without doubt benefitting the criminal class of humanity.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

An Increase in Traffic for the Past Year —Figures From a British Parliamentary Return.

According to a Parliamentary return just issued in London, the net tonnage passing through the Suez Canal for the past year shows an increase of 424,573 tons as compared with that of 1901, and of 1,510,261 tons as compared with that of 1900. The transit receipts in 1902 amounted to 103,720,020f., and were higher than in any previous year since the opening of the canal, showing an increase of 3,333,623f., as compared with those of 1901. The British Suez Canal Directors remark that no special reason can be assigned for the increase in the trade through the canal except that the economical situation of India has recently improved, and that there has been an increased activity in the trade with the East. The number of vessels which passed through the canal was 3,441 in 1900, 3,699 in 1901, and 3,708 in 1902, of which 1,935 in 1900, 2,075 in 1901, and 2,165 in 1902 carried the British flag. There was an increase last year as compared with 1901 in the tonnage of British vessels which amounted to 5,605,421 tons in 1900, 6,252,819 tons in 1901, and 6,772,911 tons in 1902. During the same period the tonnage of German vessels fluctuated from 1,466,391 tons in 1900, to 1,762,624 in 1901, and 1,707,322 tons in 1902. Of 2,733 merchant vessels and vessels in ballast, of a net tonnage of 8,061,483 tons, passing through the canal in 1902, 1,906 ships of a net tonnage of 5,848,460 tons were British being 69.7 per cent. of the number and fully 72.5 per cent. of the tonnage; 322, or 12.2 per cent., were German vessels whose tonnage was 13.3 per cent. of the whole; France, Holland, Austria-Hungary, and Russia, combined, furnishing a total of 13.2 per cent. of the vessels and 11.5 per cent. of the tonnage of the carrying trade to the East through the Suez Canal. In the ten years 1891-1900, the annual net tonnage ranged from 8,698,777 tons to 9,738,152 tons, and the transit receipts from 83,422,101f. to 90,623,608f. The average of the net tonnage was 8,588,947 tons, and of the transit receipts 80,006,013f., while in 1902 the net tonnage amounted to 11,248,413 tons, and the transit receipts to 103,720,020f. The mean net tonnage per vessel, which in 1881 was only 1,517 tons, rose from 2,067 tons in 1891 to 2,830 tons in 1900, to 2,926 tons in 1901, and to 3,034 tons in 1902. During last year the canal was used thirty-nine times by steamers exceeding 150 meters (492 feet) in length, or more than 18 meters (59 feet) in breadth. The number of troops carried through the canal during last year amounted to 89,946, as against 136,514 in 1901, being a decrease of 51,568. There was an increase on 8,528 British, 272 American, and 130 Portuguese, against a decrease of 21,597 Russian, 17,677 German, 13,433 Turkish, 6,743 French, 600 Italian, 245 Japanese, and 176 Dutch troops, as compared with 1901. The number of civilian passengers amounted to 98,218 in 1902, as against 92,046 in the preceding year, being an increase of 6,167, while the number of pilgrims, emigrants, and convicts was 40,499 in 1902, as compared with 41,661 in 1901, or a decrease of 1,162. In the year 1870, 26,758 civil and military passengers were carried through the canal; in 1880 the number rose to 98,900, in 1890 to 161,352, and in 1902 to 223,775, as against 270,221 in 1901.

GEO. H. KENT'S CASE RECALLED.

Dying of Bright's Disease, Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Recent Deaths of Prominent Men From the Most Dreaded of all Maladies Recalls the Fact That Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Conquered it.

Ottawa, Ont., August 10.—(Special)—The recent numerous deaths of prominent men from Bright's Disease, recalls the case of George H. Kent, of 408 Gilmour street, this city.

Mr. Kent, who is still living here, strong and hearty, was dying of Bright's Disease. He had lost the use of his limbs, and his whole body was swollen to a terrible size. Three doctors were positive that he must die.

While watching at his bedside his wife happened to read an advertisement that said Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Bright's Disease. They were sent for as a last resort. From almost the first dose Mr. Kent says he was benefitted by them. After taking four boxes he was able to sit up. Seventeen boxes cured him completely.

Mr. Kent's cure caused great excitement at the time. People who had heard of it came from far and near to see him, and all went away convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease.

This conviction is strengthened by a number of other cases reported throughout the country where this great Kidney remedy has been used, and Bright's Disease vanquished.

TO DAM NIAGARA.

Canadian and American Capital United for the Purpose—The Perilous Work of Jacques Foisy When Sounding.

It was just about three months ago that a group of men stood on the shore by the rapids above Niagara's Horseshoe Falls, when Jacques Foisy, girdled by a frail rope, went out into the stream and drove a spile into a crevice in the rock. Today a party of New York mechanical experts are superintending the hazardous task of damming the rapids above these falls, says The Brooklyn Eagle. The work is part of a plan for developing 125,000 horse power electrical energy and the cost when complete and ready for the power to do its work will be close to $7,000,000. The syndicate is known as the Electrical Development Company of Ontario, and some of the best engineering men of America have been called into requisition. They will beat back the rapids, dam their flow, dry up the bed of the river the falls for twelve acres, erect a new channel for part of its course. Then they will sink a shaft of 160 feet and create the power through thus diverting the water into it. To carry away this water after it has been used a tunnel 2,200 feet long will be built at a depth of 177 feet below the bed of the rapids. The exit of the tunnel for the discharge of the tail race water will be under the very brow of the falls.

Three Years to Complete Work.

It is estimated that it will take three years at least to complete the work and when accomplished the feat will be one unique in the annals of engineering. The money is being supplied by Canadian capitalists, but the work of construction is in full charge of Americans.

The work of constructing the coffer dam is a spectacular one. It bristles with startling suggestions. Ahead is the roar of the falls, the drop, the rocks, the whirlpool rapids and the Devil's Hole. Behind is the ceaseless torrent battling against the invasion, this chaining of its right to flow and run at will. Inch by inch the dam forces its way into the current, each foot from shore making the water deeper, the rush more terrific, and the battle between man and nature more singularly earnest. One foot, two feet, ten and now twenty-four feet is registered as the depth of these solid walls of water that roar against the dam, drenching the little corps of adventurous workers with its spray.

The dam will, when completed, be 2,200 feet in length. The cribs will be 24x16 feet, and each one will, it is estimated, be weighted with 225 tons of stone. When the work was commenced, many, attracted by the offer of excellent pay, came to apply for the positions. Most of them listened to the falls, glanced at the rapids and left. Some worked while the dam was being built near the shore, but left as it poked its narrow nose out into the stream. Today the most dangerous part of the work is being carried on by French-Canadian river men. These are the men that the Canadian poet, Dr. Drummond of Montreal, so well describes. They are men who from childhood have lived near to nature either in the woods felling trees, or riding the logs and driving them on through deeps and shallows to the mill. The roar of the water of Niagara is music to them. They do not fear but rush where the average man would hesitate to creep. They leap where most men would crawl. The rolling log for them is as certain as the wire to the rope walker, as the horse to the cowboy. When the waters are their wildest they are at home; when the wind whistles over its crest in hurricane they are not ruffled. They speak the French language, they are as tractable as active, and they have appetites as prodigious as their strength and bravery.

Jacques Foisy's Perilous Job.

The work is at all times perilous, but the climax is reached when Jacques Foisy takes the soundings in advance of the dam's course. The last soundings revealed a depth in the rapids of twenty-four feet. Three beams were placed out in these rapids, secured by ropes, and Foisy, attired in his usual costume and without oven removing the overalls, leaped out upon them. If the ropes should break, if he should slip, if the beams should overturn, and if one of those angry waves should rise just a little higher! But Foisy thinks nothing of all this, but commences to lower the iron bar that is marked off in feet and inches. Seizing this bar, the current endeavors to wrest it from his hands. Under the most favorable conditions, and with feet well planted upon the firmest land, to take the soundings of Niagara's rapids would be a perilous task, but here stands Foisy on three dancing timbers lowering the rod much more at ease than the spectators on the dam above. Vigorously he battles with the water and then the bottom struck he marks the spot and leaps lightly back to the crib.

Will Obtain 125,000 Horse Power.

But even after all the peril and danger of construction this dam is but a temporary affair and built, as stated, for the purpose of draining off twelve acres of the river bed to to the left by the Canadian side just above the Falls. When for the first time in the history of civilization this river bed is laid bare, an arm will be built to divert the water within its area. This water will drop 160 feet into the wheel pit which will be excavated in the rock, and through this drop the 125,000 horse power will be obtained. The wheel pit will be 400 feet long and 23 feet wide, and to generate this power ten generators of 12,500 horse power each will be used. The tunnel to carry away the water from this 160 feet drop will in itself rank as one of the most daring engineering feats of the day. This tunnel will be 26 feet high, 23½ feet wide and lie 177 feet beneath the river bed. It will be lined with hardest fire brick and concrete and the opening to carry out the water for the wheel pit will be made in the walls of rock underneath the Falls.

SIR EDWARD LAWSON, BART.

Commenced His Active Journalistic Career in 1857.

Sir Edward Lawson, Bart., whose Peerage is, as The Times says, the reward of The Daily Telegraph's "unswerving fidelity to the Governments of Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour," is the son of the late Mr. J. M. Levy, J.P., one of the founders of the cheap press, and was born in 1833. In 1875 he assumed by royal license the name of his uncle, the late Mr. Lionel Lawson. Commencing his active career of journalism in 1851, he was prominently connected with the repeal of the paper duties, and during the long period of his direction of The Daily Telegraph was responsible for the organization and success of funds in relief of the cotton famine in Lancashire, 1860-65, and of the windows and orphans of our soldiers and sailors in the South African war, the last amounting to over £250,000. Sir Edward sent the late George Smith on the Assyrian research expedition of 1873-4, the results of which he presented to the British Museum, and Mr. (now Sir Harry Johnstone to explore the Kilimanjar region of eastern Africa in 1884. In conjunction with the proprietor of The New York Herald, he organized Mr. (now Sir Henry) Stanley's great journey across Africa, 1874-7, whereby the Congo was discovered. Sir Edward married, in 1862, Harriette Georgiana (who died in 1897), only daughter of Mr. Benjamin Webster, and his elder son is Mr. Harry Lawson, Lieut.-Col. commanding the Royal Bucks Hussars, and formerly M.P. for West St. Pancras and East Gloucestershire, who has latterly exchanged a once vigorous Radicalism for political views more consonant with the hereditary principle.

PURSUIT OF MONEY.

SEVERE REBUKE TO MEN WHO MAKE GOLD THEIR GOD.

Points for the Consideration of Those Who Sacrifice Everything to Gain It —"How Tough the Old Man Is," Say Children of Their Father, Whose Wealth They Wish to Spend Unhampered.

Following is the text of a sermon that has attracted much attention and that was delivered by Rev. D. C. Hossack of Deer Park, Toronto, to his congregation a Sunday or two ago.

"It cannot be denied that the love of money leads to corruption and crime. A man who has loaned a small sum and who has received a comparatively large amount as interest inquired of a friend what rate of interest he had made. This friend replied that the Babbage calculating machine had demonstrated that at certain points in progressive numbers the law governing them changes, and that long before his rate of interest would be indicated the transaction would pass out of percentage and into larceny.

"The desire for money is a great source of evil. In the United States the Government report indicates that in one year 6,536 weights and measures had been found incorrect. It has been said that if a Boston merchant had the privilege of selling the Atlantic he would cheat in measuring it by the quart. It has been estimated that the United States loses more than half a million dollars a year by the use of a second-hand postage stamps. During one year there passed between Britain and the United States and Canada 14,000 newspapers containing correspondence. A convict making shoes by order of the Government was instructed to place pasteboard between the soles, where there should have been sound leather and, as he toiled, he may have thought of the blind leading the blind or Satan reproving sin.

Unable to Enjoy Life.

The love of money has a demoralizing effect and makes men think that beyond the pursuit of money there is nothing worthy of attention. The pursuit of money dulls the moral sensibilities and makes dim the spiritual vision. A blind man passing through a picture gallery cannot see the pictures, and if he never had sight cannot imagine their beauty. Not only are they who pursue money unable to enjoy the pleasures of life, but they place themselves beyond the possibility of enjoying other pursuits. They become warped by greed, and as the aged are seldom able to engage in the pursuits of youth, they cannot appreciate the nobler pursuits of life which might once have been theirs.

"Every occupation is a little world in itself. There are pleasures peculiar to it and a philosophy that is its own. The lumberman sees the beauty of the primeval forest with its pines and hemlocks murmuring in the breeze, the snow of winter and the grass of summer. The breath of the balsam is for him and the peace of the mighty solitude. The sailor has in his world the dark blue ocean and the glory of God's works upon the sea. "They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters, these see the works of the Lord, and his wonders in the deep." Many in their little world fail to see the beauty, to learn the lessons and to appreciate the philosophy; and of none may this be so truly said as of them who make haste to be rich and are blinded by their desires.

Striking With a Split Stick.

"Men think that the money is theirs, forgetting that it is God's. The image is Caesar's, the gold is God's; and for its use men must account to God.

"By many, success is supposed to atone for faults and to determine merit. What error! What is success in the market place? A number of men combine, rightly believing that in union there is strength. They obtain a corner on some commodity and advance the price higher than it has been for years. They think they are safe because they are in control, and have they not pledged their word to stand together? But one rogue breaks his word and sells and sells and sells while the price is rising. The combination is broken, and the rogue who was false has made millions, his portrait is in the magazines and he is applauded as an able financier and a success. But he is only a liar and a cheat. Cheating injures the cheat as well as the victim. Cheating is like striking with a split stick; it hurts the person rtruck and stings the hand that delivers the blow.

"In the pursuit of gold a man often begins well, but the love of money grows until it is a fire within him and he falls into temptation and a snare. At first he promises well; he will aid his family; he will be charitable; he will be a public benefactor. But he grows in his desire to be rich faster than he can afford, like the tree that makes wood too rapidly, and when he becomes rich he cannot properly control his wealth, for his nature has changed, he has become vulgar and coarse and will not do what he promised and what he intended to do.

"The greed for money prevents men from taking advice, and they feel that while others have perished, disaster is not for them and they will succeed. The minister may warn them from the pulpit and they retort that he had better confine his attention to preaching the gospel and not discuss what he does not understand. Their old fathers warn them, and they say that times have changed, that old, worn-out effete methods are useless now. The old merchant advises caution, and they declare that they must be abreast of the times.

Wealth Grinds Money Lover.

"A man learns to live with his money, thinks of it, gloats over it and is fascinated by it. The love of wealth grinds him as a grindstone whets steel. On the farm the grindstone was placed in the shade of the apple tree and at the noon hour the scythes were ground. A man is ground and sharpened by money. He begins to look at other men to calculate how much he may cut from them.

"What evil springs from the love of wealth! It breeds extravagance. Having made money and lived in splendid and extravagant fashion, men begin sometimes to fail, and when reduced in wealth they dare not curtail their expenditure, for a reduction in the cost of living would arouse the suspicion of watchful creditors or competitors. How many are living in gorgeous and extravagant misery!

"In the race for gold there is intense excitement, and, feeling the need of stimulant, men crave drink and with drink come other evils.

How Tough the Old Man Is.

"The love of money makes the heart hard and callous, and the bond of affection which unites the family is often destroyed. Children lose both love and respect for their parents and wait impatiently for their father's money. How tough the old man is! Who would have thought he would have lived so long! There never was trouble in the home before; there is trouble previous to his father's death; there is trouble when he dies; the will is contested in a suit at law; and discord is king.

Money, if properly used, is a blessing. It is a good servant and a poor master. It may be an aid to happiness, but it alone will not bring it. Loving kindness, genuine sympathy, unadulterated taste and freedom from dissipation will bring happiness when wealth will fail. If a man has an old father, mother or any helpless relative depending upon him, it is his duty to lay up money to provide for them. Money thus used is a blessing. It may be foolish to lay up money for sons who, knowing of it, will not apply themselves to any honest, toil; money then is a curse.

"Money is a blessing or a curse according to its use. It is like gravel, for if it be in a great heap it will impede travel; and if it is applied to the highways it will benefit all. It is like water, for in rain it will cause the earth to blossom, and in a flood it will destroy. In itself money is a good thing, for it may relieve distress and make a land smile with plenty. Many use it well, and they are like angels of light to men and women who have been sitting in great darkness."

A Novel Kite Competition.

An interesting competition is to be carried out under the auspices of the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain, to ascertain the maximum height to which it is possible to fly kites. The trials will take place on the Sussex Downs. The contest is of an international character, so as to obtain considerable data relative to the utility of kites for meteorological operations, and the best type of kites with which to attain high altitudes. There is no stipulation regarding the size of the kites, but only single kites must be employed, and a height of 3,000 feet is fixed as the minimum. The duration of flight must be one hour. Each kite will carry a weight of two pounds to represent scientific instruments. Several enthusiastic kite flyers have decided to participate in the contest. Various materials in the manufacture of the kites will be employed. Most of them will be made of canvas, but one will be flown constructed of aluminum. This is a decided novelty, but it is anticipated that it will work satisfactorily. The string is steel wire wound upon a big reel, and weighing fifteen pounds to the mile, so that at an elevation of 15,840 feet the kite will have to support a weight of 45 pounds. There will also be an exhibition flight by Mr. Patrick Alexander of almost every kind of kite used by man, inclusive of the Japanese and Chinese. In the event of there being insufficient wind to lift the kites from a stationary position, it is proposed to employ motor cars to give them a flying start, in precisely the same manner in which a boy runs, dragging his kite behind him in order to obtain sufficient atmospheric resistance to cause the kite to rise.

How He Settled Theft Charge.

In a Scotch country parish not long ago, says Tit-Bits, there lived a church officer who had filled that post and that of grave digger for the long space of fifty years. Suspicion had long been entertained that he was in the habit of helping himself out of the collection plate whenever opportunity admitted. It was difficult, of course, to prove this. At last, however, the sum of £1 was abstracted from a missionary box which stood in the vestry, and everything combined to point out this man as the culprit. The elders told the minister that something must really be done. The reverend gentleman said he would make investigations.

The following Sabbath, after the morning service, the minister was taking off his gown and bands, and, being alone in the vestry with the suspected man, he thought the opportunity was too good to be lost, so he said:—

"Andrew, have you heard of the money that is a-missing from the box?"

"O'ay," said Andrew. "I was hearing something aboot it."

"Andrew," continued the other, very gravely, "this matter lies between you and me. We are the only two who have access to the box. Either you or I must be the thief."

"Deed, sir," rejoined the imperturbable Andrew, "it is just as you say; we're the only two that has had access to the box, and I think the best way'll be for you tae pay the half and I pay the tither, and sae nae mair aboot it."

A Story of George III.

The death of Dr. Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, last winter recalled the manner in which Archbishop Sutton, who was at Lambeth Palace when Dr. Temple was born, received his appointment from George III., says a London paper. One night after the death of Archbishop Moore Dr. Sutton was entertaining some friends at the Windsor Deanery. There was a knock at the door, and the butler announced that a gentleman outside who would not come in was anxious to see the Bishop. Impatient at being disturbed, Dr. Sutton hurried to the door to find the King. "How d'you do, my lord?" said King George. "I've come to tell you that you're Archbishop of Canterbury. D'you accept? Eh? Eh?" The Bishop bowed, and "All right," said the King. "You've got a party. I see all their hats there. Go back to them. Good night."

PUNISHMENT.

Social progress has done away with a great many forms of punishment once administered under the laws of enlightened people. But nature never changes or modifies her penalties. She still has the same punishment for the man who neglects or abuses his stomach as she had in the far off days "when Adam delved and Eve span."

The physical discomfort, dullness, sluggishness, irritability, nervousness and sleeplessness which are visited upon the man who eats carelessly or irregularly have been from the beginning the evidences of disease of the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the diseased stomach and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, so that the sluggishness, irritability, nervousness and sleeplessness which result from innutrition are cured also.

"I was taken sick nine years ago with fever," writes Mr. M. M. Wardwell, of Linwood, Leavenworth Co., Kansas. "Had the doctor and he broke up the fever all right, but I took diarrhea right away; he couldn't cure it and it became chronic, and then he gave up the case. I got so weak with it and had piles so badly I couldn't lie down, nor hardly sit up. Was that way two or three months; thought I would never be well again, but picked up one of Dr. Pierce's Memorandum Books one day and saw your description of catarrh of the stomach. I thought it hit my case. We had a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house that was got for mother. You recommend it for catarrh of the stomach, so I went to taking it. The one bottle nearly cured me. I got two bottles next time and took one and one-half and was well. I haven't been bothered with diarrhea since."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks —Market Letters.

The feature of the market at the opening was the drives against the shorts in C.P.R., which was advanced six points above Saturday's close to 126. The rest of the list was extremely nervous and irregular. Some of the leading stocks declined to new records on this movement. U.S.Q. was especially weak, dropping to 67. The shorts however were disconcerted by the advance in C.P.R., and their covering in the list caused a rally of from one to two points. The announcement that the clearing house sheets had gone through without more failures led to steadiness. The fundamental conditions which have caused the decline are still in force and we advise the sale of all stocks on all rallies.

PARK ST. BAPTIST 15TH ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated Yesterday in an Appropriate Manner.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

The Pastor Preached to Large Congregations Morning and Evening.

Pleasing Afternoon Service by Children of School—Addresses by old Teachers—Movement to Erect New Church Started.

Yesterday was one of special interest to the members of Park street Baptist church, it being the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the establishment of the church. The services of the day were of a special character, appropriate to the occasion. They were conducted by the pastor, Revd. A. H. Brace, who preached both at the morning and evening services, and gave an address in the afternoon. The interior of the church was very tastily decorated with flowers, the work being done by the young ladies of Miss Annie Brace's Sunday school class, and was certainly a credit to their artistic taste.

A report of the two excellent sermons preached by the pastor has been unavoidably held over until to-morrow.

The afternoon service was held at the regular Sunday school hour, three o'clock, and when that hour arrived the church was filled with members of the church and Sunday school and friends. The chair was taken by Mr. T. G. Gillespie, who, upon opening the meeting, expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large number present, evidencing their interest in the affairs of the church and their desire to help in its progress. A number of choruses were sung by members of the school in a very hearty manner, interspersing prayer by the pastor and reading the scripture lesson. The chairman then called upon Miss M. Mann, the superintendent to read the history of the church and school, the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of which was being celebrated. The following is a slightly abbreviated history of the school, but is in substance the sketch given by Miss Mann:—

"This Sabbath school, which to-day has been in existence a decade and a half, was organized on the second Sunday in August, 1888.

"Some time previous to this the late Rev. Alex. Grant, who was then Superintendent of Home Missions, while taking a walk in the south end of the town along with the then pastor of the Murray street church, Rev. P. C. Parker, said to Mr. Parker: 'Here is a good place for a mission.' Very shortly after this, on the suggestion of Mr. Parker, those interested residing in the South Ward, met on the above date in the brick building known as the 'Mission Building,' situated on the north side of Dalhousie street, between Rubidge and Stewart streets, to begin the work we to-day review.

Mr. R. J. Kidd was elected superintendent, and Mr. E. Mann secretary-treasurer, with the following teachers: William Stock, Miss Maggie Mann, Miss Lily Minore, Mr. E. A. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. Cuckoo and Mrs. Fitzgerald. The attendance the first Sunday was 20. There was a gradual and steady increase in attendance week by week. The school from the very beginning was self-sustaining. On the 24th Jan., 1890, the first social was held, which has since become an annual affair, being held on or about the same date each year. From reports read the school was shown to be in a flourishing condition. The receipts from all sources for the year was shown to be $127.00. Shortly after this the school was called on to lose its first secretary, Mr. W. E. Mann, who removed to British Columbia, and also the pastoral care of Rev. Mr. Parker, who removed to Toronto to his present charge.

"The second annual social was held Feb. 3rd, 1891, with Mr. Henry Grundy, superintendent, presiding. From reports read we glean the fact that the school reached during the year an attendance of eighty, the average being fifty-five, with nine teachers.

"The librarian, Mr. Milton Minore, reported 273 volumes in the library. During year the school came in possession of a legacy bequeathed by the late Mrs. Charlotte J. Nicholls, amounting to $500.

"At the third annual social in February, 1902, and the last in the old building on Dalhousie street, progress was reported, although much hampered by accommodations. The largest attendance during the year was ninety. At this meeting Rev. J. E. Trotter, of Murray street, was present and gave an address. The sum of $170, out of the Nicholls bequest, was expended at this time in the lot we are at present located on, and during the summer of 1892 a building was erected which forms the main part of our present edifice.

"This began a new era in the school's history. Increased accommodation and a more favourable locality gave a decided impetus to the work. The opening services were held on the second Sunday in October, 1892. The pastor, Rev. J. E. Trotter, preached the first sermon.

"In January, 1893, Mr. Grundy resigned his position as superintendent and Miss M. Mann, our present superintendent, was unanimously elected in his place. During this year the highest attendance reached 116 and the lowest 75, with an average of 96. This year Rev. J. J. Reeves, of McMaster University, was engaged for the summer months to work in the field. His faithful labors were of great help to the school and quite a number of the scholars were brought to know the Lord Jesus as Saviour.

"A very great advance was made in 1894. Bro. W. J. Pady, of McMaster University, labored in the field, and his services in the Sunday School were greatly blessed. By his efforts a large number who attended no school were induced to join ours and the attendance mounted up to 142. During this year a goodly number of the scholars were brought to Christ, of whom ten were added to the church by baptism. In 1895 and 1896 both showed progress, especially the latter year, when the attendance reached its highest point, 204, with an average of 168. During this year twenty-eight from the school were baptised and added to the church.

"The years '97 and '98 were also highly successful under the safe leadership of Rev. O. C. Elliott, the pastor, and the membership continued to grow.

"The report for the year 1898 gives the following:—'While the year just closed has not been marked by any events of a special character, we believe and know that the presence and power of the Holy Spirit has been manifested. Of those members of our school who gave evidence of having passed from death unto life seven have been baptised and added to the church. The membership of the school at this time was 242, average attendance, 155. One scholar, Mabel Bolse, passed away to be with Jesus. In the beginning of June 1899 the school lost one of its most efficient and faithful teachers, namely, Mr. Grover. His place remains yet to be filled.

"One of the encouraging features of this year was the number of scholars that had been converted. Owing to a number leaving town the average attendance in 1900 was less than the preceding year. About the middle of June 1901, our pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott, removed to Belleville. During his pastorate our two adult Bible classes reached their highest membership. Pastor Elliott's class of men numbered 35, while the ladies' class, with Mr. T. G. Gillespie as teacher, numbered 19. These adult classes proved to be a good influence and a great help to the school. Rev. J. H. Hanna immediately followed Pastor Elliott. Through his earnestness and clear views in teaching God's word the Bible classes and school were benefitted. Mr. Reekie, from McMaster University, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture on Egypt, illustrated by limelight views, which was very much enjoyed by the school and all present. On the fifteenth of March, 1902 Rev. J. H. Hanna resigned the pastorate. The church was two months and a half without an under shepherd. The hearts of all now rejoice that God heard our prayer and sent Rev. A. H. Brace, one of His chosen ones, to be our beloved pastor. God is already blessing the school in the conversion of scholars. The fields are white unto harvest. Let us all wait upon the Lord that there may be a great ingathering of precious souls into His Kingdom.

Go labor on, spend and be spent;
Thy joy to do thy Father's will.
It is the way the Master went;
Should not the servant tread it still?
Toil on, and in thy toil rejoice.
For toil comes rest, for exile, home.
Soon shalt thou hear the Bridegroom's voice,
The midnight peal, "Behold, I come."

Are not the promises of God sure:—"Cast thy bread upon the waters; thou shalt find it after many days." God's Word will not return unto Him void. "In the morning sow the seed, and in the evening withold not thine hand, for thou knowest not whether shall prosper this or that, or whether they shall both be alike good." Only God Himself knows the future. May it be bright and glorious, filled with consecrated service."

The above report of the superintendent is very interesting, and most satisfactory, showing, as it does, the great progress the school has made during its existence.

This was followed by a duett rendered very pleasingly by Messrs. Brace and Harris, and the primary class, led by Miss Mowry and Miss Pilling, sang a chorus which was much appreciated. Following this Mr. Gillespie read greetings received by Miss Mann from Rev. P. C. Parker and Rev. H. Grundy, former workers in the school, extending congratulations on reaching its fifteenth anniversary.

Messrs. Stock and Routley, former teachers in the school, were then called upon for addresses and each expressed himself as being highly pleased to witness the many signs of growth and prosperity manifested, and hoped that ere long a new and larger building would be erected in which the congregation might worship.

The pastor, Rev. A. H. Brace, then gave a short address in which he spoke of the need of a new church building, and expressed the belief that it would only be a matter of a short time before the hopes of the former speakers would be realized and a church erected which would be a credit to the denomination.

He also spoke briefly to the members of the school. Miss Annie Kindred then sang in a pleasing voice, a very effective solo, which brought the afternoon service to a close.

The report of the evening meeting, together with that of the morning will be published in to-morrow's issue.

EXCELLENT CONCERT GIVEN BY 57th BAND.

Some New Selections Presented in Victoria Park Friday Evening.

By an accident to the type, in about two thirds of Saturday's issue the following report of the excelent band concert given on Friday night, was curtailed. It is felt that the programme was such a deserving one that a full publication of the article in to-day's issue should be given:—

There is no diminution in the popular favour in which the Fifty-Seventh Band is held, no falling off in the high quality of the work, and no diminution of the popularity of the weekly band concerts. Friday night, notwithstanding the disagreeably low temperature, there was a great throng in Victoria Park to listen to the excellent programme, so excellently presented. While the numbers presented were most enjoyable last night, there were two notable additions. The first was the overture to Auber's "Fra Diavolo," and later came a beautiful excerpt from the third act of the opera Attilla. This latter number, though a part of the music of Verdi's earliest operas, is characteristic of his style, and with a beautiful theme, beautifully worked out by the composer and the interpreter Friday night—the band, while many of the passages were intricate and involved, with much broken time, the several performers, or sections, filled in their several parts, with each other like clock-work, for exactness, while the shading was not by any means neglected. The work of the band was beautifully clean and finished, not only in this selection, but notably in the overture to "Fra Diavolo," which was repeated at the request of many persons, some of whom did not arrive early enough to hear the first presentation. Beginning with a tympanum solo, artistically performed by Mr. Robert Beach, with an exquisite diminuendo, the entire selection followed, with a splendid performance, the burden of the work being thrown upon the wood wind, which most creditably sustained the responsibility. The work of the band throughout shows two things—capable instruction, and a capacity to profit by it.

An especially pleasing number on the programme was a vocal solo, rendered by Mr. J. Gillogly, whose selection was "The Handicap", sung to an accompaniment by the band, which, in itself was worthy of special mention. Mr. Gillogly had to respond to a demanded encore.

CALLED HELP FOR FRIEND.

Samuel Warner Died of Heart Failure From Shock After Accident.

Midland, Aug. 11.—A very sad accident occurred in the power house of the municipal electric light plant. The town were installing a new three-hundred horse-power Wheelock engine. The engine was almost in position when it canted over slightly, and Henry Chester was caught between one of the blocks and the engine and his foot was badly broken in two places.

Another man, Samuel Warner, was near Chester, and, when the engine shifted he called to the other men to help Chester, and got up himself, but directly after he fell over and expired. He did not seem to be injured in any way, and it is surmised that his death was the result of heart failure caused by the shock. The remains will be taken to Prescott for burial.

"COME AND HELP US"

Macedonia's Cry of Despair to the Civilized World.

BALFOUR ON THE BALKANS.

Britain's Policy Is to Aid Austria and Russia in Introducing Elements of Sound Government — Russia Demands Satisfaction For the Slaying of Russian Consul Who Called Gendarme a Pig.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 11.—The delegates here of the Macedonia Committee addressed the following appeal to each of the representatives of the powers:

Your Excellency:

"The delegates of the Macedonian Committee have the honor to bring to your notice the following declaration, with the request that you communicate it to your government.

"Mussulman's systematic persecution has compelled the Christians in Macedonia and the vilayet of Adrianople to institute a general rising. They have had recourse to this extreme measure after exhausting all pacific means to secure the intervention of Europe to enforce the provisions of the Berlin treaty. At the present moment this intervention is the only means of remedying the evil and stopping bloodshed. The sporadic efforts of the powers to secure reforms having failed, they are said merely in recrudescence of Turkish fanaticism and government oppression.

"It is evident that reform measures to be efficacious must include the appointment of a Christian governor-general of Macedonia, some one who has never held office under the Porte, and who must be independent of the Turkish government in the exercise of his functions and the further appointment by the powers of a joint permanent administrative with full power to deal with any disturbances.

"Having published the foregoing facts to the civilized world and made known the causes which have driven Macedonians to despair, the committee of the Macedonians now in arms proposes to continue the fight till the object of their uprising has been attained."

8,000 Insurgents Under Arms.

The representatives of the Macedonia Revolutionary Committee have published a statement saying that the number of insurgents in the District of Monastir is 8,000, and that they are armed with rifles. It also states that in August 2,600 insurgents destroyed three detachments of Turkish troops numbering altogether 100, and attacked the Town of Kitchevo, but failed to occupy it. The insurgents, however, destroyed the Turkish Village of Drougov, whose inhabitants had come to the assistance of the garrison of Kitchevo. The statement further says that three Christian villages, Smilevo, Kruche and Bolno near Monastir have been completely destroyed by the Turkish troops.

BALFOUR ON THE BALKANS.

Blames the Revolutionists For the Trouble Rather Than the Turks.

London, Aug. 11.—The Balkan situation has assumed a more serious aspect in the eyes of the British officials as the result of the murder of the Russian Consul at Monastir. It is expected that the Russian demands for the punishment of the murderer and the responsible officials will be followed by others of greater international interest, and affecting the general Balkan question.

The state of affairs in Macedonia was brought up in the House of Commons yesterday, but Premier Balfour declared he was unable to give any satisfactory assurances regarding the situation. The latest news reaching the Government, he said, was far from reassuring. Mr. Balfour acknowledged the ill success of the efforts of Europe in the Macedonian question since the signing of the Treaty of Berlin, but he thought that the critics of European diplomacy should not forget the extraordinarily complicated difficulties of the task. He was still hopeful that the plan recently designed by Russia and Austria would prove the best way of dealing with the problem. Between the outrages deliberately planned by the revolutionists and the license of the Turkish troops, the historical truth required him to say that the balance of criminality lay rather with the revolutionists than with the Turks. Mr. Balfour said everything possible would be done to impress the Porte with the necessity of keeping its troops well in hand, and every assistance would be given to the Porte in carrying out that object. The British Government's policy, concluded Mr. Balfour, was to aid Austria and Russia in introducing the elementary principle of sound government, which for the present constituted the best means of dealing with the deep-seated evil.

DEMANDS SATISFACTION.

Russia Calls Turkey to Account For Its Dead Consul.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The Czar has demanded the exemplary punishment, not only of the murderer of the Russian Consul at Monastir, who was killed last week by a Turkish gendarme, but of all the military and civil officials in any way responsible for the crime.

The assassination of the Russian Consulat Monastir, M. Rostkovski—the second murder of a Russian consular official in Macedonia within a few months—has created intense indignation here.

In reporting the occurrence to the Foreign Office, the Russian Ambassador at Constantinople telegraphed

"The Russian Consul at Monastir has fallen the victim of an atrocious crime. The Grand Vizier and the Turkish Foreign Minister have come to me with expressions of regret in the name of the Sultan. Ferid Pasha, the Grand Vizier, informed me that the assassin was a gendarme named Hamlin and that he will be subjected to the severest punishment, and the Vali of Monastir will be removed from his post."

In reply Count Lamsdorff, the Foreign Minister, telegraphed to the Ambassador Aug. 9:

"His Majesty has received a telegram from the Sultan expressing his deep regret at the death of the Russian Consul at Monastir. When I submitted your telegram to the Emperor His Majesty gave orders that you should not confine yourself to receiving explanations from the Grand Vizier, but should make the most energetic demands on the Turkish Government for full satisfaction and immediate exemplary punishment both of the murderer and of all of the military and civil officials on whom responsibility for the audacious crime may fall."

According to the report made by the official now in charge of the Russian Consulate at Monastir, the murderer is a gendarme. The Consul asked his name, because, in defiance of instructions, the gendarme did not salute him. The gendarme thereupon fired several shots, mortally wounding the Consul in the head and hip. The horse drawing the carriage in which the Consul was driving received two bullets and shots were also fired at the coachman.

Called Him a Pig.

Belgrade, Servia, Aug. 11.—According to reports received here, M. Rostkovski abused the Turkish gendarme, who was doing sentry duty, for not saluting him, and called him a "pig of a Turk," then he struck the sentry with his whip, saying, "Next time perhaps you will know me." The gendarme thereupon fired on the Consul. It is stated that M. Rostkovski was hated by the Turks on account of his intense arrogance.

DESPERATE MEN CAUGHT.

Escaped Prisoner From the Central Taken With Two Other Crooks While Committing a Burglary in Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Caught redhanded, in the full light of day, Quackenbush, the notorious escaped convict, with two others of Toronto's worst crooks, is again in the toils of the police. The trio were arrested while in the act of committing another burglary.

Since the escape of Quackenbush from the Central Prison some weeks ago, there has been a systematic search instituted all over the province. As a result of the increased vigilance on the part of the detective force he was brought to bay while burglarizing the premises of Mrs. Adeline Brodie, 469 Sherbourne street. The other two prisoners arrested were Stephen Doyle and Thomas Gallagher, alias Murphy, both of evil reputation. One man escaped.

The arrest of the three men was the result of cool and clever work on the part of Detective Forrest, and the police express the greatest surprise that a serious tragedy was not the outcome of the incident. All three burglars were armed to the teeth, and although an attempt to shoot Detective Forrest was made by Gallagher, the other two dropped their revolvers and threw up their hands when the muzzles of four police guns in the hands of Forrest and Acting Patrol Sergeant Pogue were turned on them.

ROWLEY SENTENCED

Elgin Loan Wrecker Gets Twelve Years in Penitentiary.

MAKES A DRAMATIC PLEA.

Asks For the Court's Clemency on His Record of the Past Third of a Century in St. Thomas—Hopes Yet to Recover Some of the Ground Lost in Unfortunate Speculation.

St. Thomas, Aug. 11. — George Rowley, the defaulting manager of the Elgin Loan Company, who pleaded guilty a few weeks ago to one charge of perjury, came before Judge Ermatinger at 11 o'clock yesterday morning for sentence. John A. Robinson at some length pleaded extenuating circumstances, and Rowley was allowed to make a speech.

Rowley thanked His Honor for the privilege of stating his case. He reviewed his career in the city since he came in 1867, and recounted the history of his life during that time. He told how he made the first false step, and how he had gone on in the hope of recovering money and restoring it to his clients.

He appealed for a merciful sentence in order that he might endeavor to repay at least some of the money he had taken from those who had trusted him.

Rowley spoke in good voice and well chosen language, showing much emotion, and at the close sat down, buried his face in his handkerchief and wept.

Judge Ermatinger spoke earnestly of the excellent character Rowley had maintained as a citizen for many years, and of the shock he had experienced on learning of his downfall.

He considered Rowley had been in a better position to resist temptation than a hardened criminal. One of the most serious phases of the case in His Honor's mind was the discredit brought upon the church to which he belonged, and to the cause of religion generally by his conduct. If he, the judge, had only his own feelings to consult he would perhaps pass a lighter sentence, but he had a public duty to perform, and it was incumbent of him to pass a sentence which would deter others holding positions of trust from doing as he, Rowley, had done.

The judge passed sentence as follows: On the charge of theft 12 years in Kingston Penitentiary; on each of the three charges of forgery 12 years, and on the perjury charge seven years, all the sentences to run concurrently. Rowley appeared dazed at the sentence, and remained seated in the court room some time after all had left except the jail officials.

ONTARIO AND THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

(The Globe)

Each part of the Dominion from New Brunswick to British Columbia inclusive, will profit directly by the immediate construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and no other part has a greater beneficiary interest in the project than Ontario. We have in this province a vast woodland region waiting for development. It extends from the Quebec boundary on the east to Lake Nepigon on the west, and includes some sixteen million acres of habitable land, most of it covered with timber for which there is already a market and which is rapidly becoming extremely valuable. For seven hundred miles from west to east this will be traversed by the new transcontinental railway which is to be constructed, if the project goes through, without any direct expense to the Province.

Unlike a great deal of northern Ontario south of the height of land, this vast region, instead of being broken up into pockets by masses of eruptive rock, and intervening lakes, is made up of wide areas of arable clay, traversed by numerous rivers. All we know of it justifies the conviction that in point of climate as well as soil, it is fitted to become the home of a great population dependent on agricultural industry for a living. The city of Winnipeg lies a little south of the fiftieth parallel of latitude. Lake Abbitibbi, near which the Grand Trunk Pacific will pass from Ontario into Quebec, is south of the forty-ninth parallel. Every part of the railway, except where it passes to the north of Lake Nepigon, will in Ontario be farther south than Winnipeg, and, therefore, much farther south than any part of the Canadian Pacific Railway west of Brandon. Lake Abbitibbi is more than two hundred miles south of Calgary, more than four hundred south of Edmonton, and more than five hundred south of the Peace River District, which is commonly regarded as one of the finest parts of the Northwest Territory. In the same latitude a forested country has climatic advantages over a prairie.

If the soil of the northern clay belt is at all like that of the Temiskaming district it is of exceptional fertility and depth, and there is reason to believe that this is its character. Before the soil is cleared there is a crop of valuable timber to be taken off and turned to account. It is made up largely of trees suitable for pulpwood and railway ties, and for these there is a steadily increasing demand. This is especially the case with railway ties. The railway mileage of North America is rapidly extending, and it will continue to do so for many years to come. The tie timber of the United States is approaching exhaustion. It requires an enormous number of ties each year to replace those rendered useless by wear and decay, to say nothing of the many hundreds of miles of new railway annually constructed. Some railway companies are resorting to forest cultivation for a future supply of tie timber, but for a long time they will have to depend on the supply furnished by nature, and of that northern Ontario and Quebec will soon have a virtual monopoly. In these two provinces the Grand Trunk Pacific will traverse twelve hundred miles of the timber forest.

Fortunately for Ontario the Legislature, at the instance of the present Government, has undertaken the construction of a railway from North Bay to the north end of Lake Temiskaming, where it enters a flourishing settlement. By the time the Grand Trunk Pacific is ready for traffic it will by an extension of the Temiskaming railway be connected with the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific systems at North Bay, so that the whole northern region will become accessible to all who for any purpose desire to visit it. From all that is known of the character of that region it will be found exceptionally free from engineering difficulties of almost every sort, so that rapidity of construction and favourableness of grading may be confidently expected. That the Temiskaming railway will be of a high character in these respects is now a matter of engineering certainty.

SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE'S VIEWS.

(The Globe.)

The statement upon which Sir William Van Horne lays the most stress is that "never will the grain of the Canadian West be hauled to the Atlantic seaboard voluntarily by any Canadian railway by rail route alone." It is not necessary to dispute this dictum in order to defend the construction of that portion of the proposed transcontinental railway east of Port Arthur. Sir William will admit that every western railway system must have an eastern outlet, notwithstanding that the lakes are depended upon for the transportation of the overwhelming bulk of western products during the season of navigation. There is no escaping the fact that for five months of the year the lakes are closed, and it would scarcely do to have communications between the east and west cut off during those five months. Could the Canadian Pacific be cut in two in this way without fatally injuring it? The answer must be in the negative, and it applies equally to any western railroad system. The great bulk of merchandise going from older Canada to the west goes in wholly by rail. Would the manufacturers and merchants of the east be satisfied to be cut off from their western consumers for five months of the year? If the Government plans involved such a defect they would be vulnerable indeed.

Sir William says that grain will never be transported to the seaboard by the all-rail route. No tyro would have the temerity to dispute a statement of that kind, coming from such a source, but of one thing we may be sure, that the constructors of the new line will take advantage of the railway lore that has accumulated since the Canadian Pacific was built. Part of that lore enforces the lesson of the supreme importance of the avoidance of steep gradients and sharp curves. To increase the haulage capacity of locomotives is the highest study of the railroad engineer to-day, and it is certain that no effort or reasonable expense will be spared on the new road to take advantage of what has been learned in this respect. On certain choice portions of well-constructed American railroads it is claimed that the cost of rail haulage has been reduced so near the water level that it may not be an impossible dream that grain may be profitably moved all-rail to the seaboard, especially in periods when high prices for grain prevail.

STEEL BY NEW PROCESS.

A Plant Will Probably be Erected to Manufacture it at Niagara Falls.

A special despatch from Niagara Falls says: There is every reason to believe that a plant will be erected on the Canadian side of the river on the Welland River near Chippawa for the manufacture of steel by the Ruthenberg process, which was demonstrated so successfully at the Tonawanda steel plant several weeks ago, and which excited so much interest among steel experts. By the Ruthenberg process steel is manufactured by the aid of electricity and for this reason it will be necessary to locate the proposed plant near the location of the Canadian power plants. Canadian capitalists are interested in the scheme.

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD MEETING.

Short Meeting Held at Lindsay Yesterday.

Number of Factories Sold at 9 7-8—Nearly 1000 Boxes Remained Unsold

A short meeting of the Victoria cheese board was held on Monday morning in Lindsay. There were nearly one thousand boxes which were not sold. The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Brown, for Flavelle, Bailey for McGrath, Cooke and Gillespie.

Brown opened the bidding at 9c., which was quickly raised to 9 1-4c by Cooke. Fitzgerald bid 9 3-8, and Bailey said 9 1-2. Fitzgerald raised 1-4c and Cooke bid 9 13-16, which Fitzgerald raised to 9 7-8, and at that figure called Star, Dunsford, Reaboro and Maple Leaf, all of them accepting.

Brown for Flavelle, called at the same figure, Cambray, North Verulam and Bobcaygeon, All accepting. Cooke bid 9 7-8 for Omemee alone, and after considerable discussion was allowed to take, although there is a rule that no buyer shall take less than 300 boxes. Bailey at 9 13-16 called Janetville, North Ops and Red Rock, the first named being the only one accepting. All the other factories remained unsold. The following factories boarded the amounts set opposite their names:—

C. P. R. LAND GRANTS

Settlement Reached Between Government and the Railway.

10,000,000 ACRES RELEASED.

Land Chosen by the Company Under the New Agreement Is Situated in What Is Known as the Semi-Arid Belt —The Tract Is 150 Miles Long by 50 Miles Wide—A Good Stroke.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—It is understood that an agreement has been reached between the Government and the C. P. R., whereby a selection has been made of practically the last of the land grants which the company had earned or acquired in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories. This will place at the disposal of the Government for other purposes considerably over 10,000,000 acres of land which had been reserved to enable the C.P. R. to make its choice of land, and consequently have not been heretofore available for settlement.

In the Semi-Arid Belt.

The land chosen under the agreement referred to is situated in what is known as the semi-arid belt, lying alongside the main line of the C.P. R., and consists of about 2,950,000 acres. The company also propose to take on account of their land grants another tract of about 100,000 acres of semi-arid lands adjoining the irrigation tract of the Alberta Railway & Coal Company. The tract along the main line of the company, as now decided upon, is about 150 miles long by 50 miles in width, extending eastwardly from Calgary to Langevin Station, and being bounded on the north and south by the Red Deer and Bow Rivers respectively.

The company presumably have good reasons for accepting semi-arid in preference to fertile lands, such as the contract calls for. The cost of irrigating the arid lands has been estimated at $3.50 per acre, and as over 3,000,000 acres are involved the total outlay for rendering the entire tract cultivable will be $10,500,000. In return for this large expenditure, however, the company will doubtless be able to settle a district of 145 miles in length, and so develop considerable business for their own main line, whereas if they selected land in other parts of the country, not traversed by the C. P. R., the result would be to create traffic for competing lines.

A HEAVY DAY'S WORK.

Several Measures Sent on to the Senate—Proposal to Fix Maximum Railway Rates Voted Down.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—Yesterday was the one hundredth working day of the session, and the House of Commons displayed commendable energy and promptitude in the despatch of public business. The bill incorporating the G. T. Pacific was given its final stages, after a discussion lasting about an hour, several amendments being lost on division. The Government bill establishing a railway commission and consolidating the law relating to railways was also passed after an amendment by Mr. W. F. Maclean, fixing the maximum passenger rate at two cents per mile, had been voted down. Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill making provision for the retirement of Judges was also passed and sent up to the Senate. The last of the supplementary estimates for the year, which ended in June last, were concurred in and a supply bill founded thereon passed. Other Government business having been pretty well cleared off the order paper, the Premier's bill providing for the construction of a national transcontinental railway will be taken up to-day and will take precedence of other Government business until disposed of.

Transportation Commission.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the letter in which Sir William Van Horne declined to act on the transportation commission was received by the Government on the 25th of July last. Previous to this date the Premier said Sir William Van Horne had not been informed of the arrangements for the construction of the transcontinental railway, nor had the Government ascertained Sir William's views in regard to the proposed transcontinental railway policy.

The Premier also stated that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Bill would be taken up to-day and debated every day until disposed of.

Liberal amendments proposed to the bill incorporating the Grand Trunk Pacific were declared lost. The bill was given its third reading.

For a Maximum Rate.

Mr. Maclean moved his amendment providing for a maximum passenger rate of two cents a mile on Canadian railways in connection with Clause 263 of the Railway Bill, which deals with passenger tariffs. He said railways had existed in Canada for over fifty years. During all that time the passenger rates had remained the same. All other forms of rates had been reduced. Freight rates had been cut in two, and by this reduction traffic had grown and the railway revenues had increased. If passenger rates are reduced, said Mr. Maclean, the railways will have larger receipts, and a great benefit will be conferred on the Canadian public. He then went exhaustively into the whole question.

Mr. Jabel Robinson, who seconded Mr. Maclean's motion, said the member for East York had exhausted the subject. He thought, too, that the railways, as well as the people, would benefit from a 2-cent rate. The proof might be found in the popularity of excursions for which reduced rates are given. Mr. Robinson recalled the rate war that took place two or three years ago when the low rates brought about a heavy passenger traffic. Nearly every train could carry twice as many people as it could, and these extra passengers would mean increased revenues without any increase in expense.

Mr. C. B. Heyd said Mr. Maclean had devoted a great deal of attention to this question, but he had still some important facts to learn. Only one railway in Canada earns $3,000 a mile, which is the basis of the two cent rate in Michigan. The Canada Atlantic with 458 miles, earns $316,000 a year, or $700 a mile. The C.P.R., with 7,321 miles, $9,000,000, or $1,300 a mile. The Grand Trunk, with 3,100 miles, $262,000, or $210 a mile. The Canadian Northern 1,248 miles, $262,000, or $210 a mile. The Canada Southern, with 282 miles, $1,377,000, or $3,600 a mile. With a capital of twenty-eight millions the latter declared a dividend of only 2 per cent. and the stock is quoted at 62. The earnings of the above named railways all told is only eighteen millions. Mr. Heyd said they should be fifty-five millions to justify a two-cent a mile rate.

Mr. Philip Demers, Liberal member for St. John and Iberville, said he felt a cordial sympathy for the movement for a two-cent rate. Between Montreal and St. John, Mr. Demers stated, the distance is 25 miles, and a single ticket cost one dollar, or exactly four cents a mile.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that it would be a grand thing if people could travel on railways as on the king's highways, for nothing, but the member for East York must admit that passengers must pay some tolls for the service they receive. Everyone agreed that reasonable tolls should be charged. It would not be advisable, however, to fix an iron limit as Mr. Maclean proposed. There must be elasticity in the rates, the Premier declared. In some localities two cents a mile might be a high rate and on other localities three cents a mile might be low enough. Sir Wilfrid argued that the question of passenger rates should be left to the railway commission, which could be depended upon to redress all grievances. He suggested that the high rate between Ottawa and Prescott is due to the fact that the country between these points is very thinly settled. The Premier agreed with Mr. Demers, however, that there was no justification for a four-cent rate between Montreal and St. John, Que.

The amendment was declared lost.

Mr. Maclean then attempted to move another amendment, but was ruled out of order, so Dr. Sproule moved that the rate be fixed at 2½ cents a mile, this rate to apply to lines east of Fort William.

Mr. Maclean then spoke to this amendment, which was defeated on a vote of 45 to 34. Among those who voted for the amendment were Messrs. Kendal, Oliver, Demers, Turgeon and Christie.

The Railway Commission Bill was then read a third time and passed.

Spectacles and Eye-Glasses
—AT—
The Tate Optical Co's

We are doing one thing extremely well—making Good Glasses. In fact the best Glasses made in Canada today. Perhaps you may think this a strong statement, but it is written deliberately and meant to be convincing.

We examine your eyes carefully, and in our examining room we have all the latest instruments for that purpose. We are Eye Specialists, and our long years of experience make us experts. In the rear of the office is a work shop equipped with the most modern machinery for optical work—the only shop of the kind in Peterborough. Surface grinding of lenses is done on the premises. When you buy a pair of glasses from us we grind the lenses to suit the requirements of your eye. WE DO NOT pick them haphazard from a box of numbered lenses.

Our patients are in all parts of the Dominion. We will be pleased to answer mail orders. Particular care is given to the fit of frames and mounts.

One of our patients, Miss Beavis, writes: "Before coming to you for Glasses I had spent over $50.00 in my endeavour to get satisfactory Glasses, but, thanks to your skill as opticians, I am now enjoying perfect vision and comfort."

A Magnificent Walking Cane.

Last night Mr. Peter Simons, jr., was the recipient of a very handsome ivory handled walking cane, the gift of Mr. M. Tooley, the geniaf proprietor of the Queen's Hotel. The handle, which is itself very heavy, is truly a magnificent one and it is only a matter of justice that Mr. Simons will prize the cane very highly.

The Charlotte Street Church Epworth League held a delightful moonlight excursion down the river last night, which was largely attended and at which, from all outward and visible appearances everyone seemed to be happy. FIFTH CONGRESS OF THE CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE.

Of the British Empire to be Held in Montreal.

The Delegates From Peterborough—The Sessions to Commence on Monday and Will Probably Last Until Thursday Evening.

To Montreal falls the honour of being the meeting place of the fifth Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, the importance of which cannot be over-estimated. Already numbers of chosen delegates have arrived at their destination, and are awaiting the opening of the session, which will take place on Monday, August 17th. It is expected the Congress will sit for four days, and the delegates will on Friday evening be tendered a banquet at the Windsor Hotel.

Among the officers of this Congress, which is the largest and most representative trade body in the world are: Right Hon. Lord Brassey, K.C.B., Right Hon. Lord Avebury, Earl of Jersey, Duke of Argyle, Right Hon. Sir Henry Fowler, the Earl of Hopetown, and many others of high standing. The members of the Congress are men who have won world wide reputations in the commercial life of the colonies as well as the mother land. They are men whose opinions on trade represent the ideas of the thousands of business men of the British Empire. Consequently they are men who are highly honoured and, as a group, considered one of the great supports of the Empire of which, of which Canada is so important a member.

The first Congress was held in the year 1886, with J. Herbert Tritten, president. The second Congress was held in 1892 with Right Hon. Lord Avebury presiding. The third Congress over which Sir Albert K. Rollitt, M.P., presided, met in 1896, and the last in London in 1900, with Sir Albert G. Sandeman, president of the London Chamber of Commerce, in the chair. Thus it will be seen that this is the first Congress which has been held outside the United Kingdom, and so Montreal can be justly proud of the very high honour which has been bestowed upon her. To say that many delegates will be present, is scarcely necessary. These captains of industry are coming from Alexandria, in Egypt; from Colombo, in Ceylon; from India; from Pretoria, which only a few years ago was an army city hostile to Great Britain; from Australia and New Zealand; from the West Indies. Great Britain will send over about 200 representatives, and the Canadian Boards of Trade will send altogether about 100 members to the congress, or more than all the others combined. As anything that is done is on the principle of an association on vote, the Canadian delegates will not have any advantage from numbers in this direction.

The following is a list of the subjects which will be under discussion and which, it can be seen, is of a varied nature. In connection with each subject one or more resolutions will be submitted and voted upon after, however, amendments which may be proposed are dealt with:—

Alaska Boundary.
Canadian Bankruptcy Law.
Codification of commercial law of the Empire.
Commercial education.
Commercial relations between the Mother Country, her colonies and dependencies.
Commercial travellers' licenses.
Consular service.
Copyright.
Defences of the Empire.
Migration to the colonies.
Far East.
Fast steamship services.
Foreign treaties and tariffs
Imperial contracts.
Imperial postal system.
Importation of Canadian cattle into Great Britain.
Light dues.
Metric system of weights and measures.
Naturalization laws.
Newfoundland.
Patent law administration.
Railway communication.
Resources of the Empire.
Title to British North America.
Trade disputes.
Trade marks.
Wireless telegraphy.

Among the regulations are the following:—

The speaker who opens a subject will not be allowed more than thirty minutes and subsequent speakers not more than fifteen minutes. Each association is entitled to one vote, irrespective of the number of delegates it may have present.

Delegates on rising to address the convention must announce their names and associations.

The public will be admitted by ticket only.

The arrangements for the Congress are completed and the social side has not been neglected for on Monday evening, August 17, an at home will be held at the Board of Trade Building. On Friday evening, as has previously been stated they will be tendered a banquet at the Windsor Hotel. It is expected that at the conclusion of the session many delegates, mainly from the United Kingdom and sister colonies will take a trip west to see the country.

The delegates who will represent the Peterborough Board of Trade are Messrs. D. W. Dumble and H. Burnham, men in whom it is felt the people of Peterborough have great faith and men who will, it is assured, keep that faith by doing all in their power to benefit, not only their country, but also their town.

A Correction.

In yesterday's issue of this paper, in the report of the C.G.E. Angling Club's excursion on Saturday, it was stated that some difficulty was experienced in procuring sufficient to eat. This was an error, as all who accompanied the excursion had the "inner man" fully satisfied.

A very sudden death occurred at Campbellford yesterday, when Rev. W. J. McCloskey, parish priest of the Roman Catholic congregation there, died about noon.

The deceased priest had not been feeling well for about a week, but no serious results were anticipated, in fact he intended to officiate at mass on Sunday as usual, but at five o'clock on Sunday morning he was taken quite ill but was some better yesterday, and it was thought that he would soon be well. He died, however, about ten minutes to twelve o'clock.

THIRD RACE WON BY THE IRONDIQUOIT.

Came in 2 Minutes and 16 Sec. Ahead of Canadian Boat.

Defender Defeated in a Six Knot Breeze—Deciding Race To-morrow.

Toronto, 2.25 p.m.—"The Irondequoit wins by 2 minutes and 16 seconds." is the despatch received by Messrs. E. M. Poussette & Co. this afternoon and tells the story of the third race for the Canada Cup. The first two went to the Strathcona easily, but to-day the tables were turned. Interest will as a result be intensified in the deciding race to-morrow.

Despatches from Toronto to Messrs E. M. Poussett & Co., giving the result and progress of the yacht race are as follows:

11.00 a. m. — "The yachts are now jockeying for the start. The wind is blowing from the west at about 6 knots an hour, and prospects are for a good race. The course is a triangular one—7 miles to a leg."

11.15 a.m. — "Looks as if the American boat was leading by about 10 0yards at the start but on account of the smoke it is very hard to tell. There is a splendid breeze blowing and both yachts are heeling over at right angles."

12.15. — "The Irondequoit passed the first buoy 50 yards in the lead."

1 15. — "The Irondequoit is leading by one-half mile."

London, August 10.—Application was made to a Magistrate in the Marlborough street police court today for a warrant for the arrest of promoter E. T. Hooley on a charge of fraudulently obtaining signatures to checks and bills of exchange amounting to over $650,000. The magistrate reserved his decision. On Saturday Attorney Finlay instructed the director of public prosecutions to investigate some of the transactions of Hooley in connection with the Sapphire Corundrum Mine of Canada. Hooley's meteoric financial career and failure were the sensation of London a few years ago.

GETTING READY FOR A NEW SEASON.

The Secretary and the Committees of the Y.M.C.A. are busy at the present time forming plans and arranging the work generally for the new season which opens in September.

The social, educational and Bible study committees have held very enthusiastic meetings and a programme is promising this year which will be in keeping with the marked increase in all lines of Y.M.C. A. work, which has been witnessed in the new building.

The prospects were never better, nor the work so popular with young men.

The fall announcement will be issued about the first of Sept. and will this week be placed in the hands of the printer.

Mr. Alpin, the new Physical Director, is now at the Y.M.C.A. Training School and will take up his work here on Sept. 1st.

That the work in the gymnasium will be conducted with increased vigor and interest goes without saying as the new director promises to be a most capable man and a worthy successor of Mr. Ayers.

There is no better time than the present to join the association. There should be a large increase in the membership this year.

My! but it Tastes Nasty!

That warm and tasteless, hydrant water. Give us Batten's well water any day before such mawkish sickening stuff. "Put ice in it." Worse and worse. It's only safe with equal parts of Henry's good old rye whiskey or Brandy. But for a cool, refreshing and wholesome summer drink, use our fine light claret or domestic wines, or a bottle of good pure lime juice, which purifies the water and is very beneficial in cases of rheumatism or blood impurities. The Henry Co.

An Interesting Photograph.

There is on exhibition in the show case outside Mr. G. E. Whiten's photographic studio, a photograph in which considerable interest is centered. It is an enlargement of a photograph of the local lacrosse team of 1883, which won the North Eastern championship of the C. L. A. The photograph is a very excellent one, and one face in particular, that of Mr. E. Brown is very truly reproduced. The following is a list of the names of the players, the numbers agreeing with those on the picture:—Messrs. M. Halpin, 1; Joe Joyle 2; Dr. Brennan, 3; Thos. Meagher, 4; Albert Rose, 5; Father Phelan, 6; Captain Coughlin, 7; Edward Brown, 8; Fred. Stephenson, 9; Thos. Duncan, 10; Thos. Isbister, 11; F. Larone, 12; Joe Begley, 13.

Mr. Whiten is indeed to be congratulated on his skill in making such an excellent enlargement.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life, I had a severe and sudden attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful, I could hardly realize that I was well again or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents cured me." For sale by all druggists.

Judging by the interest manifested, the game at the oval to-morrow will be witnessed by a record crowd. This game will decide the C.L.A. championship of this district and the winners of the game will go into the semi-finals for the Junior C. L. A. championship. Mr. J .B. Henderson of Orillia, will referee the game which will be witnessed by some of the C.L.A. officials. In order to facilitate entrance to the Nicholls oval for the game to-morrow a stile is being put in the fence, at what has been the main entrance, so it will no longer be necessary to climb the fence.

• • • •

As the Orillia juniors defaulted to Lindsay, it is very likely the green and white will play the first semi-final C.L.A. game with the winner of the Peterborough district. The game will be played about the 20th.—Lindsay Post.

It is expected quite a few of our local lacrosse sports will go to Peterborough on Wednesday to see the Athletics-T.A.S. game.—Lindsay Post.

A publication of great interest to lawn bowlers has just been issued. It is the Canadian Lawn Bowlers' Hand Book for 1903, and is a most useful volume, containing the rules of play, list of tournaments held, list of clubs in Ontario, with the officers in each, and in most cases, half tone cuts. The publication is honoured by having those of Messrs. R. C. Boucher, M.D., Hon. Pres., R. Kerr, Pres. and H. Rush, jr., Hon. Secretary of Peterborough Club. Judging by the number of clubs in Canada as enumerated in this hand book, the game is taking a firm hold upon the sport loving element in the country.

ROYAL CANADIAN HENLEY.

Argonauts Broke a World Record and Beat the Winnipegers.

St. Catharines, Aug. 10.—Large crowds were the order at the final races in the Royal Canadian Henley regatta Saturday. The stand was well filled with enthusiastic spectators, while the shore along the course was thronged. The weather was ideal on this the last day of the gala event, except for a strong wind blowing from the southeast, which caused the course to present a somewhat ruffled appearance. The events were well filled, and expectations of those present ran high at the prospects of fast races and close finishes. Nor were they at all disappointed, as the competition throughout was keen. The feature of the day was the lowering of the world's record by the Argonauts in the senior eights. They went the distance in 6.33 3-5.

The Events.

Junior doubles, final—Argonauts 1, Brockville 2, Dons 3.

Junior singles, final—Hamilton 1, J. E. Coltson (Don) 2, W. Graham 3.

Intermediate fours—Argonauts 1, Ottawa 2.

Intermediate eights—Argonauts 1, Dons 2.

Intermediate doubles—Argonauts 1, Brockville 2.

Intermediate singles—Smith rowed over; Coltson defaulted.

Senior singles—Scholes 1, Vesely 2.

Senior eights—Argonauts 1, Winnipegs 2.

GEO. H. KENT'S CASE RECALLED.

Dying of Bright's Disease, Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Recent Deaths of Prominent Men From the Most Dreaded of all Maladies Recalls the Fact That Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Conquered it.

Ottawa, Ont., August 10.—(Special)—The recent numerous deaths of prominent men from Bright's Disease, recalls the case of George H. Kent, of 408 Gilmour street, this city.

Mr. Kent, who is still living here, strong and hearty, was dying of Bright's Disease. He had lost the use of his limbs, and his whole body was swollen to a terrible size. Three doctors were positive that he must die.

While watching at his bedside his wife happened to read an advertisement that said Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Bright's Disease. They were sent for as a last resort. From almost the first dose Mr. Kent says he was benefitted by them. After taking four boxes he was able to sit up. Seventeen boxes cured him completely.

Mr. Kent's cure caused great excitement at the time. People who had heard of it came from far and near to see him, and all went away convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease.

This conviction is strengthened by a number of other cases reported throughout the country where this great Kidney remedy has been used, and Bright's Disease vanquished.

Says He Stole $80,000.

Boston, Aug. 8.—In a letter written last Tuesday from Montreal to the pastor of his church in East Boston, Willard S. Allen, treasurer of the Preachers' Aid Association of the New England Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, confessed that he was a defaulter to the amount of more than $80,000 of the society funds. Mr. Allen has been treasurer of the society for 12 years and clerk of the East Boston District Court for 20 years.

Valuable Time Saved.

Slight injuries often disable a man and cause several days' loss of time and when blood poison develops, sometimes result in the loss of a hand or limb. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment. When applied to cuts, bruises and burns it causes them to heal quickly and without maturation, and prevents any danger of blood poison. For sale by all druggists.

Irish Bill Past All Danger.

London, Aug. 11.—The report on the amendment to the Irish Land Bill was read in the House of Lords last night and the bill will probably be passed to a third reading to-day. John E. Redmond, Nationalist, said last night:

"The Irish Land Bill may now be regarded as past all danger. If it works, as it is confidently hoped it will, there is no question but that it will effect a revolution in the condition of Ireland."

Mr. Pirie Still Lives.

Hamilton, Aug. 11.—At a late hour last night there was no change in the condition of A. F. Pirie, editor of The Dundas Banner, who put a bullet through his brain Saturday night. He is still unconscious, and there is little hope of his recovery.

A Great Little Worker.

During a long life time the heart will propel half a million tons of blood through the body, and so long as the blood is in a healthy condition it will repair itself as fast as it wastes, patiently keeping up the play of the valves and the rhythm of its throb. If the action of the heart gets weak, irregular and fluttering, the blood is lacking in nourishing qualities and requres usjt such assistance as is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorer.

Fell From Church Tower.

SMALL GROUP OF STATUES.

This Is the Growing Time and There Is Prospect of More Monuments Being Erected at Ottawa.

It is not the habit of the Canadian people to put many men on pedestals, writes H. F. G. in Toronto Star. Our praise is so careful that it is even reluctant. Although Quebec is given to hero-worship, the nation as a whole is slow to kindle. Perhaps this is the reason why the thirty-six years of Confederation contribute only four statues to Parliament Hill.

As a matter of fact, there ought to be five statues. George Brown, one of the foremost makers of Confederation, is not in the little galaxy. But the Liberal Government, which added Alexander Mackenzie to the Pantheon, will probably rear a bronze to the statesman of whom Mackenzie was merely a disciple. All these statues are erected by Government grants. It is only natural that the great political parties should each attend to the memories of its own illustrious dead This explains why Alexander Mackenzie did not get his statue until a couple of years ago, and why George Brown has one coming. The Conservatives, although so long in power, did not turn Parliament Hill into a cemetery. They left a number of choice spots for the celebrities of the future. In twenty-five years they raised only two statues. Of course they had to wait until the men died before they could build monuments to them; but on a simple calculation of time they selected only one great man for every twelve years. This shows more restraint than the Liberal Government, which has one to its credit in six years. However, this is a growing time, and the crop of statues may be expected to follow the general tendency. Perhaps an average might be struck. If Canada can produce enough great men to make it figure out one in nine years, her renown is assured.

On Dominion Day these four statues looked down on a city gay with flags. All of them had more or less to do with the great event which was being celebrated. There was, for instance, Queen Victoria, who sanctioned the Confederation, because her Ministers told her that it was the right thing to do. Ottawa owes a debt to Her Majesty, for without her royal word it would not be Ottawa and the capital of the Dominion, but just Bytown, a headquarters for shantymen and camp supplies, not much bigger than Pembroke or Arnprior. There was also Sir John A. Macdonald. There was, for a third, Alexander Mackenzie. The fourth was Sir George Cartier, who fought for the cause of union in Quebec.

The oldest of these statues, and the finest from an artistic point of view, is Cartier's. The figure is simple and strong. The pediment is not plastered with allegorical fantasies. The man's greatness stands detached from the vagaries of the sculptor. It is as if he scorned any symbols to interpret him, relying solely on his deeds which are on record. This way it should be with all statues. Nothing should distract the mind from the man who is commemorated. Cartier's statue is, by the way, the best piece of bronze on Parliament Hill. It patinates beautifully. It is very different from the Mackenzie statue, in which the bronze is of such an inferior quality that it already blisters with rust and verdigris. The Cartier statue was erected in the early eighties. Sir John Macdonald was present at the unveiling and delivered the panegyric. It was a cold blustery day in October, and the old man stood bareheaded through the ceremony.

The statue of Sir John Macdonald stands at the eastern end of the terrace against a background of trees. It is remotely vis-a-vis of Cartier's statue, which occupies a similar position at the western end of the terrace. The bronze is by Herbert. Hebert is a French-Canadian who lives in Paris. He has had most of the artistic commissions in the gift of the Government, because he is a good sculptor, and because, in this as in other matters, it is well that Canada should be for Canadians. Hebert has given an excellent likeness of Sir John, and has even succeeded in lending impressiveness to the spare, rather unsculpable figure. Canada is symbolized at the base in the shape of a beautiful woman. But the effect is to take away from rather than to enhance the dignity of the work as a whole. This statue was set up in 1893. Sir Adolphe Caron was the orator of the occasion. Arthur Weir, the poet, now dead, recited an original ode.

Alexander Mackenzie has suffered most at the sculptor's hands. His gaunt, angular frame did not lend itself readily to idealization, and the artist made matters worse with a stilted pose and his uncouth treatment of the conventional frock coat. Mackenzie's right hand is extended It seems to be out of proportion. At any rate it entirely overshadows the Scotch Premier and makes him shrink by comparison. Here, as in the Macdonald statue, the symbolical figures of Canada raising labor from the ground—which are the work of Hebert—are excellent in themselves, but very much out of place as an ornament. Hebert is not to blame for the Mackenzie part of it. Another man did it.

Hebert's chef d'oeuvre is the statue of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, which occupies the most commanding position on Parliament Hill, the big knoll which flanks the western block. It is the first thing to seize the eye from the central gateway and is the only statue that can be seen from the river. The Queen is presented standing, as she was in her prime. The sculptor has used his artistic license to give her the required effect of height and regality. The whole spirit of the work is allegorical. The British lion in a noble, rampant attitude and the figure of Fame offering the great Queen a wreath of laurel are well conceived. The motif is harmonious. This statue, at least, does not try to prink itself out with shreds and patches of idealism.

When the King Kissed Her.

King Edward IV. of England was always in need of money and was in the habit of personally appealing to his wealthiest subjects for contributions. An old chronicle relates this story: "King Edward had called before him a widow much abounding in substance and no less grown in years, of whom he merrily demanded that she gladly would give him toward his great charges. 'By my troth,' quoth she, 'for thy lovely countenance thou shalt have even £20.' The King, looking scarce for half that sum, thanked her and lovingly kissed her. Whether the flavor of his breath did so comfort her stomach or she esteemed the kiss of a King so precious a jewel, she swore incontinently that he should have £20 more, which she with the same will paid that she offered it."

CANADIAN TARPON.

Newspaper Sport Finds Them and Sees Exciting Sport Done With the Aid of a Special Harpoon.

It occasions surprise to the visitors who occasionally come to fish the rivers tributary to Gaspe Basin, Bay of Chaleur, for salmon and sea trout to find boats lying around fitted out for harpooning, and to discover that men are still rated according to their skill as harpooners.

They are so rated. But how are the mighty fallen! It is no longer against the mighty mammals of the north seas that their energies are directed. There is no return value in oil, whalebone, or ambergris to make their homecoming eventful. The stern business has become a sport now, and the men who would have struck and played and lanced a prey of tons in weight in those days are content now to get fast to and kill fish of 200 or, at most, 300 pounds.

It is rare sport they engage in, though little known and seldom heard of outside of the bay. The fish is the tarpon, with energies greatly multiplied by the cool northern waters.

They tell a tale at Point St. Peter, on the other side of the bay, of a medical man who had labored among the tarpon of Santa Barbara, Cal., and came to investigate the Gulf of St. Lawrence variety, writes a sporting newspaper man.

Against all local advice he persisted in trying for the monsters with hook and line. He persuaded a lad to row him off to where a little herd were disporting themselves, and after long hours of fruitless casting induced a lusty youngster to fasten on. Springing to his feet to play his fish, he showed himself to the creature, which contemptuously yanked him out of the boat in an instant and then sailed away with his expensive tackle. The sports hereabout learned long ago that it was no use trying to take these fish with rod and tackle.

A pretty little harpoon, with a regular detachable hinged shaft, has been invented for the purpose. To it is "bent on," as the harpooners say, a very long quarter-inch line of great strength. This line is carefully coiled in a whaling bucket in the forward part of the boat. To use the tackle the assistance of the experienced, quick-eyed, and resourceful local fishermen is essential. On a bright day it is not difficult to find the fish.

They are often seen sailing about with their back fins and parts of their broad sides above the water. Sometimes they are in playful mood, and turn themselves about with a rapid, churning motion, which displays their shining sides to great advantage. Occasionally they have leaping contests, and exhibit their immense silvery brightness, in all its glory, in the sunlight.

The fishermen differ in their theories as to the proper way to approach without disturbing them, some being guided by the direction of the wind, others by the slant of the sun, but they all manage to get up to them if allowed to have their own way about it.

To cast the harpoon properly is not quite so easy as it looks. The professional imparts a quivering kind of motion to it as it leaves his hand, and sinks it into the back of the fish up to the hinge, more than half way up the iron.

No one who knows the tarpon will have any doubt as to his attitude henceforth. He intends to fight the fight of his life from that time on.

Sometimes, while cruising about waiting for the big fellows to show themselves, a school of bluefish are encountered. As these, though rather dry, are considered fair eating, it is not unusual for the harpooner to take a shy at one of them. Though they run up into the hundred-weights and are powerful-looking things, after the first flurry they may be hauled to the boatside easily enough.

But it is not so with the tarpon. When he feels the steel he is just as likely as not to jump out of the water a dozen times, or will at once make off for deep water at lightning speed. In either case, the men at the oars row in the same direction, to save line, as there is no knowing how far the stricken fish may travel. And if too much strain is put upon the harpoon, which is purposely made of soft, ductile steel, it may wrench free, leaving the fish to die in helpless misery.

One party last year made fast to a rugged old warrior weighing 240 pounds, which they fought over five miles of water and through five long hours, before he came in on his mighty side and was towed ashore. When near enough to the boat, a slender lance is used to despatch the fish, which otherwise, in spite of appearances, may retain enough strength to break away with vicious speed when shoal water is reached.

The sport is by no means without its spice of danger. A kink in the coiled line is almost as dangerous as in whaling. One old fisherman at Sandy Beach lost his arm through catching it in the bight of a line as a big tarpon was running it out. Another, to get a grip upon the line by which he was holding an exhausted fish his comrade was about to lance, passed it around his hand. The thrust of the steel only lightly pierced the tarpon, which gave a prodigious leap on to the boat, which it overturned, and put such a strain upon the line as to cut the fingers to the bone, crushing them so that amputation was necessary.

There is a case on record of a very large fish towing an exhausted boatload all night long, the approach of day showing land almost out of sight and the fish as vigorously as ever making for the other side of the Atlantic. The wearied fishermen cut their line and let go.

It will be seen that tarpon fishing is no child's play in these waters. Nevertheless, those men of stout nerve and fair strength who are anxious to experience a new excitement might do worse than endeavor to get next to a couple of hundred-weight of tarpon in the invigorating and well-stocked waters of the Bay of Chaleur.

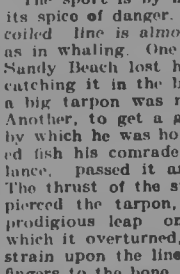
A Quart Baby.

Now and again there is an item in the newspapers concerning the birth of a puny baby so small that a quart cup holds it comfortably. If the article told all the facts it would probably tell also of a mother who in weakness and misery had looked forward to the baby's advent with shrinking and fear.

To have fine, healthy children the mother must be healthy, and it is the common testimony of mothers that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only promotes the mother's health but also gives her strength to give to her child.



"Favorite Prescription" accomplishes these results by tranquilizing the nerves, promoting a healthy appetite, and giving refreshing, sleep. It increases physical vigor and gives great muscular elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless. It is the best of tonics for nursing mothers.

"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, of Mills, Northumberland County, Va. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I ever did before. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 50 one-cent stamps for the cloth-bound volume, or only 31 stamps for the book in paper covers. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE INSTINCT FOR DOLLS.

Rag Babies More Loved Than Their Gaudy Wax Sisters.

Few things are more psychologically interesting than the instinct which makes little girls (sometimes before they are able to articulate) seize upon any absurd object to satisfy the maternal instinct; even a bottle wrapped in a towel has served the purpose, for, like savages, when they worship they are content with the rudest imitation of the human figure. On that wretched caricature, the daubed and lumpy rag doll, boundless affection is bestowed, and with it how many Socratic dialogues are held!

As time goes on this rudimentary effigy is exchanged for others which better satisfy newly developed tastes and feelings. A girl of six is not content unless her doll baby bears some resemblance to her mother's baby. Aided by this mirage of reality, the imagination leaps all bounds. But it is checked by too studied an imitation of life. The splendid, richly dressed creature of wax is never really loved. Its tameness chills the fancy. It is imposed upon the affections, not created by them. And too large a doll is seldom much liked. A small doll, not too handsome, is usually the favorite.

As girls grow older there may often be seen a touching suggestion of a fact familiar in real life, a partiality for the weakest and least favored of the doll family.—Good Housekeeping.

The Hindoo Saree.

The saree is the national costume of almost all Hindoo women and occasionally of Mohammedan women in India. It is an entire cloth, in many cases eighteen yards long and about a yard broad. In texture the cloth varies to suit the poorest as well as the richest inhabitants of the country. In the matter of tying and wearing the garment there is little difference anywhere. The cloth, which has one plain end, is passed around the loins and the upper border tied in a strong knot. The cloth is then passed two, three or even four times around the waist to form a petticoat, which, if the saree be a proper width, reaches to the ground. A portion is then plaited neatly into folds and tucked in before so as to hang down in front to the instep, or even lower. The remainder of the cloth is passed across the bosom over the left shoulder and head, on which it rests, the ornamental ends falling partly over the right arm below the waist. In the south of India, however, the end does not pass over the head. It is drawn tightly over the left shoulder and bosom and tucked into the waist behind or on the right hip.

Friends.

Put your heart into the search for a friend, freely offer assistance to any of the crowd who needs it, and, sooner or later, you will find a hand outstretched toward yours, and your soul will meet its likeness. Do not imitate those who, shut up in their individuality as in a citadel, indifferent to all passers by, yet send forth on the four winds of heaven the melancholy cry, "There are no friends!" They do exist, be sure of it, but only for those who seek, for those deeply interested in the search and for those who do not remain content to spin out the thread of life in a corner like a spider's web, intended to catch happiness.

Modesty of Greatness.

Here the eminent statesman who was dictating the particulars of his early career to the reporter paused for a moment.

"This will be the place, I think," he said, "to insert the statement that I don't like to talk about myself and that I mention these facts with evident reluctance."

The Best Thing.

"What do you mean by kissing me, Herr Frisch?"

"My aunt told me to. She told me to come and help myself to the best thing I could find in the kitchen."—Fliegende Blatter.

Wherever there is authority there is a natural inclination to disobedience.

DO YOU WALK STRAIGHT?

Few People Do, Says a Fault Finder Who Notices Things.

"Have you ever noticed how few people walk straight?" said the man who finds fault. "I am not speaking in a spiritual sense, neither do I refer to their gait, which is certainly bad enough, but to the crookedness of their path. A straight road is not at all times possible, I admit, and when the streets are most crowded a fellow is excusable for darting around any old way, but when given a clear sidewalk I can't for the life of me see why he cannot walk straight.

"Watch any man—and women are just as bad—who starts out from home at an hour when other people in the neighborhood are busy on their own doorsteps and give him a clean sweep. Since there are no obstructions in the way, there is no reason on earth why he should not proceed in a straight line to the nearest corner, but instead of pursuing that undeviating course he zigzags most suspiciously. Now he is perilously near the curb, now brushing against the area railing, while occasionally he evens things up by taking a few steps in the middle of the pavement. The people who thus waver in their gait are perfectly sober and would be surprised if anybody should show them a diagram of their tracks. Naturally all that veering and tacking appreciably increases the distance traveled, which is another reason why people in a hurry should learn to walk straight."

Weak and Exhausted.

"Though weak and exhausted I was often unable to eat. After taking Angier's Petroleum Emulsion for two weeks I was able to eat and enjoy three hearty meals a day, and and the nervousness has left me entirely." — M. E. Nesbitt, Toronto, Canada. 6a

An Important Distinction.

She—I suppose that it would take a great deal of observation and experience to enable a man to pick the fastest horse entered for a race.

He (mournfully)—Yes, but that isn't what you are trying to do. What you want is to pick the horse that is going to win.

Not So Bad.

"Poor man," she said, stooping over the victim who had just been dragged out from under her automobile, "have you a wife?"

"No," he groaned; "this is the worst thing that ever happened to me."

For Her Own Relief.

Mrs. Sububs—I'm going to let the maid off for a couple of weeks.

Mr. Sububs—What! Why, she's not entitled to a vacation.

Mrs. Sububs—No, but I am.—Exchange.

Blockhead and the genius are alike in at least one respect—both were born that way.

The following despatch has been received by E. M. Poussett & Co.:—

New York, Aug. 11, 9.15 a.m.—Last night's Government report on wheat is disappointing, but more favourable on corn. This shorter crop in prospect of winter wheat, is bullish on the price of grain, especially in view of uncertainty of foreign crops, but the higher prices which the farmers will realize from this comparatively smaller crop, will offset the lighter yield. London comes rather disappointing this a.m. in view of strength displayed in our market at close yesterday. There was a somewhat hopeful feeling after close yesterday, but we do not see anything at present to bull stocks on, and believe good stocks can be bought cheaper by waiting. Liquidation has been heavy, and technically the market seems in much improved condition, but large interests have been compelled to support the market at times, and it is only natural that they should secure profits on the rallies.

A VISIT TO THE OIL FIELDS OF OHIO.

An Examiner Representative's Report on the Oil Industry.

A Successful Excursion From Peterborough—Interesting Account of the Standard Oil Co's Monopoly.

An Examiner representative who visited the almost world wide famous oil fields of Ohio, will supply a similar account to the following for the next few days:

Much has been heard of oil stocks in Peterborough and surrounding villages of recent years, and from time to time various companies throughout the United States interested in the oil industry, have had their representatives in Peterborough selling their respective securities. In view of the fact that the promoters of these oil companies are complete strangers to Peterborough people, and the fact that little if anything is known of their properties, there are many citizens who are curious to know the exact condition of affairs pertaining to the oil industry, and particularly as it affects the smaller concerns just referred to in this article. With a view of obtaining some little information in this line, a number of Peterborough gentlemen visited the oil region of Ohio, the banner oil state of the American Republic, and a representative of the Examiner accompanied them. During their visit to Ohio they were able to gather a considerable amount of information as to the oil industry generally.

The relations of the various subordinate companies towards the Standard Oil Company of the United States, might first be explained. As is well know, the Standard Oil Company is the greatest monopoly in America to-day, controlling, as it does, the oil trade of this continent. The Standard Oil people both develop oil wells and refine oil also; or it might be said they refine a great deal more oil than they themselves develop, for they are always ready to buy up the output of the independent concerns throughout the country. What properties they have of their own they develop with energy, but at the same time a great percentage of the oil refined by them is that which has been produced by many of the smaller concerns who have acquired leases of value throughout the oil districts.

As a result, there are almost one hundred minor oil companies throughout the States. These companies are developing their respective properties, and find a ready sale for their crude oil to the Standard Oil Company at 114 cents a barrel. This is the uniform price all over the States. The Standard Oil Company at various important centres, has large refineries to which the oil from the fields of the various oil producing companies, is pumped. And it is astonishing to know the distance that this crude oil is pumped in 2-inch pipes, or, in fact, in various sized pipes. A great deal of the oil of the State of Ohio, for instance, finds its way through pipelines, to New York. There are various pumping stations situated along the line.

The Standard Oil Company is glad to take all the oil that the smaller and independent concerns can produce, so the market for crude oil in any of the oil regions of the United States, is steady the year throughout.

At 114 cents a barrel there is a fair profit in the deal for the owner of any number of producing wells. Ten wells, it must be borne in mind, can be operated at as little expense as one well could be operated. However, the initial expense — the cost of sinking a well—is the hindrance to the oil producing industry. Many a man in the State of Ohio has a farm on which there is plenty of good oil, but he cannot afford to sink a well. He holds the Standard Oil Company in such abhorrence that he will let his oil property go undeveloped for ever sooner than give it to that corporation at almost any price, but at the same time, he will be willing, in many cases, to sell to a smaller and an independent concern, some times, too, at a smaller figure than that which the Standard Oil people offered him. It is in this manner that many new oil companies spring up throughout the United States. However, there are cases in which a farmer in the State of Ohio, has developed his own properties and is reaping a handsome reward from his product. The terms a farmer generally makes with a development company are in the nature of a royalty and the extent of the lease is for perpetuity. Many oil wells in the state of Ohio have been producing oil for 15 years, and are still in a healthy state. The capacity of some of these wells is enormous.

Oil may be in a certain place but it cannot be so proven without considerable expense. No surface conditions indicate that oil may be found 1,200 odd feet below. A well must be bored at an expense of $2,200 or thereabouts.

The capacity of the wells differ, but it is a poor well that does not give forth from the bowels of the earth, at least 5 or 6 barrels a day. At 114 cents a barrel, it will be quite plain to be seen that the wealth of some wells is enormous.

Many farmers who really think they have oil properties hold off experimenting until his neighbour has performed this expensive experiment. If his neighbour has struck oil, the chances are that he will be equally successful.

SERMONS AT PARK STREET.

Rev A. H. Brace Preached Anniversary Sermons on Sunday.

The sermons preached by Rev. A. H. Brace at the Park street Baptist church on Sunday, were appropriate to the anniversary services, and were both delivered to large congregations.

In the morning a flower service was held, and the text for the sermon was that found in Solomon's Song, ii, 12, "The flowers appear on the earth." A great many useful lessons were drawn from the life of the flowers, among them being those of Purity, Diligence, Humility and Benevolence.

At the afternoon mass meeting Mr. Brace again spoke, this time to the children, principally. The nucleus of a fund for the erection of a new church was formed. The collection of the afternoon amounted to $50.82, and will be applied to the church fund.

At the evening service the text was taken from I Sam. xvii. 56, "Inquire thou whose son the stripling is." The preacher spoke of the great possibilities of young people of to-day, and urged all his hearers to recognize the responsibility resting upon them. The attendance at this service as well as that of the morning, was large.

ECHOES FROM THE CHURCHES

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

Large audiences attended the services at the Charlotte street Methodist church on Sunday. Rev. J. Kilgour preached excellent sermons, both morning and evening, in the absence of the pastor. The speaker presented some original thoughts on the theme, "Vanity of Vanieties," in the evening. The choir sang a Te Deum in the morning, and "The Marvellous Work," from the "Creation," in the evening. Mrs. Killin-Keough singing the solo in a delightful manner. Other selections were the beautiful setting by Doaks, of "Just as I Am," by Miss Belleghem; "Come unto Me," from the "Messiah," by Mrs Killin-Keough; and two beautiful duets by Mr. and Mrs. Killin-Keough. Miss Clarry of Millbrook, proved herself equal to the demands as organist, and her special instrumental numbers added to the enjoyment of the services.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

At the George street Methodist church on Sunday Rev. Mr. Dupont of Belleville, preached in the absence of Rev. J. P. Wilson, and his sermons and were fully appreciated by the congregation.

The choir rendered an especially attractive musical service, the anthem of the morning being "The King of Love My Shepherd is," by Shelley, Mr. G. W. Mulligan taking the solo. During the offertory Mr. Mulligan sang "Some Sweet Morn."

Two anthems were sung at the evening service, "Jubilate Deo," solo by Mr. Miller, and "How Long wilt Thou Forget Me, O Lord?" Mr. Mulligan taking the solo.

THE JUBILEE PRESENTS.

The king has graciously directed that the "Jubilee Presents" of the late Queen Victoria be exhibited at the Dominion Exhibition in Toronto. This magnificent collection of presents, undoubtedly the most superb ever got together in the world, will be on view free in the New Manufacturers and Liberal Arts Building, from the opening of the gates to the close. They include presents from every country in the world and are typical in richness, beauty and art of many people. It would take volumes of description to do them justice and therefore it must be left until seen, to the imagination to form an adequate idea of their wonderful brilliancy and variety. In addition to the Jubilee Presents, there will also be on exhibition in the same building at the same side by gracious consent of the Dowager Marchioness, the presents received during their residence in Canada and in India by the Marquis and Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, which in richness and artistic excellence are only second to the Jubilee presents, comprising as they do many valuable and historic gifts from Canadian bodies and from the Princes of India. In the Woman's Building will be exhibited rare and beautiful specimens of Irish lace, needlework and fans generously loaned by the Countess of Aberdeen, the whole forming a feature that no exhibition in the world has ever previously been able to present.

MUNICIPAL SERVICES AT FORT WILLIAM.

The municipal telephone plant at Fort William does not appear to have been the success that has been claimed for it, judging from the following statement in the Times-Journal of the 23rd of July, of that town, over the signature of Mr. A. F. Woodhead, a prominent citizen: — "The public electric light and telephone services have been administered with inefficiency and ineptitude culminating in the destruction of the town hall, with its valuable records, a costly law suit in which the town has been signally worsted, and to-day we have another break down in the electric light plant, simply through sheer mismanagement which will cost a large sum and deprive the citizens of light for probably some weeks. The municipal telephone service is so bad that every user of it is disgusted and supporters of legitimate public ownership are chagrined and disappointed."

Work and Play.

The biggest summer resort within easy reach of civilization is what is commonly termed Muskoka, a district in the "Highlands of Ontario," about 100 miles north of Toronto, including an immense tract of country bordering on the Georgian Bay. Ample hotel accommodation at all points on the lakes is provided to suit the purses of everyone. Excellent transportation service. A 300-FEET DAM.

Canadian Government Petitions the United States Government For Permission to Construct It.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Aug. 12.—By order of the United States Secretary of War, Major Theodore A. Bingham, commanding the United States Engineers in this district, held a public hearing here yesterday to ascertain whether the construction of a dam across the channel between Adams and Galoup Islands will materially affect the level of Lake Ontario or the rights of citizens of the United States. The Canadian Government constructed a new channel to the head of the St. Lawrence Rapids, and, finding that strong cross currents interfered with traffic in the channel by forcing many vessels aground, has petitioned the United States Government for permission to construct a dam 300 feet long at low level to obviate the difficulty.

A. W. Fraser, King's Counsel for the Canadian Government; T. S. Rubidge, superintending engineer of the Canadian canals, and his assistant, H. L. Kellaly of Ottawa; J. C. Quintos, assistant engineer of Oswego; Senator George R. Malby, representing the George Hall Coal Company and the Ogdensburg Coal and Towing Company, and other representatives of American forwarders, appeared in favor of the plan. It was opposed by Alban Dawson, owner of Galoup Island, who claimed that the erection of the dam would raise the water level three feet, causing a strong current, and also that the water would overflow about 60 acres of the island. Mr. Dawson filed an objection to further proceedings before Major Bingham. He will also contest the constitutionality of the Act of Congress placing the consent or rejection of permission to construct the dam with the Secretary of War.

DEATH AND DESPAIR

Paris Passengers Burned and Killed Underground.

MORE THAN 100 ARE DEAD.

Blinding Smoke and Terrific Heat Indicated That the Trains in the Tunnel Burned Slowly Within—Rescue Made Difficult by Clouds of Smoke—Many Shocked to Death—Causes of the Accident.

Paris, Aug. 12.—Eighty-four bodies have been recovered and the death list probably will exceed one hundred, in the underground railway disaster which occurred here Monday night. The accident, which occurred on the Metropolitan Electric Railway, assumed terrible proportions early yesterday morning. More than four score bodies of the burned and suffocated victims were removed from the subterranean passage. The work continues, and indications are that the death list will perhaps exceed five score.

The scenes at the mouth of the tunnel, where the victims were brought out, were of the most heart-rending description, crowds of weeping men and women and children struggling forward in an effort to recognize their missing relatives and friends. Most of the victims are from the middle and working classes, as the trains were carrying them from their work.

Smoke Delays Rescue.

Although the accident occurred at 8 o'clock Monday evening, the officials and firemen were unable to descend into the tunnel, owing to the blinding clouds of smoke from the burning train. Frequent attempts were made by heroic volunteers whom it was necessary to rescue half suffocated and carry away to the hospitals.

At the station of Les Courennes the same scenes of death and despair had been enacted. The accident occurred midway between the stations of Monilmontant and Les Courennes, so that the work of salvage proceeded from both ends of the tunnel. In addition to the blinding smoke, the tunnel belched forth a terrific heat as one of the trains slowly burned within.

How the Wreck Occured.

Several versions and reasons for the wreck have been given out. The most authentic, however, seems to be as follows:

The electrical motor on a train from Porte Dauphine failed to act properly, and the train waited at the station of Les Courennes until the arrival of a second train which pushed the crippled train forward, making a total of sixteen couches. The damaged dynamo set fire to the engine of the first train, raising quantities of smoke. The electric lights on the trains went out, and this impeded the progress of the trains toward Monilmontant. The terror-stricken passengers tried to grope their way back to Les Courennes, and it is believed many were shocked to death by the electric current.

A third train crashed into the fiery mass and added another crowd of panic-stricken passengers to those seeking an outlet. The officials were made aware of the disaster by the clouds of smoke rising from the tunnel.

Those who got out were unable to give any information concerning those left behind, but told of stumbling over bodies all along the tracks.

Premier Combes has been making a special personal inspection of the disaster, has said he intends calling a special meeting of the Council for the purpose of instituting measures of relief for the families of the poor persons, victims of the wreck.

Train on Fire.

Paris, Aug. 12.—Fire broke out last evening in one of the trains of the Metropolitan Electric Road at Ternes Station. There was quite a panic, but only two women were injured.

Rome, Aug. 12.—An earthquake having the region of Mount Aetna as a centre, was felt yesterday throughout Sicily and Southern Italy, and to a smaller degree in Central Italy. Little damage was done. Mount Vesuvius is again in eruption. Its present activity being considered to be connected with the earthquake shock.

U.S. Cattle Still Barred.

London, Aug. 12.—In the House of Commons yesterday, in reply to the question why, in view of the United States Government's notification that the New England States are free from disease, the prohibition of the importation of cattle into this country was maintained, a representative of the Board of Agriculture replied that the evidence was not sufficient to justify the withdrawal of the prohibition, but detailed information on the subject was shortly ordered STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Pope Pius X. Fainted and Lay Unconscious Before the Altar.

SUSPENSION OF AUDIENCES.

Overexerted Himself by the Ceremonies of Coronation—Unable to Sleep For Nights—Heart Weakness Aggravated by Fatigue the Cause of the Attack—Pontiff Reported Some Better.

Rome, Aug. 12.—Pope Pius X. had a fainting spell yesterday morning while celebrating mass. His Holiness soon revived, however, and brightened up considerably.

Owing to the excitement of the past month he has been unable to sleep for whole nights, while numerous receptions yesterday only tended to make matters worse.

His Holiness was not well Monday night, yet he insisted upon admitting all the Venetians to mass yesterday morning, who had traveled to Rome for that purpose. There were about 300 in the chapel and the atmosphere was up to about 90 degrees.

Motionless and Unconscious.

Pope Pius was seen to grow paler and paler, finally throwing up his hands as though seeking support. He would have fallen had not Mgr. Bressan, his private chaplain, been quick to catch him. It is impossible to describe the confusion and alarm among the worshippers while the Pope lay motionless and unconscious with his eyes closed.

Fortunately, among the Venetians present was Dr. Davenezia, who for nine years had been the Pope's attending physician at Venice, but had been called only once during that time to treat a sore throat. Davenezia gave the Pontiff immediate assistance, while the messengers telephoned for Dr. Lapponi. The latter rushed to the Vatican, but did not arrive until after the Pope had been restored to consciousness and taken to his own apartments.

All Audiences Postponed.

The collapse was considered by the doctors to be due to heart failure aggravated by fatigue. All audiences will be postponed, including that of the representatives of the Irish parliamentary party, who were to be received this morning.

The Pope, after taking some medicine to calm his heart and nerves, was able to lunch, afterwards taking a sleep, which lasted two hours and a half. On awakening he felt much benefited and refreshed.

The Pontiff seems more docile to the doctor's wishes than his predecessor, although he insisted on transacting some current business, such as the appointment of Alberto Sill, the son of the dean of the grooms, as his personal valet.

Cashier Gone; Loss $75,000.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 12.—The police are searching for John K. Brown, cashier of the Union Bank at New Holland, O., who has not been seen since Saturday. Brown had the vault combination. Last night experts forced the vaults, which contained $558 in gold and silver. The books are in bad shape and the loss will reach over $75,000. The deposits were nearly $260,000.

Bonus Bylaw Carried.

Iroquois, Aug. 12.—A bylaw to bonus the Excelsior Shoe Company was submitted here yesterday and carried by a vote of 166 to 14.

MORE TROUBLE FOR THE TURK.

M. Rostkowski's Successor Disappears After Starting For Monastir.

Constantinople, Aug. 12. — Some anxiety is felt for the safety of Dr. Mandelstam, the acting Russian Consul at Uskub, who was appointed to succeed the late M. Rostkowski. He started up on his own responsibility accross the country for Monastir. Nothing has been heard of him since.

The Sultan has offered an indemnity of $40,000 to the widow of the late M. Rostkowski. Her husband was related to Russian nobility, hence the Sultan's anxiety.

M. Rostkowski was in disfavor with the Turkish authorities at Monastir owing to his persistence in investigating all the fighting in the district.

Turkish Troops Desert.

Constantinople, Aug. 12.—It is rumored here that the Turkish troops in Macedonia have become so demoralized by their failure to receive payment that hundreds are deserting and selling their rifles to insurgents in order to obtain provisions.

Blew Up a Bridge.

Sofia, Aug. 12.—The insurgents have blown up a bridge sixty yards long near Glovgyeli, on the Salonica-Uskub Railway.

CRIMINAL PROSECUTIONS.

Toronto Junction Cattlemen Proceed Against Grand Trunk Railway.

Toronto Junction, Aug. 12.—Five charges under the Criminal Code were entered before Police Magistrate Ellis at the Police Court yesterday morning against the Grand Trunk Railway Company for detaining cattle in cars for a longer period than 28 hours. Charges Nos. 1 and 2 are laid by Chief of Police Royce on behalf of Albert Walker of Ellersley, who had forty cattle detained 36 hours between Ellersley and Toronto and forty cattle detained 31 hours between Dobbington and Toronto. Charge No. 3 is laid on behalf of John Wolfe, Walkerville, who claims his cattle were detained 30½ hours. Charge No. 4 is laid on behalf of George Pauline of Chesley, who claims his cattle were detained 31 hours. Irvine Schmidt lays the fifth charge of detaining his cattle 29½ hours. The company, upon conviction, is liable to a fine of $100 on each charge.

Chimney Fell on Him.

Southampton, Aug. 12. — William Strickland, an aged farmer, living nearby, was struck by a falling chimney and had his left arm broken and was otherwise seriously [illegible] fatally, injured.

Town Blown Away.

Pond Creek, Ok., Aug. 12.—A report reached here last night by telephone that Salt Fork, a small town southeast of here, was blown away. One man is reported killed and several injured. A relief party has left here for the scene.

The Sunlight way of washing requires little or no rubbing. You should try Sunlight Soap. Will not injure dainty fabrics.

Mrs. Tupman, a prominent lady of Richmond, Va., a great sufferer with woman's troubles, tells how she was cured.

"For some years I suffered with backache, severe bearing-down pains, leucorrhœa, and falling of the womb. I tried many remedies, but nothing gave any positive relief.

"I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in June, 1901. When I had taken the first half bottle, I felt a vast improvement, and have now taken ten bottles with the result that I feel like a new woman. When I commenced taking the Vegetable Compound I felt all worn out and was fast approaching complete nervous collapse. I weighed only 98 pounds. Now I weigh 109½ pounds and am improving every day. I gladly testify to the benefits received."—MRS. R. C. TUPMAN, 423 West 30th St., Richmond, Va.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

When a medicine has been successful in more than a million cases, is it justice to yourself to say, without trying it, "I do not believe it would help me?"

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women. Perhaps she has just the knowledge that will help your case—try her to-day—it costs nothing.

NEW DISTRICT ROADS IN NIPPISING COUNTY.

Hon. F. R. Latchford Inspects Part of Nipissing.

A Country With Rich Soil and Abundant Timber—Good Highways the Necessity—Settlers Pouring in.

The Hon. Mr. Latchford, Commissioner of Public Works, has just concluded an inspection of a large tract of land lying north of Lake Nipissing and south of the C.P.R. tracks. The inspection was made with a view to deciding on the construction of some main roads for the convenience of present settlers and for the benefit of the large number of people who are evidently intending to settle in the district. The Commissioner was accompanied by Mr. A. W. Campbell, Assistant Commissioner.

For the purpose of thoroughly understanding the wants of the settlers already in this district two meetings were held, one in the western and another in the eastern section. At one of these meetings, that in the western section, was present one of the pioneer settlers, who said he had six sons and six daughters, all married and all settled in the district. He has thirty-eight grand-children growing up and is himself hale and hearty at fifty-five.

Mr. Latchford explained that he had received so many letters and so many petitions about roads in the district that he determined to come and see for himself what was best to be done. He thought the best plan was to build certain main roads make them good and leave the residents in the locality to lay out the side roads. This view met with general approval and it is probable that a well considered and carefully prepared plan for main road construction in new districts will be prepared. It is of course known how the Talbot Road, the Kingston road, Yonge street, shore road, the Governor's road and other purely colonization roads were laid out, and upon these lines it may be possible to do a lot of work in New Ontario.

It became apparent to the Commissioner that the lack of roads had retarded the settlement of these rich dark clay lands which appear to be admirably adapted for mixed farming. The newspapers had of late been giving a great deal of publicity to the settlements in the Northwest, which no doubt attracted the men who preferred to engage in mixed farming as in Great Britain and all the older Provinces of Canada were finding that Ontario offered greater advantages than any other country. The district under inspection had, in addition to its rich soil, an excellent supply of hardwood, birch, ash, maple and oak. Near the railway lies a track of splendid rich soil cleared and settled, and all that is necessary for the settlement of the whole district is good roads. It would be useless to expect people to go into these practically inaccessible parts, however rich the timber or lands may be. Roads were an absolute necessity to ensure settlement.

Mr. Campbell believes that with good roads this large trac of land will soon be settled. The construction of main roads was not a new policy of the department, but a continuation of the old policy. With good main roads constructed ahead of or as quickly as settlers come in the splendid lands of new Ontario would be cultivated, the produce more easily marketed and the whole Province benefitted. Wherever roads are even partly constructed settlers are pouring in and inquiries about land are very numerous.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING.

The council of the Township of North Monaghan, met in the Town Hall on Monday, Aug. 10th, 1903, at 2.06 p. m. There were present Messrs Smith, Brown, Morrow and Fowler. In the absence of the Reeve, Mr. J. Smith was appointed Chairman pro tem.

The reading of the last minutes was postponed until next meeting.

Communications were received from T.A.S. Hay, Engineer of the Town of Peterborough, asking the township to clean out the Park street drain as it dammed back the water from the outlets above the town boundary.—From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, applying for a franchise for the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., to construct and operate a street railway on Landsdowne street to the Locks bridge. Referred to a committee of Reeve, Councillors Smith, Brown and the Clerk.—From A. McMurchy, solicitor for the C.P.R. Co., in regard to an application to be made to the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, for permission to construct a double track across the town boundary. Referred to a Committee of the Reeve and Clerk.

Mr. H. Evans, Street Commissioner of the Town of Peterbrough, attended the meeting and asked the council to arrange the sale of gravel from the township ballast pit to the town for the purpose of gravelling such streets as are adjacent to the township. Mr. Evans stated that the Board of Works in Peterborough, had appropriated the sum of $200.00 towards this work, and pointed out that improvements in these streets would benefit the township to considerable extent.

Accounts were passed as follows:—

Dr. Eastwood, services re smallpox case and inspection of fertilizer works	$10 00
A. McDonald, account for repairs to bridge on boundary at Park street	16 37
J. E. Belcher, account for inspection of bridges on 13 con.	5 00

On motion the account of J. E. Belcher was passed and ordered to be paid.

The account of Dr. Eastwood was referred to the Board of Health and A. McDonald's account was referred until next meeting. The Clerk was instructed to render one half of this account to the Town of Peterborough.

Moved by Messrs. Fowler and Morrow, that this Township Council agree to accept the sum of 10 cents per load for gravel from the Town of Peterborough, such gravel to be used in gravelling the streets of the town adjacent to North Monaghan, any damages to the highways in the township caused by hauling of the said gravel to be repaired at the expense of the Town of Peterborough.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Fowler and Brown, that the Commissioner of Road Division No. 4., be instructed to have the drain in the west side of Park street from the town boundary southwards, cleaned out so as to allow the free flow of water through it. The work to be done at once.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Brown and Fowler that Mr. Jos. Barnard be re-appointed collector of rates for 1903 at the same salary and upon the same conditions as last year.—Carried.

Requisitions for monies to be levied as taxes for the year 1903, were received as follows:—

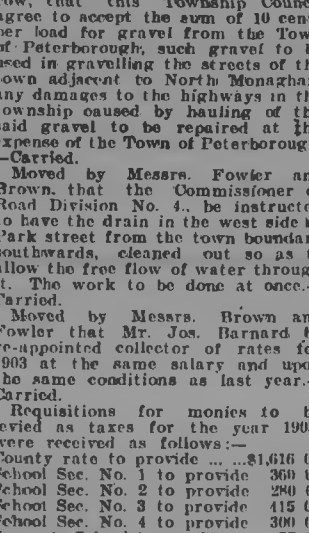
County rate to provide	$1,616 06
School Sec. No. 1 to provide	360 00
School Sec. No. 2 to provide	280 00
School Sec. No. 3 to provide	415 00
School Sec. No. 4 to provide	300 00
Separate School to provide ...	75 60

By-law No. 524 to appoint a collector of rates was introduced and passed and council adjourned to meet on August 20th, 1903, at 7 o'clock, p. m. in the Town Hall.

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

PRETTY EMBROIDERED WAIST.

The prophecy that separate waists would be relegated to the past has not as yet been fulfilled, for they still continue to play an important part in a woman's wardrobe. This waist is embroidered with a simple, yet dainty, little design. The prevalent idea on waist embroidery seems to be for using pure white Corticelli mountmellick embroidery silk.



Shirt waists are still as popular as ever, especially embroidered white ones. Grapes, in a conventionalized form, are much used, with very good effect, on mercerized chevlots, madras and linens. An embroidered effect is a safe investment, whether it be of silk, cotton or woollen.

Mainly About People.

A woman with eight young children boarded a street car which was already comfortably filled. The conductor became a trifle impatient because it took the family so long to get aboard, and as the mother finally reached the top step and the car began to move, the conductor asked, with a suspicion of a smile: "Are these all your children, madam, or is it a picnic?" "They are all my children," returned the woman, with a grim smile, "and I tell you it's no picnic."

The other day the London "Pall Mall Gazette" referred to W. S. Gilbert as "the late W. S. Gilbert." This called forth a note of protest from the famous comic opera librettist, in which he said: "There is a line in your issue of yesterday that must have sent a thrill of joy through many a worthy home. I refer to a line in an article headed 'A Naval Battle,' in which I am referred to as 'the late W. S. Gilbert.' I am always sorry to spoil sport, but common candor compels me to admit (reluctantly) that I am still alive. Yours faithfully, W. S. Gilbert."

Frederick III. of Prussia, who delighted in his reputation as the most laconic man in Europe, once met a Hungarian magnate, taking the waters at Carlsbad, who had also acquired fame for abruptness of speech. This tempted the Prussian monarch to meet him and try him in the arts of brevity. The magnate was pointed out to Frederick as he stood in the hall of his hotel. The king went up to him, and the following conversation was the result: Frederick—Bathing? Hungarian—Drinking. Frederick — Officer? Hungarian—Magnate. Frederick—Sol Hungarian (taking the initiative)—Detective? Frederick—King! Hungarian—Congratulate!

Mrs. Leslie M. Shaw, the wife of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, has recently given out in Washington a number of amusing interviews about the inadequacy of the salaries of cabinet officers. Mrs. Shaw was Miss Alice Crawshaw in her youth, and she has always been noted for her ready wit. It is said of her that a young man of humorous bent one day exclaimed in her presence: "What could be more dreadful than for a woman, after mending her husband's coat, to find in one of the pockets a love letter from another woman?" "Fortunately," said Mrs. Shaw, "that could never happen. The woman would find the letter first, and then she would not mend the coat."

A village clergyman, declares "Public Opinion," has this ingenious bit among his records: One day he was summoned in haste by Mrs. Johnston, who had been taken suddenly ill. He went in some wonder, because she was not of his parish, and was known to be devoted to her own minister, the Rev. Mr. Hopkins. While he was waiting in the parlor, before seeking the sick woman, he beguiled the time by talking with her daughter. "I am very much pleased to know your mother thought of me in her illness," he said. "Is Mr. Hopkins away?" The lady looked unfeignedly shocked. "No," she said. "Oh, no. But we're afraid it's something contagious, and we didn't like him to run any risks."

Mrs. Van Vorst, the author of "The Woman Who Toils," had many amusing and odd adventures during her life as a worker. One adventure that has not heretofore been printed concerned a taciturn man. She met this man on a New England road, mending a worm fence. "Can you tell me," she said to him, "how far it is from here to the next town?" He pointed forward. "Milestone little further on will tell you," he growled. Rudeness such as this vexed Mrs. Van Vorst. "But the milestone will be no good to me, for I can't read," she said. Thereupon the taciturn man chuckled a little. "Ho, ho," he said, "it is just the kind o' milestone for people that can't read, for all the writin's been washed off of it."

The following story of the Pope is current in Italy, where Leo XIII. personally is most popular even amongst the anti-Clericals. He has—or is supposed to have—some nephews who find it somewhat difficult to extract money from him. The wife of one of these nephews is said to have undertaken to get some from him. She solicited an interview, and, having obtained it, said: "Holy Father, I come to seek your advice. I am poor, I have a large family, and, alas! I am in debt. I have been gifted by heaven with a good voice, and the proprietor of a music hall has offered me a large salary to appear on his stage and sing a few simple songs. Ought I to accept the offer?" "Certainly," replied his Holiness; "and I only regret that my official position will not allow me to be present at your debut."

Professor James Bryce in his recently published "Studies in Contemporary Biography" has this paragraph on Gladstone and Darwin: "Once in the lobby of the House of Commons, seeing his countenance saddened by the troubles of Ireland, I told him, in order to divert his thoughts, how someone had recently discovered that Dante had in his last years been appointed at Ravenna to a lectureship which raised him above the pitch of want. Mr. Gladstone's face at once lit up and he said, 'How strange it is to think that these great souls whose words are a beacon-light to all the generations that have come after them, should have had cares and anxieties to vex them in their daily life, just like the rest of us common mortals.' The phrase reminded me that a few days before I had heard Mr. Darwin, in dwelling upon the pleasure a visit paid by Mr. Gladstone had given him, say, 'And he talked just as if he had been an ordinary person like one of ourselves.' The two great men were alike unconscious of their greatness."

The Odds Against Him.

Ezra Pike—Mother, you got ter stop takin' in summer boarders, er else I got ter quit farmin'.

Mrs. Pike—W'y, pa, what's the trouble?

Ezra Pike—They's no use prayin' fer rain with fourteen summer boarders prayin' fer fair weather.—"Judge."

"Ah, Jean, dear," she said to the duke, "why don't you go to papa to-day? Delays are dangerous, you know." "Yes, I realize that," he replied, "but I've only known you three days, and these get-rich-quick schemes always seem to be so risky."—Chicago "Record-Herald."

Crawford—Why don't you tell your wife the baby is crying? Crabshaw—If I did she would sing it to sleep.—"Judge."

MET INSTANT DEATH.

Skull of Moulder John Pollock Crushed by a Two Ton Casting in Goldie's at Galt.

Galt, Ont., Aug. 12.—John Pollock, aged about 55, a moulder by occupation, was instantly killed about 9 o'clock yesterday while at work in the moulding shop of the Goldie & McCulloch Co. An iron chill weighing between two and three tons was being placed in a pit three feet deep in which Pollock was working along with two others, when suddenly the side of the pit gave way with the weight of the chill, which fell across Pollock, whose back was towards it at the time, crushing the skull and causing instant death.

The deceased leaves a widow, five sons, and one daughter. He was at the time of his death and for many years previously an elder and superintendent of the Sabbath school in the United Presbyterian Church, Galt.

Fatal Fall From a Ladder.

Dutton, Aug. 12.—Frank Raison, a farm laborer near Wallacetown, was killed while at work yesterday morning. His employer found Raison lying dead on the floor at the foot of a ladder. It is supposed that while ascending the ladder he missed his footing, and fell to the floor, alighting on his head. The skull is badly crushed.

Injuries May Prove Fatal.

Work Train Wrecked.

Winnipeg, Aug. 12.—A wreck occurred about ten miles west of here yesterday morning on the main line of the C. P. R., as a result of which John Leslie, a fireman, may lose his life. The accident was the result of a collision between a work train going west and a light engine running to the city. An engine and three flat cars were smashed to pieces.

GEO. H. KENT'S CASE RECALLED.

Dying of Bright's Disease, Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Recent Deaths of Prominent Men From the Most Dreaded of all Maladies Recalls the Fact That Dodd's Kidney Pills Have Conquered it.

Ottawa, Ont., August 10.—(Special)—The recent numerous deaths of prominent men from Bright's Disease, recalls the case of George H. Kent, of 408 Gilmour street, this city.

Mr. Kent, who is still living here, strong and hearty, was dying of Bright's Disease. He had lost the use of his limbs, and his whole body was swollen to a terrible size. Three doctors were positive that he must die.

While watching at his bedside his wife happened to read an advertisement that said Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Bright's Disease. They were sent for as a last resort. From almost the first dose Mr. Kent says he was benefitted by them. After taking four boxes he was able to sit up. Seventeen boxes cured him completely.

Mr. Kent's cure caused great excitement at the time. People who had heard of it came from far and near to see him, and all went away convinced that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease.

This conviction is strengthened by a number of other cases reported throughout the country where this great Kidney remedy has been used, and Bright's Disease vanquished.

40 MILES OUT OF COURSE.

The Steamer Manchester Trader Is Aground in the Gulf.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—The steamship Manchester Trader of Manchester is ashore in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, two miles west of Southwest Point, Anticosti. She left Montreal last Friday afternoon for Manchester, with a general cargo on board. The Furness-Withy Company, her agents, are notified that she struck on the southern shore of Anticosti Island, forty miles out of her course. The wrecking steamer Strathcona and the wrecking schooner G. T. D. left Quebec Monday evening for the scene, and it is expected that by getting out a good part of the cargo forward the vessel will be floated.

COMPLICATIONS POSSIBLE.

Arising Out of Seizure of Fishing Tug by Canadian Cutter.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 12.—According to statements made yesterday afternoon by Congressman D. S. Alexander of Buffalo, the State Department at Washington has just ordered Consul General John G. Foster, at Ottawa, to lay the matter before the Canadian authorities once more, the case of the seizure of fishing tug Kitty D. on July 3. The exact wording of the instructions to the Consul-General is as follows:

"You will again present the case to the Dominion authorities and ask for the release of the vessel as an act of grace in view of the strong proof as set forth in the evidence, that the Kittie D was in American waters at the time she was seized."

Trying to Square Herself.

Tien Tsin, Aug. 12.—The Dowager Empress is trying to remove the bad impression caused by the execution of Shen Chien, the reformist journalist, who was put to death by her order July 31, by issuing popular edicts, but the anti-reform movement continues threatening, even in the case of the Viceroy Chang Chih Tung, who remains hostile to Russian influence.

NEEDLESSLY BITTER

Hon. Mr. Blair's Criticism of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

CONDEMNS THE WHOLE PLAN

Mr. John Charlton Makes an Able Reply —Recalls Previous Speech by the Ex-Minister — Reads Extracts From Former Addresses in Which Hon. Mr. Blair Advocated a New Transcontinental Line.

Ottawa, Aug. 12. — Mr. Blair's speech on the Grand Trunk Pacific resolution proved to be a general condemnation of the Government's policy. For over four hours he criticized the project with vigor, and at times sarcasm. His complaint was that the Government had acted without proper investigation or due deliberation, and that the country was being committed to a great enterprise that might prove a disastrous blunder, owing to the lack of information as to the character of the country through which this road is to be built. The building of the road to Moncton he declared to be a waste of public money, which would have the effect of injuring the Intercolonial Railway. There is no demand for the building of the road from any of the Provinces, and the only pressure that had been brought to bear for its construction had been exerted by the promoters of the railway. Mr. Blair calculated that the construction of the road would involve the Government in responsibilities aggregating $129,000,000. The tone of the ex-Minister of Railway's address was needlessly bitter, and detracted considerably from the effect of the argument. Calm, dispassionate criticism would have won strength for Mr. Blair's case, instead of which, however, the ex-Minister spoke with a heat and vehemence which seemed to betray the existence of personal animus. This was especially noticeable while Mr. Blair was referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reasons for the necessity of a great transcontinental line. Mr. Blair strove to make it apparent that there was no demand for another transcontinental line. He was repeatedly and loudly applauded by the members of the Opposition.

An Able Reply.

Mr. John Charlton, who replied to Mr. Blair, had not concluded his address when the House adjourned. He suggested that Mr. Blair would, upon consideration, regret having made imputations against his late colleagues, who were only facing a great emergency and providing for the needs of the immediate future. He admitted that the road was sentimental in its character, but claimed that it was inspired by the loftiest patriotism, and that, moreover, the material financial aspect of the question had been carefully weighed. Mr. Charlton elicited hearty Government cheers by reading an extract from a speech delivered by Hon. Mr. Blair in Vancouver in October last, declaring that Canada could no longer remain contented with one transcontinental line, that a second line could not be got fast enough, and declaring that he was ambitious to ensure its construction. Mr. Charlton expressed surprise at the discrepancy between the views uttered by Mr. Blair when a member of the Cabinet and that gentleman's utterances upon the subject last night. He also impressed upon the House the fact that the information in the possession of the Government was quite sufficient to enable them to make a practical estimate of the difficulties and cost of construction. Mr. Charlton will continue the debate this morning.

On the opening of the House, after some formal business, Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that the House go into Committee of the whole on the Grand Trunk Pacific resolutions. Mr. Blair, on rising to open the debate, was loudly applauded by the Opposition members.

BRITAIN'S IMMIGRATION LAWS.

Stringent Regulations Recommended by Royal Commission.

London, Aug. 12.—The report of the Royal Commission on alien immigration was issued yesterday. It recommends that the immigration of certain classes of aliens into the United Kingdom be subjected to state control and proposes a number of regulations, and the establishment of a department of immigration.

The specific recommendations made in the report are similar to the provisions of the United States Immigration law, except that no educational requirements is proposed. In some directions the regulations are more stringent than the American regulations.

Secretary Root Has Resigned.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Before United States Secretary of War Root sails for London, to sit with the Alaska Commission, he will place his resignation in the hands of President Roosevelt in order that the President may appoint a Secretary of War, if it is deemed necessary during Mr. Root's absence. It is expected, however, that the resignation will not be acted until after Congress meets. The appointment of Mr. Root's successor will depend somewhat upon the length of time that Secretary Root will be engaged upon the Alaskan Boundary Commission. It is believed here that the Alaskan Commissioners may be detained in London several months.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Charles Vosper First Kills His Wife and Then Follows Her by Bullet and Poison—Hamilton Tragedy.

Hamilton, Aug. 12. — A horrible double tragedy happened here yesterday morning, when Charles Vosper, one of the most widely known butchers in Hamilton, was found dying from two bullet holes in his head, lying in bed by the side of his wife, who had also been shot.

No one saw the occurrence, but the indications are that it was a case of suicide and murder. A 22-calibre revolver was found on the floor at the husband's side of the bed. There was a slight froth on Mrs. Vosper's lips, and this gave rise to a rumor that she had been poisoned, but the doctors say that her death resulted from a bullet that entered her head under the right ear.

Vosper had been married three times, and his last wife was a widow before she married him. They created a deal of talk before the wedding was celebrated by squabbling over property. They did not get along well together at times, and had frequent jangles. They lived at Mrs. Vosper's residence, 315 Jerkimer street, where the shooting occurred.

Did He Poison Himself?

There is a new theory in reference to the tragedy. A post-mortem examination of Vosper's body revealed the fact that neither of the bullets found in his head had entered his skull, and neither caused injuries sufficient to kill him.

In the top drawer of the washstand was found a bottle of strychnine. It bore the marks of bloody fingers upon it. It is supposed that when Vosper found that the bullets were not going to relieve him from his troubles, he took a dose of the poison. The stomachs of both bodies have been preserved, and the contents will likely be analyzed. Coroner McNichol and the jurors visited the Vosper home yesterday afternoon. They did not find anything that would throw new light on the affair. They will continue the investigation next Friday evening.

He had been suffering with consumption and appeared very despondent. He was 40 years of age.

First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro, Ga., and Its Pastor and Elder.

THE day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true today of most proprietary medicines. But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low stations, that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men representing all classes and stations are equally represented.

A dignified representative of the Presbyterian church in the person of Rev. E. G. Smith does not hesitate to state publicly that he has used Peruna in his family and found it cured when other remedies failed. In this statement the Rev. Smith is supported by an elder in his church.

Rev. E. G. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Greensboro, Ga., writes:

"Having used Peruna in my family for some time it gives me pleasure to testify to its true worth.

"My little boy seven years of age had been suffering for some time with catarrh of the lower bowels. Other remedies had failed, but after taking two bottles of Peruna the trouble almost entirely disappeared. For this special malady I consider it well nigh a specific.

"As a tonic for weak and worn out people it has few or no equals."—Rev. E. G. Smith.

Mr. M. J. Rossman, a prominent merchant of Greensboro, Ga., and an elder in the Presbyterian church of that place, has used Peruna, and in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, writes as follows:

"For a long time I was troubled with catarrh of the kidneys and tried many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. Peruna was recommended to me by several friends, and after using a few bottles I am pleased to say that the long looked for relief was found and I am now enjoying better health than I have for years, and can heartily recommend Peruna to all similarly afflicted. It is certainly a grand medicine."—M. J. Rossman.

Catarrh is essentially the same wherever located. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS AT STONY LAKE.

Two Men Drowned There Yesterday.

James Woodruff and John Biglow the Victims—Former was a Guide and the Latter a Rathbun Employee.

Yesterday was an unfortunate day on Stony Lake, two drowning accidents being recorded. The first happened in the evening about 7 o'clock, and the victim was a man named James Woodruf, whose home is said to be in Brantford. He has been around the lakes for some weeks acting as a guide to the tourists and conveying travellers from one point on the lake to another. It was while at this work that the accident which ended his life happened. He had taken Mr. Shott, a traveller for Labatt's brewery, from McCracken's to Mount Julian, and when on the return trip, as they were about midway between Eagle Mount and Eastwood's Island, the canoe in some unexplainable manner upset, throwing the two occupants into the water. The lake was perfectly calm and it is not known what was the cause of the upsetting. Some of the campers on Eastwood's island saw the accident and immediately launched a boat and went to the rescue of the unfortunate men. Mr. Shotts was rescued and saved, but before Mr. Woodruf could be taken intio the boat he sank. His body was not recovered until 10 o'clock this morning, and it is now at McCracken's Landing awaiting the arrival of a coroner. No one at the lake knowns anything of the deceased's relatives. It is stated that his home is in Brantford, but beyond this nothing is known of him. He was about 40 years old and weighs about 150 lbs., very dark complexion, and by his accent gave the impression of being of French descent.

The second accident occurred at the Burleigh Rapids, and by it John Biglow of Hastings was drowned. He was employed on Rathbun's drive, which just started yesterday morning, and about half past ten last night he fell into the water from a log which he was on. One of his companions got into the water also, but reached shore. Biglow was unable to swim and sank in the swift current. His body was recovered after having been in the water for about forty minutes, and efforts were made by Dr. Bell, of Cleveland, Ohio, to resuscitate him. These efforts were continued all night and until noon today, but although once or twice it was thought that he was showing signs of life, their efforts were unavailing.

FOURTH RACE GOES TO THE IRONDEQUOIT.

Two Wins for Each of the Boats.

To-morrow's Race Will Decide who Wins the Cup—Telegrams on Race.

Toronto, 3.15.—"The Irondequoit won by 1 1-4 minutes." Such was the last despatch received concerning the race for the Canada Cup.

The following telegrams were supplied to the Examiner by the courtesy of Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co., stock brokers, corner George and Hunter streets:—

9.45 a.m. — The yacht race to-day will be nine miles to leeward and return. There is a strong wind blowing from the nor'-west and prospects are good for a fast and exciting race.

11.30 a.m. — Both boats got over the line together. The wind has died down to a five-knot breeze. Both boats are running dead before the wind. At 11.25 a.m. one of them seems to have a lead of about 25 yards, but at present it is impossible to say which boat it is.

11.50 p.m. — Irondequoit leads by 10 seconds. Wind about 5 miles an hour.

12.40 p.m. — The boats are near the outer buoy. The Strathcona now leads by 100 yards, but it is thought the Irondequoit will make better time on the beat back against the wind.

1.20 p.m. — Irondequoit turned the first buoy 12.50; Strathcona 12.50.10. Irondequoit caught up and passed Strathcona on the last 100 yards and turned outer buoy ten seconds ahead of the Canadian boat.

SCULLING.

The regatta at Stony Lake this year at present indications count for anything, will surpass that of any previous year. An especially interesting programme has been prepared, comprising about 20 events, for which a good list of prizes will be given. The committee has made arrangements with the railway and boats to give a service which will enable those from town to see the regatta, and reach home the same night. A special train will leave Lakefield at nine o'clock.
